Dr. A. J. Massey will be in Clanton from August the 8, until Aug. 12th to practice dentistry. He extracts teeth by a new process without pain. If he does any pain he dont charge a cent. He will also visit Coopers and Verbena.

Protracted meeting is in progress at the Methodist church. Pastor Feagin is being assisted by Elders Cummings of Prattville, and Dennis of Benton. Large congregations attend the services at 11 A m and 7:30 P m. We trust much good may be accomplished by the meeting.

The Workmen will soon complete painting the Baptist church, and then the ladies are ready to purchase a Pulpit outfit.

The members of Salem church and community, had an enjoyable meeting during Friday, Saturday and Sunday, including the 4th Sunday. Sermons were preached by Elders A. L. Forbes, T. G. Riggins and R. M. Honeycutt. Subjects of general interest were discussed freely by the brethern and much good accomplished. It was one more to get in at the 1st service. Elder Honeycutt preached an earnest sermon from the text "Have faith in God."

The good people of Jumbo believe in work, as well as faith. They saw one of their Neigbors getting behind in spiritual and temporal affairs and they at once plows and hoes and helped work all his crop, and then went to his house and held a prayer meeting at which the spirit of the Lord manifested itself and all felt happy at their efforts to lift up a needy brother.

The Prattville District Conference of the M. E. Church South, met in Clanton on last Thursday night and continued in session until Sunday night. There was among it's large number of able and consecrated ministers and laymen representing the churches of the district, and in addition some distinguished visitors, notably Bishop Duncan of Spartanburg S. C., whose several sermons were very instructive and uplifting. Rev. Dr. Yerger, of the American Bible Society and Dr. Massey of Tuscaloosa, added by their presence. Among the Ministers present who preached were Bishop Duncan, J. P. Hamilton, J. H. Moore, R. H. Lewis and J. W. Lewis. The cause of Christ was strengthened and the good work went on day and night this week.

Stanton Notes.

Misses Carrie and Susie Dyke, have returned to their home in Faunsdale.

J. W. Broadhead of Blockton is perambulating our streets on a visit to his friends.

Miss Lillian Butler is confined to her bed by sickness. Hope she will soon get well.

Rev. J. G. Murry preached at the Episcopal church last Sunday and Sunday night.

Business is very dull, Mill running on half time.

Mrs. Thomas, mother-in-law of Mr. Chas. Jeffcoat, died here last Sunday night.

The district meeting of 4th district Unity Association convened with the Baptist church here last Friday afternoon. Several visitors were present.

Mr. W. T. Goodwin and family of Mississippi, are visiting friends and relatives in our neighborhood.

The friends of Mr. O. H. P. Wright were glad to see him and shake his hand last Sunday.

BLUE CREEK VERBIAGE.

A Revival meeting has just closed at the Methodist church there were six accessions, and two Infants Christened. We will not forget the choir which rendered such good service during the meeting.

Perhaps the mos delightful event of the season was the Singing convention which met at Salem last Saturday and Sunday. The singing was indeed beautiful, sufficient to make all throw off the cares of this earth for the time. A bountiful dinner was served on the grounds by the hospitable Salem people.

A party of young folks visited Duncans Ripples last Saturday and when they went to the boat they found a Moccasin snake in possession, and refrained from taking a ride, however some of us are opposed to boat riding and were willing to leave the boat to his snakeship.

Mt. Creek Croakings.

There is a large crowd of people here from Montgomery spending the Summer. About 15 business men come up every day and spend the night with their families. The cottages are all full, and the Hotel is full and still they want to come.

There was a tacky party at the Hotel Saturday night. Dancing, games and instrumental Music were on the programe.

A large crowd went out to the Turn Around Sunday.

The R. R. Co. has had a nice little shed built at the Depot, and our town is putting on city style this week.

Mr. W. S. Milisap of Montgomery is visiting his mother this week.

Master Tammie Henderson has gone to Coopers on business.

Messrs S. W. Terrell and A. T. Mitchell were in our town last week.

Jumbo Jocundness.

Prof. Joseph Gore has a very flourising school at the Gore school house.

The district meeting of the Weogufka association convened at Macedonia church near Smith's ferry, last Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Sunday the congregation was interested with a Sunday School march, which manifested the interest that has been taken by both the old and young people of that community in the glorious cause. We can not but say amen, when we see such men as Brother Tom Franklin and John Dennis, for the young people.

The Eleven o'clock services were conducted by Rev. John Bone of Coosa. Text,

"Today if you hear his voice harden not your heart." There were six accessions to the church, and there were many manifestations that the Holy Spirit was with us.

A VISITING BROTHER.

Strasburg Statements.

CONGRESSIONAL.

DAILY PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE.

The Discussion of Important Measures Briefly Epitomized.

Very different from that of Thursday was the scene in the house Friday. The galleries contained not only such persons as could not gain admission to the house, while on the floor, at least until near the hour of recess, were scarcely sufficient members to do business. The judiciary committee called and the house passed the bill to prevent interference with the collection of taxes assessed by states, counties or municipalities against a railroad company, vacating jurisdiction of United States courts over controversies affecting such taxes, even though the debtor corporation is operated by a receiver or receivers appointed by said United States court. House bill increasing the penalty for the crime of embezzlement by directors, officers or agents of national banks, fixing the term of imprisonment for the embezzlement of less than $100,000 at from five to ten years, and for the embezzlement of more than $100,000 at from ten to twenty years, was also passed, as was also the bill to remove certain restrictions now imposed upon the sale of leaf tobacco by farmers who produce it. The Tucker joint resolution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people was discussed for three hours. Without action the house, at 5:20, took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of private pension bills.

Immediately after the reading of the journal in the house, Saturday, Mr. Bowers, republican, of California, demanded the regular order, thus cutting off the transaction of any miscellaneous business. The speaker announced the regular order to be a vote on the Tucker joint resolution, providing for the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people. As this was a proposition involving a change of the constitution, the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the members were necessary to its passage. The yeas and nays were demanded and the result was—yeas 137, nays 49. Two-thirds having voted in the affirmative, the joint resolution was declared to have been passed, accompanied by applause. It was the second time the house had thus declared itself on the question.

In the house, Monday, a bill to revise the boundary between the eastern and western judicial districts of North Carolina and fixing the times of holding court at Raleigh, Wilmington, Newberne and Elizabeth City, was passed. All further business was blocked on account of no quorum and the house, at 1:30 o'clock, adjourned until Tuesday.

In the house, Tuesday, the bill directing the re-employment of railway postal clerks who were dismissed from March 15th to May, 1889, which came over from Saturday and Monday as unfinished business, was passed, yeas 140, nays 58. The order of business for the remainder of the week was reported from the committee on rules and agreed to. Mr. Talbert, of South Carolina, introduced the following resolution: "Resolved, That the committee on coinage, weights and measures, be requested to bring in at once a bill for the free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1, and that the committee on banking and currency be requested at once to report back to the house some one or all of the measures before it looking to a change in the monetary system."

THE SENATE.

Friday's session of the senate was a veritable volcano in full eruption. It belched forth molten lava, and strewed hot ashes everywhere. It was indignant with Mr. Cleveland, and it hesitated not to express its indignation and determination not to be bulldozed by what it characterizes as impertinent executive interference. Though there was no action—only talk—such scenes of intense excitement, of bitterness, of eruption, have seldom been witnessed in the senate chamber. Mr. Smith, of New Jersey, the man who has made the fight for the sugar trust, started it by a speech predicting that it would the senate bill or no bill. Then came David Hill in the role of champion of President Cleveland. Mr. Hill made a speech that will go down in history as one of the most remarkable efforts of the century. He spoke for free raw material, endorsing what Mr. Cleveland said for that. He eulogized the president for his bold, fearless stand for free raw material, then roasted him for his stand in favor of a duty on sugar and showed up his inconsistent positions on the income tax, and finally admonished the senate to recede from its amendments on the grounds that if it did not, and the house should accept them, the president would veto the bill. The entire speech was a most remarkable utterance. It made his senatorial colleagues as mad as hornets that he should have endorsed the president's abuse of the senate, but the representatives who were present listened with expressions of thorough approval and delight. Then Senator Vest, who is one of the senate conferees, arraigned the president. He simply roasted Mr. Cleveland for his interference, and predicted that the senate bill would become a law or the McKinley bill would remain. Senators Gray, Vilas, Caffrey and Blanchard consumed the balance of the day. All except Mr. Vilas held that the senate bill must stand. Mr. Vilas wanted the one-eighth of a cent differential duty in favor of the sugar trust stricken off. The debate during the day indicated that the senate is determined at this time to stand by its bill.

The excitement in and around the senate chamber Monday was much greater than even on Friday last, when action was expected to be taken on disagreeing to the conference report on the tariff bill. An hour before the time of meeting, the doors of the public galleries were besieged by crowds striving to obtain admittance, and by noon, when the proceedings began, there was not a vacant seat in the galleries except in the diplomatic gallery, and there were hundreds of people in the halls and corridors and on the marble stairways who were unable to get inside the chamber. In the absence of the vice-president, the chair was occupied by Senator Harris, president pro tem. Senator Voorhees, at 12:22, called up the conference report on the tariff bill and Senator Gorman began speaking on the subject. In an impressive manner, the Maryland Senator told of closed factories and suffering mechanics, and said that further suspense would be destructive. It would be destructive to the democratic party, which now controlled every branch of the government, and he hoped the situation would be met as became American senators, and as becomes patriotic citizens. Senator Gorman's speech was in the main a defense of his position, and that of his conservative followers, with occasional attacks of more than usual bitterness from time to time upon President Cleveland and what he called "the commune," for their slanders and aspersions on the senate. He assumed that Mr. Cleveland's statement to several senators that he wanted a bill passed, committed him finally to the Gorman compromise bill. From this premise he argued that the president's letter was an act of usurpation, characterizing it as "the most extraordinary, uncalled for and unwise letter ever penned by a president of the United States." Mr. Gorman called on Mr. Vest to verify his broad statements. Amid intense excitement Mr. Vest somewhat hesitatingly arose and told what he knew of the matter. Mr. Vest said that Mr. Carlisle had told him that the greatest calamity that could happen to the democratic party of the country would be the failure to pass the tariff bill. He also called on Mr. Harrison for an explanation of his understanding of the president's policy, and Mr. Harrison told of several interviews he had with the president. The president, like every democratic senator, was not perfectly satisfied with the bill, but he was in favor of the senate bill as a great improvement over the existing law.

It was 12:27 Tuesday before Mr. Harris, of Tennessee, called up the conference report in the senate, and then, much to everybody's surprise, Mr. Hill arose and, with characteristic deliberation, told the senate that he agreed with the senator from Maryland (Mr. Gorman) that the country was confronted by a great crisis. He then started to sketch the events leading up to the deadlock between the senate and the house. He advised the course of receding from the senate amendments, as he had proposed, and not to stick blindly and obstinately to the senate provisions. Mr. Hill concluded his speech at 1:52 amid applause from the galleries and on the floor of the senate. He was followed by Mr. Caffery, of Louisiana, who offered an amendment providing that the senate conferees shall stand firm on the bounty features of the senate schedule.

In the senate, Wednesday, the conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was agreed to. At 1 o'clock the conference report on the tariff bill was called up, and at 1:05 p. m. Mr. Caffery took the floor and resumed the speech he began Tuesday. At 2:50 Mr. Caffery concluded and Mr. Daniel, of Virginia, took the floor.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

There is no question any longer, says The Tradesman, of Chattanooga, Tenn., in its review of the industrial situation in the South for the past week, of a distinct improvement in business and industrial circles all over the South. While the change is not so specific in volume, it is very noticeable in the general feeling. Extraordinary crop reports come from all sections of the South and there is a rapid restoration of confidence and strong hopefulness in fall business. There seems to be a revival in industrial investments and several large new plants were established during the week, and capitalists appear to be turning their attention more to the South. The stability of its labor during the recent crisis accounts in some measure for this. The pig iron market is very dull yet and prices sluggish, but lumber is a little better, coal in good demand, and the textile plants, furniture mills and flouring mills very busy.

Forty-five new industries were reported during the week, together with ten enlargements and thirty-six new buildings. Among the most prominent new industries are $35,000 brick works to be established at Plaquemine, La., by Alternas Bros., Limited; car works and a cotton-tie factory at Gillett, Ark., and a cotton compress to be erected at Minden, La., by A. Goodwill and associates. The Keyser Electric Light Company, Keyser, W. Va., capital $50,000; the Great Kanawha Falls Water Power Electrical Manufacturing Company, Kanawha Falls, W. Va., capital $2,000,000; the Perfection Lock Company, Fordyce, Ark., capital $100,000, and the Chickasaw Asphalt Company, Fort Worth, Texas, with a capital of $500,000. The Associate Phosphate Company has been organized at Ocala, Fla., with a capital of $100,000; the Robert McBride Company will locate a $95,000 oil mill at Newnan, Ga., and the Red Cypress Lumber Company, capital $100,000, has been chartered to build a band saw mill at Patterson, La.

There were also reported bottling works at Jacksonville, Fla., brick works at Broadway, Va.; canning factories at Helena, Ark., Mount Pleasant, Ga., and Winchester, Tenn. Car works to be erected at Gillett, Ark.; electrical plants at Houston, Texas, and Richmond, Va.; fiber works at Winchester, Tenn.; implement works at Sistersville, W. Va.; machine shop at Jackson, Tenn.; marble works at Northport, Ala., and mines to be opened at Alexandria, Va. Plant for special machinery at Covington, Ky.; mineral wool factory at Moundsville, W. Va.; phosphate plant at Inverness, Fla.; stove works at Waco, Texas; saddle factory at Lampasas, Texas, and soap works at Savannah, Ga. A cotton gin will be established at Culloden, Ga.; cotton mills at Gillett, Ark., Lansingburg, N. C.; Marion, N. C., and Waco, Texas. A knitting mill will probably be located at Madison, Ga., and furniture manufacturing companies have been organized at Jackson and Memphis, Tenn.; lumber mills will be erected at Chipley, Fla., and saw mills at Hamilton, N. C., and Monroe, La.

Among the enlargements reported are flouring mills at Monroe, N. C., a leather factory at Gainesville, Ga., sugar mills at New Iberia, La., cotton mills at La Fayette, Ga., and knitting mills at Martinsburg, W. Va., lumber mills at Glade, Miss., will be enlarged; saw and planing mills at Abbeville, Ga., and Walburg, N. C., and shingle mills at Abbeville, Ga.

The most prominent new buildings are a four-story business house at Knoxville, Tenn., and $10,000 buildings at Louisville, Ky., and Shepherdsville Ky., a $30,000 club building at New Orleans, La., a $40,000 hotel at Deland, Fla., and a $35,000 hotel at New Orleans, La., a $350,000 opera house at Jacksonville, Fla., and school buildings to cost $20,000 at Waco, Texas.

A SHIP WRECKED

And Her Crew of Twelve Men Go Down to Death.

Word has been received at San Francisco of the total wreck of the British bark William Lelachur, off Cape St. James, on Provost Island, six hundred miles from Singapore. The vessel left Singapore for Hong Kong May 4th, to load for San Francisco. Her bones are now bleaching on the rocks off Cape St. James, while the bodies of her crew are strewn along the shore. Out of a crew of twelve not a man lives to tell the tale. The crew consisted of four Englishmen and eight Chinese.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

CONDENSATION OF INTERESTING OCCURRENCES

Which Happen From Day to Day Throughout the Busy World.

A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., says: Master Workman Sovereign will take part in the Alabama state campaign. The other members of the Knights of Labor executive board, with the exception of Hayes, will stump Nebraska for two weeks.

It is officially announced that in consequence of the prevalence of cholera the mobilizing of the reserves and the customary autumn military maneuvers in the vicinity of St. Petersburg, Russia, will not take place this year.

The National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, Ohio, has entered suit in the United States circuit court at Hartford, Conn., against the Hubinger-Carroll Cash Register Company, of New Haven, Conn., for infringements of valuable cash register patents.

At a meeting of the local American Railway Union at Butte, Mont., the strike on the Montana division was declared off. It was the last road in the state to hold out. The Northern Pacific and Union Pacific are in full operation, though trains are running under military escort.

The Chicago express No. 12, on the Big Four, collided with a freight engine at Griffiths, O., killing the fireman on the freight engine and two tramps on the head end of the mail car; also badly injuring Engineer Duffer on the freight engine. Several passengers were also injured.

The Italian government has received information from Africa that a battle was fought Tuesday between a force of Mahdists 300 strong and a detachment of Italian troops near Kassala. The Mahdists were defeated and the Italians took possession of Kassala, which they occupy. The Italian loss was slight.

The Southern Railway and Steamship Association at a meeting at Coney Island, resolved to increase the rate on first-class freight between New York and Atlanta, Ga. The rate has been 60 cents since the spring meeting of the association. It has now been fixed at $1.14 per hundred. The meeting adjourned until August 22.

Carl Siewers writes to the London Standard that he is receipt of advices from Norway that leave little doubt that the Wellman arctic expedition is lost. Experienced sailors just returned from Spitzbergen say they are of the same opinion, and Colonel Fielding, who accompanied Captain Nares' expedition in 1875, shares this belief.

Debs and other officers of the American Railway Union met with a decided reverse at Chicago Tuesday in their fight against the prosecution for contempt in the United States court. The court decided that the answer filed by the defendants is not a sufficient reply to the charge of contempt, and the motion of their attorneys that they be discharged be overruled.

The Allen Paper Car Wheel Company started up its works at Pullman Monday morning. Only two of the fifty employes of the Allen company returned to work. The managers of the works say they are not discouraged by the failure of more men to report for work, and insist that the men have been restrained from reporting at the opening hour through fear of violence.

The members of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association say that the recent meetings have resulted in securing a most satisfactory agreement for the maintenance of rates. The essential feature is the provision that when any line has evidence that a company is giving a rebate or cutting rates, it can, on presentation of evidence to the commissioner, demand a general reduction in the rates, all round, to meet the case.

The big shops of the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, in Albuquerque, New Mexico, have closed down, throwing out of employment about 400 men. General Superintendent Gabel says: "The unfortunate financial condition that the receivers of this company find themselves in as a direct result of the recent strike of the American Railway Union, makes it necessary that we close the works at this point indefinitely."

A New York dispatch says: Charles Broadway Rouss, the millionaire merchant, has decided to give a competitive prize to art students of southern birth, who have been resident in Paris not longer than two years. Mr. Rouss is a southerner and he limits the competition to those born south of the Mason and Dixon line. The prize will be sufficient to maintain the winner for two years, by which time he is expected to prove his ability, if he has any.

THREE FIREMEN KILLED

And Two Hundred Horses Perish in the Flames.

Early Wednesday morning fire was discovered in the warehouse and stables of the George W. Knox Express company, occupying over a quarter of a block at Second and B streets, northwest, Washington, D. C. The building and contents were destroyed, and two hundred and five horses were burned to death. The Adams Express company's stables, adjoining the Knox building to the north, were almost entirely consumed but the horses were removed. Eight two-story houses in the alley north of the Knox building and two small houses back of the Adams stable, were destroyed.

Three firemen were killed by falling walls, and four seriously injured. One of the Knox stable employes was badly injured and will probably die. The warehouse was packed from basement to roof with furniture and merchandise, many families having their entire household goods stored in the building. The loss is about half a million dollars.

Cotton Picking in Texas.

Cotton picking in south Texas began in earnest Monday morning. Already about fifty bales of new cotton in different sections have been picked out. Cotton is general looks better than ever known in Texas, and well posted authorities predict a crop of 2,500,000 bales.

WILL OPEN AGAIN.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S DISPENSARIES TO RESUME BUSINESS.

Governor Tillman Issues a Proclamation to That Effect.

A Columbia special says: Governor Tillman promised in his campaign speeches a few days ago to reopen the dispensaries the 1st day of August. Monday he issued the following proclamation:

"State of South Carolina, Executive Chamber.—Whereas, under the provisions of an act to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, as beverage, within the state, except as herein provided, approved December 24, 1892, the state assumed control of the legal liquor traffic in South Carolina, commencing July 1, 1893; and, whereas, the said policy and purpose of the state to permit the sale of liquor by and through the state's officers only, was reaffirmed by an act, approved December 23, 1893, entitled 'An Act to Declare the Law in Reference to and Further Regulate the Use, Sale, Consumption, Transportation and Disposition of Alcoholic Liquids or Liquors Within the State of South Carolina, and to Police the Same;' and whereas, the supreme court of the state of South Carolina, by a decision rendered the 19th of April, 1894, declared the first act, above mentioned, unconstitutional, except one small proviso of one section, the executive, in obedience to what he conceived to be the will of the court, closed all the dispensaries and discharged the constabulary. In a subsequent decision, the court still ignoring the act of 1893 above mentioned, constructed its decision to mean 'there can be no legal sale of liquor by license,' but has seemingly on purpose omitted to mention or construe the act of 1893: and, whereas, the state of South Carolina acting in good faith through the executive branch of the government, and relying upon the decision of the supreme court in the case of Hoover vs. the Town Council of Chester, in which it was declared that the act of 1892 'was in effect an act to regulate the sale of spirituous liquors, the power to do which is universally recognized,' has invested large sums of money in liquors for sale under the provisions of the two acts mentioned; and, whereas, this liquor is now being held at heavy expense, while the state is flooded with contraband whiskey, sold without authority of law.

"Now, therefore, I, B. R. Tillman, governor of the state of South Carolina, in exercise of my discretion, as executive, do issue this my proclamation and declare that the said supreme court, having adjourned without in any wise giving expression in regard to the act of 1893, that the said act is of full force and effect, and will be enforced in accordance with my oath of office, until the court shall have passed upon the same, or until the legislature shall have repealed it.

"The county dispensers in the various counties will open their dispensaries on Wednesday, August 1st. All persons interested, including public carriers, are notified that the importation of liquors will be at the risk of seizure and prosecution, and all contraband liquors found in the borders of the state will be seized and confiscated according to law.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state to be affixed, at Columbia, this 23d day of July, A.D., 1894, and in the one hundred and nineteenth year of the independence of the United States of America.

"B. R. TILLMAN.

"By the Governor,

"J. E. TINDALL, Secretary of State."

MAY CAUSE TROUBLE.

It is generally thought that this reopening of the liquor excitement is going to cause serious trouble all over the state in the next few months.

AN ANARCHIST ON TRIAL.

Paul Lega Says He Intended to Kill Crispi and Defends Anarchy.

The trial of the anarchist, Paul Lega, for attempting to kill Premier Crispi, as he was riding in a carriage on his way to the Chamber of Deputies, on June 16th, began at Rome, Italy, Thursday.

The court room was crowded. The prisoner, upon being arraigned, said that he was animated in his attempt upon Signor Crispi's life much less by hatred to Crispi personally, than he was by a desire to strike at the chief of the Prepotent Society. The prisoner made a vigorous defense of anarchy, and concluded his speech by saying: "I now await your verdict. If you give capital sentence, there is always some one ready to avenge his brethren, in France or in America."

DEBS OUT OF JAIL.

He and His Companions Give Bail in the Sum of $7,000.

A Chicago special says: Debs, Howard, Keliher and Rogers, of the American Railway Union, are at liberty under bail, pending the hearing of the various cases against them. Wednesday afternoon they were required to give $7,000 bonds, covering five new indictments in addition to the contempt cases brought by the government and the Santa Fe railroad. The hearing of the contempt cases was continued until September 5th, and it is the purpose of the defendants' attorneys to force a hearing on the indictments before the contempt cases are again called.

PHOTOGRAPHERS MEET.

The National Association Assembles at St. Louis.

Photographers from all over America and pictures from all the great art centers of the world were gathered in St. Louis Wednesday, that city having been selected as the point for holding the fourteenth annual convention of the Photographers' Association of America. Specimens of these artists' work will be exhibited alongside of and compared with the work of European photographers.

Killed by the Earthquake.

The London Standard Constantinople correspondent says: "It has been conclusively established that more than 1,000 persons were killed by the recent earthquakes."

TO DEVELOP THE SOUTH.

Southern States Exchange Establish Headquarters in New York.

Temporary quarters have been engaged at No. 23 Park Row, New York city, for the "Southern States Exchange Association," which is the name of the organization formed by the committee appointed by the recent Fifth Avenue hotel conference.

The officers of the association are Hugh R. Garden, president; Stuyvesant Fish, vice president; R. Wayne Wilson, secretary and general manager, and John B. Inman, treasurer.

The committee for each state has been instructed to at once organize his forces, and, through his state press, invite associate membership and inform the people of the service the association is now prepared to render.

Some interesting facts and figures have been furnished by Richard H. Edmonds, of the Manufacturers' Record. He says that it has been demonstrated to the world that in iron, cotton and lumber manufacture it is no longer a question as to whether the south can compete with other sections, but it is a question as to whether other sections can hold their own against the south. Southern cotton mills practically monopolize the coarse goods trades and are rapidly pushing into the production of finer goods. Alabama is making iron at less than $6.00 a ton, and able experts have recently reported that the Carolinas can produce the best grades of Bessemer iron for steel making at less than $8 a ton. In 1880 the south had total farm assets of $2,314,000,000; by 1890 they had increased to $3,181,000,000, an increase of 37 per cent., while during the same period the increase in all other states and territories was only 30 per cent. This, it should be remembered, was accomplished by the south without immigration, while the west had the benefit of nearly 5,000,000 foreigners who settled there within that period.

Ten years ago the south's agricultural and manufacturing and mining products aggregated in value about $1,000,000,000; now they are nearly $2,000,000,000, and are annually increasing. The increase in population during that period was only 15 to 20 per cent, as the south has no heavy immigration to swell its growth.

So, practically the same people who ten years ago were producing $1,200,000,000 a year are now, by reason of being more fully employed, able to turn out nearly $8,000,000 a year more than they were then doing. They have more than doubled their railroad mileage and trebled and quadrupled the traffic; they have more than quadrupled their cotton bill, added $2,000,000,000 to the assessed value of their property and $6,900,000,000 to its true value, and more than doubled their banking capital. Such is the record of the last ten years, worked out in spite of almost overwhelming obstacles.

The Best of All.

McMinnville, Tenn., Nov. 15, 1892.—I had kidney trouble for over twenty years and had tried everything I could hear of, without benefit. Two bottles of King's Royal Germetuer cured me, and I have not had any trouble for six months and believe I am cured. I certainly think it the finest remedy I ever saw, and have recommended it to many friends for fevers, stomach, kidney and bowel troubles, and their use of Germetuer has been satisfactory in every instance. Good Character Important.

Besides the happy satisfaction that a clear conscience and good character bring to every heart, it has a commercial value that it is well to take into consideration. For instance, B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., are advertising in this paper, and offer specially good business opportunities to men of character and standing in their respective communities. They want parties to work all or part of their time, as may suit their convenience.

Our War Potentiality.

The United States has been said to be a warlike nation without being a military nation. Its war potentialities are vast, indeed. It showed that thirty years ago, when with only a little more than half its present population it mustered more than 3,000,000 men under arms in the Union and and Confederate forces. There are now in America the enormous total of 9,900,000 men of military age eligible for military service. No other civilized country in the world could place such a gigantic host of men in the field in an emergency.

Of course, the actual number of organized, drilled and uniformed citizen soldiers is only a small fraction of this, but the real available military strength of the United States is only inadequately appreciated by the average American. The military spirit which the civil war engendered has not died out among the American youth. On the contrary, it has amply held its own, if it has not increased. Never before was the national guard of the several states so strong in numbers, so well armed, so excellently disciplined.

There are 112,190 of these volunteers in all, representing infantry, cavalry and artillery. Their efficiency widely varies, being high as a rule in the old, rich and populous states, and less satisfactory in the newer and sparsely settled communities.

New York heads the list in numbers with a well equipped force of 12,810 officers and men—as large as a fighting army corps of the rebellion. Pennsylvania has a force of 8,614, whose mettle was tried two years ago at Homestead; Ohio has 6,125, and Massachusetts 5,666. As it happens, the states in which the recent strike centered are well prepared for such an emergency. Illinois' militia body musters 4,777 men; Indiana's, 2,638; Iowa's, 2,351; Missouri's, 2,415, and Michigan's, 2,801. Illinois is particularly fortunate in the character of its fine city regiments.

The entire organized militia of the United States is subject to the orders of the president, and can be moved and concentrated wherever occasion for its presence arises. When to this great army of 100,000 men are added the 25,000 regular and 2,000 or 3,000 blue jackets and marines of the war ships on the home station, it is obvious that there is something more than the policeman's club between the American people and anarchy.—Boston Journal.

People who go to grand hotels have much to put up with, and they who ride in crowded street cars have to stand a great deal.

A NO-TO-BAC MIRACLE.

PHYSICAL PERFECTION PREVENTED BY THE USE OF TOBACCO.

An Old Timer of Twenty-three Years' Tobacco Chewing and Smoking Cured, and Gains Twenty Pounds in Thirty Days.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., July 21—Special.—The ladies of our beautiful little town are making an interesting and exciting time for tobacco-using husbands, since the injurious effects of tobacco and the ease with which it can be cured by a preparation called No-To-Bac, have been so plainly demonstrated by the cure of Mr. F. C. Waite. In a written statement he says: "I smoked and chewed tobacco for twenty-three years, and I am sure that my case was one of the worst in this part of the country. Even after I went to bed at night, if I woke up I would want to chew or smoke. It was not only killing me but my wife was also ailing from the injurious effects. Two boxes of No-To-Bac cured me, and I have no more desire for tobacco than I have to jump out of the window. I have gained twenty pounds in thirty days, my wife is well, and we are indeed both happy to say that No-To-Bac is truly 'worth its weight in gold' to us."

The cure and improvement in Mr. Waite's case is looked upon as a miracle—in fact, it is the talk of the town and county, and it is estimated that over a thousand tobacco users will be using No-To-Bac within a few weeks. The peculiarity about No-To-Bac as a patent medicine is that the makers, the Sterling Remedy Company, No. 45 Randolph street, Chicago, absolutely guarantee the use of three boxes to cure or refund the money, and the cost, $2.50, is so trifling as compared with the expensive and unnecessary use of tobacco that tobacco-using husbands have no good excuse to offer when their wives insist upon taking No-To-Bac and getting results in the way of pure, sweet breath, wonderful improvement in their mental and physical condition, with a practical revitalization of their nicotined nerves.

A silver pen knife with a cigar holder attached, to be worn as a charm, is a late comer.

A successful method of displaying enamel jewelry to advantage is by placing the articles on white velvet mats.

A sphere of dark hematite, having a similarity to black pearls, arranged in a cluster of diamonds makes an attractive hair ornament.

A dazzling lace pin is a gold shell whose shell is mounted with a large pearl. The outstretched neck is studded with diamonds and rubies.

A singularly descriptive silver hip flask is one bearing the inscription "Drunk as a Fish." A sea bass etched on the side carries out the idea.

One of the noticeable results of the widespread popularity of the "Queen Cornelian" is the partial retirement of chrysoprase which is losing favor.

ASSIST NATURE a little now and then with a gentle, cleansing laxative, thereby removing offensive matter from the system and bowels, toning up and invigorating the liver and quickening its action, and you have by remove the cause of a multitude of dressing diseases, such as headaches, biliousness, skin diseases, boils, carbuncles, piles, fistulas and maladies too numerous to mention.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to ward off attacks of dangerous diseases.

That, of all known agents to accomplish this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are unequalled, is proven by the fact that once used, they are always in favor. The secondary effect is to keep the bowels clean and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and indigestion.

WILL.

You will be, what you will to be;
Let failure find its false content
In that poor word "environment,"
But spirit scorns it, and is free.

It masters time, it conquers space,
It cows that boastful trickster chance,
And bids the tyrant Circumstance
Uncrown and fill a servant's place.

The human Will, that force unseen,
The offspring of a deathless Soul,
Can hew the way to any goal,
Though walls of granite intervene.

Be not impatient in delay,
But wait as one who understands;
When spirit rises and commands,
The gods are ready to obey.

The river seeking for the sea,
Confronts the dam and precipice,
Yet knows it cannot fail or miss;
You will be, what you will to be.

A HEROINE.

OW, Kitty, be sure the pudding goes over to boil at four o'clock, and keep an eye to the roast meat, for the Deacon don't like it burned."

"Yes, ma'am, I'll be sure and remember," said Kitty Clifford, curtseying prettily.

"And Kate," said Deacon Osprey, "don't let strangers in, whatever you do, for there's that five hundred dollars in gold in the back bedroom chest, and all the silver spoons."

"I will be very careful, sir," said Kitty.

"Kitty! Kitty! Come here and tie my cravat," said Silas Osprey, who was fidgetting before the mirror.

So Kitty stood upon a footstool, blushing and smiling, to tie Mr. Silas's cravat for meeting.

"I wish you were going with us, Kitty," said the young man, with his chin elevated stiffly in the air. "Next Sunday I'll take you."

"Oh, that will be nice," said Kitty, growing pinker and pinker, as her slender fingers pulled out the bow, and adjusted the ends. "Will that do Mr. Silas?"

And Mrs. Osprey who had followed her husband out to the solid-looking old lumber-wagon, gave a meaning, backward glance.

"I think Silas is getting fond of our Kitty," said the mother sagely.

"Is he?" said the Deacon, with a disturbed face. "But, wife, how little we know about her, except since the day she came here with her little bundle under her arm, asking for service."

"Yes, that's very true," said Mrs. Osprey; "but she's pretty and smart, and I know she's good, and—"

"Silas! Silas! Are you going to stand there all day?" called out the father, and so they drove away, with Kitty standing at the lonely farm-house door, her silken brown curls blown about in the dismal November wind, and her blue eyes sparkling beneath their prettily arched brows.

She went back into the house, singing softly under her breath, to prepare things for the tea-dinner which the hungry church-goers would expect when they returned—a brisk, neat-handed little Phyllis, whose step was scarce heavier on the pine floor than a falling leaf would have been.

She had put the pudding on to boil in the kitchen clock chimed four, and ran down into the cellar to get the vegetables from their bins. She was gone but a minute or two, but when she returned, the door leading upstairs, which she had left closed, stood wide open, and on the lower stair a muddy footprint was distinctly imprinted.

Kitty's heart stood still with undefined terror, as she remembered the bag of twenty dollar gold pieces in the big back chamber chest.

And while she stood there, holding by the table for support, she could hear confused footsteps upstairs, and the murmur of deep voices.

Then there was more than one. Kitty's first instinct—that of defending her master's treasures to the last, even were it with her life—gave way to more practical considerations. She thought of flying out into the road and crying aloud for help, but then she remembered with a pang of despair, how lonely was the desolate hillside, with the nearest dwelling full a mile distant.

"What can I do? Oh, what can I do?" thought Kitty, clasping both her hands over her throbbing forehead.

But while her thoughts ran in a whirl and her heart beat tempestuously, the footsteps neared the stairway—the unwelcome guests were once more coming down. Instinctively Kitty shrank behind the ragged brick projections of the old chimney.

Two stout-built, short men, dressed in coarse gray, slouched down into the kitchen, with the easy confidence of those who imagine themselves entirely without witnesses. Kitty had never seen them before, yet they seemed quite "posted" as to the various rooms in the straggling farm-house.

"Come on, Jim, we're got all we're likely to get in this confounded old shanty," said one balancing his foot on one of the iron fire-dogs, "and besides the folks will be home presently."

"Sandy Bill afraid!" jeeringly called out the other, who was opening and shutting the various cupboards and drawers about the apartment, greedily eyeing their contents.

"Hallo! here's some silver spoons."

"Wow 'em away and let's be moving," said Bill. "Confound this bag! it jingles like a string o' sleigh bells!"

"Well, come then," said the other, discontentedly. "I opine five hundred ain't a bad day's work; but somehow, I thought, from the looks of the crib, there might be old silver or some such grabbings."

And they lounged out, side by side, with a cool deliberation that was almost appalling to the trembling girl who lurked in the shadow of the jagged brick work.

But Kitty Clifford's mind had been at work while she stood there; her resolution was taken.

Hurriedly tying a shawl around her head and shoulders, she sprang out of the house, by the back way, and hastened through a lonely piece of woods which formed a short cut to the road they must presently emerge upon.

"They would be hidden away somewhere long before I could summon help," thought Kitty. "No—whatever is done I must do myself."

On either side the road was shut in by stunted cedar bushes, mingled with the clever growth of the gleaming silver-birch, and Kitty knew she could keep in sight of them unseen.

"If they should see me! If they should suspect my errand," thought poor Kitty, with thrills of cold terror. "Oh, it would be hard to be murdered in these solitary woods; to have my master think I stole the gold, and Mr. Silas—"

While the thoughts passed through her mind, the ring of coming footsteps echoed on the hard, frozen ground. Kitty's conjecture had proved correct—they had taken the Hill Road.

Onward, steadily onward, they pushed, Kitty contriving to keep nearly parallel with them, though she had to fight her way through matted vines and thorny bushes. Fortunately the wind had risen, and its mournful, rustling sound through the tree-tops, hid the noise she unavoidably made, else her detection would have been little short of inevitable.

But with every precaution the peril was great. As she stepped unconsciously upon the fallen branch of a decayed tree, it snapped beneath her tread with a sharp, splintering sound! The two men paused to listen, seemed to consult together an instant, and then turned quickly toward the very copse in which she was hiding.

Poor Kitty! She sank noiselessly down like a wounded bird, crouching away in mortal terror. But, although their footsteps almost touched the fluttering ends of her brown shawl, the gathering dusk stood her friend, and they passed by, unconscious of her presence.

It was several minutes before Kitty dared to rise once more to her feet; and then they were half way up a hill-side, dotted with blackened stumps, where a charcoal burner's shanty, long unused, and in a ruinous condition, stood, with its one unglazed window seeming to survey the valley like an eye.

Kitty saw them disappear into this hut—she saw them emerge once more, descending the uneven slope with long, running strides, and striking once more into the road.

And when they passed the concealed watcher, the muffled, jingling sound that had heretofore accompanied their footsteps was gone.

"You're a fool, Bill!" sullenly exclaimed one, as they stopped to rest on the edge of the road, and the taller stooped to drink from a clear little stream, using the hollow of his hand as an impromptu goblet.

"No, I ain't a fool," said Bill, dashing the bright drops away from his mustache; "but I don't see no use in running unnecessary risks. Suppose we should meet some one?"

"We shan't!"

"I'm none so sure of that. Anyway, it's best to be on the safe side, and to-morrow night—"

Their voices lowered a little now, died away into the distance, and Kitty, standing alone in the woods, tried to collect her scattered thoughts into some definite point of action.

"Shall I still follow them? or shall I go up and see if they have not hidden their booty in that hut?"

For own moment she hesitated, then she began to creep up the hill-side with weary feet and lagging limbs, for fatigue and terror were beginning to tell upon her slender frame.

It was nearly dark when she crossed the moldering threshold and stood in the solitary cabin. Through the started timbers of the roof the steel-gray sky gleamed with unnatural light, while the half-decayed boards of the floor creaked and gave beneath her weight. A fluttering noise in one corner made her heart turn chill, and the next instant she perceived it was but a dusky-winged bat, beating itself against the beams and rafters.

She stole tremulously forward to look into the black, yawning chasm of the mud chimney, the only place, as it seemed to her, where anything as large as the doctor's canvas bag could be concealed. And as she picked her way a board sprung beneath her feet—a board which had been loosely laid across two beams without any securing nail. Instinctively she stooped—and there before her, wedged in between the heavy timbers, over which had lain the board, was the little canvas bag!

She caught it in both hands, hugging it close to her breast, and hurried toward the door. But, as she advanced out of the close, moldy air of the cabin into the gray November twilight, the strength seemed to die out of her limbs, the vitality to ebb from her heart.

"Surely, surely I am not going to perish now," she thought, wildly, "when the danger is all surmounted, the peril all past! God will never let me die in this lonely place!"

The half-murmured aspiration was still on her lips when all sense and feeling left her, and she sank utterly unconscious on the door-step, with the canvas bag still clasped to her heart!

It was quite dark when the old lumber-wagon rolled up to the door, and Mrs. Osprey came into the house carrying the "extra" shawl upon her arm.

"Kitty! Kitty! Why, where is the child?"

In vain she called. The fire had died out upon the hearth—the pan of vegetables stood upon the table, just as the girl had left it—the doors were open, and, altogether, there was an air of confused desolation about the dark and dreary house.

"Deacon Osprey," said the frightened matron, grasping her husband's arm, "what does this mean?"

The Deacon set his teeth tightly together, but made no answer. He walked silently up stairs into the back room, and presently returned.

"It means, wife," he said, in a husky voice—

"Hush!" said Mrs. Osprey, with a stark "What's that?"

"Something at the door," said Silas, rising to open it. And as he did so, a slender figure, drenched with chill rain, and robed in soiled, brier-torn garments, tottered forward into his arms, and the bag of gold fell to the kitchen floor with a dull, heavy sound.

"Kitty!" he cried; "Mother, it is Kitty, and she is dying!"

But Kitty Clifford was not dying—she was only fainting from fatigue and over exertion, and Mrs. Osprey's kindly care soon restored her to strength and animation. The Deacon listened silently to her story, and when she had finished he stroked her bright hair down with a gentle touch.

"My little girl," he said, "you have been very brave."

"Were you not frightened, Kitty?" asked Silas, tenderly.

"Yes, but it was worse when I came to myself after that fainting fit in the cabin on the hill. O, it was so dark—so dismal—so solitary, with owls hooting in the woods, and a bat flying round and round close to the ceiling."

When Messrs. "Jim and Sandy Bill" came after their secreted treasures the next night, their state of minds may easily be fancied. But they never suspected who the marplot was. Least of all would they have dreamed of pretty Kate Clifford, who was just engaged to be married to Deacon Osprey's son Silas.—New York News.

Eloped With a Kurd.

Thomas G. Allen, Jr., and William L. Sachtleben, the young American students who made a bicycle tour around the world, describe their experiences in Persia in the Century. The following peculiar international complication came to their knowledge at Tabreez:

The English Government, it seemed, had become embroiled in a local love-affair just at a time when Colonel Stewart was off on "diplomatic duty" on the Russian Transcaspian border. An exceptionally bright Armenian beauty, a graduate of the American missionary schools at this place, had been abducted, it was claimed, by a young Kurdish cavalier, and carried away to his mountain home. Her father, who happened to be a naturalized English subject, had applied for the assistance of his adopted country in obtaining her release. Negotiations were at once set on foot between London and Teheran, which finally led to a formal demand upon the Kurds by the Shah himself. Upon their repeated refusal, 7000 Persian troops, it was said, were ordered to Soak Boulak, under the command of the vice-consul, Mr. Patton.

The matter at length assumed such an importance as to give rise in the House of Commons to the question, "Who is Katty Greenfield?" This, in time, was answered by that lady herself, who declared under oath that she had become a Mohammedan, and was in love with the man with whom she had eloped. More than this, it was learned that she had not a drop of English blood in her veins, her father being an Austrian, and her mother a native Armenian. Whereupon the Persian troopers, with their much disgusted leader, beat an inglorious retreat, leaving "Katty Greenfield" mistress of the situation and of a Kurdish heart.

Paper Rims for Cart Wheels.

A patent was recently taken out by a man who has invented a metal rim to be placed over the regular tire of a carriage tire. For carriage use this rim was two inches wide. For cart use nearly double that width. The object of these rims was to furnish a means by which teamsters might carry with them a broad rim for their wheels so that when striking a soft spot in a country road the rims might be put on over the narrow tires, thereby preventing the wheels from sinking in the mud. But the rims proved too heavy and the teamsters found it inconvenient to increase the weight of their load for the sake of the rims. The patents granted covered an iron or metal rim for this purpose.

Now another inventor steps in and asks for a patent on rims for this purpose, but made exclusively of compressed paper stock. The models of the new paper rims have been examined by the writer and found to be remarkably tough. The inventor introduces a composition of fine wire shaving and cow hair into the pulp while the latter is soft, and this adds strength. Then the hydraulic pressure which is brought to bear upon the rims during the last stages of making them completes the durability.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

The democratic members of the tariff conference committee did not accomplish anything at their first meeting Tuesday. Chairman Voorhees, of the senate conferees, and Chairman Wilson, of the house conferees, were both absent on account of illness. Senator Jones was also absent. The meeting was purely informal and very brief.

The bill relating to the international exhibition of the cotton states to be held in Atlanta in 1895, was introduced in the senate Monday by Senator Gordon. It provides for the admission of foreign exhibits to the United States free of duty, and for the preparation of medals for competitors at the United States mint. This is the bill intended to supplement the bill appropriating $200,000 to the exposition.

The sundry civil appropriation bill for the fiscal year, 1895, reported to the senate Monday from the committee on appropriations, aggregates $35,061,685, being an increase of $2,538,301 over the bill as it passed the house and $95,683 over the estimates on which it was based. One of the principal items of this increase is $300,000 for the government exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition at Atlanta, Ga.

In view of the disturbed and threatening state of affairs in the relations between China and Japan, the state department has intimated to Charles Denby, the United States minister to China, now in Michigan, that he had better return to his post. Though this is necessary, it is rather hard upon the minister, who has taken leave from his duties for the first time in nine years, and has been home only three weeks, whereas his leave was for sixty days.

The bill providing for a pension of $50 a month for General James Longstreet, the confederate commander, on account of wounds received in the Mexican war while he was serving as a major and paymaster in the United States army, was introduced in the senate Wednesday. General Longstreet receives a pension of $12 a month under the general pension act for the relief of Mexican war veterans. He asks that this be increased, because of his advanced age, wounds received and total disability.

Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, and General H. V. Boynton, who are members of the executive committee of the army of the Cumberland organization, decided Wednesday to postpone for one year the reunion which was to have been held at the Chattanooga battlefield September 19th and 20th. The dedication of the field, which has been acquired for a government park, has been postponed until September, 1895, to give time for the erection of monuments by states whose troops fought there, and it is thought best to hold the reunion at the same time.

A delegation representing 600 of Kelley's commonwealers, accompanied by Colonel Tracey, commissioner of charities, waited on the district commissioners Wednesday and asked to be sent home. The men stated briefly that they had been deluded into coming here and that they were now at the point of starvation. They suggested that a freight train be run as far west as Denver, or even farther, and that the men be allowed to drop off as they arrived in the places where their homes were. The commissioners promised they would do all in their power for the sufferers.

Cost Uncle Sam $3,400.

In the deficiency bill there is appropriated to Major J. C. C. Black and Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, $1,700 each to pay the expenses of the contest brought by Mr. Watson for Mr. Black's seat. Major Black's bill presented to the committee was for $2,500 fees and expenses of his lawyers. The account as filed with the committee, is in gross, and does not contain any statement of the amount each received. The committee cut down the account and allowed $1,700. Tom Watson's bill is for $1,700, the total amount of which was allowed. His bill is itemised and shows $500 goes to McKnight & Guerry, Washington lawyers; John T. West and B. M. Gross receive fees of $500 each and $100 each for expenses in coming to Washington to argue the case before the committee on elections.

May Involve European Nations.

It is believed at Washington by the state department officials that if the war between China and Japan drags along for any length of time Russia and Great Britain and possibly France, may be drawn into it. All three countries have possessions in Asia. France is not at all friendly to China, and would probably side with the Japanese in the trouble. She would probably be assisted by Russia, who even now, state department officials believe, has secretly assured Japan of her support in the controversy. Great Britain is on the most intimate terms with China, and would probably side with that empire, especially if Russia and France were to assist her antagonist. A European war would follow, and the greatest diplomacy would have to be exercised by the United States in taking care of its interests all over the world. It is also believed that if Japan and Russia have made any agreement in regard to this matter it is that the latter country be given a seaport in Corea, which could be made the terminus of her transcontinental railroad. Russia is extremely anxious to acquire a port on the Pacific which would not be closed by ice six months in the year, as is the present terminus of the road. It is to her interest, therefore, to side with Japan, and it is believed that, notwithstanding her repeated and at the same time ostentatious attempts at mediation, she is secretly supporting the mikado in the stand he has taken.

THE BILL PASSED

AND ATLANTA GETS $200,000 FOR HER EXPOSITION.

No Opposition Expected From the House on the Measure.

The appropriation bill for the Cotton States and International exposition passed the senate in the committee of the whole Tuesday afternoon without a single objection or even a question being asked on either side of the chamber. The sundry civil bill was under discussion the entire day and at 4:45 o'clock the exposition clause was reached. It was the last in the bill. The full text of the clause was as follows:

"Cotton States and International Exposition, at Atlanta, Ga., Section 8—That the expense of the selection, purchase, preparation, transportation, care and return of articles and materials to comprise an exhibit illustrative of the functions of the government of the United States, to be made at the Cotton States and International exposition to be held in the city of Atlanta, in the state of Georgia, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five, of which not exceeding $5,000 may be expended for clerical services, $150,000 to be disbursed by the board created by section 16 of the act approved April 25, 1890, entitled 'An act to provide for celebrating the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus, by holding an international exhibition of arts, industries, manufactures and the products of the soil, mine and the sea in the city of Chicago, in the state of Illinois,' and the jurisdiction, powers and duties of the said board are hereby extended to include the said exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition under all the provisions of law which governed the government exhibit at the World's Columbian exposition; provided that the foregoing sum shall be apportioned among the several departments of the Smithsonian institution and the fish commission by the secretary of the treasury, and such apportion shall be made final and shall be so made by him as not to create a deficiency and shall cover every expenditure on the part of the United States, including the return of such exhibits except as hereafter provided.

"For taking down the government main building erected by the government exhibit at the world's Columbian exposition and its transportation, or so much of the material thereof as may be available, and the re-erection upon the site selected for the said Cotton States and International exposition, including the purchase of such new material as may be found necessary, $50,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be disbursed by the secretary of the treasury; provided that if it be found impracticable to take down, transport and re-erect said building for the sum herein appropriated, then the secretary of the treasury shall cause a new building to be erected upon said site of the Cotton States and International exposition for the government exhibit at a cost not to exceed $50,000, for which purpose the amount herein appropriated shall be applicable.

"Provided further, That the United States shall not be in any manner responsible for the conduct or management of said exhibition, nor shall it be liable in any manner for any sum on account of the erection of any buildings for the Cotton States and International exposition or for the expenses incident to, or growing out of said exposition."

THE DISPENSARIES OPEN.

Tillman's State Bars Are Again in Full Blast.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: The state bars are now doing business at the old stands all over the state and the state wholesale dispensary here is hard at work filling orders to the retail shops. The reopening has been accompanied with not the slightest excitement and so far the liquor situation in this city has not been changed in the least. Saloon keepers, or what the governor calls "four-eyed tigers," have been selling whisky as usual and there was no pretense of concealment.

Official and non-official fluids are being "dispensed" with equal freedom, but the sales of the latter have been nominal. How long this condition will prevail nobody knows. Not a whisky constable is in the city. The governor is absent on his campaign tour and there is nothing to annoy the "tigers." Some of them say that they will close up shop Saturday night, but this is taken with a grain of salt. Others boldly assert that the governor's sole idea in reopening the official bars is to dispose of and realize on his stock on hand and that he will make no effort to rigidly enforce the restrictive features of the act of 1893, until it has been declared valid by the state or federal courts.

A Girl's College Burned.

Unknown persons set fire to the Presbyterian female college, at Winchester, Tenn., Monday night, and it was entirely consumed. The building was a fine structure, erected in 1830, and was the oldest building in the county.

HALLS OF CONGRESS

DAILY PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE.

What Our National Law-Makers are Doing for the Country.

The committee on patents, to which Saturday's session in the house was accorded by the committee on rules, was unfortunate, in that the first bill presented by Chairman Covert met with such opposition, that after a brief discussion, the house voted to adjourn. Before adjournment, however, a joint resolution was passed extending until August 14th the provisions of the appropriation bills for the year ending June 30, 1894. The joint resolutions under which the several departments are now operating will expire on Tuesday and six of the appropriation bills are still in congress. An unusually long list of private bills was passed, including those which had been acted upon favorably at the Friday night pension session.

After the reading of the journal in the house, Monday, Mr. Tolbert, of South Carolina, tried to learn from the speaker whether or not the committee on coinage, weights and measures, and on banking and currency, had a right to pigeon-hole his resolution directing them to report a bill for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and a bill providing a new financial system. He was not successful. The speaker referred him to the rules for information desired. Mr. Boutelle presented a resolution recognizing the new republic of Hawaii on the part of the congress of the United States and supported it in a brief speech. He offered it as a question of privilege, but the speaker ruled that it was not such, and it went to the committee on foreign affairs. The committee on military affairs were given the morning hour for the presentation of business for consideration.

The house was two hours in a deadlock Tuesday over the river and harbor bill, and it is intimated that it may either fail altogether, or its further consideration be postponed till next winter. Mr. Hatch presented the conference report on the aggricultural appropriation bill, showing an agreement on all items except the senate amendment, appropriating $1,000,000 for the extinction of the Russian thistle.

The house, at Wednesday's session, agreed to the conference report on the amendment made by the senate to the agricultural appropriation bill, appropriating one million dollars for the extinction of the Russian thistle in the northeast. The senate recedes from its amendment, thus abandoning the appropriation. At 12:30 the contested case of Moore versus Funston, from the second district of Kansas, was taken up. A majority of the committee reported in favor of unseating Funston, republican, and giving the seat to Moore. It was agreed that the case should be debated four hours, and the vote on the resolution seating Moore be taken before adjournment.

THE SENATE.

Vice President Stevenson resumed his duties as president of the senate Monday. A number of bills were passed; also the house joint resolution continuing the general appropriations up to and including August 14th, 1894. In connection with this joint resolution, it was stated by Mr. Cockrell, chairman of the committee on appropriations, that, of the thirteen general appropriation bills, eight had been agreed to in conference and sent to the president. He did not know whether they had been signed yet or not. Of the remaining five, three were in conference.

In the senate, Tuesday, the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was presented and adopted and a further conference ordered on the amendments that had not been agreed to by the conferees. At 1 p. m. the senate proceeded to the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill.

In the senate, Wednesday, Mr. Chandler offered a resolution, which went over, instructing the senate committee appointed to investigate the charges of bribery against senators to inquire into the facts connected with the organization and history of the Dominion Coal Company, of Nova Scotia, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such company was formed or is being conducted by reason of any assurance that the tariff duty on coal shall be repealed by congress, and if so to ascertain who gave such assurances, whether or not any officer of the government, or any member of congress is or was interested in such company, and what action, if any, has been taken by any person in fulfillment of such assurances.

THEY TARRED TARSNEY.

Six Men Arrested for Complicity in the Colorado Outrage.

A Denver, Col., special says: Six men have been arrested for complicity in the tarring and feathering of Adjutant-General Tarsney at Colorado Springs—three in this city and three at the springs—and more arrests are to follow. The prisoners are John A. Reagan, who was turnkey at the jail at Colorado Springs on the night the outrage was committed; his brother, Michael Reagan, and the ex-deputy sheriff of El Paso county, and "Shorty" Allen, alias Thomas Gordon, who was one of Sheriff Bowers' army of deputies in the Bull Hill warfare. Allen is the man who pushed the gun in Turney's face at the Alamo hotel and spilled the ink and feathers on his person.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The week just ended, says The Tradesman, of Chattanooga, Tenn., in its review of the industrial situation in the south for the past week, has recorded a steady advance in the improvement in all kinds of business. Much depends in the south on the condition of its crops, and unless all signs fail, the year 1894 is to be above the average, both as to the amount and quality of its agricultural products. The farmers have learned to be economical, and are more generally out of debt than at any previous time. Mercantile business is in good condition, collections being well maintained. The new industrial plants of the week are more in number and importance than usual. There seems to be an improvement in the situation in the coal mining regions, and railway transportation is now in good condition.

Forty-one new industries were established or incorporated during the week, prominent among them being the following: The Seaside Power and Torpedo Co., of Norfolk, Va., capital $1,000,000; a million dollar improvement and development company at Little Rock, Ark.; a $100,000 brick and tile company at Gillett, Ark., and the Central City Glass Works, of Central City, W. Va., with $100,000 capital.

The Greensboro Iron and Steel Co., capital $300,000, has been chartered at Greensboro, N. C.; the Southern Powder Works, capital $100,000, at Atlanta, Ga.; the American Talc Co., with the same capital, at Asheville, N. C., and the Potomac Lumber Manufacturing Co., capital $100,000, at New Alexandria, Va. A $50,000 cotton compress is to be built at Birmingham, Ala.; a $50,000 cotton mill at Monroe, La.; the Rockdale, Texas, coal mining company has been chartered with $30,000 capital; the Petes Brick Company, capital $25,000, at Alexandria, Va., and the Empire Box Printing Co., capital $20,000, at Atlanta, Ga.

Cotton mills are reported at Pineville, N. C., and Palestine, Texas, a cotton compress at Corsicana, Texas, a canning factory at Fort Myers, Fla., and electric light companies at Rome, Ga., and Crowley, La. Tanning extract works on a large scale are to be built at Charleston, W. Va.; fertilizer works at Berkley, Ga., a machine shop is to be built at Gayton, Va., paint works at Waco, Texas, and phosphate works at Ellaville, Texas. A shoe factory is reported at Jacksonville, Fla., a sugar mill near New Orleans, La., glove works at Waco, Texas, a tannery at New Decatur, Ala., a tobacco factory at Danville, Va., and woodworking plants at Daphne and Florence, Ala., Jacksonville, N. C., and Newport News, Va.

Water works are to be built at Crowley, La. The enlargements for the week include an ice factory at Norfolk, Va., a mining company at Roanoke, Va., an oil mill at Rockdale, Texas, and woodworking plants at Selma, Ala., Tupelo, Miss., and Chattanooga, Tenn. Among the eighteen important new buildings reported are an $80,000 asylum at Lakeland, Ky., and an addition to a brewry at Louisville, Ky., and a $25,000 addition to a New Orleans club house; a $100,000 government building at Florence, S. C., and school buildings at Evergreen, Ala., Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., Monroe, La., and Meridian, Miss.

A JAPANESE VICTORY.

Battle on the Waves and a Chinese Ship Sunk.

Reports from Hong Kong show an unrest both in northern and southern China, and the outlook for foreign missionaries is bad. Anti-missionary disturbances are reported from Kiang Yon, on the Yang-Tse-Kiang, but a far more serious affair occurred at Skek Lung, near Lung Kun, on the Pearl river, on June 20th. In this instance, the American Presbyterian church was demolished by the mob, and one Christian—whether foreigner or native has not yet been ascertained—was killed. The Roman Catholic church is well guarded by Chinese soldiers, and it is a fact worthy of notice that here, as at Kiang Yon, the Catholic missionary escaped scathless, while the Protest brethren suffered heavily.

JAPANESE AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

A cable dispatch from Tien Tsin brings the news that a naval battle was fought Monday between the Chinese and Japanese fleets. The Japanese sunk the Chinese battle ship Chen Yuen, and two large cruisers, supposed to be the vessels built for China by the Armstrongs, were captured or destroyed by the Japanese.

THE FIGHTING WAS DESPERATE.

The battle was hotly contested, but the Japanese appear to have handled their guns, ships and torpedoes with more skill than the Chinese. The Chinese fleet engaged carried nearly a thousand men, and a large number are reported killed or drowned. Later dispatches say that few, if any, of the Chinese engaged in the battle escaped. Two German officers in command of the Chen Yuen are reported to have met death with the crew of that vessel.

DEMOCRATS OF FLORIDA

Meet in Jacksonville to Name a Justice of the Supreme Court.

The Florida democracy assembled in convention in Jacksonville at noon Tuesday for the purpose of nominating a justice of the supreme court. Hon. S. M. Sparkman, chairman of the state executive committee, called the convention to order. Hon. John H. McKennie, of Jackson county, and Hon. Henry W. Long, of Marion county, were nominated for the temporary chairmanship. Mr. McKinnie withdrew and Mr. Long was chosen by acclamation. Mr. Long, on taking the chair, made a neat speech, pleading for harmony in the party, and urging the necessity of standing by the administration of President Cleveland. After the appointment of a committee on credentials the convention took a recess until 3 o'clock p. m. At that hour the credentials committee, not being ready to report, the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday.

SLEW FOUR PEOPLE.

An Enraged Husband's Diabolical Deed.

Wednesday night John Craig drove from Los Angeles, Cal., to Glendale, five miles distant, where his wife, from whom he was divorced three months ago, was stopping with her brother, George Hunter. Arriving there, he deliberately shot and killed both. He then returned to Los Angeles, went to the house of his father-in-law, William Hunter, and killed him. Stepping over his dead body, he walked to the dining room and killed his mother-in-law. He then fired two shots into his own head, but failed to kill himself. The murderer was a member of the

A large number of our voters were disfranchised Monday because they had lost their certificates. Those who have their registration certificates must recollect that they have use for them next November, and if the wife or mother is given this important document it will be preserved.

The great vote last Monday says to Hoar and other Northern Republicans, "You must keep your hands out of the affair in Alabama."

The Hanover Fire Insurance Company of New York, one of the strongest Companies in the world has established an agency in Clanton with Chas. W. Hare as manager. Parties who have dwellings, furniture stock or store to insure should consult with their agent at once.

While we cannot at this writing secure the official returns from all the counties yet the indications point to a sweeping Democratic victory from one end of the State to the other. The largest gains made for Col. Oates, came from the white counties. The reports from nearly every county give a majority of from 20,000 to 35,000 for the Democratic ticket. The Legislature and Senate, will be safely Democratic by a working majority of some 8 or 10. Chilton County of course goes Republican, or Populite. This great vote shows conclusively that the people are not ready to give up the Democratic party and follow disgruntled adventurers. Peace and safety are still guaranteed the citizens of Alabama.

Verbena is the banner beat of the county. It gave Col. Oates 91, Kolb 88.

The past canvass has been one of unusual interest. So far as we are concerned we have honestly sought to strengthen the Democratic party and to elect the Democratic ticket. Our entire aim has been to do or say nothing that would tend to divide our people, but on the other hand to express those sentiments which would appeal to true patriotism and would encourage a display of those influences which would strengthen the bond of love between man and man. We have never by word or deed knowingly encouraged fraud in the elections, but honestly plead for fair elections, believing that Alabama Democracy can always win by clean methods. It has been exceedingly gratifying to know that the Democratic papers and speakers have everywhere appealed to the reason of their readers and hearers, and with only a few exceptions, have Democrats been guilty of hissing Populite speakers, and only then when said speakers uttering inflamitory words. Democracy stands for law and order, the belief and practice of its principle make good citizens and peacable neighbors.

The following is from Evergreen:

Truck farming was practically naugurated here about five years ago, and each year since then the crop has grown larger until today it is one of Evergreen's most important industries. The receipts from the products of this business generally comes in from about the 15th of March to the 15th of June, and helps to bridge over one of the dullest periods looking at it from a business standpoint of the whole year. The most profitable vegetables raised by truck farmers here are strawberries, beans, tomatoes, and cucumbers. Up to date the present spring has been quite favorable for this business and the outlook is quite promising for a good harvest.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

The Democracy of Alabama in convention assembled, reaffirm the principles of the Democratic party as declared in its platform adopted at Chicago in 1892, and congratulates the country upon the success of these principles in the triumphant election of Grover Cleveland, who, by his generous treatment of our people, has shown that he is the President of the whole country, knowing no North, no South, no East, no West. We recognize the wisdom and patriotism of the president, and believe in his fealty to the principles of our party, and indorse his administration of the Federal Government: while some of us differ with him matters of policy, we are agreed in the belief that he is actuated by motives of the highest patriotism and by an unselfish devotion to the greatest good of the whole people.

While there are differences of opinion among us in matters of detail, we all believe in the free coinage of silver when ever it can be done consistently with the maintenance of a sound and safe currency.

We earnestly urge upon our Senators and Representatves in Congress the speedy reform of the tariff and the prompt repeal of the ten per cent. tax on the issue of state banks.

We heartily endorse the present administration of the state Government, headed by Governor Thomas G. Jones, who has so wisely and courageously his great trust, and we commend him for his impartial and fearless execution of the laws.

We pledge to the people of Alabama a continuance of the good government of our state affairs inaugurated by the election of George S. Houston in 1874.

The election law enacted at the last session of our General Assembly is in accordance with the principle upon which are based the laws regualating elections in a large majority of the states of this Union enacted with out regard to party, and was intended to obtain at the ballot box a full and free expression of the popular will; and after giving it a trial, should it fail to accomplish the end which it was intended to effect, we pledge ourselves to make such changes and alterations therein as may be necessary to effect that end.

TRUE AS GOSPEL.

Judge C. B Stewart in his charge to the Grand Jury at McAlister Indian Territory, uttered the following truths which are as applicable to Clanton and Chilton County as to the aforesaid section.

"Every community has a right to protection against drunken and obscene men. If the Juries will do their duty, in twelve months time the territory will be free from the charges now made by public men, as an asylum for criminals. These charges are not true, in general, but in the abstract they are. The artificial impulse is whiskey, bitters, Choctaw beer, hair renewer etc. Yes, some get drunk on hair renewer! Intoxicating drink causes nine-tenths of the crimes in the territory, and, I believe, in the United States. I believe that ninety-nine hundreths of the crime can be traced to liquor. It has been said that you cannot legislate religeon or morals into temporal people, but you can punish immorality. The law does not say what a man shall eat and wear, but it does say a man can be punished for gross immorality. The most desperate and dangerous criminals of this territory are the whiskey peddleri. It has been said that this court is against the drug stores, It is against those that sell liquor. I have inquired of those charged with crime, and a very large per cent. admitted that they were drunk— and drunk on bitters. Expert testimony says that these bittrre are poison; that those who sell them are poisoning-killing-- your— young men, When you see a drug store with side-room attachment, and forty or fifty empty bitters bottles you may know that he is actually killing people. If sold as a medicine, it is no offence; if sold as beverage he is guilty. It is a great crime to sell liquour in the territory. Where sale is licensed it does not diminish crime. The effect of liquor is the same in Georgia, Maine, or Texas- ex

to get two good papers and a reliable time piece for almost nothing.

The Columbia Watch, for the kind, is first class in every respect. It combines in a small movement all the advatages of a first-class chronometer. It has the best clock movement, with spring in a band, steel pinion, clean, free train and is an A 1 time keeper, Thousands have tested them, and we have many testimonials of their worth. It is 1 1-32 inches in thickness and 2 3-8 inches in diameter. It is just what thousands of boys, and men too, all over the country have been aching to posess. It is such a watch as a wakingman has been wishing to take the factory, to the shop, to the mill, or to any place where a valuable watch is liable to suffer from wear or exposure. Address

The reunion at the old Roper place on Aug. 1st. was a success. The morning was warm and beatiful, the grand old oaks of Father Ropers own planting and the one which was there prior to his coming seemed to wave a kind of welcome to all who came, old men who have seen many crowds said that there was between 4, and 5, hundred, on the ground and it was the most pleasant crowd we have seen in many years, every one seemed to come with a smile and there was a greeting among them of the warmest style, every one seemed to recognize that it was a solemn occasion. There was less political chat among that assembly than has been in any crowd of the same number, just before an election in many years. The motto of welcome to all, and the wreaths of evergreens and beautiful flowers which adorned the house showed the feeling of respect that the young ladies of the surrounding country had for the old people who are dead and gone, and for the relatives of the same. Rev. N. A. Dobbs, gave us an interesting lecture showing forth the noble qualities possessed by the deceased mother in Isreal and in working the blessings of God upon his posterity.

Then the good people brought forth their baskets of good things which were spread upon the table and enjoyed by all. Then Father Dobbs with a class of singers gave to the enjoyment of the listeners some of the best vocal music we have heard in a long time. There was a feature about this dinner that is not common at such places, (to wit,) tramps, and deadbeats, were scarce, indeed the crowd was formed of the best people of the country, in fact, the back bone and sinew of the neighborhood, there was a representative from nearly every family except some who were kept away by sickness.

Mr. Editor,

Permit me through the columns of your paper to cal the attention of the good people of Chilton County to a case of real distress, The woman Sarah Willis or as she is commonly called Sal Boggs, is tramping the road between Mt Creek and this place four little children and an infant born by the wayside not four weeks since, a girl not ever 8, carrying another child of two in her tiny arms, both half clad without shoes or hats, the little boy about 5 years old has the face of an old man, these children are starving physically and morally in a christian land, among our wise legislation surely there must be protection for the helpless beings, such mothers should not be allowed to make children the companions of their wanderings and degrations. God help the child who has no childhood joys.

What Women's Extravagance Does.

It is always amusing to hear men complain of the extravagance of women, when, if it were not for this so-called extravagance, manufacturers, jewelers, merchants, importers, dress-makers, furriers and milliners would have to go out of the business. It takes an army of trained artisans to get one great lady ready for a ball. When she is dressed from the tip of her satin slippers to the topmost diamond in her tiara, she is the product of a dozen artistic trades and represents some of the mightiest interests in commerce. It was the demand of the fine things of all women's adorning as well as the sacrifice of one woman's ornaments that led to the discovery of the new world. Extravagance in dress is only extravagance when women spend for their dress out of proportion to their own or their husband's incomes. The woman of wealth ought to spend of her abundance in every direction. Comparatively speaking the poor are a great deal more extravagant than the rich.—Boston Beacon.

What They Say.

These are a few sample statements about Dr. King's Royal Germetuer from people who have tried it thoroughly: Mrs. E. J. Magee, Uno, Hart Co., Ky.: "Used it in my family six years; one of the best medicines known." J. C. Isbell, Temple, Tex.: "Most efficient family medicine for all purposes." Jos. E. McKee, Monk, Ga.: "Great remedy; nothing like it, or equal to it." Rev. R. H. Rivers, D. D., Louisville, Ky.: "Greatest of all remedies."

"A Practical Age"

Is a fit epithet for the present age. "Of what use is it?" and "How soon will I get my money out of it?" are questions always asked before making an investment of any kind. Bright, intelligent young ladies no longer spend their time in acquiring useless accomplishments. Parents who wish to render their children independent, cannot do a wiser thing than give them a course in shorthand and typewriting. For young ladies it is a genteel and pleasant work, and for young men it is often the stepping stone to a higher business position. For terms, etc., in the best, most thorough and complete school in the South, write Miss McNutt's School of Stenography & Typewriting, 137 and 139 S. B. & L. Assn. Bldg., Wall St., Knoxville, Tenn.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

CONDENSED FROM OUR MOST IMPORTANT DISPATCHES.

Short and Crisp Items of General Interest to Our Readers.

There were seventy-nine fresh cases of cholera at St. Petersburg Sunday and forty-nine deaths. The epidemic is abating somewhat.

The Michigan republican state convention met at Grand Rapids with 929 delegates in attendance and 5,000 people in the audience. Governor Rich was renominated on the first ballot.

It is officially announced that in consequence of the prevalence of cholera the mobilising of the reserves and the customary autumn military maneuvers in the vicinity of St. Petersburg, Russia, will not take place this year.

A special of Sunday from Wausaw, Wis., says: News from the country is to the effect that forest fires are running in all directions, and destroying much property. All day long the sun has been obscured by dense smoke, but this city is in no immediate danger.

Twenty-five hundred men went to work at the Illinois Steel company's plant at Chicago Monday. The works have been close down since the railroad strike began. One thousand more workmen will be given employment by this company before the end of the week.

Pawnee Bill's wild west show, which has been at Antwerp, Belgium, since the exhibition opened, was seized Monday for debt. The cowboys were watching for the bailiffs and fled when the first officer appeared. Most of them took the first train that would carry them over the frontier.

The Italian government has received information from Africa that a battle was fought Tuesday between a force of Mahdists 300 strong and a detachment of Italian troops near Kassala. The Mahdists were defeated and the Italians took possession of Kassala, which they occupy. The Italian loss was slight.

The Chinese embassy at London has received no confirmation of the report of a naval engagement on the 30th ultimo. Some of the dispatches reporting the engagement are dated Tien-Tsin, via Shanghai. The embassy officials say that telegraphic communication with Tien-Tsin is interrupted.

J. B. Sutler, a well-known man of Little Rock, Ark., for many years a banker, Sunday school superintendent, populist leader and editor, is said to be a defaulter to the state board of missions of the Little Rock conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, of which he was assistant treasurer. The exact amount of his shortage is not known.

The strike at Gladstone, Mich., in which 400 men were involved, has practically come to an end. A majority of the men applied for work and signed contracts with the railroad companies and renounced their membership in the American Railway union. Ore shipments have been resumed, and there will be a rush of business in the grain and coal trades from that point.

A London cable dispatch says: Lord Winchelsea, presiding at a meeting of the agricultural union, said that 165 parliamentary candidates in the coming general election were pledged to support the union and that 65 others partly supported the organization. This, he said, promised a strong party in the house of commons, independent of ordinary party lines and caring solely for the farming interests.

Notices were served Monday by Samuel B. Foster, attorney in fact for several railroads, of damages claimed against the city of Chicago and the county of Cook for loss of property during the American Railway Union strike. The notices were served on the mayor, city clerk, the corporation counsel, the city attorney and on the president of the county board, the county clerk and the county attorney.

The members of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association say that the recent meetings have resulted in securing a most satisfactory agreement for the maintenance of rates. The essential feature is the provision that when any line has evidence that a company is giving a rebate or cutting rates, it can, on presentation of evidence to the commissioner, demand a general reduction in the rates, all round, to meet the case.

A cable dispatch from Shanghai says: The statement that war has been declared between Japan and China is generally accepted here as correct. A Japanese victory, wherein a Chinese transport was sunk, was gained Wednesday. The Chinese loss of life was very great. The Chinese transport sunk belonged to the fleet of eleven steamers which sailed from Taku, Friday, July 20th, with 12,000 troops.

Proceedings against Debs et al., in the United States circuit court at Chicago Saturday, under the bill filed July 2d, in behalf of railroads represented in the General Managers' Association, were brought to a sudden and temporary close by an order from Judge Woods. Debs and others appealed from the chancery proceedings to the United States circuit court of appeals, in which proceedings in the injunction was issued by Judges Woods and Grosscup. The appeal has been granted and Judge Woods' order checks further movements, but does not interfere in any way with the matters of contempt.

CHINA BUYING PROVISIONS.

The Government Making Preparation for an Extensive War.

Advices from London state that English vessels now in port unable to secure charters will be loaded with flour at the owners' risk and sent to China. An order has been placed with a canning company for 15,000 tons of canned beef, for the same market. The Rio Janeiro, which sailed a few days ago, took out a large cargo of flour, as did the two preceding steamers. Chinese merchants admit that their country is stocking up with provisions.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

William Eggert and Conrad Eggert, composing the firm of William Eggert & Co., tobacco merchants at New York, assigned to Theodore Rohrberg, with preferences aggregating $45,000.

An immense warehouse at Hamburg, Germany, containing stores of cotton, wine, piece goods, furs and feathers, has been destroyed by fire. The loss will largely exceed a million marks.

Advices from Corea say the Japanese are preparing to withdraw a part of their troops from Seoul, and reinforce their army in front of Yasham with a view of renewing their attacks upon that place.

A Chattanooga dispatch says: The American Protective Association has issued a circular condemning County Judge Whiteside, candidate for reelection, and L. J. Sharp, democratic candidate for sheriff. The Association is fighting them bitterly.

Judge Joseph Holt, who was judge advocate general of the army, and at one time acted as secretary of war, died at his residence in Washington City Wednesday. His death was due indirectly to a fall sustained a few days ago, but to which he paid little attention.

The first district congressional convention of Texas met at Houston Wednesday and renominated J. C. Hutcheson, to succeed himself. Ben Campbell, Hutcheson's law partner, bitterly opposed the resolutions endorsing Cleveland but despite Hutcheson's hatred of Cleveland, a qualified endorsement of the administration was passed.

The Russian newspapers are unanimous in saying that, whatever the result of the war between China and Japan, Russia will not tolerate any diminution of Corean territory nor alienation of Corean independence. Russia, it is declared, will not permit any interference upon the part of Great Britain or any other power, if such interference endangers Russian interests.

A dispatch from Hallettsville, Texas, says: The tenth congressional district convention is hopelessly deadlocked. Seven hundred and two ballots have been taken and all are the same—Gresham, the present congressman, 30; Lane, 23. Both sides say they will give way to no dark horse. Lane's faction wants the candidates to go before the people again in primaries. Cleveland will be almost unanimously endorsed.

The Iowa democratic state convention met at Des Moines and nominated the following ticket by acclamation: Secretary of state, H. F. Dale, of Polk; auditor, John W. Bitfield, of Guthrie; treasurer, L. W. White, of Wayne; supreme judges, long term, John Cleggert, of Cerri Gordo; short term, Edward W. Mitchell, of Fremont; attorney-general, J. D. F. Smith, of Cherokee; railroad commissioner, W. L. Parker, of Oseola.

The executive committee of the Southern Interstate and Industrial and Immigration Association met at Chattanooga Wednesday. There was a fair attendance of the members representing all the southern states, and, also, there were a number of prominent railroad men present representing the leading roads of the south and west. A constitution and by-laws was adopted, and there was a general interchange of ideas on immigration.

Vice President Wickes, of the Pullman company, announces that the works will be started up at once. Mr. Wickes said that about 800 men have promised to return to work, and the repair department and one or two others will be opened, and the official expects to have the entire plant in full blast within a short time. Applications have been received from about 1,000 of the old employes. This number includes 600 special policemen, who have been guarding the works.

The notice of the federal clerk of the Indianapolis courts to the various railroad companies in Indiana to appear and pay the costs of the several injunctions issued at their demand against the strikers, has developed the fact that the roads intend to resist the payment of the costs. They would be charged for copies of restraining orders, but say that these were part of a proceeding for the benefit and protection of the United States, and that no part of the expense can be lawfully charged to them.

The North Carolina populist state convention met at Raleigh Wednesday, about four hundred delegates being present. It was called to order by Marion Butler, president of the National Farmers' Alliance. The platform adopted unanimously declares for free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. It denounces the repeal of silver coinage, reaffirming the state and national populist platforms, denounces the refusal to use the silver as well as gold dollars, favors the abolition of national banks and the issue of treasury notes.

THE GOLD IS MISSING.

A Keg Containing $50,000 Mysteriously Disappears.

A dispatch received in Wall street, New York, Tuesday, from Paris, reported the loss of a keg containing $50,000 in gold, which was part of an amount of $2,500,000, shipped from New York on La Touraine July 21st. The firms shipping the gold that day were Lazard & Frerer, $2,000,000, and Heidelbeck, Ickleheimer & Co., $500,000. According to the dispatch the gold was taken from the $2,000,000 lot, as only thirty-nine kegs, each containing $50,000, reached Paris on that consignment. The gold is suspected to have been lost or stolen between Havre and Paris.

Movement of Specie.

Exports of specie from the port of New York for the past week were $5,984,081, of which $5,814,040 were gold, and $550,041 silver. Of these amounts $5,300,000 gold and $338,734 silver went to Europe and $514,040 gold and $16,947 silver to South America. For the corresponding week of 1893 the exports were $701,040.

Report of Business for the Past Week by Dun & Co.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for the past week says: "The heavy outgo of gold, the fall of the treasury reserve and the price of wheat to the lowest point on record and the increasing uncertainty about the tariff have entirely overshadowed other influences. In some branches there has been more activity, but in others less, because events early this week led many to infer that no change of tariff would be made. The internal revenue receipts on whiskey suddenly dropped more than half, and sales of wool greatly increased. But the uncertainty is not removed, and much of the business done seems to be in the nature of insurance against possibilities. All the year it has been argued that gold exports have practically ended, but the outgo this week has been $5,300,000, making the net outgo for the month about $10,000,000. Of all explanations given only one fits the facts. With wheat at the lowest point ever known and moving from the farms very freely, while imports are still restricted by doubts about future duties, gold could not go out if there were the ordinary confidence in the future of enterprises here. But much was done to prevent that confidence by legislation hostile to lenders in western and southern states, and many millions have doubtless been called in by foreign loan companies and taken away. Still more has been done by the strikers, the depression of manufactures, the loss of railroad earnings, and the rapid decrease of treasury balances. Textile industries have been perceptibly stimulated, according to dealers, by disagreements which many suppose may prevent a change of the tariff, and there has been more buying of cotton goods, with slightly higher prices for a few, notwithstanding the close of some important mills. The stock of such goods is, on the whole, quite large.

"In woolens, the goods famine which clothiers prepared for themselves by deferring orders, is such that imperative necessities now keep most of the mills at work, and purchases of wool for immediate use are large. But there is no chance for the better as respects orders running into the future, and, indeed, some concerns have withdrawn spring samples on which very low prices had been fixed and make no effort for trade at present. Sales of wool have been greatly swelled by speculation in the belief that wool is not likely to decline in any event, but may advance sharply if tariff changes fail.

"Failures for three weeks of July compare well, of course, with the panic period last year, commercial liabilities being $6,317,696, of which $3,588,938 were of manufacturing and $2,483,011 of trading concerns. Commercial loans are expanding but little, and great caution still maintains soundness. For the week the failures have been 249 in the United States, against 386 last year, and 39 in Canada, against 23 last year.

A WHOLE TOWN DESTROYED.

The City of Phillips, Wis., Wiped Out by Forest Fires.

Thirty-nine buildings out of seven hundred stand amid smoke and ashes on the site of what was a few days ago the flourishing city of Phillips, the county seat of Prince county, Wisconsin, and one of the wealthiest and most prosperous of all the towns in the timber regions of the state, and 3,000 persons are homeless and except those who have been offered shelter in the neighboring towns, whose people will themselves pass a sleepless night through the fear that the fierce fires raging in the forests on all sides will sweep away their homes at any hour. At least thirteen persons are known to have lost their lives. All the dead were drowned in Elk Lake while trying to escape from the fire, except an unknown man, whose body was found in the ruins of the house of F. W. Sackett, editor of the Phillips Times.

The property loss can not at this time be accurately estimated, but it will reach at least $1,250,000. The immense plant of the John R. Davis Lumber company is a total loss, amounting to between $500,000 and $600,000. On this property there is an insurance equal to at least four-fifths of the value of the plant. Of the rest of the city about half of the property was insured. Many of the poorer people carried no insurance on their homes, and they have lost everything.

There were many fine business blocks and private residences in the city, and every one was burned to the ground. Many of the residences cost upward of $3,000 and were handsome for a city of this size.

WAR FORMALLY DECLARED.

Japan Apologizes to England for Destroying One of Her Ships.

The Exchange Telegraph company, at London, says that war between China and Japan was formally declared at noon Wednesday by Japan. The Japanese minister informed the earl of Kimberly, secretary of state for foreign affairs, that a state of war existed between China and Japan. Lord Kimberly, immediately upon receipt of the notice from the Japanese government that war had been declared, wired all the British representatives abroad to warn the captains of merchant ships of the fact in order that they might form their cargoes and act accordingly. Any contraband of war comprised in cargoes will be handled at the risk of owners or charterers of the vessels. The Japanese government has instructed its minister in London to apologize to Great Britain for firing upon and sinking the transport Kow Shung, while she was flying the British flag, and to inform Great Britain that the commander of the Japanese cruiser did not know the Kow Shung was a British vessel until after the fight.

Wellman's Expedition Safe.

Carl Siewer, the Norwegian arctic enthusiast of London, has received a telegram from the captain of the Erling, a Norwegian sealer, which arrived at the island of Tromk, reporting that he had seen the Ragnvold Jarl in latitude 64, north, and all were well on board. The Ragnvold Jarl was then free of the pack ice and should now be well on her way to the north pole.

SOUTHERN SPECIALS

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Mayo college, the leading educational institution of northeast Texas, at Cooper, Delta county, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. Loss is $100,000. The cause is supposed to be incendiarism.

The fifth annual convention of the League of Southern Building and Loan Associations adjourned at Chattanooga Friday evening. The league was in session four days at Lookout mountain and was the most largely attended convention yet held.

The North Carolina Steel and Iron Company's property at Greensboro has been purchased by a syndicate, represented by Gov. Black, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. A. A. Arthur, of Tennessee. It will hereafter be known as the Greensboro Iron and Steel Company.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: Monday Eugene B. Gary succeeded Associate Justice Samuel McGowan, making the composition of the supreme court two Tillmanites and one "conservative." In view of this change the Tillman administration has already begun steps to test the constitutionality of the dispensary act of 1893.

Cotton men say that the Texas crop will average ten days earlier than last season, and that the Texas commercial crop, which includes the Indian Territory cotton, will be 2,500,000 bales. Up to date Houston has received 100 bales of new cotton, and Saturday Inman & Co. purchased at different points 250 bales of this year's crop.

Several prominent farmers around Bridgeport, in Jackson county, Ala., have been notified that a new and peculiar boycott is about to be placed on them. Hickory switches, accompanied by notices, to different farmers have been left at convenient places where they might reach the party to whom addressed.

Naval stores factors, at Savannah, Ga., who have been holding spirits of turpentine until the market could be put at figures which would at least equal the cost of production have combined with some large buyer, whose name is at present withheld, and a sale of 25,000 barrels is reported to have been made a day or two ago at 28 cents a gallon. This fixes the market price.

Receiver Comer has returned from New York. He says that little progress has been made on the Central's reorganization plan, as the heat has driven all the financiers and lawyers out of the city and up to the mountains or the seashore. He positively denies all reports that the Southern railway is to control the Central and reiterates his statement that it is to be operated as an independent line.

A Knoxville, Tenn., dispatch says: C. A. Benscoter has been appointed assistant general passenger agent of the Southern railway, in charge of the western system. Mr. Benscoter came to Knoxville from Pennsylvania in 1886 as chief rate clerk in the office of Colonel Wrenn. He was afterwards made assistant to general passenger agent, and then division passenger agent without change of duties.

At Macon, Ga., Judge Speer signed the consent decree for the sale of the Macon and Northern road. The only particular in which he changed the consent decree was in reference to the minimum price. The decree, as drawn by the lawyers, fixed $250,000 as the minimum price, but Judge Speer changed this and fixed the minimum price at $1,070,000. The sale will take place on the first Tuesday in October next.

The railway commissioners of North Carolina at a meeting in Raleigh, assessed the North Carolina railway for taxation, fixing the value at $1,810,000, the same as last year. This is on its capital stock and property. Its road bed is as yet exempt from taxation. The commission turned over to the state treasurer its assessment of all railway, steamship and telegraph property, the amount being $24,500,000.

The shortage of General W. S. Ferguson, ex-secretary and treasurer of the Mississippi levee board, the insolvency of his bondsmen, his absence with no apparent effort to secure his return, the heavy taxes imposed for levee purposes and the large indebtedness of the board, have prompted the taxpayers to call a convention, to be held in Greenville, August 15th. Delegates from every precinct in the four counties comprising the Mississippi levee district are invited to attend.

WILL PAY COUPONS.

Announcement by the Southern Railway Company.

The receivers of the Georgia Pacific Railroad Company at New York announce that the coupons from the 5 per cent equipment bonds of the company due August 1st, will be paid at the Central Trust Company.

The Southern Railway Company announces that the coupons from the first mortgage 4 per cent bonds of the Washington, Ohio and Western Railroad Company, due August 1st, will be paid at the office of Drexel, Morgan & Co.

Also, at the same time and place, the coupons, due July 1st, on the consolidated mortgage 6 per cent bonds of the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company with interest thereon to August 1st.

The New Cable Finished.

The final splice of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company's new cable was made at Heart's Content, Newfoundland, at 11 o'clock Friday morning, Greenwich time, and the laying of the largest cable across the Atlantic was then successfully completed.

A Scorching Wave.

Saturday was the hottest day New York city has experienced in thirteen years. The record is held by 1881, when one day in July the mercury got up to 100 degrees. At 1 o'clock Saturday the heat reached 104 degrees.

The Local Paper's Power.

The immense power a local newspaper possesses in attracting trade to the town in which it is published or diverting it into other channels can hardly be estimated. Further, it is a matter that it is seldom considered as an important factor in a town's prosperity for the simple reason that business men do not give it thought. He who will impartially consider this assertion will be convinced of the truth of it. The local paper is naturally biased in favor of the place of its publication and if given a fair living patronage by home business men will guard well their interests, just as the merchant guards the interests of his individual customer. But if a niggardly support is doled out to it, and it is compelled to solicit custom from neighboring cities, it cannot in justice to these patrons exert itself in behalf of its own town as it otherwise would. Try a system of liberality in the matter of advertising expenditure and mark the result.—Slatington (Penn.) News.

The Discovery of Glass.

There is little or nothing known with certainty in regard to the invention or discovery of glass. Some of the oldest specimens are Egyptian, and the age of certain glass vessels made by that people which are now kept in the British museum is believed to be at least 4,194 years, dating back to the year 2300 B. C. Transparent glass was first used about 750 B. C.; the credit of this last discovery being given to the Phoenicians. The old story of its accidental discovery is familiar: Merchants who were resting their cooking pots on blocks of subcarbonate of soda found glass produced by the union, under heat, of the alkali and the sands of the desert.—Ex.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

"Well, that's all wrong," said the Mayor of the town, as he placed two revolvers in his hip pockets and started toward the door. "You just wait awhile. It ain't never goin' to be said that Rock Gulch went back on its duty to a poor man, you bet on that."—Chicago Record.

WEATHER-WISE.

"Henry, what are you muttering about?" inquired Mrs. Spodunk, as her husband got up from the breakfast table with paper in hand and looked anxiously out of the window.

"I was talking to myself about the prevaricator that makes the weather predictions," replied Henry, as he read the prognostications: "The weather to-day will be fair and warmer."

Then Spodunk put on his rubbers, his gum overcoat, gripped his umbrella firmly and sailed out into the rain, which alike fell on those who do and those who do not put their faith in the almanac and weather man.—Philadelphia Call.

DEMANDING HIS RIGHTS.

"Prisoner," said the Judge, "have you any counsel?"

"I haven't, your Honor," answered the man on trial for stealing a ham. "I haven't got any money."

"Then the Court will appoint Mr. Leggy to defend you."

The prisoner looked at the skinny, squint-eyed, stoop-shouldered pettifogger pointed out by the Court, and rose to enter a protest.

"Judge," he said, "I'm entitled, accordin' to law, to a trial by a jury of my peers, ain't I?"

"You are," replied the Court.

"Then, your Honor," rejoined the prisoner, drawing a shiny coat sleeve across his nose, "I think I ort to have a lawyer of the same kind."—Chicago Tribune.

A MUTUAL SURPRISE.

They were sitting on the sofa in the first sweet rapture that follows the confession of a mutual and undying rogard.

Her head was on his shoulder. Her right hand lay tenderly clasped in his. His left arm encircled her waist and their lips met at frequent intervals.

The breast of the maiden was filled with flutterings of intense happiness; with the joy of an ambition gratified; of a goal attained. For had she not brought him to the point at last!

Nevertheless she said shyly, while intermittent little blushes chased themselves over her fair young face:

"Oh, Charlie, this is such a surprise. When you began to speak I hadn't the slightest idea that you were going to say—to say that, you know."

"No," replied Charlie, with direct and unnecessary frankness. "By Jove! Neither had I!"—Life.

HARD TIMES PASSED HIM BY.

He was the only tenant of the big office building who was apparently not affected by the stringency in the money market. While the others ran here and there with gloomy faces he sauntered along with a cigar in his mouth and a bright smile for every one. Finally some one asked him if he had not found money very close.

"Haven't noticed it," he said pleasantly. "I've heard some talk of it, but it hasn't affected me."

"Haven't you felt it at all?" inquired the other in surprise.

"Not in the least. The fact is, I suppose, I was prepared for it."

"Oh, you saw it coming, did you, and got under cover?"

"No-o; not exactly. But it really amounts to the same thing. I exhausted my credit some months ago, and it really makes no difference to me whether money is close or easy. That makes me a little better off than the rest of you just now."—Chicago Tribune.

HALLS OF CONGRESS

DAILY PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE.

What Our National Law-Makers are Doing for the Country.

The house was in session five hours Friday afternoon, and the net result was the passage of a bill directing the payment of $10,000 to Representative Heard, of Missouri, for legal services to the old settlers, or western Cherokee Indians, out of their funds in the treasury, and of a bill providing for payment of about $40,000 of 8 per cent. District of Columbia greenback certificates. The conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to and a conference was ordered on the sundry civil appropriation bill; also upon the bill regulating the printing and publication of public documents. Mr. Blair, republican, of New Hampshire, introduced a joint resolution directing an investigation by the department of labor into the lynchings of the past ten years, the cause thereof, etc., which was referred to the committee on labor. The last two hours of the afternoon session were devoted to the consideration of bills to reclassify and regulate the salaries of clerks in the railway postal service and in first and second class postoffices, but no action was taken on either of them. The house voted to adjourn over until Monday. At 5 o'clock, under the rules, the house took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening session to be devoted to the consideration of private pension bills. At the evening session nine private pension bills were reported with favorable recommendation, and at 10 o'clock p. m. the house adjourned until noon Monday.

The house, Monday, voted to nonconcur in the senate amendments to the general deficiency bill, and asked a conference thereon. On motion of Mr. Catchings, of Mississippi, the senate was requested to return the conference report on the river and harbor bill, in which an error was discovered, a sheet of it having disappeared. Mr. Paynter, of Kentucky, announced that owing to the enforced absence of Mr. Woodward, of North Carolina, who made the report for the minority in the contested election case of Williams vs. Settle, from the fifth North Carolina district in favor of Williams, and which had been set for consideration during the day, it has been agreed that the case should go over until next session.

In the house, Tuesday, the senate amendments were agreed to the bills to subject greenbacks and national bank notes to state taxation and to amend sections 2,401 and 2,408 of the revised Statutes relating to the survey of public lands: also for the protection of persons furnishing labor and material in the construction of buildings. A concurrent resolution was agreed to directing the secretary of the interior to suspend the opening to settlement of the Anadonda reservation in Florida. A senate bill was passed to amend the quarantine act of 1892, by relieving excursion boats, plying between Canadian and United States ports, from its operations.

The house Wednesday passed, by unanimous consent, a bill to pay B. D. Greene, secretary for George E. Ward, $1,900 for government work done on the Rappahannock river, Virginia. Immediately afterwards Mr. Catchings, from the committee on rules, reported a special order setting aside the day for the consideration of bills from the committee on public buildings and grounds, and Thursday for business from the committee on claims. The special order was adopted.

THE SENATE.

The last of the appropriation bills, the general deficiency, passed the senate Friday and will now go to a conference, in which the disagreeing votes of the two houses will be reconciled and adjusted. Seven out of the fourteen appropriation bills have already become law through the signature of the president. These are the fortifications, the pensions, the military academy, the naval academy, the postoffice, the diplomatic and the legislative. The other seven are some of them in the president's hands awaiting approval and the remainder in conference. The house bills for the admission of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona as states were reported from the committee on territories and placed on the calendar, from which they may be taken at any time and passed. The conference report on the river and harbor bill was presented and went over until Saturday. After a short executive session the senate adjourned.

There would have been no session of the senate Saturday but for the fact that there had been an earnest desire expressed on Friday evening to have action on the conference report on the river and harbor bill. It was discovered, however, that technical errors had crept into the report, or into the bill, and that it was necessary to send the whole matter back to the conference committee; and so the report was withdrawn for that purpose. The absence of any important business pressing for action furnished an opportunity, the first time this session, of taking up the calendar and disposing of all private pension bills on it. There was one rather important bill passed, with very little discussion and with no opposition. That was the house bill to subject to state taxation national bank notes and United States treasury notes. A few amendments of form rather than of substance were made to the bill.

The bill introduced by Davis Friday, declaring options and futures and imposing special taxes thereon, was at his request read the second time in the senate, Monday morning, and laid on the table. Mr. Mills offered a resolution declaring that in the framing of national taxation, these three principles should be observed: That all taxes are burdens and can only be rightfully imposed to raise a revenue for the support of the government; that when taxes are imposed on imported goods, the rates should be so low as not to materially restrict the importation of an article; and that in selecting articles to be taxed, only those ready for consumption should be chosen, and that all those imported for manufacture or re-manufacture, should be exempt from duty. It was laid on the table temporarily at Mills' request, Mills saying he would call it up in a few days and make some remarks upon it. The Chandler resolution for inquiry into the facts connected with the organization and history of the Dominion Coal Company, of Novia Scotia, was taken up.

After an hour's debate in the senate Tuesday morning, on the claim of one Leathers, for carrying the United States mail on the Mississippi river before the war, the matter went over until Wednesday and the senate took up the conference report on the District of Columbia Omnibus Street Railway bill and at 2:05 adjourned.

TRADE IMPROVES.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's Business Review of the past week says:

"While little significance is attached to the moderate improvement in trade at San Francisco, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Augusta and Atlanta; when it is added that clearing house totals for July report twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than in July last year, contrasted with the June report, which contains only eighteen cities with aggregates larger than those in June a year ago, it is perceived that there are influences at work at the interior favoring an increase in the volume of business. Wool remains steady at last week's 1 cent advance, speculation having been stimulated by differences of opinion as to the tariff outlook for that staple. Wheat has advanced, in sympathy with corn, on increased orders and reports of crop damage from abroad, while corn's sharp advance is due partly to exaggerated notions of damage from drought. There is little likelihood of the corn crop being smaller than in either of the two preceding years, notwithstanding our advices of 25 per cent damage in Kansas and 40 per cent in Nebraska. Southern crop prospects generally are excellent.

"The improvement announced in the general trade at San Francisco is in part based on the interest manifested in the war in Asia, provision dealers particularly anticipating largely increased trade.

"War between China and Japan has not affected the price of tea here yet, though there is an increased demand noted at New York, Boston and Chicago. Cable advices are that crops of tea are likely to equal those of last year. Teas are low now, and stocks here moderate. If tea ports should be closed high prices would follow quickly. China exports but little rice, and Japan's rice export season has passed, while we are entering upon a new crop. Prices of rice would probably be sharply affected should the war continue another season. They may be moderately enhanced in any event.

"Added interest in wool has characterized the Philadelphia as well as Boston markets. Slight increases in the demand in nearly all leading lines are reported from Pittsburg, and at Baltimore jobbers in dry goods, notions, hats and shoes report business more encouraging. Providence jewelry manufacturers report orders very small and the outlook not promising.

"Advices from southern cities report moderate gains and fair prospects for the fall at Memphis, no improvement in Charleston, the trade selling cautiously at Savannah, and business quiet at Jacksonville, where collections are slow. There is an improvement in the volume of business at Augusta, and jobbers at Atlanta are filling orders more freely, owing to good crop prospects. Nashville, too, announces an improved outlook. Chattanooga's July trade is reported larger than for June, but at Birmingham business is quiet and collections unimproved. Trade has been slack at New Orleans, but the boot and shoe business is improving and manufacturers are busy. Advices from Galveston and other points in Texas continue to report improvement."

DIVIDENDS GONE GLIMMERING.

None Will be Declared This Year by the N., C. & St. L.

The following notice was sent to the stockholders of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway:

"At a meeting of the board of directors, held at Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday, August 1, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, by the board of directors of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, That, owing to the general depression in business and loss of revenue on account of the strike, it is not deemed advisable to declare the usual August dividends.

"Signed: J. W. Thomas, president; J. H. Ambrose, secretary."

Dentists' National Association.

The National Association of Dentists, which held its meeting last year in Chicago, was called to order at Fort Monroe, Va., Tuesday morning. About 300 were present. Dr. J. D. Patterson, of Kansas City, the president of the association, read his address, which was referred to a committee. Reports of committees and routine business were then the order.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

The senate Saturday confirmed the nomination of John H. Martin, postmaster at Ocala, Fla.

Dr. Irwin reports cholera at Marseilles; and Consul Hyatt cables intelligence of yellow fever at Santiago, Cuba.

The marine hospital service is in receipt of a cablegram from Consul Requa, at Rotterdam, who reports one case of cholera at that port on a foreign vessel, bound for Germany.

The senate has passed the bill to further encourage the holding of a world's exposition at Atlanta, Ga., in 1895, admitting free of duties articles from foreign countries for exhibition purposes and providing for medals.

The gold reserve was further reduced Monday by the engagement for export of $500,000. This leaves the reserve stand at $52,026,615. Gold to the amount of $200,000 was gained in ordinary business in the east, but this normal gain is being duly wiped out by the continued abnormal export movement to Europe. The balance, which includes the gold reserve, is stated at $119,177,006.

The president, Monday, nominated Amos M. Thayer, of Missouri, to be United States circuit judge for the eighth judical circuit, as provided July 23, 1894; James D. Porter, of Tennessee, to be United States district judge for the eastern and middle districts of Tennessee, vice D. M. Key, resigned; H. S. Priest, of Missouri, to be United States district judge for the eastern district of Missouri.

The house democratic caucus of Tuesday afternoon adjourned after deciding that the house conferees on the tariff bill should not be embarrassed by instructions of any character from their democratic associates. This action was disappointing to the promoters of the caucus. Mr. Holman presided. The roll call disclosed the presence of 168 members, an unusually large number.

The "tomorrow" upon which the tariff conferees have been for some weeks promising an agreement at last gives promise of fulfillment. When the tariff conferees adjourned at a few minutes before 6 o'clock Wednesday it was with the understanding that at the session Thursday morning all the details should be arranged and the republicans called in the afternoon and informed of what their democratic colleagues had done.

Acting under instructions from the executive committee of the board of foreign missions of the Southern Presbyterian church, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Bachman, its representative at Washington, called on Secretary Gresham and the Japanese charge to ask that measures be taken to protect the missionaries of the church in the east. Secretary Gresham told Mr. Bachman that he did not think there was any immediate danger to the missionaries, but that they would be protected.

A Washington special of Saturday says: Another week has passed and except for rumors the conference committees on the tariff are no nearer than when they entered the committee room. Speaker Crisp holds the key to the situation. It is he who is holding the senate at bay. The speaker wants a bill more after the order of the one the house framed and if it is possible to get it, it will be had. The house conferees may not win out, but they will not yield until the speaker is thoroughly convinced that the bill will be lost otherwise. He has not reached that conclusion yet. The senate is yielding by inches. It has proposed a sugar schedule which gives the trust a differential of about half what the senate bill gave it. The conferees were on this proposition all day Saturday. One of the conferees gave out the information that the last bar in the fence might be lowered at any time and the committee get together.

DARLINGTONITES ARRESTED.

Four of Them Charged with the Murder of Constable Pepper.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: The state has caused the arrest of twelve prominent citizens of Darlington for participation in the whiskey riot there last spring. The arrests were made by State Detective Newbold. Charles McCullough, Ira A. Norment, K. D. Lucas and Henry Appelt are charged with the murder of Constable Pepper. C. S. Nettles, Dr. J. C. Wilcox, W. C. Byrd, S. H. Wilde, C. S. McCullough, McIver Williamson, L. M. Norment and J. H. Edmunds were rearrested for shooting into a train in which the constables were. They all gave bond and the preliminary hearing will take place on the 14th instant. The attorney general says the cases will be pushed to the end.

STREET RAILROAD CONVENTION

It Will Meet On October 16th Next in the City of Atlanta.

Preparations are being made to receive the annual convention of the street railway men of the United States in Atlanta on October 16th next. It is probable that this convention of the men of urban transportation will be one of the largest ever assembled in the city. Speaking of the National Street Railway association the Street Railway Review said in its August number that every city in the United States, except two, that had a system, would be represented

THE ALABAMA ELECTION.

The Returns Slow on Account of the New Law—Kolb's Statement.

Alabama held her biennial state election Monday. The election was for a governor, a treasurer and auditor, a superintendent of education, a secretary of state, an attorney-general and a commissioner of agriculture. A legislature was also elected which will chose a successor to United States Senator John T. Morgan, whose term will expire March 4th, 1895.

THE TWO TICKETS.

The democratic state ticket was made up as follows: For governor, William C. Oates, of Henry county; for secretary of state, James Kirkman Jackson, of Lauderdale county; for treasurer, J. Craig Smith, of Dallas county; for auditor, John Purifoy, of Wilcox county; for attorney-general, William C. Fitts, of Tuscaloosa county; for superintendent of education, John O. Turner, of St. Clair county; for commissioner of agriculture, Hector D. Lane, of Limestone county.

The Kolbites, or Jeffersonian democratic ticket, was as follows: For governor, Reuben F. Kolb; for secretary of state, J. C. Fonville; for treasurer, T. K. Jones; for auditor, W. T. B. Lynch; for attorney-general, Warren S. Reese; for commissioner of agriculture, S. M. Adams; for superintendent of education, J. P. Oliver.

When the polls closed an estimate of 25,000 majority was claimed for Oats for governor.

Associated press dispatches of Tuesday state that Oates and the democratic ticket made heavy gains all over the state, and his election is beyond any question and dispute. The senate will have at least eight democratic majority, and the house not less than ten.

The official vote will make Oates' majority as much as 35,000, and increased democratic strength in both branches of the legislature. The vote is short of that of 1892, by 40,000, or 50,000, on account of the new election law, tried for the first time. It is modeled on the Australian ballot system, and every voter must prepare his own ballot.

Later advices state that the returns are all favorable to an increased democratic majority. Oates carries by a good majority a number of counties Kolb carried in 1892. The latter makes few gains anywhere, and these are small. The democratic ticket is undoubtedly elected by double to triple Jones' majority in 1892. The lowest estimates put it at 25,000, while the indications are that it will go over 40,000. The legislature is safely democratic.

CAPTAIN KOLB'S STATEMENT.

Regarding the election, Captain Kolb has given out a statement to the press over his signature. Among other things he says:

"I have deferred making any statement to the public as to the result of the election until the reliable returns have been received upon which a just and proper statement could be made. Up to this hour, 10 p. m., sufficient returns have been received to show that I have carried forty out of fifty-one white counties, and that I have been elected with the entire state ticket by a majority of not less than 18,000. This majority I claim after giving to the opposition every white county which they have carried, without reference to fraudulent methods in the nature of intimidation and bulldozing in the absence of inspectors or fixers for our side.

"Any citizen of Alabama of ordinary intelligenge who will take the trouble to examine the figures as they are reported by the Associated Press, and claimed by the opposition, can at once see that it will be a physical impossibility for the ticket headed by Colonel Oates to be declared elected, except by claiming a majority of over 27,000 from seven black belt counties, having a white voting population not exceeding 12,000.

"The frauds of this year are more notorious and shameful than those of 1892. For the purpose of deceiving the public they have, to some extent, been shifted. The returns as reported from Lowndes county indicate frauds exceeding anything ever before known in the history of this state or any other state, and the record in that county is a disgrace to our civilization. In Montgomery, Bullock and Barbour the frauds are hardly less aggravated. The opposition claim Madison county by a majority of 1,443. There are hardly a dozen intelligent citizens in that county who do not know that our strength in Madison county this year is much more strongly developed than in 1892, when we carried the county by about 400 majority.

"The issue was made in 1892 and we submitted. It has again been made, and it now rests with the good people of this state to determine whether or not they will longer submit to a policy which sets aside the will of the people and destroys the form of republican institutions in this state and which, if persisted in, will surely end in deplorable consequences.

"Supported by the conservative, intelligent, industrious and honest element of this state, it has been our sincere desire to maintain and respect the law, and will still be our policy to advocate only those measures that will insure the perpetuation of republican institutions to the end that lawlessness may not prevail. The time has arrived, however, when the people of Alabama must decide for themselves."

A BRAVE ENGINEER.

Thwarts Train Robbers by Rushing Through an Obstruction.

Lake Shore express train No. 12, arriving from the west, pulled into the union station at Cleveland, O., Tuesday morning after having enjoyed a most thrilling experience on the plains of Indiana during the night. An attempt was made to hold up the train at Kessler, Indiana, upon the identical spot that the train was held up last fall. The train was fast approaching a split switch at Kessler when the engineer noticed that the switch was turned so as to run the train on the siding. A big obstruction of ties and lumber was piled upon the siding a few rods ahead of his engine. The obstruction did not appear to be impassable, and the engineer put on all the steam and dashed through the pile, passing safely on to the main line through the split switch at a high rate of speed.

As the train passed the obstruction the engineer noticed a group of masked men and as the engine cleared the track of all obstacles the would-be highwaymen fired several shots into the train, none of which, however, took effect.

The United States express car was attached to the train and had on board a large amount of money. It is thought that this was known to the desperadoes who attempted to hold up the train. Their disappointment in not carrying out their plans of stopping the train was evinced in their firing of shots when they saw that their plans had been foiled by the boldness of the engineer in dashing through the heap of ties upon the track.

MORE JAPANESE VICTORIES.

Great Britain and Russia Fail as Peacemakers.

Advices of Wednesday from Yokohoma, Japan, state that additional battles have been fought between the Japanese and Chinese, and the latter have been defeated. Seikioan has been taken by the Japanese with trifling loss. The Chinese in this engagement lost 500 killed. The enemy fled in the direction of Koshin. The Japanese are in possession of Yashan.

An imperial ordinance just issued permits Chinese to reside in Japan on condition that they engage in peaceful pursuits. The greatest excitement prevails at Yokohoma, at Tokio and at other towns, as a result of the victories of the Japanese troops. Rumors, however, are current that the Japanese naval forces have been defeated in an engagement with Chinese war ships.

THE PEACEMAKERS FAIL.

It is officially reported from Tien-Tsin that the efforts of Great Britain and Russia to bring about a peaceful settlement of the disputes between China and Japan have failed. China is willing to pay an indemnity, but she refuses to surrender her sovereignty over Corea. The Chinese government has closed the Amping and Takao light houses, on the island of Formosa.

REPUBLIC OF HAWAII

Officially Recognized by Uncle Sammuel.

A Washington special says: While Representative McCreary, of Kentucky was presiding over the committee of the whole in the house Wednesday afternoon he was notified that Secretary Gresham desired to see him in the speaker's room. When Mr. McCreary returned to the chair after his interview with the secretary he declined to say what had occurred, but it was subsequently learned that the secretary had notified him that the republic of Hawaii had been officially recognized by this government.

Our readers will be glad to know that Judge D. N. D. Denson, is improving from his late illness.

The Supreme Court has impeached Judge Tully for aiding in the killing of ol Ross. We regret this fact exceedingly. We have never known a more excellent gentleman than Judge Tully, our sympathies are with him.

Report has it that P. G. Bowman will move to Fort Payne and run for Congress against Col. Denson. Col. Denson so emphatically "toted his own skillet" that the Democrats of that district may let him continue to do his own "toting."

Judge Street, Kolbs champion in Marshall county, says that Kolb is beaten and ought to acknowledge it. So say hundreds of other level headed men. Many who did most valiant service for Kolb are tired of wrangling and want peace. They realize that he was fairly beaten by Col. Oates and are willing to do their best to make successful the administration of the winner. Good citizens will not encourage lawlessness. Skagg, Kolb and Bowman may be willing to have the people meet together and indignate, but the people are not going to do it.

The long agony over the passage of a tariff bill by Congress came to a sudden end yesterday. When it became everdent that influences were at work to kill the bill entirely if it ever reached the Senate again, the House very wisely accepted the Senate amendments in a lump. This ended all the chance of the Senate's undoing a work which has been in progress or nearly twelve months and and ought to have been finished six months ago. The industries of the country have been in a semi-paralyzed condition because of uncertainty as to what the tariff would be. It was in the power of Congress to have ended this doubt long ago.

While there was far greater demand on the part of the Democrats for the Wilson bill as it passed the House than for it after the Senate had amedded it in hundreds of particulars, still it is far better in its present shape that the existing McKinley bill. In many ways taxes are lowered and the people will at an early day feel the benefits to follow.

The House passed separate measures putting sugar, iron ore and coal on the free list.

"We hear from many communities in Chilton county that whiskey is being made and sold. And that parties make no hesitation in appearing beastly and boistrously drunk in public places. Not even sparing the church gatherings. The streets of our villages should always be free for our wives and daughters to travel without fear of coming in contact with drunken men. The law so intended and thus put a heavy penalty on those who are so lost to shame as to appear in public when intoxicated. Lately more than a dozen men and women have spoken to us concerning the condition of the morals of Clanton. Somebody surely sells whiskey in Clanton. Whether they have it shipped here in jugs, baskets, boxes or in trunks, or whether it comes in wagons covered with pine straw or in buggies, or the inside of saddle bags, or otherwise we cant say, but all the same it is sold or given away, and its effects are seen frequently. Citizens of Clanton and citizens from the country disgrace themselves and our town for no other reason than that they have taken too much liquor. The serious question we put to every law abiding man and woman is, shall this state of affairs continue? Shall we through cowardice fail to have prosecuted those who violate our laws? The real fact if rose itself upon the public that even boys of tender years are learning the habit of drink. Then let no father or mother dream that such things can continue and their homes and dear ones escape pollution. We must act and act as a unit. In behalf of the community we call upon the County Judge, the Sheriff and the Solicitor, who are specially charged with the preservation of peace, to [illegible] in this matter and [illegible] of no one above

A JOKE ON THE OLD MAN.

Savannah Press says: Col. Breckinridge is now serving his fifth term and intends to stay in it. He has a family of grown up children, three girls, one of whom is married, residing in Staunton, Va., and two boys one a lawyer, aiding in the defense of his father. The other named after his grandfather, R. J. Breckinridge, is of a wild disposition. Bob as he is known, got into frequent difficulties and figured in newspaper articles just before the breaking out of the Breckinridge-Pollard scandal. Bob got on a spree and had several fights. Col. Breckinridge telegraphed Desha from Washington to put him in jail and keep him there until he returned, which instruction he followed. It was decided to send Bob on a sea voyage and just as he was boarding a vessel at Sanfrancisco he read an account of his father's doings with Miss Pollard, and wired his brother, Desha: "Put the old man in jail and keep him there until I return, three years hence."

A SINGULAR DREAM.

In the midst of a revival in progress in the First Baptist church, Waco Texas, Rev. B. H. Carroll, the pastor was taken very ill. He relates that the night he was attacked, he dreamed that satan was about to shoot him, when the Lord appeared and forbade him shooting him elsewhere than in the foot. He awoke with a pain in that member, and told the singular dream to his wife. Morning disclosed a pimple on the instep. This proved to be erysipelas, that came near costing him his life. He called his leading members to his bedside and exacted a promise that the revival should be kept up. They were true to their promise, and the doctor is again on duty leading the fight on the old serpent, the devil, that shot him in the foot. In delerium his talk was about his unconverted sons. Another son jotted this down and mailed it to his brother in Austin, who had left Waco to avoid the meeting. The letter and the sermon the doctor had given the boy led to his conversion and an infidel companion's. He sent the letter and sermon to his brother in another city, and they were means of conversion. The two sons and the infidel companion came to Waco, united with the church and are now rejoicing in salvation.

Here, as the lamented Dr. J. S. Grasty was wont to say, is a concatenation of providences. Satan shot Dr. Carroll in the foot and disabled him in the midst of a great revival, and hoped to break up the meeting. It lead to the conversion of the doctor's wayward sons—a result dearest to his heart; he is up again, and with redoubled courage attacking the strongholds of the enemy. Verily, the devil is a poor general when the Lord commands the forces on the opposite side.—Southern Presbyterian.

WILD CATBILLS.

Congressional Record.

In his speech, Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, said:

I have before me three bills, introduced in this Congress by Populists, which I submit would, if enacted into law, do more harm to the people of the South than any measure ever proposed in Congress, unless we except the force bill and confiscation bills which were introduced soon after the war.

House Bill 3186 by Mr. Hudson, Populist provided—

That all pensioners for service in the Federal army and Navy during the war may receive at one payment ten times the annual amount of the pension.

This would cost the Government this year 1,500,000,000 dol.

House Bill 3436, by Mr Davis, Populist, from Kansas, provides—

That the mortgage debt of any mortgagor of real estate used as a home or for support, shall be paid by the United States where an appraisement board finds the estate to be worth the full amount of mortgage, and the debtor shall be allowed to redeem his property from the United States within 20 years by paying 1 per cent per annum.

It is estimated that this would enable persons to get money of the United States within 20 years by paying 1 per cent interest to an amount exceeding, 2,000,000,000, dollars.

The rich and influential owners of real estate in cities would be the first beneficiaries, and the Government would become bankrupt before the farmers could get any benefit from the act.

House Bill 3437, by Mr. Davis, Populist from Kansas, provides—

For granting a pension of 10 to 25 dollars per month to all old soldiers or sailors of the Union army & Navy in the late war, and also to widows and minors this to be in addition to disability pensions granted under the present laws.

The Commisioners of pensions estimates that this bill would increase our annual disbursments for pensions 460,000,000 dol. for the coming year.

House Bill 6767, by Mr. Davis Populist, from Kansas—

directs the immediate enlistment of 5000,000 men to be fed, clothed, paid and provided for the same as the regular army; said army to be employed on works of public improvement, canals, rivers, and harbors, irrigation works, public highways, etc.

As the present Army of 25,000 men costs over 23,700,000 dollars a year, the cost of simply the clothing, food, pay, and etc. of this proposed army of 500,000 men would probably exceed 474,000,000 dollars.

If these bills should go into effect it would require the disbursment this year by the United States Government of $4,434,000,000, dol. which is more than forty times the entire encome of United States, and as the entire amount of gold, silver and paper money circulation of the world is 10,037,000 the proposed expenditures this year by these four Populist bills would be onehalf greater than all the money of the world. And yet these bills are only a few of the many impractable measures which the Populists are prepared to have enacted into law.

The only possible way to raise this stupendous sum would be by a direct tax, and as the constitution provides that direct taxation be apportioned according to population the amount of Alabama would be required to pay this year would be 350,000,000. This would be about double the assessed value of all the property in the State. It is very clear that the passage and and enforcement of these bills would bring bankruptcy and ruin upon all the people of the south.

HIGHEST HONORS GIVEN

To Dr. Price's at the World's Fair. (Chicago Tribune.)

For leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the World's Fair Jury decided that Dr. Prices Baking Powder had no equal. On each of its claims it was awarded a first prize or a diploma. All the Baking Powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive examination, and the jury was the best equipped to make the decision of any ever gotten together. Their verdict was supported by the testimony of Dr. H W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture a Washington. Dr. Wiley is an expert on food products and the highest authority on such matters in America. This verdict settled a long debated question as to which among the many baking powders is the best.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria," and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have substitute rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Our Great offer!
The Newyork Weekly World,
One Year, With
The Improved "Columbia" Watch
And
The Chilton VIEw
One Year
ALL FOR $2,65,

We have made special arrangements with the New York World by which we can send to our patrons The Weekly World and this paper, for 1 year each, and the celebrated Columbia Watch for the exceedingly low of 2. 65. The watch will not be sold alone at any price; neither will it be furnished save in connection with the Weekly World.

THIS IS A CHANCE OF LIFE TIME.

to get two good papers and a reliable time piece for almost nothing.

The Columbia Watch, for the kind, is first class in every respect. It combines in a small movement all the advantages of a first-class chronometer. It has the best clock movement, with spring in a band, steel pinion, clean, free train and is an A 1 time keeper. Thousands have tested them, and we have many testimonials of their worth. It is 1 1-32 inches in thickness and 2 3-8 inches in diameter. It is just what thousands of boys, and men too, all over the county have been aching to possess. It is such a watch as a waltzingman has been wishing to take the factory, to the shop, to the mill, or to any place where a valuable watch is liable to suffer from wear or exposure. Address

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Judge Calkin has greatly improved.

Mrs. J. M. Wooley and daughter, Miss Maud, of Jemison, spent a few days here this week.

Hon. Thos. H. Clarke would make a splendid speaker of the next house of representatives, and it would delight us to see him thus honored.

Miss Mattie Hand, who has spent the last ten months visiting relatives in California and Texas, has returned to her home at Jemison.

Commissioners court Monday attracted a large crowd of people,

Improvement is the order of the day in Clanton. Keeping up with that spirit the editor of the VIEW has had the VIEW building remodeled, removing the printing office into the rear room, while his editorial and law office occupy the front room. The visiting public are always welcome.

We welcome to our town Rev. M. M. Wood and wife, of Pratt City. Mr. Wood is aiding Rev. J. G. Lowery in a meeting. The congregations are good and the interest increasing.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Award.

Mr. Lewis DeJarnette and sister, of Montgomery, are visiting our town.

Mr. Jno. W. Bailey, the energetic correspondent of the Sporting News, has been visiting relatives at this place.

The Misses Belle have returned to their home in Montgomery after a visit here.

Miss Mary Duke, an accomplished young lady of Bainbridge, Ga., is visiting relatives at this place.

Miss Gamma Middleton has returned home after a pleasant trip to the Mountains of North Carolina.

Miss Xye Hunt has returned home after a brief visit to relatives in Troy.

Misses Wells and McCraney, of Troy, are visiting friends in our city.

Protracted meeting will begin next Sunday at Maddox's mill. Services will be conducted by Elders Stewart, Gibson and others.

The Unity association will convene with Mount Zion church the 9th of October.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

We have heard it suggested that if Mr. James Dudley, the United States revenue officer, would visit the region about Jumbo he might find that parties are both making and selling intoxicating liquors.

On election day Mrs. Harriet Sellers presented her leige lord with a bouncing big girl.

There was a party given in honor of Miss Maud Allen last Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Garner, which was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Rev. Hardy Jones and wife, of Verbena, were visitors to Clanton last week.

Messrs. John V. Kent Coe and D. C. Gandy, of Stanton, gave us a call Tuesday. They report crops in fine shape.

There are a great many Democrats in Chilton county who are very sorry that they failed to register, and still a larger number who regret that they ever fought against the Democratic party.

Kolb's former followers in some counties may be foolish enough to hold meetings and indignate, but most of his friends in this county will not endorse any such steps.

Mr. Hinkle, who has recently bought the Scheuler place, was on Monday last married in Montgomery to Miss Straughan. We welcome this new couple to our county.

Clanton has been unusually healthy this summer. Montgomery people are beginning to appreciate the desirability of Clanton as a place in which to recuperate.

Prof. McMorris and family took an overland trip to Prattville last week. Mrs. McMorris and the little girl are still in that pleasant little city.

Gambling

Common report has it that there is considerable card playing and gambling being carried on in and around Clanton. Negroes are said to congregate at outhouses and even at the residences of each other, and spend half the night gambling. That is bad, if true. Moreover, report, equally as common, says that white men of Clanton and vicinity are frequently engaged in the same unlawful and dangerous practice. Report also says that these men not only spend the hours gambling, but that they give red liquor precourse. It is to be hoped that that report is incorrect concerning this latter class. It is bad enough for negroes, who are ignorant of the law, and who have no ambition to be influential in life, to be thus engaged, but for intelligent, ambitious white men, men who have either wives and children, or mothers and sweethearts, to thus act is unpardonable. And if such things have been done in the past the actors should call a halt. But if white or black refuse to respect the law and the moral sentiment of the community, then those who value good order and seek to build up the best interests of the town and county should see that the law is enforced. The VIEW feels the importance of calling attention to these reports and begs everyone of its readers to cry out against this evil.

Mortgage Sale.

Under and by Virture of the Power of sale contained in a certain Mortgage executed to the undersigned, on the 5th day of January 1893 by J. M. Walker and his wife, Ellen Walker, and recorded in Mortgage record No 33 Pages 66 and 67 in the office of the Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, the undersigned will proceed to sell, at Public outcry to the highest bidder, for cash, in front of the Court House door of said County, between the hours of 11 A m and 12 M. On Monday the 27th day of August 1894, the following described real Estate lying and being situated in the County of Chilton, and state of Alabama towit: The south west quarter of the south west quarter of section Five (5) Township twenty (20) North of range thirteen (13) East, containing forty (40) acres more or less.

This sale will be made for the purpose of paying said Mortgage debt and all lawful charges.

His attorney.

Mt. Creek Croakings.

Messrs Walter Kendrick and J. W. Partillo attended the Grand Concert in Verbena last Tuesday night.

Prof C. C. Slaton passed through here on last Friday enroute to Pleasant Cherry Academy, where delivered a most interesting speech on education to quite a number of people.

Mr. W. H. Kendrick has returned home from a visit to Clanton,

Several of our young men and ladies attended church in Verbena last Sunday.

Prof. Jno. W. Connell and several others of our citizens visited Clanton last Saturday.

Mr. F. M. Connnell of Pratt Mines, was among his friends here last Sunday.

Mr. Charley Howard, of Mississippi, is spending a few weeks here.

Miss Mollie Pricket, of Macon Ga., visited the Misses Pyron last week.

Success to the VIEW and its readers.

HOOTLER.

Attention, Chilton Democrats.

The county convention for the election of delegates to the congressional convention for the fourth congressional district will be held at Clanton on the 25th day of August, 1894. The primaries for the election of delegates to said county convention will be held in each beat or voting precinct on the 24th day of August, 1894, and the basis of representation will be the same as for the state election.

Kolb's Reasons—Why He Failed.

From Jefferson in town on prize!
My hopes are gone I truly feel—
Not votes enough my seat to steal.
Ta-ra-ra, etc.

So now old Kolb is sure to go,
In thirty-seven beat, you know,
For honest men have got a show
To cast their votes without a blow,
Ta-ra-ra, etc.

LAST CAMPAIGN WAIL.

Reuben says, Oh, myt oh, my!
I am so sick I want to cry;
The democrats have blacked my eye
And knocked my chances into "pie,"
Ta-ra ta-ra-ra-boom, ta-ra.

Oh, Peyton, why did you deceive?
You blowed and "cussed," so I believe,
To hoist yourself and then retrieve,
And leave me with the shank and sheaf.

CHORUS.

To Talladega Skaggs will go,
And Motherahead I think also,
Because "pap" will fail to flow
Unto the Jefferson show.

CHORUS.

Says Bowman: Ruble, dear, don't try,
Old Hoar and Cabot Lodge will try
Once more; you know you are not shy,
So pick up grit and to them hie.
Ta-ra-ra, etc.

Bowman, you have fooled me twice,
And to my mind it isn't nice;
So go and put your head on ice,
For mine feels like it's in a vice.
Ta-ra-ra, etc.

Now, little Jerrie, ah, so good,
His summer school to teach he would,
While the organized went like a flood
To rout his forces, as they should.
Ta-ra-ra, etc.

The democratic congressional convention for the seventh Kansas district met at Hutchinson and decided not to make any nomination. This is a quiet endorsement of Jerry Simpson, the populist nominee and present congressman.

A fire which started in the Vandyke studio buildings, No. 948 Eighth avenue, New York, burned out half the colony of artists occupying the three upper floors of the buildings. The buildings are so badly damaged by water that the loss will probably reach $100,000.

The Bascom wire nail works at Cleveland, O., the largest concern of the kind in the country, which has been idle for several months, has resumed work with a full force of men. Within a few months it is proposed to put on a night and a day force, and run the plant double turns in all departments.

Six anarchists were arrested at Rome, Italy, Monday, while holding a secret conference. It is estimated that 2,000 anarchists who were arrested by the police in the raids of the last two months will be deported. A group of fifty has been already sent to Naples to embark for Massowah, in the Red sea.

The grand stand at the Philadelphia ball park was burned to the ground Monday morning. The stables of the Omnibus Company were also burned, and the firemen directed their efforts to save the immense storage houses of the Philadelphia Traction Company. Several small houses are reported as burned.

A special from Lyons says that Caserio Santo, the assassin of President Carnot, has persisted in his refusal to make an appeal to the court of cassation, and the time of appeal having elapsed, the papers have been sent to Paris for the signature of President Casimir-Perier, fixing his execution for ten days hence.

Zelmer & Co., retail dry goods dealers at 225 and 227 Sixth avenue, New York, have assigned with a preference of $34,771 to Samuel Zelmer. The firm was established about two years ago and is now one of the largest dry goods establishments on Sixth avenue. The failure is said to be due to the general financial depression and hard times.

A St. Petersburg special says: From July 13th to August 4th, 313 new cases of cholera and 204 deaths from the disease were reported in the city. In the town of Warsaw from July 22d to July 28th, 159 new cases of cholera and 83 deaths were reported. In the province of Warsaw during the period, 394 new cases of cholera were reported and 213 deaths.

The big anarchist trial was continued at Paris Tuesday in the court of assizes. The prosecuter and presiding judge examined at great length Felix Fenon, formerly clerk in the war office; Armand Matha, publicist; Philippe Ortis, shop clerk. Van Bertani and Chericotte. All efforts to trap them into admissions of guilt were futile, as the men stoutly denied everything.

The resumption of work at the Coleman-Shields Company mills at Niles, O., Monday morning, not only absorbed all the idle men locally, but many came from the adjacent towns and found work. The hotels and boarding houses are full, and the town is having an old-fashioned boom. Every manufacturing concern in the place is running on full time.

At 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon fire broke out at St. Paul, Minn., and destroyed $120,000 worth of property, including a bridge belonging to the city, an ice house owned by the St. Paul Lake Ice company, with 6,000 tons of ice, 400 tons of hard coal, 250 tons of soft coal, 1,000 cords of wood and eight cars belonging to the Northwestern Fuel company.

A special from Fall River, Mass., says: The reasons for the reduction of the wages of the operatives voted by the cotton manufacturers' association which affects 26,000 mill hands, are the falling off the market price for prints to 2 5-8 cents, 1 per cent off, and the poor demand for goods even at that figure. A reduction will also take place in the fine goods department.

Eight companies of the Second regiment of the Illinois national guard, one troop of cavalry and one battery of artillery was sent home from the stockyards at Chicago Saturday morning on the recommendation of Mayor Hopkins. The three companies of the First regiment, at Pullman, will, it is expected, be called in. Four companies of the Second regiment are still at the stockyards.

Dispatches have been received at Shanghai, China, confirming the report that the emperor has divested Viceroy Li Hung-Chang of the order of the Yellow Riding Coat, which is the highest order in China, allowing the wearer privileges next to those of royalty. The emperor has freely expressed his anger at the viceroy's having allowed Japan to get ahead of China in preparing for war.

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

[illegible] Queen & Co., the leading opticians of Philadelphia have made an assignment to John G. Gray. Neither the liabilities nor assets are yet obtainable. The cause of the failure is not known.

A dispatch from Rome to the Central News agency of London says that many persons have been killed and enormous amount of damage done property by an earthquake which visited Sicily Wednesday afternoon.

Pensacola, Fla., was visited by one of the worst storms ever known in that locality Wednesday night. The wind came in great gusts from the gulf, driving torrents of rain, which fell without ceasing throughout the night. Nearly every house in the city felt the effects of the storm.

Alex Barlot, Washington Hudson and W. A. Hagley, three intelligent white men of Eufaula, Ala., have been arrested, charged with taking one dollar bills and making tens out of them. Southeast Alabama has been flooded with such currency, and it is claimed that it emanated from the three men in custody.

The advisory board of the associated railroads of Virginia and the Carolinas held a meeting at Virginia Beach Wednesday. There was a large attendance, the Southern railway, Seaboard Air-Line and Atlantic Coast line being represented by all their general officers of traffic and executive departments. Excursion and freight rates was the burden of discussion.

The convicted anarchists who led the memorable riots of the silk workers in Patterson, N. J., during March and April last, and who were convicted for assaulting workingmen, throwing bombs and writing threatening letters, were sentenced Wednesday by Judge Hopper in the court of quarter sessions. The sentences ranged from six months to five years in jail.

The Nebraska democratic congressional convention of the ninth Iowa district met at Council Bluffs to nominate a candidate. About two months ago General James B. Weaver, late populist candidate for president, was nominated for congress by the populists. The democratic convention decided to make no nomination, but endorsed General Weaver by a vote of 72 to 20.

Special Agent Burns, of the secret service bureau in Washington, who was sent to Mississippi by Chief Hazen to see the governor about the Mississippi special warrants, is still in Jackson. He has as yet made no demands on the governor and is personally trying to find where special warrants have been unwittingly taken for United States currency or national bank notes.

The American Federation of Labor of Pittsburg, Pa., is waging a war against the Knights of Labor in that city. The brewery workmen's union has issued a circular denouncing the local Knights of Labor officials for adopting a scale lower than that of the union, and alleging that they are in collusion with the brewery proprietors to destroy unions affiliated with the American Federation.

The tenth district congressional deadlock at Hallettsville, was broken Wednesday morning after eighteen hundred and eight ballots had been taken and State Senator Miles Crowley, of Galveston, was nominated on the first ballot as the democratic nominee for congress from the district. This was the result of a caucus by the Gresham and Lane factions.

The North Carolina democratic state convention met at Raleigh Wednesday, nearly every county being represented. The convention will nominate four supreme court judges and a state treasurer. The incumbents of these offices have no opposition. The interesting questions are the silver plank and the question of primaries for the instruction of members of the legislature for United States senator, there being two to elect in January.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company has made a proposition to the miners to give them 37½ cents for mining coal as long as foundry No. 1 was $8.50 per ton and less, and to pay them 2½ cents per ton advance for every 50 cents per ton that foundry No. 1 increased until it reached $11, and then to pay them 2½ cents for each dollars' increase. The miners met at Birmingham and decided that they would not accept the proposition. They will not work for less than 45 cents per ton.

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Tennessee Bar Association assembled on Lookout Mountain Wednesday morning. A number of the leading barristers of the state were in attendance. The first day was spent in receiving reports from the several officers and committees. The second was devoted to the discussion of a paper on "Constitution-Making in Tennessee," and a report of the committee on new constitution and code. As a constitutional convention will be held this fall these subjects will be vigorously discussed.

PATTI ROSA DEAD.

The Favorite Actress Dies Suddenly in New York.

Miss Patti Rosa, the well known soubrette, died unexpectedly at St. Francis' hospital, in New York city, where she had just undergone an operation for appendicitis.

In private life Miss Rosa was Mrs. John W. Dunne. She was an American by birth, and was about 30 years old. The Question of Ivory.

The ivory question is important, because ivory is the wealth of the slave trader far more than care his slaves. Ivory is now found almost exclusively in the Congo state. The elephant is exterminated in Uganda and in Nyasaland. Some 500 tons of ivory reach London yearly, but the supply is decreasing. It is estimated that 75,000 elephants are being killed every year, and if this is true, even the Congo herds cannot long survive such slaughter.

It is generally agreed that in the she elephant the tusk only one calf every two or three years, the destruction is going on much faster than the breeding. Meanwhile it is to be remembered that ivory is essentially a slave trade product and comes from the land of Tippu Tib. The sale of arms and ammunition must be prevented from all sides. The sale of spirits offers less temptation to the European trader, because these Arabs are Moslems and do not drink.—Edinburgh Review.

A DETROIT BUILDER.

HE TELLS A REMARKABLE STORY OF HIS LIFE.

Came to Detroit About Forty Years Ago.

LEVI ELSEY'S EXPERIENCE WORTHY SERIOUS ATTENTION.

(From the Detroit Evening News.)

Away out Gratiot avenue, far from the din and turmoil of the business center, there are many attractive homes. The intersecting streets are wide, clean and shaded by large leaf-covered trees, and the people you meet are typical of industry, economy and honest toil. There are many pretty residences, but none more inviting in its neatness and homelike comfort than that of Mr. Levi Elsey, the well-known builder and contractor, at 71 Moran street, just off Gratiot. Mr. Elsey is an old resident of Detroit, having moved here about forty years ago. He has erected hundreds of houses in different parts of the city, and points with pride to such buildings as the Newberry & McMillan and Campau blocks, in which he displayed his ability as a superintendent.

"I have seen Detroit grow from a village to a city," he observed yesterday in conversation with the writer, "and I don't think there are many towns in America to-day equal to it in point of beauty. I know almost everybody in the city, and an incident which recently happened in my life has interested all my friends.

"It is now about eight years ago since I was stricken down with my first case of illness. One cold, blustering day I was down town and through my natural carelessness at that time I permitted myself to get chilled right through. When I arrived home that evening I felt a serious pain in my left leg. I bathed it that night, but by morning I found it had grown worse. In fact it was so serious that I sent for my family physician, and he informed me that I was suffering from varicose veins. My leg swelled up to double its natural size and the pain increased in volume. The agony was simply awful. I was laid up and never left my bed for eight weeks. At times I felt as though I would grow frantic with pain. My leg was bandaged and was propped up in the bed at an angle of thirty degrees, in order to keep the blood from flowing to my extremities.

"I had several doctors attending me, but I believe my own judgment helped me better than theirs. After a siege of two months I could move around, still I was on the sick list and had to doctor myself for years. I was never really cured and suffered any amount of anguish.

"About two years ago I noticed an article in the Evening News about my friend, Mr. Northrup; the Woodward avenue merchant. In an interview with him he stated that he had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and that they cured him. I knew him very well, having built his house out Woodward Ave., and I thought I would follow his suggestion. I must confess I did so with marvelous success. From the time I began to take the Pink Pills I felt myself growing to be a new man. They acted on me like a magical stimulant. The pain departed and I soon was as strong and healthy as ever. Before trying the Pink Pills I had used any amount of other medicine without any noticeable benefit. But the Pills cured me and I was myself again.

"When a person finds himself relieved and enjoying health he is apt to expose himself again to another attack of illness. Some three months ago I stopped taking the Pink Pills, and from the day I did so I noticed a change in my condition. A short time since I renewed my habit of taking them with the same beneficial results which met me formerly. I am again nearly as strong as ever, although I am a man about fifty-six years of age. I tell you, sir, the Pink Pills are a most wonderful medicine, and if they do as well in other cases as they did in mine they are the best in the world. I freely recommend them to any sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness, either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

A Compromise.

It was after dinner and he was saying sweet nothings to her out on the piazza.

"Do you know what I think of you?" she asked in the pleased-reproving tone women affect on such occasions.

"I hope it is nothing bad," he answered, after the manner of men when that question is put to them.

"Well, I think you are a hollow mockery."

He folded his hands across himself composedly.

"A mockery, possibly," he admitted, "but not hollow," and then the lights went out in the dining room.—Detroit Free Press.

According to the latest reports the railroads of the country have liabilities amounting to $11,000,000,000. This is four times as much as the public debt of the United States in 1865, and goes to prove that with all their great value and usefulness railroads are the most wasteful and worst managed business concerns in the world.

Amusing and Instructive.

Did you ever think that the same syllable is often used in a great many words? If not, suppose you learn it by playing the following game: Write several words on a long slip of paper, leaving the space of half an inch between the syllables of each word. Then cut out the syllables, assort them and let each player draw three syllables at random. From these three or from any two of them he must try to construct a word. If unable to do so, he must return two to the pack and wait until his turn comes again, when he may draw three more slips and try again.—Ex.

A Valuable Discovery.

Mexican advices announce that a discovery of a great scientific interest has been made in excavations being carried on in the district of Tlaxiaco, state of Oaxaca.

A number of small images, formed in metal, were uncovered by workmen digging in one of the oldest ruins.

These images are said to represent people of oriental appearance—in Chinese or Japanese dress—some of them resembling Budhist priests in their robes of sacrifice. They bear hieroglyphics of unknown characters, and are elaborately wrought with fine art lines shown in every curve. The images are of gold, either wholly or in part, and are coated with some unknown enamel, which has preserved them splendidly. They are to be sent to the city of Mexico and placed at the disposal of the scientific world for further study and discussion.

The find is believed to be the most important of the year in the domain of antiquities, and preparations are now being made, I understand, to conduct a complete exploration of the Tlaxiaco ruins for further evidence of this ancient civilization, which flourished in southern Mexico and Guatemala centuries before the arrival of the Spanish conquerors.

What They Mean.

Tennyson could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem upon it and make it worth $85,000—that's genius. Vanderbilt can write a few words on a sheet of paper and make it worth $5,000,000—that's capital. The United States can take an ounce and a quarter of gold and stamp on it an eagle "bird" and make it worth $20—that's money. A mechanic can take material worth $5 and make it into watch springs worth $1,000—that's skill. A merchant can take an article worth 75 cents and sell it for $1—that's business. A lady can purchase a 75 cent hat, but she prefers one that costs $27—that's foolishness. A ditch digger works ten hours a day and handles several tons of earth for $2—that's labor. The editor of this paper could write a check for $30,000,000, but it wouldn't be worth a dime—that's rough.—Exchange.

Father and Home.

The father who plunges into business so deeply that he has no leisure for domestic duties and pleasures, and who only intercourse with his children consists in a brief word of authority or surly lamentation over their expensiveness, is equally to be pitied and to be blamed. Money is not the only desirable bequest which a father can leave to his children. Well cultivated intellects, hearts sensible to domestic affection, the love of parents, a taste for home pleasures, habits of order, regularity and industry, hatred of vice and a lively sensibility of the excellence of virtue are as valuable an inheritance as a legacy of property. One can be dispersed, and the other cannot.

A recent English invention has the nursery is a "patent veiled sheet." It is an ordinary sheet in which a square of gauze net is inserted. This is intended to be thrown over the face of sleeping infant, protecting it from flies without impeding the respiration.

NOW AND THEN.

Oh, now and then there comes a day
When all our skies are bright,
And all of life's appointed way
Is bathed in golden light;
When roses hide no thorns beneath
When love has no alloy;
And zephyrs full of perfume breathe
From out the hills of joy.

The present is a fleeting thing—
The past will live for aye,
And all its store of pleasures bring
Forever and a day.
And softer shall the echoes come
From time's receding shore,
Each will clean a pleasure from
The days that are no more.

Oh, memories of such, awake!
And glad the weary Now;
A wreath of recollections make
To crown the dreamer's brow.
Oh, silent voice and vanished hand,
Bring back the golden sheaves!
The ripple of the waters and
The laughter of the leaves.

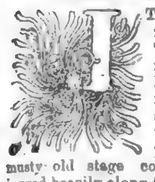
SEVEN DAYS.

BY KATE PUTNAM OSGOOD.



It was a hot day in early summer. The tide of mountain travel had not yet set in for the season, and Nina Caldwell was the only passenger in the musty old stage coach which had jogged heavily along for twelve weary miles. The journey was enlivened by simoons of dust that strengthened the camel-like suggestions of the four gaunt jaded horses. The young lady who sat in state alone in this uncomfortable vehicle was thoroughly worn out with heat and headache, and, worst of all, bored with her own society.

Nina Caldwell was eighteen and very pretty. She was also exceedingly spoiled, and subject to occasional fits of unreason. In one of these she had left her sister and brother-in-law, a week in advance of the time appointed, and was now reaping the benefit of that rash act.

She had leisure and to spare for bitter reflection. She tried to read, yawned, counted the flies, attacked some caramels and finally relapsed into somber depression.

"Whoa, Jeminy! Whoa, there!"

Nina started and looked around in bewilderment. A moment later the driver's sunburned face appeared at the door. She must have slept a little.

"Here you are, miss, Maple Hotel. Stop half an hour, then change with coach from Greene. Goin' to stay, though, you be?"

Nina, even in alighting, took in her surroundings at a glance. Maple Hotel, dignified into a stopping-place for mountain travel, was still a mere farm house, where but few dreamed of lingering. But Nina, alas! was to sojourn here a good seven days—for so she had decided—until her party joined her.

Under the great maple, from which the house was named, a gentleman lay asleep, his straw hat and newspaper beside him.

"The only cool place," thought Nina. "How intensely selfish."

From the piazza, the yellow paint glared hot in the sunshine, she looked disdainfully at her recumbent enemy, a man of about thirty, and, so far as could be judged from his position, decidedly good-looking. His hair was light and close cut, his forehead square, and his mouth, even in sleep, and under the shadow of his mustache, wore a look of imperturbable good humor. The merits of his figure—rather of the massive order—were undeniable.

On a bench near Nina was a book. She took it up. On the flyleaf was written, Merrick Bryce. Undoubtedly his, she thought, as she turned it over.

Meanwhile the late sleeper had awakened. On the piazza sat the prettiest girl he had ever seen, with black, wilful hair, and eyes—but the book—his book, monopolized those. Just then she looked up, and he saw that they were dark gray. His own light brown ones were keen though indolent, and little escaped them.

He arose and sauntered away, while she was vexed to find herself speculating about him.

Maple Hotel was, perhaps, the dullest place in the world. To call it a "one-horse concern" would be rank flattery. It was the merest equine fraction. And if there were ever justifiable homicide, it would have been assuredly in the taking off of the compounder of its pies and puddings.

Nina's cerulean mood deepened to indigo at the sight of the conglomerate nightmare supper, which she enjoyed in solitary state with Mr. Bryce, marveling, the while, to behold his appetite. There seemed a certain antagonism between them, the more unfortunate since they would be thrown on each other's society for several days.

Nina explained her position. She was in advance of friends obliged to delay their arrival (!) after which they were all going to the mountains. Mr. Bryce remarked that his own case was somewhat similar. His party, also, was delayed—they were to have met here yesterday—and he was consoling himself as best he could with fishing.

"Odious people," thought Nina pettishly. "It is wonderful how many such there are in the world, and how one always meets them. Ethel would say it served me right—a married sister is so unsympathetic. But I will never own to homesickness."

Next day she made further acquaintance with Mr. Bryce on the basis of the books aforesaid. They discussed its characters and incidents.

"The story is entertaining. But the heroine—" and Nina made a little grimace.

"Exactly my ideal," smiled Mr. Bryce.

"I wonder how many men have said that," flashed Nina. "She is absolutely slavish. Most women, thank heaven, have a little pride left."

"But she has so much heart. Perhaps, though, you object to that?"

"Oh, I have none at all."

"You are to be congratulated. It has always been my misfortune to possess too much."

Nina had taken a great dislike to Mr. Bryce. He had a vexatious way of involving her in a discussion which left her angry and bewildered. She felt tempted to go away, but pride and convenience alike forbade. For seven days she must endure it. She would remain in her room, or seek the fields and woods. As this seemed a trampless country (even tramps disdained it, thought Nina bitterly) the idea was practicable.

The next morning she had her breakfast sent up to her. Then she slipped out of doors to a fragrant nook she had discovered. But the air was vitiated by a cigar, where Mr. Bryce sat smoking. He rose and tossed it away.

"I have something of yours. Commend my honor that I have not pressed the spring." He had in reality examined it, and knew that it contained merely a woman's picture. But she believed it, as she took the missing locket.

There was a truce established, and time even passed pleasantly there in the locust shade.

"I am going fishing to-day," he said presently.

"What is the attraction in fishing? The idea, after centuries of civilization, of reverting to the original savage."

"Shall I confess that I am driven by the same motive that urges the savage—by the pangs of hunger?"

"I understand," replied Nina, laughing at his rueful look and tone. "And if you are successful I will retract my criticism. When do you return?"

"To-morrow night."

Toward evening Nina, with an odd feeling of loneliness, was sitting beside a laughing little stream, shaded by elms and alders, a long-legged bird stood near by, balancing himself thoughtfully on one foot, and eyeing her cautiously, while at intervals he uttered a long plaintive cry. From a neighboring field came the low of approaching cattle.

"Picturesque, rather," said a voice behind her.

"Mr. Bryce!" she started. "Is it possibly you are here."

"I am here to be congratulated and generally laurel-crowned," he answered with a lazy laugh. "I have left at Maple Hotel the result of my labor, and to-morrow is secured from famine."

"But your two days' fishing?"

"Reduced to one."

She colored in spite of herself, and turned again toward the cattle.

"You are afraid of them?" he said, looking at her with a smile.

"A little—why?"

"Most city girls are—or seem so."

"No affectation, I assure you. Think what horrors they must appear to us—all horns and hoofs."

"In a novel I should rescue you from them—stolid as they really are. What do they know of 'the weariness, the fever and the fret' that vex humanity? However, a novel incident is at hand, worn with age, but still vigorous enough to work us woe. The storm! Look at the west."

The sky was piled in black and leaden masses. As she looked at it a quick lightning flash made her start.

"That vacant house yonder will shelter us," said Bryce. "Only we must make haste.

They reached it as the first thunder rolled around the hills. Enormous hailstones rattled on the roof, and a cold wind suddenly arose. Nina, overheated by her violennt exertion, now shivered in her thin dress.

Bryce threw off his coat, and prepared to put it over her shoulders.

"You ought, Miss Caldwell," he urged as she objected. "I am used to roughing it, and run no risk whatever, but it is dangerous for you. Very well," imperturbably, as she still refused. "I will try it outside."

He suited his action to the word. This was more than she could bear. She went to the door where he stood coolly among the hailstone.

"Come in, and I will do as you wish."

They looked into each other's eyes as he wrapped the covering about her. He half smiled.

"Shall we call this Eden or the ark? Or, perhaps, a desert island? I should build you a hut with tools saved from the shipwreck, and bring you fruit and goats' milk. Possibly we should have rescued an ice cream freezer."

"And I could braid our hats and do the esthetic generally," laughed Nina.

"And some day—it always ends so—a wandering vessel in search of a cocoanut cargo, or something of the kind, would take us back to civilization—and then—"

Nina dropped her eyes, and drummed on a broken pane.

"Is the shower over?" she asked, coldly.

"Regarding this as the ark, I will act the double role of Noah and the dove," he rejoined with seeming unconsciousness of her altered manner. "I will send myself forth to see if the rain has abated."

He speedily returned, bearing a green leaf in triumph.

"Lo I have found a place for my foot—not being a Chicago girl—"

"I am a Chicago girl," she hastily interposed, with a flash of the eyes.

He gave one glance at the small foot in its perfectly fitting, dainty boot. For the first time in the career of that legal gentleman, Merrick Bryce was taken aback. "Beware of generalities," he mused, and made his peace as best he might.

* * * * * * *

The last evening of their week's tete-a-tete had arrived. Once more they sat under the locust trees. Mr. Bryce seemed moody, and showed a repressed excitement.

"My idea of the battle of life," he said suddenly, "is to treat the mind and body to their utmost, and then give up the contest."

Nina looked astonished. There was a certain latent weariness about him which she had never seen before.

"Merely a breath from the Palace of Truth," he said in reply to her questioning glance. Do you dare enter it?"

"Yes," she said, wondering still more.

"Then—do you care for me? You must answer," as she sat in confused silence.

"Yes"—just audible.

"As for me, I envy the earth beneath your feet. What if I have known you but seven days? That is the talk of fools. Nina say that you have a heart, and that it belongs to me."

"You know it already," she murmured.

"This is the hour of my triumph! What has become of your dislike and pride?"

She felt in a half dream, controlled by her voice.

Suddenly he started.

"It is I who am a fool—and worse! Miss Caldwell!" abruptly, to restore her to herself.

"Mr. Bryce?" with her usual manner.

"The stage-coach is due," taking out his watch. "Shall we go to the piazza?"

The coach came lumbering up. A young man sprang off, and assisted a pretty blonde girl to alight.

"That is the one I am engaged to," said Nina, meditatively, to Mr. Bryce.

"And that is the one I am engaged to," responded Mr. Bryce with equal calmness.

From the inside appeared three other figures, a young couple and an elderly lady.

"Fred and Ethel," exclaimed Nina.

"And my prospective mother-in law," said Mr. Bryce. "What a happy family."

After mutual handshakings, Fred whispered to Nina:

"So you have been flirting here these seven days by yourselves? Well, I can assure you that your own Charley and the future Mrs. Bryce have taken ample revenge for their wrongs."

"Poetical justice," mused Nina, as she started for her room.

On the stairs she met Mr. Bryce.

"Nina, forgive me," he whispered, "and four mistakes may be set right. We are not the only culprits."

She withdrew her hand, but her heart sang as she continued on her way. In her thoughts she was going over a brief interview with her brother-in-law.

"You know I never approved of your ball-room engagement with Charley Fernald, Nina," he had said. "Miss Nellie Linwood is much better suited to him. She is perfectly shallow and rattle-headed. Fancy her telling us ingeniously that she and Mr. Bryce were engaged, but did not care anything for each other. He is her guardian, and she declares that she believes he was going to marry her because she bothered him and he did not know how else to dispose of her."

Nina could not refrain from a merry peal of laughter.

"Now, this Mr. Bryce, so far as I can judge on so very short an acquaintance, seems to be a good sort of fellow, and one who will keep you in order. Oh, no use to flash your eyes—you need it."

"But what makes you fancy, you absurd Fred, that there is anything between Mr. Bryce and me?"

The blindness of a bat has not hitherto been considered one of my distinguished characteristics," responded Fred oracularly. "But there is Ethel waiting for me. Tell me when you expect congratulations, eh, Nina?"

With which provoking speech he had left her to go her own way, with the result, altogether described, of a meeting with Mr. Bryce on the stairs, and some words uttered which changed the whole outlook of life for her.—Detroit Free Press.

Diet and Stupidity.

Dr. Francis Walmsley states a grave physiological fact in the assertion that "some mothers distinctly diet their offspring for stupidity." Dr. Walmsley ought to know, for he is Superintendent of an asylum where he has 950 idiot, imbecile and epileptic children under his care. Bad and unsuitable food, he tells us, often causes thickening and enlargement of the skull, and physiology has amply confirmed the old theory of our schoolboy days, that a thick skull is the outward and visible sign of dull and stupid brains. At Darenth Asylum, which Dr. Walmsley supervises, very careful observations were made, and it was found that not only is the intellect poor in thick-skulled and rickety children, but the very senses themselves, the senses of sight, of hearing and of taste, and even the power of speech, are all remarkably impaired. Such children "see badly, hear badly, feel badly." In the matter of speech the facts are startling. Of the 950 patients, only 360 articulate with normal distinctness. Of the remainder, 290 speak indistinctly, while 300 actually cannot speak at all. This subject has not received the attention it deserves, and it is to be hoped that such important physiological facts as Dr. Walmsley has made known will be taken further cognisance of by the leaders in medical science.—New York Recorder.

HALLS OF CONGRESS

DAILY PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE.

What Our National Lawmakers are Doing for the Country.

The session of the house Saturday was confined to the consideration of two items in the sundry civil appropriations bill, upon which the conferees had found themselves unable to agree. The first related to the irrigation and reclamation of arid lands, and as to this, the house voted to recede from its disagreement to the senate amendment, with an amendment of its own. This amendment proposed to give to each of the states containing these arid lands a million acres upon certain conditions, the chief one being that $3 per acre should be expended by the states in irrigating the lands. The amendment directing the secretary of the treasury to purchase the Mahone lot for a site for the government printing office, at a cost not exceeding $250,000, was the last remaining item of disagreement to be acted upon. The proposition to purchase the Mahone lot (the senate amendment) was defeated. The proposition to purchase ground adjoining the present site and extend the building thereon was agreed to—138 to 41. The house agreed to a conference on the items still in controversy; the old conference were reappointed; and the house, at 4:40 o'clock, adjourned until Monday. Immediately after the house adjourned a call for a caucus of the democratic members for 10 o'clock Monday morning was read.

The session of the house Friday was almost wholly taken up with the consideration of the first conference report on the sundry civil appropriation bill. The principal subject of discussion was the appropriation to enable the government to make an exhibit at the Atlanta exposition, which afforded an opportunity for several "bridge the bloody chasm" speeches that were applauded warmly. The vote on the amendment showed that the house, 3 to 1, favored making the appropriation, but wanted it to be in the form of the house bill on that subject. Mr. Cannon moved that the house conferees be instructed to propose to the senate conferees, in lieu of that provision in the bill, the substance of the bill reported to the house June 4 by the committee on appropriations appropriating $200,000 in aid of the exposition. The motion was discussed by Messrs. Cannon, Murray, republican, of South Carolina; Coombs, democrat, of New York; Sickles, democrat, of New York; Pence, populist, of Colorado; Cogswell, republican, of Massachusetts, and Bryan, democrat, of Nebraska, all of whom spoke in enthusiastic terms of the enterprise of the people of Atlanta in projecting the exposition, and expressing their gratification at being able to vote for the appropriation. Mr. Williams, democrat of Illinois, and Mr. Dockery, his committee colleague, opposed the proposition to vote aid to the exposition. The question was further discussed favorably by Messrs. Grosvenor, republican, of Ohio; Everett, democrat of Massachusetts, and Livingston, democrat, of Georgia, and in opposition by Mr. Snodgrass, democrat, of Tennessee. Mr. Cannon's motion was then agreed to without division. Several other items of disagreement were discussed until 5 o'clock, when, without disposing of the report, the house took a recess until 8 o'clock.

In the house Monday a joint resolution was passed extending until the 24th instant, the provisions of the joint resolution providing appropriations for public purposes, on the basis of those for the last year. The sedate tariff bill was then presented and after a lengthy discussion was passed.

The first item of business in the house Wednesday, after the reading of the journal, was the announcement by the speaker that the committee on enrolled bills had reported that the amended tariff bill had been properly enrolled and that it had been signed by the speaker. Several private measures were passed and half a dozen indefinite leaves of absence granted to members, all on account of "sickness" in the family. Mr. Black, democrat, of Illinois, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of the following resolutions: "Whereas, the balance of available gold in the United States treasury on August 1, 1894, had been reduced, despite the sale of $50,000,000 of gold bonds, to the sum of $54,975,607, and whereas, there is in the treasury, unused and available, an amount of silver equal to $513,880,682 American standard coin and value; and whereas, the income of the United States does not now equal its expenditures; therefore, be it resolved, that the committee on coinage, weights and measures be directed to at once report to the house for its consideration a bill providing for the proper use and avail of the said silver." The resolutions were referred. The second morning hour was given to the committee on the judiciary. Chairman Culberson called up the bill to make any contract hereafter made for the payment of money in gold, silver or coin, payable in any legal tender of the United States. Consideration of the bill was interrupted by the conference report on the sundry civil bill. An agreement was reported. Among the disputed items the appropriation of $105,000 for the families of the twenty-one killed at the Ford's theater disaster was stricken out and a commission appointed to investigate and report upon their claims. The appropriation of $25,000 for a quarantine station at South Port, N. C., was retained. The appropriation for the purchase of the Mahone lot as a site for the government printing office was stricken out. The appropriation of $200,000 for the Cotton States and International exposition, at Atlanta, was retained. The conference report was agreed to. Mr. Sayers presented the conference report on the general deficiency appropriation bill, which showed an agreement upon all points, except the appropriation of $1,809,539 to pay Pacific railroad judgments. Without that the agreed bill carries a total of $6,202,903. The Pacific railroad item gave rise to a discussion which was not concluded when the house adjourned.

THE SENATE.

Saturday's proceedings in the senate were of a most interesting and exciting character, involving as they did the success or defeat of all the tariff work of the session, and it was only by the casting vote of the vice president that the democratic party was saved from a bad repulse, if not a complete overthrow. The day began by a debate of the resolution offered on Friday by Mr. Hill, instructing the senate conferees on the tariff bill to report whether the conferees of the two houses were likely to agree, and if not, to report a disagreement.

The senate at Monday's session went into executive session for the purpose of taking action on the Chinese treaty. After a full discussion of the matter the treaty was ratified.

TRADE TALKS.

What Bradstreet Says of the Business Outlook.

Bradstreet's weekly trade review says:

"Evidence continues to accumulate that the earlier portion of July witnessed the lowest point in the ebb of the commercial tide, in the reaction after the moderate revival in the spring. July bank clearings this year furnished a list of twenty-nine cities with larger aggregates than last year, while the June report furnished only eighteen cities with totals larger than in June a year ago.

"The practical cessation of various severe industrial disturbances of the year has emphasized the tendency to improvement reported by telegraph from manufacturing and commercial centers the past week. A further indication of the tendency to improvement is seen in the week's advance of 50 cents per ton for steel billets, and in the fact that the domestic wool markets today are more in favor of the seller than they have been for a year, and that wool is firm at the 2 cents advance scored in the last week.

"The New York stock market is strong in tone on renewed expectations of a tariff settlement, with the unexpected improvement in railroad earnings and the stopping of gold exports as additional factors.

"Southern railroad shares attract increased attention and favor from the relatively good conditions in that section.

"Boston reports Massachusett's cotton manufacturers find business unsatisfactory, but manufacturers of men's wear, woolens, etc., report products moving freely. Chattanooga advices are that groceries are moving more freely, with collections fair, while in Atlanta jobbers in nearly all lines report more activity in shipments although rains have damaged the crop somewhat. Favorable weather, good crop prospects and a bright outlook for business characterize the situation at Augusta and Jacksonville, Fla., the wholesale trade has expanded. A fairly good demand is reported from Savannah, and although there is no improvement at Memphis, the outlook is more encouraging. South Carolina crops have been damaged by rains, but Charleston reports lumber and naval stores markets more active. Neither Birmingham nor New Orleans advices contain news of improvement in demand, dullness characterizing the situation at both places, and at Galveston trade is reported slack in dry goods and notions."

JAPANESE LEAVING CHINA.

Five Hundred Have Left Shanghai. Japanese Postoffice Closed.

The London Central News correspondent in Shanghai telegraphs that the final exodus of Japanese residents has begun. Some 500 Japanese, who have closed their business there indefinitely, will leave Shanghai for home. The Japanese postoffice has been shut up. Every precaution has been taken to prevent any hostile demonstration of the natives against the emigrants.

Captain Galsworthy and Chief Officer Tamplin, of the Kow-Shung, have arrived in Shanghai. The American and Norwegian consuls in Shanghai are refusing clearances to ships carrying rice.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Central News says that the telegraph line in Corea is controlled by the Japanese in the south and by the Chinese in the north, and that both the Japanese and Chinese refuse to transmit news dispatches. It is calculated that China will have 60,000 soldiers in Corea before the close of September.

JAPANESE MARCHING ON.

The correspondent of The London Times at Shanghai telegraphs that 12,000 Japanese troops from Fuesan, and 8,000 from Yuensan are marching toward Seoul, the capital of Corea. Fuesan is the chief port of Kaung-Sang-Do, the southeastern province of Corea, and Yuensan is the northeastern port of the kingdom. The Tsung-Li-Yamen, the supreme council of the empire, have guaranteed the safety of foreigners in the interior of China.

WILL DEMAND INDEMNITY.

Sir Edward Gray, under secretary of the foreign office, in answering Sir Ellis Ashmead-Bartlett, in the house of commons, at London, said that Great Britain would hold Japan responsible for the loss of the British life and property resulting from the sinking of the Kow-Shung.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

Resignations have been requested by Secretary Carlisle from George W. Ascheroft, inspector of hulls at Nashville, Tenn., and O. C. Dugges, inspector of steam boilers at Nashville, Tenn.

The conference committee of the two houses concluded the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill late Tuesday and will report an agreement. There is a compromise on the senate amendment for the payment of heirs of the victims of the Ford theater disaster, which, however, provides the necessary appropriation. The same is true of the amendment for the Atlanta exposition. The amendment concerning the donation of 1,000,000 acres of lands to various arid land states for the encouragement of irrigation remains in the bill, but in amended form.

A crisis in the tariff affairs was reached Friday, both in the open senate and in the secret councils of the democratic tariff conferees. When the conference closed it was with the understanding that the meetings would be suspended for the present. No time was set for reassembling the conferees, and it was felt that no further sessions might be necessary in case the senate acted favorably on Senator Hill's resolution directing the senate conferees to report the situation of affairs. What was of most importance was the feeling expressed by the house conferees at the close of the conference that in case the Hill resolution passed—and they believed it would—the conference would practically be relieved of its work and it would remain only for the house to accept the senate bill as a lesser evil, as they believe, than the McKinley law.

All that remains now to make the senate bill a law is the president's signature, and some believe, though without good grounds, that he will withhold his signature or possibly veto it. The bill is not so good a one as the house wanted, or as the party had a right to expect, but it is so far superior to the McKinley act that no one who cherishes the hope of ultimate free trade or who believes in tariff reform could conscientiously hinder its passage. This was the feeling which prompted Speaker Crisp to withdraw his forces from the field when he saw how hopeless and even disastrous it was to continue the fight. It was this view which urged Mr. Wilson to call a caucus of democrats and advise its acceptance. It is currently reported that one reason why free sugar, free coal and free iron were put through the house as separate measures was in compliance with an expressed demand from the white house, so that the president could tell within the ten days given him to hold the bill exactly what disposition the senate intended making of them. If they pass any or all of these it is said he will sign the bill. If that body treats these measures as is their habit of treating popgun bills, then he will veto the tariff document and hold congress together until another and more satisfactory bill is sent to him.

Revenue Under the Tariff Bill.

The passing of the tariff bill has led to various estimates as to the effect it will have, should it not meet with a veto, upon the national revenues. The following figures from official documents are of interest: The treasury estimate for the fiscal year 1895 aggregates revenues of $454,427,748 from these sources: Customs, $190,000,000; internal revenue, $160,000,000; miscellaneous, $20,000,000; postal service, $86,427,748. The estimate of revenue under the tariff bill as passed by the house made a total of $442,085,177.32, divided as follows: Customs, $124,657,429; Internal revenue, under present laws, $160,000,000; Internal revenue, additional under house bill, $53,000,000; Miscellaneous items, under present laws, $20,000,000; Postal service, under present laws, $84,427,748. The estimate of revenue under the house bill as amended and passed by the senate July 3, 1894, exceeds in the aggregate both the two previous estimates and gives the following showing: Customs, $179,251,142; internal revenue, as above stated, $213,000,000; miscellaneous items, as above stated, $20,000,000; postal service, as above stated, $84,427,748. Total, $496,678,890. Under the house bill, the ad valorem rates of duty showed a decrease of duty amounting to $73,716,023, and under the senate bill the decrease of duty is shown at $19,122,310. In this computation articles that are free from duty are excluded. The following table in this connection shows the dutiable value under the present law as $400,609,858.46, with a duty of $198,378,452, the ad valorem rate being 49.58 per cent. Under the house bill dutiable value, $351,041,963; duty, $24,657,429; ad valorem rate, 35.51. Under the senate bill dutiable value, $468,447,163; duty, $179,251,142; ad valorem rate, 38.68.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: McCollough, Lucas, Norment and Appell, citizens of Darlington charged with the killing of Constable Pepper in the Darlington riot, were given a hearing in habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Watts Wednesday. McCollough was granted bail at $2,500. He gave it. The other three men were discharged for want of evidence.

The great coal miners' strike in Alabama is now a thing of the past. Wednesday night the miners' executive committee met with President Baxter, General Manager Debardeleben and Superintendent McCormick, of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railway Company, and signed and agreement and the strike, through a card from President Tournier, of the miners' committee, has been declared off.

Fire, which caused a loss of about $250,000, broke out Wednesday afternoon on the top floor of a five-story brick building in New York city. The building was occupied by R. C. Williams & Co., wholesale grocers, and the damage to their stock will amount to about $225,000, while the building was damaged to the extent of $25,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A Savannah, Ga., special says: Mr. H. M. Comer positively denies that there is any foundation for the rumor circulated in the city that the reorganization plan of Drexel, Morgan & Co. for the Central railroad properties had fallen through, and that the reorganization would be taken charge of by Senator Brice and General Thomas, who had, it was said, formed a syndicate for the purpose of securing control of the underlying securities.

The labor convention at Columbus, O., for the purpose of taking independent action in politics was called to order by President McBryde Wednesday morning in the Trades Assembly hall. The only approach toward speechmaking was by Temporary Chairman Bramschweiger, who said that the convention was only the result of a movement among the trade unions all over the country in favor of united and independent political action.

The populists of the seventh Mississippi congressional district in a meeting at Jackson nominated Dr. A. M. Newman, of Franklin, for congress over Dr. S. W. Robinson, of Rankin, the populite nominee of two years ago, by a vote of 24 to 8. This was the largest populite congressional convention ever held in the city. J. F. McDougall, of Kansas, was present and addressed the convention. Old-time republicans mingled and shook hands with the populite delegates.

The Indiana state democratic convention met in Indianapolis with a full representation of delegates, numbering over one thousand seven hundred. At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning the resolutions committee was still at work. It leaked out just prior to the time for calling the convention to order that the stumbling block was the endorsement of Senator Voorhees. The Voorhees men on the committee demanded his endorsement, while the friends of Governor Matthews insisted that the latter should be lauded and the senator condemned.

At a special meeting of the directors of the Washington, D. C., board of trade Wednesday on the subject of the coming convention at Washington Thursday and Friday, August 30th and 31st, of southern boards of trade, governors, mayors and merchants and manufacturers to consider the advisability of a permanent exhibit of resources of the south, it was decided to hold the convention at Willard's hall. The parlors of Willard's hotel will be the headquarters of the convention. A large attendance is expected, particularly from southern boards.

Editor Chilton VIEW:—THE VIEW is authorized to announce that I am a candidate for renomination and that while it might advance my interest to make a personal canvass the perilous position of the tariff measure on which we have been working one year requires the presence of every Democratic representative, therefore I shall remain in my seat until the crisis is passed and leave the question of endorsement without pleading my own cause to the Democratic convention of the Fourth district.

Age-Herald

FOR KOLB MEN TO STUDY.

Capt. Kolb claims to have been elected by 18,000 majority, This means that the Democrats stole 9,000 of his votes and then stuffed in 25,000 to make up their majority. In other words, Capt. Kolb charges fraud to the extent of 34,000 votes. That is 15,000 more than the aggregate majorities in Dallas, Hale, Lowndes, Macon, Madison, Marengo, Montgomery, Wilcox, Barbour, and Bullock. So that if every vote of the majorities in those Black Belt counties were fraudulent, it would not equal the amount of fraud involved in the captain's claim.

But Captain Kolb always makes his figures on the white counties as against the black counties.

In 1892 the Democrats carried 26 counties and Captain Kolb forty. Of the twenty-six there were thirteen of what are known as Black Belt counties, and thirteen white Of Captains Kolb's forty counties two were Black Belt counties and thirty-eight white.

In 1894 the Democrats carried thirty-one counties, fourteen Black Belt and seventeen white. Captain Kolb lost one black and four white. So far as the counties are concerned, therefore, the Democrats made a distinct and emphatic gain in the white.

Now as to majorities. Leaving Jefferson out of the count as being too close to make any difference one way or the other, Captain Kolb carried his thirty-thre white counties as follows:

Walker.....	314	Franklin...	590
Geneva.....	400	Bibb.....	517
Cullman.....	283	Chilton	809
Lawrence..	1463	Cherokee ...	776
Coosa.....	518	Butler.....	7 24
Limestone..	158	Cleburne...	254
Tuscaloosa..	225	Clay.....	100
Marshall....	623	Coffee.....	311
Shelby.....	482	DeKalb.....	175
Crenshaw...	68	Etowah.....	559
St Clair.....	1200	Blount.....	150
Dale.....	567	Fayette.....	581
Elmore.....	994	Conecuh...	449
Choctaw.....	300	Covington..	70
Tallapoosa...	600	Randolph..	300
Talladega....	108
Chambers....	436	Total.....	15409
Winston.....	300

Col. Oates received majorities in his seventeen white counties as follows:

Lamar.....	255	Clarke.....	716
Madison.....	1443	Baldwin...	80
Pickens.....	70	Escambia..	95
Jackson.....	295	Henry.....	388
Marion.....	476	Monroe.....	1200
Lauderdale..	870	Washington.	250
Morgan.....	89	Mobile.....	800
Pike.....	260
Calhoun.....	470	Total.....	7918
Colbert.....	211

Captain Kolb's net majorities in the white counties, therefore, were only 7,491.

Now let us take the charge of the Kolb party that the negroes in the Black Belt did not register except to a limited extent and eliminate the negro vote utterly from the account. In the fifteen Black Belt counties there were 21,674 white voters in 1890 on the basis 1 to 5. They now number at least 24,000. No argument or statement even is necessary to reform any man that three-fourths of these white men are Democrats and voted for Col. Oates. It is an extremely liberal estimate to say that the sprinkling of white Kolb men in the white beats of these counties foots up a total of 6000. Yet, assuming that liberal basis, it leaves a white Democratic Oates majority in the Black Belt of 13,000 votes.

Now take Capt Kolb's entire net majority in the white counties 7491 votes it thirty-two counties, having gained in two more than twice as many as Kolb. The Democrats' net gain in the white counties was 7,716.

So the Democrats gained 2,312 more in the white counties than they did in the Black Belt. And there is this striking difference Kolb's gain in the white counties was in negro votes. Talladega being a striking illustration, while the Democratic gains were of whites.

We have gone thus elaborately into this analysis, not to prove Colonel Oates' title clear, for it needs no proof, but to show in a clear manner to the voters of the Kolb party how plainly the facts are all against the declaration of Captain Kolb that he was counted out, and how foolish it would be for them to allow the leaders to provoke them into any sort of folly. The figures prove beyond all peradventure that even if the charges of fraud made by the leaders were true, yet the honest, square, overwhelming majority, and a white majority at that, is with Oates. The convincing proof to the most prejudiced Kolb man lies in the fact that Oates is elected without a single negro vote from the Black Belt, So accept the result gracefully and let's go to work.

Col. J. M. Whitehead, one of the leading Populists of the state advises his brethern to be careful about their meetings on August 23rd. He advises that if they think they have been wronged to patiently wait until the people shall see the justice of their cause by legal, peaceful methods gain the victory. Col. Whitehead is an enthusiastic Populist but sees the futility of trying to do what Kolb would have done. In this same connection Col. Troy the free lawyer for the Kolbites in response to many letters asking what is best to be done, says: "for a good citizen there is no alternative but to submit and to continue to discharge the duties of good citizenship, seeking by law to punish its violators".

Upwards of four thousand miners of the Birmingham district went out on a strike four months ago. They refused to accept the company's offer. After losing 4 months time and work of being the direct cause of untold disturbances some bloodshed and destruction of property and of thousands of dollars of cost on the State, they virtually accept the offers made them and are now at work. We are not discussing the justice or injustice of their course, but it is clear that strikes are failures when it comes to settling differences. They make bad matters worse. Our State and national legislatures must establish boards of arbitration to which such differences should be referred.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 25 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have undisturbed rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 25 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

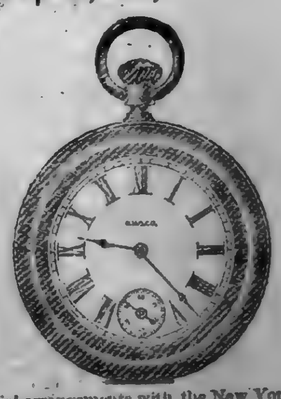
Our Great Offer!
The Newyork Weekly World,
One Year, With
The Improved "Columbia" Watch
And
The Chilton VIEw
One Year
ALL FOR $2,65,



We have made special arrangements with the New York World by which we can send to our patrons The Weekly World and this paper, for 1 year each, and the celebrated Columbia Watch for the exceedingly low of 2.65. The watch will not be sold alone at any price; neither will it be furnished save in connection with the Weekly World.

THIS IS A CHANCE OF LIFE TIME.

to get twe good papers and a reliable time piece for almost nothing.

The Columbia Watch, for the kind, is first class in every respect. It combines a small movement all the advantages of a first-class chronometer. It has the best stem wind movement, with spring in a hard, steel pinion; clean, free train and is an A 1 time keeper. Thousands have tested them, and we have many testimonials of their worth. It is 1 1-32 inches in thickness and 2 5-8 inches in diameter. It is just what thousands of boys, and men too, all over the country have been aching to posess. It is such a watch as a workingman has been wishing to take the factory, to the shop, to the mill, or to any place where a valuable watch is liable to suffer from wear or exposure. Address

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mrs. Pinckard of Memphis is visiting relatives at this place.

The VIEW wants the correct Post Office address of Jno. B. Moore.

Mr. Wiley F. Tunstal of Anniston was in Chilton for a couple of days.

Mrs. McMorries and Miss Glennie have returned from Prattville.

Miss Ola McRee has returned home after a pleasant visit to relatives in south Alabama.

Parties from the North are writing us, writing to buy land. If you have any for sale let me know.

Chas. W. Hare.

In our Congressional Convention Saturday we trust nothing of unpleasantness shall enter.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Lenoir and Mr. B. T. Rasberry of Lily are still in very poor health.

Col. Jno. McKleroy is a strong clean gentleman and will carry considerable strength into the congressional race.

Miss Minnie Pinckard has returned home after an extended visit to relatives in Atlanta.

Col. W. T. Smith of Shelby is a candidate for congress. He is a good man and would faithfully represent this district if elected.

One of our old citizens, Mr. Raleigh Latham died at his home August 10th He has been sick for six months and death was not an unexpected visitor. He left a good name to his family and friends.

Our sanctam was brighten last Friday by Misses Ruth Dejarnett and Nellie Holt of Montgomry. The healthful breze of Clanton we trust will restore them both to vigorous health.

Reports from all parts of the county indicates that we will make a big corn crop. Prof Spear informs us that corn and early cotton are especially fine in the Lily community.

Mr. J. J. Willett of Anniston was a visitor to Clanton last week, He was here in the interest of Capt. Jno. M. McKleroy Col. McKleroy is a candidate for Congress and but for being ill would have spent some days in the County.

Mr. George Jones died near Jumbo last Friday morning. He leaves a widow and five little children. We tender our sympathy and commend them to Him who watches tenderly over the widow and orphan.

Congressman Robbins was circulating among his constituents here this week, While he will have strong opposition yet he thinks the chances for his nomination are good. He has made a creditable congressman and his friends believe he should be reelected.

Prof. B. H. Giles professor of English of Howard College was with us last Sunday and gave interesting talks to the Sabbath School. He spent several weeks at the University of Chicago and is now prepared better than ever to direct his pupils in their English course.

We are having a glorious meeting in Clanton. Day and night. brother Wood has preached some stirring sermons. There is little or no excitement but a deep work of grace is going on. Christians are aroused to a deeper sense of duty, and sinners are inquiring the way of life. All hearts are hoping for a great revival in Clanton.

Death has again invaded our little town. This time he bears off Mr. W. H. Philips, who for several years has been a quiet but great sufferer. The writer had but a slight acquaintance with Mr. Philips but was always impressed with his quiet gentlemanly bearing. His many friends deeply sympathize with that patient loving wife, sisters and brothers and trust that they may fully realize the comforts of our Heavenly Father.

I want every family in Clanton to know that I will cut and haul stove or fire wood as cheap as such work can be done.

J. K. McDaniel.

Miss Adelaide Northington is charming little Miss of Prattville and her sister Miss Dora are visiting the family of Prof. McMorries.

Parties who own Jersey and other kinds of bulls should not allow them to run at large. They me danger ous and may kill some child

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

A large number of the Democrats of beat 4 held a mass meeting last Saturday afternoon and appointed a committee to suggest names to be voted for next Friday as our delegates to the county convention to be held in clanton on next Saturday 25th. The names are selected from every part of the beat and we believe will give complete satisfaction. The following is the list.

M. A. Watts, Dr. Stewart Thos A. curry, Lee Stewart, P. M. McKee, E. H. Parish, John Garner, T. E. Gilchrist, F. M. Fair, W. H. Sarter, W. L. Sampey, O. Mullins, W. M. Gore Jr. W. T. callen

Messrs I. H. Shoults and W. Latham were visitors to our town Monday.

Miss Mary Holt, Messrs Holt, Pickett, Hardaway, catts, Gullette and Stradford of Montgomery spent Sunday here.

The Chilton Co. Singing convention will meet at Enterprise near Energy Po. five miles West of Coosa Sta. the 15th. and 16th. of Sept. 1894 which embraces the Third Sabbath and Saturday before in Sept. All persons who are desirous to sing songs to the honor and praise of the Lord and encourage others in the good work are earnestly requested to meet the 15th by 10 A. M. come, and share the hospitalities of the energetic people of Enterprise.

J. E. White President.

Verbena Views.

To the Chilton VIEW.

Mr F. W Fike of Montgomery has purchased the Bethea place at Verbena.

Mr. J. C Fike, of Deatsville, has moved to Verbena to enter his son Jesse in the Verbena High School.

The election is over and by the good works of our people Alabama has Oates for 2 years. Now let us farmers plant and raise Oates enough to feed our horses and cows for 2 years and if our oats should give out let us be prepared for Johnson Grass. What we want is Oates and Cobs with corn on them or corn with Cobs. But no Kolb so let him emigrate.

SNAP.

Mt. Creek Creakings.

The creek is still here Am glad to inform you I have a new suboriber for the VIEW think I will send you more later on.

Farmers are pulling fodder and there is some talk of cotton picking. The business season will soon be on crops are generally good and farmers are cheerful.

T. J. Henderson will soon put up a gin at Mt. Creek and be ready to gin the cotton of his friends around in reach of him.

Mr J. M. Fike was in town this morning.

Mr. M. D. Pinson will move into town this week.

Miss Fannie Falkner is visiting relatives in Montgomery.

Miss Amelia Pylant is visiting relatives in Wetumpka.

Miss Clara Marbury and Miss Lula Parker were at Mt. Creek Sunday.

Many good wishes for the VIEW.

TRIXY.

TOPICS OF THE TURN AROUND.

Rather too much rain fell in this section, causing the cotton to shed and rust. The corn crop has been made in this section. Dry weather is needed for curing fodder and millet. The corn crop will be a good one. Potatoes are growing fast and gardens are flourishing, melons plentiful, sugar cane doing well, pea crop excellent; pastures improved. Mr. W. H. Kendrick and wife visited friends at Elmore Station last week.

Mr. P. M. Jones visited relatives at Mt. Creek last Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Stewart filled his regular appointment at the M. P. church Saturday and Sunday.

THE TRUST AFTER NO-TO-BAC.

Rumored That Half a Million Tobacco Users Will Be Cured in '96 by the Use of No-To-Bac, Causing a Loss of Many Millions of Dollars to Tobacco Manufacturers.

CHICAGO, August 11.—[Special.]—It was reported to-day that a large sum of money has been offered the proprietors of the cure for the tobacco habit called "No-To-Bac," which is famous all over the country for its wonderful effect. This offer, it was said, was made by parties who desire to take it off the market and stop its sale, because of its injury to the tobacco business. Mr. H. L. Kramer, general manager of the No-To-Bac business, was interviewed at his office, 45 Randolph street, and when questioned promptly said:

"No, sir; No-To-Bac is not for sale to the tobacco trust. We just refused a half million from other parties for our business. Certainly No-To-Bac affects the tobacco business. It will cure over a half million people in 1896, at an average saving of $50, which each would otherwise expend for tobacco, amounting in round figures to $25,000,000. Of course, tobacco manufacturers' and dealers' loss is the gain of the party taking No-To-Bac. Does No-To-Bac benefit physically? Yes, sir. The majority of our patients report an immediate gain in flesh, and their nicotine saturated systems are cleansed and made vigorous. How is No-To-Bac sold? Principally through our traveling agents. We employ over a thousand. It is also sold by druggists, wholesale and retail, throughout the United States and Canada. How are patients assured that No-To-Bac will affect a cure in their case? We absolutely guarantee three boxes, costing $2.50, to cure any case. Failure to cure means the money back. Of course there are failures, but they are few, and we can better afford to have the good will of an occasional failure than his money. We publish a little book called 'Don't Tobacco Spit or Smoke Your Life Away,' that tells all about No-To-Bac, which will be mailed free to any one desiring it by addressing the Sterling Remedy Co., 45-49 Randolph street, Chicago."

Paint for Iron.

A good metallic paint for preserving iron exposed to the weather is made as follows: Pulverize oxides of iron such as red and yellow ochres, or brown hematite iron ores, finely ground and simply mixed with linseed oil and a drier. White lead applied directly to iron is considered to have a corrosive effect.

IT IS PASSED.

The House Accepts the Senate Bill in Toto

RATHER THAN CONTINUE TO FIGHT FOR ITS OWN.

Special Measures Passed Placing Sugar, Iron Ore and Coal On the Free List.

Monday the house democratic caucus adopted a resolution, by a vote of 130 to 21, discharging the house conferees from further consideration of the tariff bill and agreeing to the senate bill. The resolution also provided that sugar, coal, iron ore and barbed wire should be put on the free list by means of separate bills, which it is purposed to report from the ways and means committee at once. The resolution in its full text was as follows:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that the order heretofore made requesting a conference with the senate on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on house resolution 4,864 be rescinded; that the conferees heretofore appointed on the part of the house be discharged from further duty in its behalf and that the house recede from its disagreement to the senate amendments to said bill and agree to the same.

Resolved further, That the house shall at once proceed to the consideration of separate bills placing the following articles on the free list, viz., sugar in all its forms, iron ore, coal and barbed wire."

The committee on rules is requested to make an order providing for the prompt consideration of such motion and bills.

How the Bill Was Passed.

After the reading of the house journal Monday, Mr. Sayers offered a joint resolution extending until the 24th instant, the provisions of the joint resolution carrying forward the appropriations upon the basis of those for the past year. The joint resolution was passed. District of Columbia business was undertaken, but discussion of the first bill called up was interrupted by the introduction of the expected order from the committee on rules relating to the consideration of the tariff bill and cognate measures, which was proposed by Mr. Cathings. It provided, first, that it shall be in order after the passage of the order, to move that the action of the house requesting a further conference on the tariff bill be rescinded; that the conferees be discharged from further duty in connection therewith, and that the house agree to the senate amendments in bulk, which motion shall be debated two hours, when the vote on its adoption and the motion shall be indivisible. General leave to print on the subject is given for ten days. Second, that it shall be in order after the introduction of the order to present in the house and consider, without reference to any committee, bills for placing sugar, coal, iron ore and barbed wire upon the free list. Thirty minutes shall be given for the discussion of each bill and then a vote shall be taken. Mr. Catchings moved the previous question, and Mr. Reed raised a point of order against the resolution. The point of order, after a heated discussion, was overruled by the speaker.

The question then being on agreeing to the resolution, Mr. Reed demanded a division. The speaker announced the vote as 188, three more than a quorum. Mr. Reed demanded the yeas and nays. The house order was adopted—76 to 97, not voting 11. Upon the announcement of the vote Chairman Wilson immediately submitted in writing the motion provided for in the order adopted.

Mr. Reed made the point of order that the bill was not before the house. The bill had been brought in, however, during the roll call, and the speaker pointed to it. Mr. Reed resumed his seat and Mr. Wilson took the floor. He spoke but ten minutes at the opening of the debate. He then reserved the balance of his time and Mr. Reed, the leader of the opposition, took the floor. The gentleman from Maine aroused his followers to the highest pitch of enthusiasm. Mr. McMillin, a member of the ways and means committee, followed Mr. Reed.

Mr. Wilson then yielded a few minutes to Mr. Pence, of Colorado, the leader of the populists, who said that the populists had thought and thought still, that the contest over the tariff between the two old parties was a good deal of a mock conflict, and a sham battle. Mr. Cockran, of New York, was given the closest attention by the expectant galleries and was at times enthusiastically applauded from each side of the chamber as his sledge-hammer blows were dealt at the McKinley law or the senate bill.

Speaker Crisp, in his speech closing the debate upon the tariff bill, said he desired to publicly assume full responsibility for what the house was about to do and to aver that it was in the best interest of tariff reform. Referring to the matter of trusts, Mr. Crisp said if there were any in this country they had been created by the republican party, and while the bill did not uproot them, as he wished it did, it reduced the rates of duty on articles controlled by them 50 per cent. "Going through this schedule," said Mr. Crisp in conclusion, "whilst it is not all we wish, it is the best we can now get. The moment we get this schedule, we intend to move forward; we do not intend that there shall be any backward step in tariff reform. (Applause.) We believe that the adjournment of this congress without the passage of some kind of a tariff bill would be a blow at tariff reform from which it would not recover for years to come." (Long and continued applause.) At the close of Mr. Crisp's speech there was great noise, confusion and excitement in the hall.

Then Mr. Wilson arose and corrected a statement he had made in his opening speech to the effect that $100,000,000 worth of raw sugar had been purchased by the sugar trust in anticipation of the passage of the sugar schedule of the senate bill. He had been mistaken, he afterward learned. The trust had purchased 448,000 tons, amounting in dollars and cents to about $25,000,000. In conclusion, Mr. Wilson said this was not a time for democratic enthusiasm. It was plain democratic necessity. But if the democratic party was to live—if it did live—it would not lay down its weapons until it had made it impossible in this country to lay burdens on one class of our citizens for the enrichment of another. Mr. Wilson then demanded a vote on the resolution. The yeas and nays were ordered and resulted—yeas 182, nays 106, present and not voting, 3. The democrats who voted against the motion were Messrs. Cockran of New York, Covert of New York, Davey of Louisiana, Dunphy of New York, Everett of Massachusetts, Gorman of Michigan, Hendrix of New York, Johnson, of Ohio, Meyer, of Louisiana, Price, of Louisiana, Tarsney, of Missouri, and Warner, of New York. The populists voted for the motion. During the afternoon there were many senators present, and most of them remained until the bill passed. Among them were Messrs. Brice, Gray, Chandler, Davis, Coke and Patton.

THE FREE LIST BILL.

Mr. Wilson then immediately rose and offered the first of the separate free list bills in accordance with the resolution adopted by the caucus. It provided for the free admission upon its passage of bituminous coal, shale, slack and coke. The vote upon the bill by tellers was 78 to 47. Mr. Reed raised the point of no quorum and Mr. Wilson demanded the yeas and nays. The bill passed. Yeas, 160; nays, 104; answering as present, 1. Twenty-one democrats voted against the bill as follows: Messrs. Alderson, of West Virginia, Bankhead, of Alabama, Boatner, of Louisiana, Burns, of Missouri, Crain, of Texas, Davey, of Louisiana, Denson, of Alabama, Edmunds, of Virginia, Epps, of Virginia, Kribbs, of Pennsylvania, McKaig, of Maryland, Oates, of Alabama, Reilly, of Pennsylvania, Robbins, of Alabama, Swanson of Virginia, Tucker of Virginia, Tyler of Virginia, Wise of Virginia, Weadock of Michigan, Wheeler of Alabama, and Wolverton of Pennsylvania. Mr. Haugen, of Wisconsin, was the only republican voting aye. The free iron ore bill was next on the programme. It passed—yeas 163 to 102. The democrats voting against it were: Messrs. Alderson of West Virginia, Bankhead of Alabama, Beltzhoover of Pennsylvania, Boatner of Louisiana, Davey of Louisiana, Denson of Alabama, Edmunds of Virginia, Meyer of Louisiana, Oates of Alabama, Price of Louisiana, Reilly of Pennsylvania, Robbins of Alabama, Robertson of Louisiana, Swanson of Virginia, Weadcock of Michigan, Wheeler of Alabama, and Wise of Virginia. The free barbed wire bill passed promptly—yeas 187, nays 84. Free sugar passed—yeas 276 to 11—and the house, at 10:25 o'clock, adjourned until Wednesday next. Those who voted against free sugar were Messrs. Boatner, Davey, Meyer, Ogden, Price and Robertson, democrats, of Louisiana; Everett and Stevenson, democrats, of Massachusetts; Harmer and Reyburn, republicans, of Pennsylvania, and Sperry, democrat, of Connecticut. This was the largest aye and nay vote ever cast in the house of representatives.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The Tradesman, Chattanooga, Tenn., in its report on the industrial condition of the South for the past week says: The week just ended has shown a considerable increase in the number of newly established industries, indicating that the revival in Southern developement is in active progress. The prosperous condition of the farmers and planters, whose large crops are not grown this season as in former years by means of advances on mortgages, is having a good effect on all kinds of business. Cotton will this year be to a great extent a ready money crop, and the needs of the Southern people will be supplied with home grown bread and meat to a greater extent than ever before.

Forty-eight new industries were established or incorporated during the week, prominent among which are: The Steven-on Coal Co., of Parkersburg, W. Va., capital $500,000; a $300,000 cotton mill at Bath, S. C., and a 1,000 ton sawmill at Bamkie, La.; the Santee River Cypress Lumber Co., of Furguson, S. C., capital $300,000; and the Panther Lumber Co., of McDowell, W. Va., with the same capital. The Nesbitt Cotton Mill Co., has been chartered at Nesbit, S. C., with $200,000 capital; the Columbia Concrete Co., at Alexandria, Va., also with $200,000 capital; the M. C. Kiser Co., of Atlanta, Ga., capital $125,000, and the N. Auth Mfg. Co., of Alexandria, Va., capital $100,000, are also reported. A $100,000 phosphate company has been organized at Tampa, Fla.; a $50,000 granite quarrying company at Norfolk, Va., and one with $30,000 capital at Southport, N. C.; a $50,000 coal company at Norton, Va.; a $25,000 milling company at Taylorsville, Ky., and a $25,000 lumber company at Onyks, Miss.

There is also reported cotton mills at Chattanooga, Tenn., and Palestine, Tex.; electrical plants at Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., Ashland, Ky., and Oxford, Miss.; flour and grist mills at Frankfort, Ky., Raleigh, N. C., Austin, Tex., Luray, Va., and Kingwood, W. Va., and an iron working plant at Chattanooga, Tenn. Tin plate works on a large scale are to be established at Wheeling, W. Va., an ice factory at Bluefield, W. Va.; marble works at Fort Smith, Ark.; an oil mill at Alexandria, La.; a quarry at La Vergne, Tenn., and soap works at Augusta, Ga., and Fayetteville, N. C.; Wood-working plants are reported at Sullivan, Ala., Tampa, Thonotosassa and Winderm re, Fla., Meridian, Miss., and Wilson, W. V.; and water works at Avon Park, Fla., Audubon and Ashland, Ky., and Oxford and Water Valley, Miss.

The enlargements for the week include a knitting mill at Raleigh, N. C.; cotton mills at Mountain Island and Rockingham, N. C., and Pacolet, S. C., an electrical company at Nashville, Tenn., a machine shop at Montgomery, Ala., and saw mills at Fort Myers and St. Augustine, Fla. Among the new buildings are an academy at Waynesboro, Ga., and a college at Cooper, Tex.; a $20,000 hotel at Bayou Sara, La.; residences at New Orleans, La., and a large warehouse at Bluefield, W. Va.

THE EXPOSITION BILL

Appropriating $200,000 for the Atlanta Show Passes the House.

A Washington special says: Colonel Livingston's bill, substituted by Representative Cannon for the senate amendment, passed the house by acclamation Friday. It appropriates $200,000 and the administration building at Chicago for the Cotton States and International exposition.

SOUTHERN SPECIALS

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Judge Talley, of Huntsville, Ala., will apply to the supreme court for a rehearing in his impeachment trial.

H. H. Bales, of Chattanooga, who disappeared from that city three weeks ago and was supposed to have been murdered, has returned. He says he has been out west for his health.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company reports that their miners, who have been on a strike four months have agreed to go to work on the company's terms, which means 38½ cents per ton for mining coal. This puts 2,000 men to work in the district.

A Huntsville, Ala., special says: Sheriff Powell and Chief of Police Davis have arrested nine negroes, one a woman, near Madison station, charged with burning the barn and nine horses of Humphrey brothers, in Limestone county, last May. The proof is said to be conclusive against them.

The News and Observer, the leading democratic newspaper in North Carolina, has changed hands. Mr. Josephus Daniels is the president of the new company, which is a strong one and embraces many of the leading men of the state. An entire new outfit has been provided and an extensive special news service will be organized.

The largest fire ever known in Demopolis, Ala., occurred Saturday. It broke out in the ceiling of the Webb building, the pride of Demopolis. The origin of the fire is unknown. The building is a total loss. It cost $16,000. The insurance is $10,000. A number of firms occupying the building were burned out. The total loss will reach $40,000.

Reports sent out from the vicinity of Fort Worth, Texas, to the effect that boll worms had appeared in large numbers and threatened the destruction of the cotton crop are without foundation. A few worms have appeared in some localities, but not in numbers sufficient to create any alarm. The cotton crop all over northern Texas is better than it has been for years.

The grand lodge of the Knights and Ladies of Honor met at Jackson, Miss., Tuesday, in the thirteenth annual session. Thirty-two lodges were represented. The address of the grand protector, grand treasurer and the grand secretary show the order to be prosperous. The total membership in the state is 1776. Twenty-one deaths occurred during the year and $34,000 was paid to beneficiaries.

The Tillman and Central Club met at Charleston about one hundred and fifty strong and elected forty delegates to a reform convention. They were instructed to vote for delegates to the state reform convention in Columbia who would vote for John Gary Evans. The meeting was held with closed doors and an attempt on the part of a crowd, who wanted to elect Tindall delegates, to get in was frustrated.

Plans for the reorganization of the East Tennessee Land Company have been perfected at Nashville. The company owns the town of Harriman and a large quantity of mineral land adjoining. Some time ago it went into a receiver's hands, ex-Postmaster General James being the receiver. The majority of the stockholders are eastern men. The plan of reorganization contemplates the carrying out of improvements originally intended, building furnaces, railroads, etc.

The North Carolina statehouse alliance met in annual convention at Greensboro, Tuesday. About 75 per cent of the counties of the state were represented. An effort is being made to put the alliance on its old footing. The officers now see the mistake of bringing politics into the order, and the delegates are trying to avoid partisan questions. At the afternoon session the question of establishing a statehouse exchange was discussed, and aroused great enthusiasm.

Tuesday the North Carolina state agricultural department summarized the crop returns for July as sent in by more than a thousand correspondents. The condition of crops is as follows: Rice 90, corn 101, cotton 94, tobacco 83, field peas 92, sweet potatoes 91, peanuts 89, sorghum cane 90, turnip crop seeded will be 94 per cent, condition of fall planting Irish potatoes 80 per cent. As to fruits, apples are only 21, peaches 15 and grapes 63. The corn crop is the finest ever known in the state.

THE WRECK WAS FEARFUL

And the Loss of Life Appalling on the Rock Island Road.

A special from Lincoln, Neb., says: It was long after daylight before the burning pile at the scene of Thursday night's frightful railroad wreck had sufficiently cooled to allow the gruesome work of removing the debris and search for the victims to begin. The corrected list of dead is as follows:

C. D. Stannard, conductor; Ike Depew, engineer; William Craig, fireman; W. O. Hamble, farmer; Joseph Mynger, farmer; E. H. Zeernecke, abstractor; Henry Peters, Omaha; L. D. Matthews, traveling man; Dr. C. N. Birney, Council Bluffs; E. H. Myers, traveling man; A. B. Abee, insurance agent; J. N. Beaver, clothier. All the above were buried in the wreck and so badly burned as to be almost unrecognizable.

The list of injured is large but none are seriously hurt.

Everything points to the fact that the train was deliberately wrecked. Officials of the Rock Island railroad will accept no other theory, and have offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the miscreants. The fish plates were removed with a crowbar, which was found with the plates, in the tall grass near the burned bridge. The rail was left in place, so that the engineer was unable to discover the dastardly work.

Floor Stain.

A good, cheap and permanent stain for floors is permanganate of potash. It can be bought at a wholesale chemist's by the quarter of a pound, and about one-fourth of an ounce in a quart of water and apply quickly and freely to a dry floor with either cloth or a brush. Repeat the process if a dark color is desired. When dry, oil with burnt oil or beeswax and turpentine. The stain when first applied appears a bright magenta, but at once changes to a permanent brown.

Makes hard water soft

—Pearline. Every woman knows just what that means to her. Washing in hard water is so difficult, and the results so poor. Pearline reduces the labor, whether you use soft water or hard. But use Pearline, and it's just as easy to wash with hard water as with soft water—and the results are just as good. Pearline saves more than your labor, though. We'll tell you of these savings from time to time. Keep your eye on Pearline "ads."

THINGS YET TO BE.

Some say this world is an old, old world,
But it's always been new to me;
With its boundless range of ceaseless change,
And hope of things to be.
A new friend takes my hand
When the old ones pass away;
The old days die, but the light in the sky
Is the dawn of another day.

Some say this world is a cold, cold world,
But it's always been bright to me;
With its heartstrong fires and warm desires
For the things that are yet to be.
And if I must labor, I wait,
And trust to the fields I have sown;
For I know there is truth in the promise of youth;
I will some time come to my own.

Some say this world is a sad, sad world,
But it's always been glad to me;
For the brook never laughs like my soul
when it quaffs
And feasts on the things to be.
The night comes on with its rest;
The morning comes on with its song;
The hours of grief are few and brief,
But joy is a whole life long.

Some say this world is a bad, bad world,
But it's always been good to me;
With its errors there live dear hearts that forgive,
And hope for the things to be.
This world is not old or cold;
This world is not sad or bad,
If you look to the right, forgetting the night,
And say to your soul "Be glad."

THE OTHER GIRL.

BY HELEN FORREST GRAVES.

"LETTER from her lover!" cried Grace Burney. "Why, I do think she ought to be the happiest girl in the world. I only wish I had a lover to get letters from."

"She don't seem a bit happy," said little Ernestine Vanx, in an awed whisper. "Oh, dear, how I should like to read a real lover's letter!"

And all the time Lesbia Field sat quite silent, her eyes fixed on vacancy, and a troubled curve to her lip.

The three girls were guests of Mrs. Delacroix, an elegant elderly lady, who liked to surround herself with the society of attractive young people, seeing that she had no daughters and nieces of her own.

She had met Lesbia Field, one summer, in a lonely place in the woods, and had perceived her capabilities at once.

"That girl," said Mrs. Delacroix, "has it in her to make a success in society. The idea of her wasting her sweetness in a place like this!"

And she boldly asked Aunt Zilpah Field to "lend" Lesbia to her, for a season.

"She hain't got no clothes," said the old woman, dubiously, adjusting her spectacles on the bridge of her nose. "'That is, fit for the city. To-be-sure, she's got a little schoolin' money laid up, and I could lend her fifty dollars out of the bank—"

"Oh, I'll see to all that!" said Mrs. Delacroix, joyfully.

Of course Lesbia was fascinated by the charming city lady, and allowed herself to be carried off without the least protestation. And, in the general novelty and confusion of things, she never said a word about her engagement to Thomas Tarbox.

Thomas was a hard working schoolmaster in an adjoining country district, and Lesbia had thought it a great piece of good fortune when he asked her to be his wife.

They had planned a simple country home and a lifetime of quiet happiness together, and Mr. Tarbox was rather surprised when he heard of Lesbia's abrupt departure. Nor did the letter she afterward sent him quite explain the puzzle.

"Lesbia is young," he told himself. "She will enjoy a brief glimpse of the city."

"Thomas will never understand!" was Lesbia's impatient thought.

Mrs. Delacroix had borrowed Lesbia for only a few weeks at first, but a year went by. Aunt Zilpah paid the debt of nature, and still Miss Field remained with Mrs. Delacroix.

"I couldn't spare her, any way in the world," said the fashionable lady. "She writes my notes, prepares my menus and reads to me in that sweet voice of hers. My cousin, Grace Burney, is very well, and dear little Ernestine, my husband's relative, is a queen; but Lesbia suits me exactly."

Yes, it was a letter from Thomas Tarbox. He had an opportunity to come to New York, he wrote. He wanted to borrow among the treasures of the Astor Library for some data for an article he was preparing on "Ancient Coins and Their Significance," and he looked forward with pleasure to the chance of seeing Lesbia at last.

"How delightful!" said Mrs. Delacroix. "Of course, you're enraptured, dear!"

Lesbia looked up with a sudden start—a conventional smile.

Was she enraptured?

And in the same moment a guilty pang pierced her heart. She felt like an arch-traitress.

"Ask him to come here," said Mrs. Delacroix. "There's the little room over the breakfast parlor—just the very thing for a bachelor's den."

"Oh, thanks, it's very kind of you!" said Lesbia, feeling her color come and go. "But, I—I don't think he'd like it here as well as a quieter place. He's rather shy and—and unaccustomed to society."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Delacroix.

But she looked somewhat curiously at Lesbia's burning cheek.

Little Ernestine crept closer to her.

"Is it very nice to receive a letter from your lover?" whispered she. "Oh, if I could only have a peep at it!"

"Nonsense!" said Lesbia, sharply.

But when she was in her own room the tears gushed to her eyes.

Was she really ashamed of honest Thomas Tarbox? and was it very wrong of her? Why had she declined for him Mrs. Delacroix's invitation to her ball the next week? Of course, he was a very worthy young man, but she shuddered as she thought of the clothes he would probably wear—of his country-cut hair—among Mrs. Delacroix's guests. Was she ashamed of him?

Grace Burney was chatting merrily with Miss Staats-Burgoyne when Lesbia came down to the dinner-table that evening.

"The handsomest man I ever saw!" said she. "Don't you think so, Sophy?"

"Oh, handsome—yes!" said Miss Staats-Burgoyne, who was a great heiress and a little niece of Mr. Staats Von Staatsburg on one side and sole daughter of the Burgoynes on the other. "But it isn't his face altogether so much as his elegant manners."

"Do invite me to the dinner," pleaded Grace. "I must meet him again."

"There's not a vacant seat for the dinner," said Miss Staats-Burgoyne. "The list is full. But you're down for the ball afterwards, dear."

"Oh, you darling!" chirped Grace. "And Lesbia, too?"

"Certainly—and Mrs. Delacroix to chaperone you," smiled the heiress, graciously.

"Oh, I wish I was old enough to go into society!" said Ernestine, despairingly.

"But," added Miss Staats-Burgoyne, "there's no use. I mean to fascinate him."

Grace tossed her head—one of the Tennysonian heads, "brimming over with curls" like a veritable sheet of sunshine.

"I flatter myself I've done something in that way myself," said she. "Only give me a chance, and I'll do more!"

"Girls, who is that you are talking about?" said Mrs. Delacroix.

"It's Mr. Evelyn, the Eastern traveler," said Grace. "He's to be at the Staats-Burgoyne dinner ball. "Oh, aunty, can't you get him to come here?"

Mrs. Delacroix shook her head.

"It isn't possible," said she. "His stay is to be so short, and he is so run after!"

"But, aunty, when he knows I am your guest!" pleaded Grace. "Because I met him last spring at Tuxedo Park. He was visiting the archæologist, Doctor Desson, you know, and we got to be good friends."

"To-be-sure!" observed Miss Staats-Burgoyne. "He's betrothed to some other woman—a boy and a girl engagement, I'm told."

"Fie for shame!" laughed Mrs. Delacroix. "Flirting with another girl's property!"

"All is fair," composedly spoke Miss Staats-Burgoyne, "in love and war."

"The other girl must take care of herself," said Grace. "I mean to be Mrs. Evelyn. Why, aunty, dear, every girl in society is wild after Mr. Evelyn!"

"Dinner is served!" pompously spoke the English butler, opening the satin portieres of the dining-room.

Lesbia Field had taken no note of the gay conversation transpiring around her. She was still thinking in a perplexed way of the letter she had that morning received.

How should she reply to it? In what words should she make poor Thomas Tarbox understand that all her views of life had changed since she was district school teacher in Sacondaga County?

A sense of strange, sad guilt somehow overhung her. It seemed almost as if Thomas Tarbox were dying and being buried.

"Was it right?" she kept asking herself. "Was it right?"

And all at once common sense answered "No."

"I won't be so mean," thought Lesbia, with a little catching of the breath. "I'll telegraph to him and tell him to come right here, and then—then he will see how utterly impossible it is for me to keep my engagement. He was always a sensible young man, and—oh, I beg your pardon, Grace! You were speaking to me?"

"Speaking to you? Of course I was," laughed Miss Burney, of the sunny curls. "What sort of a brown study have you fallen into—with such a woe-begone face, too?"

"We're only telling us his possible case," explained Miss Staats-Burgoyne, slowly sipping a pineapple ice—"of Grace Burney stealing this elegant Eastern Apollo from his down-east fiancee. She declares she'll do it. And wouldn't it be nice to steal another woman's lover?"

"Are they already engaged?" listlessly asked Lesbia.

"Oh, yes, hard and fast!"

Lesbia shrugged one ivory-white shoulder.

"It's the other girl's business to take care of herself," murmured she.

"Oh, yes! society is all a battle, where every one's bound to shift for himself. It's all give and take."

And in her heart she thought of Thomas Tarbox, and wished she was in some dark, peaceful corner, where she could cry by herself, for this slow, torturing death of the old love was so hard—so hard!

But presently she resolved to put it all out of her head.

"If I'm going to the Staats-Burgoyne ball," she told herself, "I must have all my wits about me. It's great promotion to be asked to such a function—me, poor little Lesbia Field!"

A smile dimpled her lip as the sudden fancy crossed her mind of the little schoolma'am of Seconda listening to Thomas Tarbox's prosaic suit. Could it be possible that she was the same girl? And she didn't write the letter, after all.

Mrs. Delacroix had ordered two exquisite frocks for Lesbia and Grace.

"My girls must look as well as any one at this grande affaire!" said she. "Who knows but that they will meet their destinies?"

The Staats-Burgoyne mansion was a blaze of silver-tongued electric lights, a crush of flowers, a dream of Parisian toilettes, and in their midst Mrs. Delacroix felt a proud consciousness that Lesbia, in her ivory-white satin and rich old lace, set off by the Delacroix pearls, looked like a white rosebud, newly opened. She pulled at her hostess' sleeve.

"Dear Mrs. Staats-Burgoyne," she whispered, "is that the Eastern traveler—the tall man with the straight Greek profile and the towering height? Pray introduce him to Lesbia. I do so want the dear girls to meet him."

Mrs. Staats-Burgoyne smiled graciously.

"Miss Field," said she, "allow me to present to you Mr. Evelyn."

Lesbia turned with a little start from a group of fair maidens with whom she was talking.

The Eastern traveler bowed low, but Lesbia stood as if she were rooted to the ground.

"Miss Field does not remember that we are old friends," said Mr. Evelyn, with a certain well-bred composure. "I would have come to you at once, Miss Field, but you forbade me. I am now awaiting your summons."

"It—is never—Thomas Tarbox!" stammered Lesbia, her heart beating as if it would burst through its prison of satin and pearls.

"They call me Tom Evelyn now," said the elegant stranger, smiling curiously. "It was the condition on which I inherited the fortune that has enabled me to travel. I would have written you all about it, Lesbia, if you had condescended to answer my last letter. Will you favor me with the third waltz? And then perhaps we shall be able to talk a little more comprehensively."

He turned with consummate ease to greet a new crowd of strangers, all eager to be introduced to the lion of the evening.

Lesbia gazed at him with a delicious pride of possession; and yet, was he still hers?

"Lesbia!" cried Grace Burney. "You little arch deceiver, you have played us all false! You are 'the other girl!'"

Then, for the first time in her life, a sensation of mad jealousy gripped at her heart.

Was it the old love flaming up from its half distinct ashes? or was it a newer light, born of that blissful moment?

She replied to Grace's audacious speech only by a look.

Sophy Staats-Burgoyne recoiled.

"Hush, Grace!" said she. "She's really angry. It's a case of 'hands off.' The other girl is not to be trifled with."

Until the longed-for waltz came, Lesbia Field was wretched. She looked piteously up into Mr. Evelyn's face as he offered her his arm.

"So I have changed?" said he, half smiling.

"Oh, Thomas!"

"And if you're not ashamed of me—"

"Please don't, Thomas!"

"My darling, pardon me," murmured he. "You are prettier than ever, and I am more in love with you than I was before. Still, if you desire to be released from our engagement—"

"Oh, Thomas, no!"

"You are pale. Does this whirling step make you giddy? Then we will sit out a little while."

When they returned from the cool shadows of Mrs. Staats-Burgoyne's orchid house, Lesbia took the Eastern traveler straight to Mrs. Delacroix.

"Lesbia," cried the old lady, "why didn't you tell me?"

"Because," whispered Lesbia, "I didn't know."

Sophy and Grace exchanged mischievous glances.

"The other girl is first in the innings," said they.

But little Ernestine rejoiced in spirit.

"I am to carry the basket of roses," said she, "and scatter flowers on the bride's pathway. Oh, what a beautiful thing a wedding is!"—Saturday Night.

Why Dogs Bark on Moonlight Nights.

"Why do dogs bark so frequently on bright moonlight nights like these?" was asked of the night watchman in Laurel Hill Cemetery by an uptown man annoyed by the howlings of numerous canine pets. The watchman, who is accompanied in his lonely rounds by an intelligent terrier, whose peculiarities he has long closely observed, declared that the ancient notion that dogs "bayed at the moon" was erroneous. "It is not the moon," said he, "but the quick-moving shadows cast by trees and other swaying objects on a windy or gusty night that alarm them. On nights when the sky is cloudless and the atmosphere still, though the moon be at its full, there is little or no barking heard."—Philadelphia Record.

Pulverized Diamond a Painless Poison.

According to the Mohammedans of Southern India, pulverized diamond is the least painful, the most active, and the most certain of all poisons. According to Wilks's History, the powder of diamonds is kept on hand (by the wealthy only, presumably) as a last resource. But a belief in the poisonous character of the diamond also existed in Italy in the sixteenth century.

LATEST DISPATCHES

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

It developed Wednesday that the two hundred employes of the Portsmouth Manufacturing Company, South Berwick, Me., had not been paid salaries for six weeks when the mills closed down last week.

A Nashville, Tenn., dispatch says: Henry Clay Evans, of Chattanooga, ex-congressman from the third district, has been made the republican nominee for governor, after one of the most prolonged and bitter contests ever witnessed in a republican convention.

The whisky trust has succeeded in borrowing all the money it needs for the present and on Wednesday deposited over $1,000,000 in one of the city banks of Peoria, Ill. This was borrowed in small lots and parties are offering the trust money in all directions.

The spinners at the Standard Spinning Company's works, Fall River, went out on a strike Wednesday refusing to work under a further reduction. They have been working at lower wages than are usually paid in mills where colored hosiery yarns are made.

The triennial convocation of the general grand chapter of the United States Royal Arch Masons was held at the Masonic temple at Topeka, Kas., Wednesday. Three hundred and fifty members of the fraternity, representing grand chapters with an aggregate membership of over 150,000, were present. The sessions will continue for one week.

An Indianapolis special says: A call is being circulated for a state mass meeting to be held in that city to organize a good citizenship political party. The Christian Endeavor, with its 45,000 members; the Epworth League, with 30,000 members, and the Baptist Young People's Society, with perhaps 10,000 members, have recently gone into the movement.

A dispatch of Wednesday to the Central News, London, from Shanghai states that advices have been received there from Chemupo to the effect that some unimportant skirmishes have taken place on the great road north of Pongsan between the Chinese and Japanese forces. The position of the Japanese troops is unchanged, and all the passes are strongly held by Japanese soldiers.

One of the heaviest rainstorms and rainfalls that Alabama has ever experienced passed across the state Wednesday, doing irreparable damage to the cotton crop. The young cotton was beaten off the plant and cotton that had opened was knocked down on the ground. No casualties were reported. Telegraph communication south was cut off, the wires being down.

General officers of the Illinois Central railroad have given out information that after September 1st that road will own and control the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern, and would run its fast passenger and freight trains from New Orleans to Chicago through Memphis over the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley and the Chesapeake and Ohio, abandoning the route for fast trains through Jackson, Miss., and Jackson, Tenn.

A terrible accident happened on the Paducah, Tennessee and Alabama railroad Wednesday evening. As the northbound train was nearing Hazel, Ky., about fifteen miles north of Paris, in passing a pressing it struck a wagon loaded with people and five of the occupants met their death. The killed are: Misses Jennie and Lillie Ray, aged eighteen and twenty, daughters of J. T. Ray; his son Tobe Ray and two young ladies, Misses Hannon.

The Tokio, Japan, correspondent telegraphs that the court of inquiry which has been investigating at Shanghai the circumstances of the sinking of the Chinese transport Kow-Shung by the Japanese warship Naniwa, has returned a decision holding that the action of the Japanese commander in firing upon the transport was justified, and that, therefore, the Japanese government will not be called upon to make any compensation for the destruction of the vessel.

In the petition of Receivers Comer and Hays, of the Central railroad, setting up claims against the Port Royal and Western Carolina railroad for balance due on operating expenses, $130,000; for new rails, $40,000, and for interest on Augusta and Knoxville bonds for $22,000 and praying that receivers' certificates may be issued for the total amount thus due, Judge Simonton has filed an opinion refusing the petition and only allowing certain sums for new rails laid.

The window glass manufacturers of Indiana met at Anderson Wednesday afternoon to consider the wage scale for the next year. There were representatives from thirty glass manufacturing towns, where 6,000 men are employed. The manufacturers named representatives to meet the wage committee at Pittsburg and announce that the Indiana manufacturers must have a 30 per cent. reduction. The local glassworkers say it will never be agreed to. They are demanding a 30 per cent. advance in some branches.

The American Bar Association, of which Judge Thomas M. Cooley, of Ann Arbor, Mich., is president, began its seventeenth annual meeting at Saratoga, N. Y., Wednesday morning. The president's address was read. It was very lengthy and he commented on the most noteworthy changes in statutory law on points of general interest which have been made in the several states and by congress during the preceding year. The secretary reported the membership as 1,113, and the election of sixty new members. Every state but Nevada and three out of five territories are represented.

The recent shipment of Texas cattle into Linn and Anderson counties, Kansas, and the discovery that they were infected with Texas fever is causing much fear among the stock men of eastern Kansas. The infected cattle were shipped in by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Company. The attorney general, in directing the attorneys of those counties to investigate and bring suits, says the prosecution should be filed against the men who shipped them in and not against the railroad company.

At a conference at Baltimore Saturday between Governor Brown, Attorney General Poe and counsel for the 104 imprisoned Coxeyites, it was agreed that the governor should pardon all except Christopher Columbus Jones and "Marshall" McKee, who will be held for the purpose of testing the right of the state to take the "army" from their encampment and imprison them without trial. Jones and McKee refused to accept the pardon offered by the governor conditioned upon their leaving the state.

The report of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company for the year ending June 30th shows gross earnings of $18,974,337, a decrease of $3,489,302; expenses, $11,863,785, a decrease of $2,518,858; net earnings, $7,110,552, a decrease of $910,444; total fixed charges, $5,665,686, an increase of $174,840; loss on other roads, $104,713, a decrease of $259,045, and surplus, $1,552,491, a decrease of $970,068. The surplus is accounted for by the fact that the company paid no dividends in 1894.

The quarterly dividends paid the stockholders in the mills in Fall River, Mass., did not average quite 1½ per cent the last three months. Returns show a decrease of $40,650 in the last quarter. Seven corporations have passed dividends and between seven and eleven paid dividends from surplus accounts rather than from the earnings of the past nine months. Many of the mills are taking advantage of the easy money market to renew the machinery and motive plants.

The affairs of the Second National bank of Altoona, Pa., where Bank Examiner Miller committed suicide, are furnishing a new crop of sensations. Mayberry Miller, one of the clerks, has been arrested, charged with falsifying the books of the bank. Tuesday Harry Clabaugh, assistant cashier, was also arrested on a similar charge and Tuesday night a dispatch was received from a Pittsburg detective agency saying that Gardner, the absconding cashier, was seen in Pittsburg and asking for authority for his arrest.

A fire started at an early hour Tuesday morning in the four-story building at Nos. 367 and 378 Shelby street, Memphis, Tenn., occupied by the Mansfield Drug Company, and within less than an hour's time nearly $250,000 worth of property was destroyed. The fire started among chemicals and oils in the rear of the Mansfield building and spread so rapidly that the firemen soon lost control of it. Among the heaviest losers are the Mansfield Drug Company, Fader & Co., wholesale grocers, and A. B. Treadwell & Co., wholesale grocers and cotton factors.

Thomas Harris, of Ellensburgh, Pa., returned from Mount Clemens, where he had been for his health. He found his home closed, and, after considerable trouble, broke in. He found the dead and decomposed body of his wife on the bed and by her side slept their two children, aged two and four years, respectively. The woman died last Thursday with hemorrhages and the bed was saturated with blood. The neighbors supposed that the family was away. The children are in a precarious condition from lack of food and breathing the contaminated atmosphere so long.

Christopher Columbus Jones and Marshal McKee were released from the house of correction at Baltimore, Monday, through Governor Brown's pardon. These men were in charge of Coxey's forces at Hyattsville when the raid was made by the Baltimore police, and were with others sentenced to three months for vagrancy. Jones and McKee intended to fight the government in the courts, but later decided to accept their unconditional pardons and left for Hyattsville to wind up Coxey's camp. The remaining Coxeyites will be pardoned and sent out of the state in a day or two.

COXEY'S LATEST.

An Edict Issued for Another Commonweal Move in December.

A dispatch from Massillon, O., says: Coxey announces that the proposed labor day and commonweal demonstration in Washington has been abandoned, and that the next attack on capital will be made in December, when congress reassembles. Prison stripe uniform has been adopted for the army, and Brown is now wearing it. Referendum has been added to the basic principles of the movement, and the whole enterprise has been reorganized with new constitution and by-laws. The word "Christ" has been dropped from the title out of deference to feelings of "misunderstanding."

Young man, look out for two great frauds, Alcohol and Nicotine. They will rob you of your vigor and manhood if you give them the least opportunity.

HALLS OF CONGRESS

DAILY PROCEEDINGS OF BOTH HOUSE AND SENATE.

What Our National Law-Makers are Doing for the Country.

There was hardly a quorum of the house of representatives left in Washington for Friday's session, as the members are anxious to get away and are leaving on every train. Mr. Reed will see the session through. Messrs. Payne, of New York, Cogswell, Mass., and Cannon, of Illinois, will also remain to submit some republican figures on the appropriations and some observations on the tariff. Most of the democratic leaders are remaining in order to make a quorum in case of an unexpected emergency on tariff.

Less than fifty members were present when the house met at noon Monday. There were the usual indications that congress was on the eve of adjournment. Members were crowding eagerly about the arena in front of the speaker's desk with requests for a unanimous consent for passage of bills of local interest to them. Mr. Sayers, chairman of the appropriations committee, secured unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill appropriating $9,000 for an additional force for collection of internal revenue and $5,000 for carrying into effect the arbitrations convention between the United States and Venezuela, signed at Caracas in January last. It was passed without objection. The house then adjourned at 12:50 until Tuesday.

In the house, Tuesday, Mr. Boatner endeavored to secure the immediate consideration of Senator Hill's anti-anarchist bill, but Mr. Warner, of New York, objected so strenuously that the bill went over. The consideration of Mr. Hoar's anti-lottery bill was prevented by objection from Mr. Davey, of Louisiana. The house then adjourned until Thursday.

THE SENATE.

In the senate, Friday, Mr. Harris offered a resolution that the vacancy in the finance committee be filled by the selection of White, of California. Some objection was made, and after a spirited discussion the resolution went over until Saturday. Mr. Harris then offered a resolution, which also went over, that there shall be no further tariff legislation this session.

In the senate, Saturday, the resolution of Mr. Harris, providing for the appointment of Senator White as a member of the finance committee in place of Senator Vance, deceased, was laid before the senate and agreed to without a division. Mr. Murphy's resolution, declaring it to be the judgment of the senate in view of Secretary Carlisle's letter to Senator Harris, as to the effect upon the revenues of the passage of a free sugar bill, that no further tariff legislation should be passed at this session of congress, was then laid before the senate. At the request of Mr. Gorman, however, it was passed over temporarily.

In the senate, Monday, Mr. Harris, from the finance committee, reported back to the senate the sugar bill amended so as to provide a duty of forty per cent fist on all sugars. The committee did not report back any of the amendments and several senators who had previously given notice of amendments reserved them, notably Mr. Quay, who brought forward his McKinley act entire as an amendment, and Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, who proposed the McKinley duty on the free coal bill was reported back amended so as to provide for reciprocal free coal. The iron ore bill was reported back without amendment. The barbed wire fencing bill was amended so as to make barbed wire free, the house making free only the material from which it was made. The senate agreed that when it adjourned it would be until Wednesday. The finance committee decided to report these bills at a meeting Monday morning by a strict party vote, Mr. White (democrat, California,) acting with the committee for the first time. The bill went to the calendar and can now be called up by a majority vote only.

When the senate met Wednesday morning 21 senators were present—less than half of a quorum. Upon a later call 32 answered. Mr. Harris moved that absentees be sent for, and this was agreed to. At 1:20 o'clock a quorum was secured and the senate went into executive session. The executive session lasted but a few minutes, and at 1:40 the senate adjourned until Thursday. Immediately afterwards a long list of confirmations of presidential nominations to minor offices were made public.

SUGAR BAG CLOTH O. K.

The New York Exchange Says That It Is Good Delivery.

Many letters have been received by the New York cotton exchange, both for and against the use of sugar bag cloth for baling cotton. The board of managers, after a full discussion of the matter, have passed the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That many inquiries having been received by the New York cotton exchange as to whether or not the use of what is known as sugar bag cloth in covering cotton is contrary to the rules of the exchange, the secretary is instructed to advise the southern exchanges and others known to be interested in this matter of the fact that cotton covered by such bagging constitutes a good delivery under the rules of this exchange."

If you will never drink your first glass, all the subsequent ones won't hurt you.

TRADE TOPICS.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's review of trade for the past week says:

"The special telegraphic and mail advices summarizing interviews with more than five hundred leading wholesale dealers and manufacturers at forty-seven cities throughout the country as to the present effect, if any, of the prospective tariff settlement, and the outlook as to the effect of the senate tariff bill, should it become a law, indicate relatively less enthusiasm at large eastern centers, except at New York and Baltimore, almost uniform satisfaction throughout the southern states and similar advices from the central and northwestern states, except where serious crop damage has taken place. In the far west little interest is manifested in tariff legislation, notably at Denver and Helena, where silver attracts more attention. Portland fears the result in the reduction of the tariff on lumber, but at San Francisco an improvement in demand is expected and considerable freight is offering for shipment to China.

"A feature is found in declarations from manufacturers of woolen goods, glassware, pottery and iron and steel at various centers of production, that wages will probably be reduced.

"Aside from the probable improvement due to the ending of the uncertainty in business, neither Boston, Providence, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Newark nor Rochester merchants interviewed express noteworthy enthusiasm as to the trade prospect.

While no gain is reported in trade circles at southern cities, several thousand coal strikers have gone back to work in the Birmingham district, several southern railways are calling for more coal and southern iron works are shipping more iron than a year ago. It is reported that Atlanta hardware jobbers based recent prices on the Wilson bill, and the prospective passage of the senate bill and will make a difference in profits in consequence, Little Rock expects eastern cotton manufacturers to buy more freely now, and three leading Texas cities, in view of the excellent crop prospects in that state and prospectively the largest cotton crop on record, regard the business outlook very favorably. The proposed change in the sugar schedule exerts material depression in Louisiana.

"The region west of Pennsylvania and east of the Mississippi river reports almost uniformly favorable trade conditions, with gains in demand and in industrial activity, except in Indiana and Illinois pottery industries, and among Indiana clothing manufacturers, who report that they expect to reduce wages.

"Money at nearly all leading financial centers has hardened. Demand for shipment west to move and carry the crops has begun to exert an appreciable influence."

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The Tradesman, Chattanooga, Tenn., in its report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week says: The long strike among the Alabama coal miners is now virtually at an end, and the mine operators will now increase their output to the maximum. Preparations are being made to further increase the number of iron furnaces in operation, and iron producers are much encouraged by increased demands for pig iron, stocks of which are low and some grades in scant supply. Producers of southern pine are preparing to reduce their outputs by concerted action, hoping thereby to increase the price, which is now very low. Crop conditions continue to be very favorable.

Thirty-nine new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with five enlargements of manufactories, and twenty-three important new buildings. Prominent among the new industries of the week are: The Cherokee Ochre and Baryles Co., of Cartersville, Ga., capital $50,000; the Vulcan Machine Works, of Hillsboro, Texas, and the Mt. Clair Coal and Coke Co., Buckhannon, W. Va., each with $40,000 capital; a $20,000 school furniture factory at Houston, Texas; a large saw and planing mill, near Mobile, Ala., and the Walhalla Manufacturing Co., capital $10,000, of Walhalla, S. C.

Car works are reported as to be established at Augusta, Ga.; a cannery at Tampa, Fla.; coal mines are to be opened at Paintsville, Ky., and Bryson City, N. C., and electrical plants established at Hammond and New Orleans, La. Flour and grist mills are reported at Huntsville, Ala., Rome, Ga., and Fall Mills, Tenn.; a furniture factory at Charleston, W. Va.; ice factories at Mammoth Springs, Ark., St. Petersburg, Fla., Charlotte, N. C., and Greenville and San Angelo, Texas, and machinery works at Birmingham, Ala. A cotton oil mill is to be built at Newport, Ark.; steel works are reported as to be established at Sisterville, W. Va.; phosphate works at Flocal City, Fla.; a tannery at Springville, Ala., and woodworking plants at Mobile, Ala., Fort Smith, Ark., Bexia, Ga., Lake Charles, La., Elizabethton, Tenn., Fredericksburg and Norfolk, Va., and Central City, W. Va.

Waterworks are to be built at Forest City, Ark., and to be enlarged at Winston, N. C. The enlargements for the week include iron works at Wheeling, W. Va., phosphate works at Orlando, Fla., and woodworking plants at Little Rock, Ark., and Beaumont, Texas.

The new buildings for the week include bank buildings at Ellisville, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn.; business houses at Demopolis, Ala., Tampa, Fla., Louisville, Ga., and Monroe, La.; a $30,000 church at Mobile, Ala.; a $35,000 court house at Sinton, Tex., and one at Waxahatchie, Tex.; hotels at Hillsboro, Tex., and Clarksburg, W. Va.; schools at New Orleans, La., and Rapid, Tex., and warehouses at Louisville, Ky., and Edwards, Miss.

Distillers Withdrawing Goods.

The Distillers and Cattle Feeders Company at Peoria, Ill., Wednesday withdrew from bond the goods in the great northern distillery, paying the taxes thereon which amounted to $280,000. That in the warehouse at Manhattan was also withdrawn which will swell the internal revenue receipts for the day to upwards of $600,000.

Alabama's Official Vote.

A Montgomery special says: Official returns from all but three small counties in Alabama given the head vote for Oates and the democratic ticket at 108,222, and for Kolb and the populists 66,878. The three remaining counties will also cast 6,000 to the vote and lower the democratic majority in the state by [illegible]

On August 14th fully 2000 of the strikers appeared at Pullman head quarters and begged to get their former places. The places of most of these men were already supplied and they must remain in idleness or seek work elsewhere.

We see from the Alabama Baptist that the Baptist preachers of the Tuskaloosa association are holding all day preaching with the several churches of that association. In the language of one of the preachers they "propose to stump the county for Jesus."

To Capt. Kolb—Let us admit for the sake of argument, that you were elected, and elected by the majority which you claim, and have been counted out, now what can you do about it? You are as helpless as a new-born babe. You are powerless to change the result. You can only involve yourself and your friends in further trouble. If you come to Montgomery and your friends come here making any demonstrations, threatening the peace and dignity of the state, you will be arrested for incititing an insurrection and you and your followers thrown into prison, indicted and tried, and doubtless convicted. Of course you know the penalty. It is a fine and imprisonment in the penitentiary. Governor Jones will tolerate no foolishness from you. He will tolerate no breaking of the law. He believes in maintaining law and order at every cost. He has the state at the back of him. He will use the military if necessary. He has always done so when it was necessary. He will continue to do so. He used them to protect the life of a poor, demented negro, charged with outraging a white child in Jefferson and to secure him a fair and impartial trial by a jury, and he would use them to prevent intelligent men and men who should know better than to engage in any reckless disregard of the law. If you really have a grievance, and no doubt you believe you have, Senator John T. Morgan, one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the country, declaired in his Birmingham speech that you have a remedy at law. He declaired that you had such a remedy when you were crying fraud before, and if you had a remedy then, you have one now. Senator Morgan is a great statesman, a profound lawyer and he would not say that which he did not believe. Then if this is true, don't—don't advise anything violent. Seek what redress is possible at law. If you cannot get it by peaceable mean, what can you accomplish by violence? Your thousands of disorganized forces, coming to Montgomery, for whatever purpose, or howe brave and outraged in feeling, however reckless and determined, and however strong in numbers, would be as chaff before a whirlwind before the well-armed, well-equipped and disciplined military forces of the state. No doubt you and your friends fully realize this and recognize not only Governor Jones' power but his right under the law to suppress you should you carry out the implied threat in your committee's address. Of course you recognize these things, and since you do, why should you do anything to involve yourself and your friends in what may prove serious trouble—in what certainly would be a fruitless effort to get the result of the election set aside. Or perhaps this is not your object. Perhaps it is more far-reaching. Mayhap you will advise your friends not to pay taxes or to do something equally reckless, to bring them in conflict with the laws of the state, Capt. Kolb don't do it. If you cannot admit your defeat, admit at least that you are helpless, powerless, and go to work to make the administration of your opponent a success. Alabama wants peace. It wants to settle down to business and have more business and less politics. You are in a position to do Alabama great harm or great good. Which shall it be? State your grievances to the people of Alabama and with them rest your case. The people will do right in the end. Trust them.

John A. Brown, of Chilton county, gave his nine over $500 in cash one year ago and was having provisions on credit to feed his family. He resolved to turn over a new leaf and raise his own meat and bread. This he did and it brought him the needed help and relief, and he has paid every dollar he owed, has three crops of cotton on hand and some money loaned out. He has provision enough raised at home to do him. He did all this on rented land.

Here is Another Man Who Lives at Home

Mr. E. A. Simmons, living eight miles east of Greenville is a farmer on a small scale, but is one of those who are independent of hard times, prices, free coinage of silver and don't care a snap how the tariff bill goes. He is all right, and here is a short summary of last years work He runs two plows, hired one hand six months made seven bales of cotton, and has six of them now on hand. He planted only fourteen acres in cotton, 350 bushels of corn, nearly five barrels of molasses from ¾ of an acre and saved 1,500 stalks for seed, made forty bushels of peas, 25 bushles ground peas, killed hogs enough to put up 2,000lbs of bacon and has now on hand 270lbs of lard, saved 3,000 pounds of fodder, made 125 bushels of oats, sold $52 worth of cattle, and sold 100 bushels of corn for $75.00. Since the first day of January he has sold 75 dozen eggs and 28 pounds of butter. He only spent for labor and guano $150.00 for the entire year.

Mr. Simmons has everthing comfortable around him. He tells us that about all his neighbors have plenty of meat and corn to do them.

Ex.

There can be no question in that the delegates to the congressional convention were elected with the positive undersanding that they were to support Hon. Gaston Robbins for congress. True there were no specific intruction to that effect, yet the convention was overwhelmingly a Robbins convention and to carry out the will of the convention the delegates must support him as long as he is before the Congressional convention.

Unless this is done untold damage will be put upon the Democratic party of Chilton county. Let the will of the people be fairly represented. No matter who may fail or who succeed

Advertiser.

VERY EASILY EXPLAINED.

The Cherokee Sentinel, edited by "Warwick," who used to write such vile and untenable stuff to the Alliance Herald, says:

The Age-Herald frankly admits that Kolb carried a majority of the counties in Alabama, and calls on the Executive Committee to devote its attention hereafter to the white counties. Evidently the A.-H. is getting tired of having its candidate run in on fictitious majorities from the negro counties. Such a victory is not a victory. But just think about it. Kolb carried a majority of all the counties and yet, they say Oates was elected by 27,000 majority. And honest, sensible men are asked to believe such stuff. Will such a condition always exist?

It can be easily explained how Kolb failed to get a majority of the vote in 1892 and in 1894, even though he carried a majority of the counties this year. The one county of Barbour alone will give as large a vote for Oates as four or five counties carried for Kolb gave him, and so with other large counties that Oates carried. That is very plain to all who want to understood it.

Th is year Oates carried thirty two and Kolb thirty-four counties and it is fact that only five of these carried by Kolb have two members of the House of Representatives, while twenty-nine of them have only one member. Eighteen of the counties carried by Oates have two members, one six, one four, two three and eleven one. The members in the House of Representatives are appointed according to population and hence show how the voting strength is distributed.

Oates might have carried only twenty-five counties this year, selected from those that he did carry and give all the rest to Kolb with the majority they gave Oates and yet he would have a safe majority over Kolb. It is the population that counties have, the vote they cast and the majorities they give candidates that elect them and not the number of counties they carry.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Award.

Our friends in the Piney counties (Cherokee and Cleburne) and the number of Representatives they have in order that this matter may be more thoroughly understood by every reader.

Oates carried Autauga, Baldwin, Colbert, Escambia, Greene Lamar, Macon, Marion, Monroe, Pickens and Washington, which have one Representative.

Barbour, Bullock, Calhoun, Clarke, Hale, Henry, Jackson, Lauderdale, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Morgan, Perry, Pike, Russell, Sumpter and Wilcox, which have two Representatives.

Dallas and Mobile, which have three, Montgomery, which has four and Jefferson which has six.

Kolb carried Chambers, Lawrence, Lee, Talladega Tallapoosa and Tuskaloosa, which have two representatives, (but Tuskaloosa elected Democrats to the House!) and Bibb, Blount, Butler, Cherokee, Chilton, Choctaw, Clay, Cleburne, Coffe, Conecuh, Coosa, Covington Crenshaw, Cullman, Dale, Dekalb, Elmore, Ettowah, Fyette, Franklin, Geneva, Limstone, Randolph, Shelby, St. Clair, Walker and Winston, which have one representative.

Kolb did not carry but one county with a majority exceeding one Thousand, while Oates carried quite a number by over one thousand majority.

Thus it is that Oates was elected by over 25,000 majority and all stuff about it. Such a condition will exist as long as the opposition have such corrupt and weak men as Kolb to lead them, and until they can give much better reasons for the people leaving the Democratic party.

Ex.

President Cleveland allowed the tariff bill to become a law without his signature. He, like a brave tariff reformer, believe the present law better than the old, but he failed not to denounce the treachery of certain Senators who have blocked the road to a glorious success. He calls to the Democrats to use the present vantage ground in order to gain a yet more complete victory over truse and combination Says he. "Tariff reform will not be settled until it is honestly and fairly settled in the interest and to the benefit of a patient and long suffering people.

Secret Political parties can not live on the free soil of America. The Farmers Alliance did well until it sheltered under its wings Gideon's Band. Honest Election Leagues are to take the place of Gideon's Band, and if good citizens encouragement to an organization even with so good a name it will not be long before they will profoundly regret it. Let us have "day light Politics," or none at all. We favor Lonesty in conventions and in elections, but no secret methods in order to get others to be honest.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary,

W. B. Hare Esq. and wife, of Sumpterville Fla., spent a night and day with us last week.

Miss Adelaide Northington and sister have returned home after visiting relatives here.

Let every body talk up our school. The prospects are for a large attendance. Several boarding pupils are expected.

Benson Beat is entitled to great praise in the last election. They made a gallant fight and gave Oates a majority of two.

There was an entertainment given in honor of the wee folks of Clanton last Tuesday afternoon at Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Vanderveer's, all report a nice time.

The patrons of the University school will regret to know that Prof. Caldwell McMorries will not be connected with the school next year. He has decided to remain in the mercantile establishment of Mr. W. L. Sampey.

Misses Johnson and Cox, while en route home spent last Saturday in Clanton; the guests of Miss French Evans. Our town was greatly enlivened by their presence. We only wish they could have remained longer.

Rev Mr. Wood won his way to all hearts during his two weeks stay in Clanton. While the visible results of the meeting were not great, still we think much good was accomplished. Good seed found lodgement in hearts that few of us know of.

Married in Montgomery on Thursday last, Rev M. D Martin to Miss Ellen Jarrett. The happy couple in company with Miss Maggie Jarrett and Nola Littleton, reached Strasburg last Friday morning. The VIEW extends best wishes to those friends.

Mr. Moses Robinson has been a staunch supporter of Capt. Kolb, but he refused to go into the indignation meeting saying "I did my do on election day, and now I am done." His is the position that every good citizen should take. The presumption, from a Populite standpoint at least, is that the election was honest because the officials were Populites and yet there were near 1000 less votes cast for Kolb this year than in 1892.

The County Convention to elect delegates to the Congressional Convention was held here Saturday. After some sparring by various and sundry gentlemen. Delegates were seated and Messrs. D. J. Watersworth and W. L. Sampey were elected permanent chairman and secretary. Several names were proposed and on counting up the vote it was ascertained that Messrs. F. A. Gulledge, T. U. Crumpton, W. L. and Tipton Mullins and D. J. Watersworth were elected the Chilton county delegates to the said convention. The Convention adjourned without instructions to the delegates.

Prof. McMorries, on Saturday last, named Mr. W. W. Glass Jr. of Winchester Va., to fill the vacancy in the University School, occasioned by the resignation of Prof. E. Caldwell McMorries. There were forty two applicants, all of whom except three, were well graduates of reputable institution of learning. Prof. Glass received the A. B. degree from the University of Virginia last June, and has the endorsement of the chairman and faculty of that institution while there is no question as to the christian integrity of his character, and as to his fitness in every sense for the position.

What a want every family in Clanton to know that I will cut and haul stove or fire wood as cheap as such work can be done.

J. E. McDaniel.

JEMISON JOTTINGS

Some time ago the cry was rain rain, give us rain! Now it is, Oh! will the rain never quit?

Traveling Advertisements.

"The sun do move." So does advertising; it moves the business world. The latest device for advertising purposes was recently patented. It is an ordinary pneumatic tired safety bicycle with its rear wheel utilized as a printing press. A Novelty Safety Boiler.

A French engineer, M. Chatenel, has invented a safety boiler of a novel character. The boiler consists of a nest of horizontal tubes placed over the furnace. Into this nest water is injected in the form of a spray, under which conditions it is instantaneously evaporated and superheated. "Solid" water is never admitted to the tubes. The evaporative power of the boiler is remarkable, and the tubes do not burn out.—Engineer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

Cleveland Will Not Sign It.

The house leaders received a straight tip Tuesday. It was that President Cleveland had finally decided not to sign the tariff bill. He will not veto it, but will permit it to become a law at the expiration of ten days. This would send congress home on the 29th.

The senate committee on the judiciary has made an adverse report to the senate on the nomination of the Hon. James D. Porter, to be United States judge of the eastern and middle district of Tennessee. It is understood that the opposition is based on the ground that Potter, while a resident of the state, lives outside of the district over which he was appointed to preside.

The house and senate now meet only to adjourn. The end of the long session of congress is practically at an end. A quorum could not be produced in either house even by the aid of the sergeant-at-arms. Members of congress are leaving on every train to escape the stifling heat of the national capital, and to work for their own re-election. The senators who are not in danger of defeat are sojourning at near-by watering places.

The three vacancies in the grades of assistant paymaster in the navy were filled Monday morning by appointments, which the president signed at Gray Gables on Saturday. The fortunate young men are Morton Ramsay, son of Admiral Ramsay, at present acting secretary of the navy; Guy Rodgers, son of Captain Alexander Rodgers, of the army, and grandson of the late Admiral Rodgers, and Joe Johnston Cheatham, of Tennessee.

The river and harbor bill, officially known as "an act making appropriation for the construction, repair and preservation of certain public works on rivers and harbors and for other purposes," was received at the department Monday morning with a notice that having been presented to the president on the 7th inst., and not having been returned by him to the house of congress in which it originated, with the time prescribed by the constitution of the United States, it has become a law without his approval.

President Cleveland returned to Washington Wednesday, but his intentions in regard to the tariff bill are as much surrounded in mystery as if he were still on board the Ruth in Buzzard Bay. The opinion has been that he would sign the bill and accompany its return with a characteristic message urging the passage of the popgun bills. Opinion, however, has shifted and it is thought he will permit the bill to become a law without his signature. The constitutional term of ten days will expire on Tuesday next. Those who think he will let it become a law without his signature believe he will send a message urging the passage of the popgun bills on Monday, prefacing it with a statement to the effect that, while he cannot approve of the bill by fixing his signature to it, nevertheless he can feel justified in disapproving it, and therefore, permit it to become a law in this negative manner.

Concerning the Tariff Bill.

There is great uncertainty as to when the tariff act goes into effect. Many conflicted stories have been telegraphed broadcast, and the public mind has naturally become much befuddled. Wednesday morning, Secretary Carlisle and attorney General Olney held a conference over the disputed points. After the meeting Secretary Carlisle said to a press representative: "The bill provides that so far as the internal revenue and whisky taxes are concerned, they are payable as soon as the bill is signed, or it becomes a law, but on the other articles, the supreme court has held that persons paying taxes can prove the hour and minute in which a bill becomes a law. If the president does not sign the bill, it will become a law at midnight on the 27th, and will be in full effect and force the whole of the 28th." In regard to those goods which are now held in bond and which are placed on the free list by the new tariff bill, the secretary holds that they cannot be withdrawn from bond for consumption without paying the McKinley duty. To escape this tax, these articles will have to be re-shipped to a foreign port and then sent back to this country. This is not true of dutiable goods because the section of the bill which relates to them provides that they may be withdrawn for consumption. The second section, which relates to the free list, makes no such provision.

THE CORBETT-JACKSON FIGHT.

Manager Brady Accepts the Offer of the Sioux City Club.

A dispatch from Sioux City, Ia., says: Corbett's manager, William A. Brady, has telegraphed his acceptance of the Sioux City Athletic Club's $25,000 offer for the Corbett-Jackson fight. Jackson telegraphed that he would accept if training expenses were guaranteed him, provided the fight did not take place. The guarantee was made. The club is composed of forty of the leading business and professional men, who have jointly signed a note for the $25,000 to be taken up and the cash deposited with the articles when signed. The club manager does not tell how they expect to pull the fight off.

Aid for Pullman Strikers.

A Chicago special says: Governor Altgeld and Mayor Hopkins have decided on a plan of relief for the starving Pullman strikers. The scheme is to secure the aid of the railroads by their furnishing free transportation to all those of the town people who desire to seek work elsewhere.

A Chicago special says: Officials of the American Railway Union and local labor leaders are much pleased with the methods of the national strike committee so far. Several of them have expressed themselves as satisfied that both sides of the question will receive a fair and impartial hearing.

Governor Atgeld, of Illinois, has received a letter from the committee of the Pullman citizens asking assistance in feeding 1,600 families who are unable to get work there. The Pullman company, it is alleged, is importing men from all over the country, and turning many old hands out on the streets.

The Japanese legation at London has not received any news from Japan tending to confirm the report that an imperial decree has been issued authorizing the raising of a Japanese loan of $50,000,000. It was stated at the legation that in the event of a loan being required it would be entirely raised in Japan; that it would not be placed upon any of the European markets.

The populists of the city of New York have determined to nominate their own city and county ticket and have asked organized labor to enter the field of politics and unite forces under their standard. The populists of the state will also hold a convention and put a state ticket in the field. The state convention has been called to meet in Saratoga, September 11th.

A special from Acosta, Washington, says that Saturday morning, while making a landing through the surf at Joe creek, fifteen miles north of Gray's Harbor, the whale boat and crew of nine men of the United States coast survey steamer McArthur, was capsized and five men are missing. At present the full particulars cannot be ascertained owing to the difficulty of getting news from the locality.

The full rigged ship, General Knox, of Boston, loaded with a full cargo of general merchandise, including mostly inflammable materials, was burned almost to the water's edge at her dock, at New York, early Saturday morning. The loss is expected to reach $200,000. A large part of the cargo was case oil. Ten engines and two harbor fire boats (equal to five engines each), could make no impression on the fire, until nothing remained but the charred hulk.

An investigation into the management of the Childs-Drexel Union Printers' home in Colorado Springs, Col., is being conducted by the visiting committee. An inmate notified Superintendent Schumann of charges of conspiracy with threats of ill treatment. The notification thus filed was sent by Mr. Schumann to President Prescott, of the International Typographical Union, at Indianapolis, Ind., demanding and investigation, which was at once instituted.

The Big Four freight depot at Cincinnati burned Tuesday afternoon. The building was two squares long and was valued, with its contents and Wagner sleepers and coaches, at $500,000. Owing to the material of which the structure was built the flames could not be checked. A row of frame buildings opposite the depot caught fire several times, but the incipient blaze was extinguished in every case. About twenty of the Wagner sleepers and chair cars were destroyed.

INDICTMENTS GALORE.

The Grand Jury of Shelby County, Tenn., After the Liquor Dealers.

The Shelby county, Tenn., grand jury have found two hundred more indictments against liquor dealers in and near Memphis, making a total of seven hundred up to date. Indictments have also been found against a score of real estate dealers and more are expected to follow, running the total to a thousand, all for failure to pay privilege taxes. The disclosures of this grand jury, showing that a million and a half has been lost by the state, county and city in the last eight years, has created such a popular feeling that a "Good Government Club," has been organized, embracing leading citizens whose announced purpose it is to enforce the laws and especially the revenue laws.

He passed some men who were felling trees, and one of the trees fell on him, crushing him to death. Harman died from his wound.

COTTON OPERATIVES STRIKE.

Eleven Thousand Idle at New Bedford, Massachusetts.

Monday morning the cotton operatives of New Bedford, Mass., inaugurated their general strike and nearly 11,000 are idle. The machinery of but five of the twenty-seven mills in the city will be shut down with the others. The manufacturers have nothing to say, but the notices of reduction against which help rebel are still posted.

The strike promises to be the most important that ever occurred in the textile industry in Massachusetts. The manufacturers must fight perfectly organized unions, some of which are fairly wealthy. Notable in this particular is the Spinners' Union, which has a fund in its treasury aggregating at least $30,000. The spinners have voted, however, not to touch any of this money for a month.

The executive committee of the National Spinners' Union met at Boston, and it was the sentiment of the meeting that the action of the New Bedford spinners in striking was just, as was also that of Fall River spinners in voting to accept a reduction and support them. It was voted to assess all spinners in the country 50 cents a week for three weeks, and at the end of that time, if a settlement was not reached, to call a convention of mule spinners in Boston.

ALLIANCE OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Men Who Will Watch Over the Order in Georgia.

Before adjourning the convention at Dublin the Georgia State Farmers' Alliance elected M. D. Irwin, editor of Living Issues, president, and Felix Corput, of Cave Spring, chairman of the executive committee. The other officers elected were as follows:

Vice president, W. R. Kemp, of Swainsboro; secretary, F. M. Waddell, of Nelson; treasurer, R. H. Pearce, of Thomson; state lecturer, F. D. Wimberly, of Cochran; assistant lecturer, W. Yancey Carter, of Hartwell; chaplain, H. G. Edenfield, of Millen; doorkeeper, F. M. Brand; sergeant-at-arms, W. H. Bryan, of McDonough; executive committee, Felix Corput, Cave Spring; Sam Walker, of Thomson; J. W. Wilson, of Cannon; J. N. Buchar, of Greeston; Russell, of Carrollton.

FALL RIVER MILLS TO CLOSE.

This Move Will Throw 2,500 People Out of Work.

It has been learned beyond question that the executive committee of the Manufacturers' association at Fall River, Mass., met Wednesday afternoon and voted to order all mills under their control to close for an indefinite period. The order will cause the throwing of 2,500 people out of work, and the stoppage of plants variously estimated as from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 in value. No one seems able to predict how long the lockout will continue, but it is generally expected that it will go on until the market shows improvement.

"Who Owns the Eyes?"

A pleasant way for a party of young people to entertain themselves at an informal gathering is for them to try to distinguish each other by seeing the eyes alone: Pin a shawl across the doorway about five feet from the floor. Cut two holes in a large sheet of wrapping paper, or a newspaper will answer the same purpose, which will show the eyes distinctly, but will not expose any other part of the face.

When the paper is pinned above the shawl, the company should be divided into two parties, one to remain in the room as spectators and guessers, the other to go "behind the scenes" (otherwise the shawl) as performers. If there are over half a dozen of the latter a line should be formed; the one at the head stands behind the mask so that his eyes are distinctly seen by those in the room, and another of the performers asks:

"Who owns the eyes?"

If a correct response is given the performers clap their hands. Then the one who has taken his turn goes to the foot of the line and number two takes his or her place behind the screen. After a time the parties change places and the fun is renewed.

A Veteran of 126 Years.

Our military veterans are rather commonplace beside the survivor of the Grande Armee who is still residing in the town of Saratoff. This old soldier, who recently celebrated his one hundred and twenty-sixth birthday, is a Frenchman named Nicholas Savin. He served as a lieutenant in the Russian campaign of 1812, and was taken prisoner at the crossing of the Beresina. Being imprisoned at Saratoff he never cared to leave the place, but remained as a teacher of French. He is said to be remarkably vigorous, notwithstanding his great age.—London Globe.

Paper Telegraph Poles.

Paper telegraph poles are the latest development of the art of making paper useful. These poles are made of paper pulp, in which borax, tallow, etc., are mixed in small quantities. The pulp is cast in mold, with a core in the centre, forming a hollow rod of the desired length, the cross pieces being held by key-shaped wooden pieces driven in on either side of the pole. The paper poles are said to be lighter and stronger than those of wood, and to be unaffected by sun, rain, dampness, or any other of the causes which shorten the life of a wooden pole.

HALMS Anti-Nervous Chewing Gum

Phonautograph.

This instrument, according to the Chicago Evening Post, performs all the functions of the human "typewriter" except to chew gum and entertain young gentlemen callers during the business hours. It is claimed to be a new invention that business men can dictate letters into one end and get them out of the other end ready for the post. It does not yet appear to be perfected, as it adheres to the phonetic system of spelling and outrages Webster in no uncertain degree; and, like many of its human competitors, its capitalization and punctuating are exasperating. Yet, the inventor claims that all these defects will be remedied. It is not yet on the market, but is said to resemble a cash register in appearance. It is actuated by electricity—you simply press the button, talk into the cylinder and the phonautograph does the rest."

CLOSING SCENES IN THE HOUSE AND SENATE.

End of the Longest and Stormiest Session on Record.

The 53d congress was adjourned sine die Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The scenes preceding the final adjournment on the floor of the house and the senate were tame in the extreme. The only life and interest was furnished by a crowd of Pythians and their friends who swarmed the galleries and corridors.

The house at Friday's session passed a joint resolution providing for the adjournment of the present session of congress at 2 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, August 28th. Another effort was made, also unsuccessfully, to consider the Hill bill for the exclusion and deportation of alien anarchists. An amendment had been agreed upon by the advocates of the measure, and those members who had previously antagonized it, defining an anarchist to be a person who advocates the destruction by force of all governments or of the government of the United States. This satisfied the objections heretofore made, but Mr. English, of New Jersey, entered an objection, and the bill again went over—this time probably finally—for this session. Two or three unimportant measures were passed and after a session of an hour, the house adjourned until Monday.

The galleries of the house were crowded Monday with visiting members of the order of the Knights of Pythias and their families. The floor was a waste of empty chairs, however, less than fifty members being present. Mr. Holman, of Indiana, the old "watch dog of the treasury," created some amusement by asking unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill to pay to J. O. P. Cobb & Co., of Aurora, Indiana, $5,400, the value of some barges taken possession of by the government during the war. The house was not indulgent, and Mr. Marsh, of Illinois, objected. Mr. Haugen announced the death of the Hon. George B. Shaw. The usual resolutions were agreed to and at 12:15 the house adjourned until Tuesday.

Closing Scenes in the House.

Tuesday the galleries of the house were packed to overflowing with visiting Pythians and their families, drawn there to witness the closing scenes of the dying session. The attendance on the floor was very light, however, a great majority of members having already gone to their homes. The resignation of Representative Oates, recently elected governor of Alabama, to take effect December 3d, was laid before the house. In accordance with the usual custom, Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, offered a resolution, which was adopted without division, for the appointment of a committee of three members of the house to meet a similar committee of the senate, and wait on the president and inform him that congress was ready to adjourn, and ascertain if he had any further communication to make. The speaker appointed Messrs. Wilson, Holman and Hepburn. The speaker also appointed a committee to investigate the Ford theater disaster. No prospect of a quorum appearing, the house took a recess until 1:45. When the house re-assembled, the committee appointed to wait on the president was announced, and Mr. Wilson reported that the duty devolved upon him and his associates had been discharged. "And we are charged by him," Mr. Wilson continued: "in response to say that the president has no further communication to make. He congratulates congress upon the successful conclusion of its business and to each member individually he wishes a pleasant and prosperous vacation." At 2 p. m. the house adjourned sine die.

THE SENATE.

The session of the senate Friday lasted until 1:25 o'clock p. m., and then adjourned until Monday. The general public was excluded from the chamber during all but four minutes of the session, the remainder of the time being spent behind closed doors. There was no test as to whether or not a quorum of the senators was actually present, and in fact, matters were so arranged in advance by mutual agreement that the question did not arise. The matters discussed in secret were not exclusively of an executive character. On the contrary, eight or ten bills (three of them bridge bills) were taken from the calendar and passed, and the concurrent resolution for the final adjournment of congress on Tuesday at 2 o'clock p. m. was laid before the senate and was passed without a word of opposition and without a vote in the negative. The senate then, at 1:25 o'clock, adjourned until Monday.

Although the senate program for Monday was the same as that which was followed Friday, when the absence of a quorum was covered up by the transaction of legislative business behind closed doors, the galleries were crowded before the hour of noon by visiting Knights of Pythias, in their neat uniform, and by the ladies and followers who were in Washington to witness the annual encampment of the knights. There were only twelve senators present while the opening prayer was being offered. The reading of Friday's journal was dispensed with, and then at 2:10, on motion of Mr. Cockrell, the galleries were cleared, the doors locked and the senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. The doors remained closed till 1:15 p. m., when the senate adjourned till Tuesday afternoon.

Last Hours in the Senate.

An immense crowd gathered in the senate galleries before the hour of noon Tuesday eager to witness the closing scenes of the eventful session on which the curtain was to fall at 2 p. m. The senators on the floor were few and far between. After the reading of the journal a resolution offered by Mr. Ransom was agreed to for the appointment of two senators to join a like committee on the part of the house to wait upon the president and inform him that, unless he may have some further communication to make, the two houses are now ready to adjourn. Messrs. Ransom and Manderson were appointed on the part of the senate. At 12:17 the senate took a recess till 12:45. The session was resumed at 12:45. A message was received from the house announcing, among other matters, the death of Representative Shaw, of Wisconsin. The usual resolutions were adopted and a committee appointed to attend the funeral. At 12:55 another recess was taken until 1:30. After the recess was closed, a report was made by the senators who had been appointed to wait upon the president, and who informed the senate that the president's reply was that he had no further communication to make to congress. Then a resolution was offered by Mr. Quay and was unanimously adopted tendering the thanks of the senate to Vice-President Stevenson for the ability, dignity, courtesy and impartiality with which he has presided over its deliberations. A resolution similarly couched in laudation of Senator Harris, president of the senate pro tem, was offered by Mr. Manderson, of Nebraska, and adopted with the same unanimity. A third and final recess was taken till 1:50, when a message was received from the house, announcing the appointment by the speaker of the house members of the joint commission on the Ford theatre disaster. Then, after a wait of several minutes, the vice-president arose and formally closed the session of the senate with these words: "Senators, the hour fixed by concurrent resolution for adjournment of the second session of the fifty-third congress, has arrived. Before making the formal announcement, I cannot forbear giving an expression of my grateful appreciation of the resolution personal to myself, just adopted by the senate. For this manifest action of your confidence, as well as for the uniform courtesy, official and personal, extended to me, I am profoundly grateful, and now, wishing each of you a safe return to your homes and constituents, I declare the senate adjourned without a day."

DISPENSARY GORE.

A Duel to the Death at Blackville, South Carolina.

At Blackville, Barnwell county, S. C., Solomon Brown, aged 22, son of one of the most prominent citizens of the town, and John Gribbon, a state constable, were killed in a row resulting from dispensary troubles. Gribben had opened a case of clothing consigned to Brown under pretense of searching for contraband whiskey. This had occurred several times before and had already created bitter feeling between Gribben and the Brown family, one of the most influential in the sothern part of the state.

Tuesday afternoon Solomon Brown, his brothers Isadore and Herman, and his father, Simon, met the constable. A row ensued in which pistols were drawn and six or seven shots fired. Gribben was fatally shot, dying in ten minutes, and Solomon Brown was killed instantly, Simon, Isadore and Herman Brown are under arrest as accessories to the killing of Gribben. H. P. Dyches, the Tillmanite coroner, who tried to hold an inquest, was arrested on the charge of having fired the shot that killed Solomon Brown. The affair has caused great excitement in Blackville and feeling is running high.

TO BUILD FACTORIES.

A Plausible Scheme of the North Carolina Alliance.

At the annual meeting of the North Carolina Farmers' Alliance, held at Greensborough C. P. Simmons, of Halifax county, proposed a novel scheme for building a number of cotton factories in the state. His plan is to open subscription books in each congressional district, under the management of a special committee for subscriptions, to be held monthly, ranging from $1 per month up. When the total amount of subscriptions is sufficient to warrant steps being taken for the erection of a factory, the committee will invite propositions from the different towns and communities for its location, and the place which offers the best inducements, in the opinion of the committee, will secure the factory. It is proposed that every subscriber shall be a stockholder, and be entitled to a vote according to the amount of his stock, and that the matter shall be entirely free from all party and political influence, a purely progressive manufacturing movement, to be open to farmers, business men and capitalists alike. The plan is meeting with much favor.

CYCLONE IN RUSSIA.

A Thousand Lives Lost—Whole Villages Demolished.

A cable dispatch from St. Petersburg, Russia, says: A terribly disastrous cyclone swept along the shores of the sea of Azoff Saturday, doing immense damage. In some instances entire villages were swept into the sea. Many steamers were sunk or driven ashore and wrecked, and it is believed that at least one thousand persons perished.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

The treasury net balance gained $2,500,000 Saturday, standing at the close of business at $125,249,000. The gold reserve partook of the general favorable condition and increased nearly $200,000, footing up now $54,553,000.

The president has approved the following acts: To amend the act creating a new division of the northern judicial district of Georgia; making provision for the accommodation of the United States circuit and district courts at Meridian, Miss.

President Cleveland, accompanied by Secretary Lamont, private Secretary Thurber and Dr. O'Reilly, left Washington Wednesday morning at 7:30 for New York en route to Gray Gables. The party occupied the private car of President Roberts, of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The president Monday sent to the senate the nomination of Noah L. Jeffreys, of the District of Columbia, to be commissioner on the part of the United States to arbitrate the claim of the Venezuela Steam Transportation Company against the government of Venezuela. The senate, later, confirmed the nomination.

The news of the defeat of Hon. Buck Gilgore, of Texas, was received in Washington by his friends with regret, though it cannot be said with surprise. For nearly two weeks the third Texas congressional convention had been balloting among the four candidates. The contest ended Friday by the defeat of Mr. Kilgore and the nomination of Yokum.

Judge Cole, of the district supreme court, denied the petition of Lyttleton P. Dryden, formerly a shipping commissioner of the port of Baltimore, for a mandamus on Secretary Carlisle, to compel his retention in office, the secretary having removed him without cause. Dryden's counsel noted an appeal. The decision of Judge Cole, unless reversed, will establish beyond cavil the authority of the secretary of the treasury to remove shipping commissioners at will.

Both Secretary Lamont and General Vincent deny in toto the report sent from Omaha that the department of the Platte, located in that city, and the officers were to be removed to Savannah. General Vincent said: "I do not know how the story was circulated. I have received telegrams from every point mentioned inquiring into the truth of the rumor." Secretary Lamont said: "There is no such a thing contemplated as the abolition of the department of the Platte."

Before leaving for Gray Gables President Cleveland signed commissions for several of his appointees whose nominations failed of confirmation in the senate. These were A. Augustus Healey, collector of internal revenue for the first (Brooklyn) district of New York; George Wilson, collector of internal revenue for the district of Florida; James W. Ball, collector of customs for the district of Yaquima, Ore., and David G. Browne, collector of customs for the district of Montana and Idaho.

Official reports received at the state department at Washington indicate quite a serious situation in Peru. It has been found necessary to suspend several articles of the constitution including the writ of habeas corpus. The president of the republic is practically clothed with dictatorial powers. The provision allowing all persons to meet peacefully in public as in private is suspended, also that provision which prevented sending a person from the republic or his residence without executive sentence.

Somewhat of a sensation was created in Washington Saturday morning on the arrival of The New York Times, the great administration organ of the metropolis, in which there is an alleged expose of Secretary Carlisle's connection with the sugar trust. The story occupies the first three columns of the first page and with display headlines as follows: "Carlisle and the Sugar Trust—Two Visits From the Secretary of the Treasury in the Sugar Trust's Wall Street Building—Closeted There When He Came to New York in March and July—Forty Minutes by a Stop Watch." The headlines give the meat of the article, which is highly sensational throughout.

The members of the government board for Atlanta exposition are being rapidly announced. Tuesday Secretary Morton announced the appointment of Dr. Dabney, the assistant secretary of agriculture, to represent the agricultural department. Attorney-General Olney announced the appointment of Mr. Strong, chief special agent of the law department, to represent the department of justice. Secretary Gresham will probably announce the appointment of Chief Clerk E. I. Renick, to represent the state department. The postmaster-general has appointed Kerr Craig, third assistant postmaster-general, to represent the postoffice department.

The case of the colored recorder of the District of Columbia, C. H. J. Taylor, who has been charged before the civil service commission with sending circulars to colored employes of the government soliciting contributions for campaign purposes, was laid before President Cleveland Friday afternoon by Mr. Proctor, civil service commissioner, who has had charge of the matter. The report made in the case by the commission is a short one, but the testimony taken makes a very bulky document. Besides Taylor twenty-five witnesses were examined. Mr. Proctor declined to say what the findings of the commission were, but it is understood that they were of such gravity as to require some action by the president.

An army officer high in authority in the department of Colorado is authority for a complete statement of the proposed changes in the army organization. With apparent reliability, is it stated that the department of the Columbia is to be at once merged into the department of California and the department of the south will be organized, with headquarters at Atlanta. Rumors that the department of the Platte is to be abandoned are denied. The war department has long considered the department over which General Howard had charge too large for one man to handle, covering the entire sea coast from Main to Galveston, and of late it has been decided to create a new department, to be called the department of the south, with headquarters at Atlanta.

TRADE TOPICS.

Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for the past week say:

"Changes during the past week have not been definite nor very important. As the president's final decision regarding the new tariff is assumed, but not yet certainly known, part of the hesitation which appears may be attributed to the lingering uncertainty which must terminate. Other conditions if not entirely favorable, have at least not changed for the worst during the past week. The business so long delayed by the tariff uncertainties begins to come forward, so that transactions in many departments are larger of late and on the whole larger than at the time of especial stagnation last year, but it is still too soon to determine how far the satisfaction of postponed demands will set idle hands at work, or raise the transactions toward the normal volume. But it is a healthy sign that thus far is gradual, and not spasmodic or flighty in appearance. In all the great industries some increase in demand for products has appeared, and the boot and shoe trade continues to lead the others in recovery, as shipments from the east not only exceed last year's largely, but surpass those in August of previous years. Economy appears here in purchases of cheaper qualities rather than in purchases of fewer pairs of cases, and the demand is largely for speedy delivery, reflecting unusual reduction of stocks.

The cotton manufacture, which has been employing a larger proprotion of its normal force than most others and accumulating goods greatly in advance of current demands, has about 23,000 workers on a strike at Fall River and New Bedford to resist a proposed reduction of wages, and the mills have been closed, with the apparent expectation that the difficulty will last some weeks. A somewhat increased demand for goods has appeared, but, perhaps, not yet as great as many have anticipated.

"In the iron and steel manufacture, the demand for finished products increases, but is at present not as large as the capacity of the works which have endeavored to resume operations, so that their competition results in prices nearly as low as have been reached at any time.

A moderate gain in transactions is seen at Philadelphia, though finished products there are weaker, and at New York, no improvement yet appears, while at Pittsburg and Cleveland there is more buying, but at Chicago considerable less than of late. Several more furnaces have gone into operation, notwithstanding the scarcity of water supply at Connellsville, and consequently of coke, and prices of pig iron are not further depressed. A moderate increase is seen in the woolen mills in operation, and agents who have offered spring goods, generally at a reduction of about 12½ per cent from last year's prices, have taken orders for considerable quantities, but there is still a great uncertainty about the extent and effect of foreign competition in many important classes, particularly of the better grade of goods, and as this must continue for months, the adjustment to new conditions must be gradual.

"The money market continues to reflect a legitimate increase of commercial demand which comes mainly from dry goods commission houses, but it is noted that, although the last week of August is at hand, the requirements from the west and south for crop moving purposes are by no means of ordinary magnitude.

"The liabilities of firms failing for the second week of August amounted to only $1,163,076, and for the last three weeks to only $7,262,076, of which $2,663,200 were of manufacturing, and $3,787,320 of trading concerns.

"The failures this week have been 234 in the United States, against 410 last year, and 29 in Canada, against 20 last year."

FAILED TO COME ACROSS.

China's Effort to Float a Loan Falls Flat.

The Central News, (London) has advices from Shanghai to the effect that the attempt of the Chinese government to float a loan of 1,000,000 taels, to be guaranteed by Chinese merchants, has proved a flat failure.

The American consul at Shanghai has ordered the Japanese living in that city to discard Chinese costumes and advises a majority of them to return to their native country.

Mr. Oteri, the Japanese minister at Seoul, is reported to have been killed. The stories in circulation as to the manner of his death are conflicting.

The most startling news has reached Paris from Senegal, West Africa. According to the report the French garrison at Timbuctoo, after three days' desperate fighting with the Tauregs and other desperate tribes, which have been infesting that city for a long time, made a sortie. The leaguering forces were overwhelming in numbers, and fell upon the sortie party, fairly annihilating it.

At Peoria, Ill., Monday the whisky trust paid the internal revenue collector $667,143. From other distilleries enough was taken in to swell the amount to $928,757, making the day's work the largest collection at one office in the history of the service. With the close of business Monday the trust has taken from bond $4,000,000 worth of whisky at its various points of manufacture.

The Tremont and Suffolk mills at Lowell, Mass., started up Monday in all departments except the color and blanket rooms, with 1,700 operatives. The Middlesex woolen mills carding and spinning rooms and a part of the weaving rooms also resumed work, and also the Appleton mills, in all departments. The total number of operatives set to work is about 3,600. There is a temporary scarcity of weavers in two of the cotton mills.

Four miners in the Amethyst mine at Creede, Col., were literally bruised, burned and boiled to death Friday morning. The shaft caught fire from a candle and so great was the heat that the wire cable holding the ship was melted, and the huge iron cage, heated to a red heat, fell to the bottom of the shaft, carrying with it the four men who were on the ladders. It will take a day or to recover the bodies. The loss on the mills and machinary will be about $20,000.

Governor D. H. Waite, of Colorado, was arrested Tuesday evening on a warrant charging him with opening and retaining a letter addressed to Mrs. Likens, formerly a matron at police headquarters. The warrant was issued by United States Commissioner Hinsdale, who also issued warrants for the arrest of President Dennis Mullins, of the police board; Hamilton Armstrong, chief of police, and Kate Dwyer, matron at police headquarters. The complaint was made by Mrs. Likens and was investigated by Postoffice Inspector McMahon.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The Tradesman, Chattanooga, Tenn., in its report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week says: The condition of mercantile business throughout the Southern States is very satisfactory. Sales are largely and steadily increasing, collections are fair, and the condition of the crop encourages the belief that fall and winter trade will be unusually good. Money is plenty with but light demand. The general disposition on the part of lumber producers to reduce their stocks is a favorable symptom, and will bring needed relief to an important industry. The output of coal and iron grows larger each week and textile mills are running on full time. There is a general feeling of increased confidence that promises well for the future.

Thirty-three new industries were incorporated or established during the week, among which are the Palmetto Phosphate company, of Berlow, Fla., capital $100,000; the American Can and Stamping Co., and the B. J. Montgomery Furniture Co., of New Orleans, La., each with $50,000 capital, a large sugar refinery at Franklin, La., and the Barnesville Underwear Co., of Barnesville, Ga., capital $15,000.

Brick works are to be established at Smithfield, Texas, a canning factory at Alvin, Texas, cotton oil mills at Jonesboro, Ark. and Hazlehurst, Miss., an ice factory at Graham, Va., and a distillery at Ozark, Ark. Flour and grist mills are reported at Huntsville, Ala., Long View, Ga., Middlesborough, Ky., New Orleans, La., Sandersville, Miss., Yancey and Portsmouth, Va., and an electrical plant at Gatesville, Texas. Textile plants include a knitting mill at Dunnellon, Fla., a woolen mill at Sperryville, Va., and a cotton rope factory at Uniontown, Ala. Paper mills are to be built at Marietta, Ga., and Huntington, W. Va., a tobacco factory at Winston, N. C., a sugar refinery at Atlanta, Ga., and woodworking plants at Huntsville, Ala., Ellsey, Fla., Rumsey, Ky., Sandersville, Miss., Cana, N. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

The organization is also reported of a water works company with $50,000 capital at Decatur, Ala., and an increase of $800,000 in the capital of the water works company at Houston, Texas. Enlargements for the week include machine works at Owensboro, Ky., a tannery at Bristol, Tenn., cotton mills at Henrietta, N. C., and Welford, S. C., and an oil mill at Comanche, Texas. Among the twenty-five new buildings reported for the week are a $20,000 church at Louisville, Ky., and one at Raleigh, N. C.; a court house at Morganton, Ga.; hotels at Pine Bluff, Ark., Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Ga., and Franklin, N. C.; a $50,000 school building at Amite City, La., and others at Charleston, S. C., and Liberty, Texas.

FEARFUL STORM IN RUSSIA.

Whole Villages Destroyed and Over a Thousand People Killed.

Further particulars of the great cyclone which swept across the sea of Azoff have been received from St. Petersburg, Russia. It was a veritable wind of death. No other name can describe the cyclone. It will be impossible for days yet to compute the damage done, but it is almost certain that at least 1,000 people have perished, some by drowning, others by being crushed under falling houses and trees.

The excitement is great among the American colony in St. Petersburg, for it is feared that at least two parties of American tourists were on the sea of Azoff at the time the wind did its deadly work.

At Marianople over 200 people were killed and nine-tenths of the houses were destroyed.

At a fishing village named Nogaisk all the men were out at sea. The town was destroyed and none of the boats returned to shore.

At the hour of the latest report not one of the steamers that touch at the port of Berdainsk had arrived. Fears are expressed that every craft in the sea has gone to the bottom and that every passenger is drowned.

When the wind swept over the northern end of the Azoff it took a new course, going southerly along the coast of the land of the Black Cossacks. In turn Fish and Achney were ravaged, each town being almost totally destroyed.

Telegraphic communication with this district is suspended, and it is impossible to learn the extent of the destruction, but at least 1,000 persons must have died on the two shores. The storm as nearly as can now be learned, seemed to suddenly lose its force near Emrink and passed off with comparative quiet, southerly, over the Black sea.

TO REVENUE COLLECTORS.

Secretary Carlisle Sends Instructions About Withdrawing Goods.

Secretary Carlisle has decided that goods now in bond will be entitled to the privileges of the free list of the tariff act. The following telegram has been sent out in order to afford facilities for immediate bonding and withdrawing of goods just arrived:

"To the Collector of Customs, New York—Vessels with cargo, not discharged nor entered for consumption, may be made vessel warehouses temporarily for such goods as shall be entered today. "JOHN G. CARLISLE."

The same telegram was sent to the collectors of customs at Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Portland, Me., San Francisco, Portland, Newport News, Norfolk, New Orleans and Chicago.

TO ATTACK PEKIN.

Japanese Preparing to March Upon the City.

The London Morning Post prints this dispatch from Shanghai: "The Japanese are reported to be landing in force northwards of Taku, preparatory to marching to Pekin.

"Another report is that the Japanese have disembarked 20,000 troops on Ya-La-Kiang, which runs along the boundary between China and Corea. They are said to have twenty-eight warships there, and to plan an attack on the Chinese from the rear."

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

A dispatch from Bolivar county, Mississippi, says the boll worm has made its appearance in the delta country and is badly damaging the growing cotton crop. Planters agree that if the pest cannot be extinguished the entire crop in some sections will be a total loss.

The New Orleans grand jury Tuesday evening returned a joint indictment against Councilman Thomas Hafey and Peter B. Caulfield, also an indictment against Alderman Frank B. Thrifiley. The indictments returned are all in connection with the Louisville and Nashville switch privileges.

Secretary Hoke Smith has detailed Professor Frank W. Clarke, a chemist in the geological survey, to represent the interior department as a member of the board of management of the government exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition, to be held at Atlanta, Ga., next year.

The North Carolina agricultural department Monday completed a report on the cotton and woolen mills in North Carolina up to August 1st. It shows that there are 176, a gain of nine in twelve months. Gaston county leads with twenty-two mills, Alamance has twenty, Randolph fifteen and Mecklenburg fourteen.

Dr. Anderson O'Mattey, a physician of San Antonio, Tex., shot his three-year-old child accidentally. The father then put the pistol to the wounded child's head and pulled the trigger. He said the wound was fatal and he could not bear to see the little one suffer. He is under arsest, and almost, if not quite insane.

In the face of a general belief in the magnificent condition of the cotton crop, The Garland News published in the heart of the cotton region of Dallas county, Texas, states that in that section half of the cotton crop has been destroyed by boll worms, and if the showers continue, the crop is likely to be entirely destroyed.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: The recent rains have been very disastrous to crops. Reports from this agricultural region of the state are to the effect that cotton is cut off from 25 to 30 per cent, and that all growing crops in the fields have been damaged materially. The wet weather continues and the damage will be greater even than yet reported.

The democratic ticket, so far as nominated by the California state convention is as follows: Governor, James H. Budd; lieutenant governor, William T. Jeters; justice of the supreme court (long term), Jackson Temple and James E. Murphy; justice of the supreme court (short term), E. A. Bridgeford; secretary of state, Ben M. Maddox; attorney general, A. B. Parris.

The adjourned meeting of the citizens of Selma, Ala., to take action about the removal of Captain Bridges and the division headquarters from Selma met Tuesday afternoon. The committee submitted the draft of the petition which is to be presented to the southern officials and it was approved by the meeting. It will be signed by all leading citizens and business men.

Fire broke out Saturday night in the commission house of Jones, Lee & Co., Norfolk, Va., and communicated to three adjoining buildings stored with peanuts and cotton. The fire department has recently been reorganized and fought the flames savagely, keeping the loss down to $50,000, although at one time it looked as if the whole block would go. The property destroyed was fully covered by insurance.

The property of the Birmingham (Ala.) Furnace and Manufacturing Company, consisting of a 100 ton iron furnace, coal mine and extensive timber lands at and around Bushville, Alabama, has been sold at auction by order of court, for $350,000, Fuller Doggett, of Pittsburg, and associates, being the purchasers. The furnace has been idle many months. It will be repaired and put in operation at once.

REPORTED CHINESE VICTORIES.

The Japs Alleged to Have Been Badly Beaten.

The native press at Shanghai has received confirmation of the reported battle between the Chinese and Japanese troops on August 13.

According to these reports 5,000 Chinese troops attacked the Japanese forces detailed to guard the Pong Pang passes in northwest Corea, and eventually succeeded in driving the Japanese from their positions.

On the 14th the Chinese were reinforced by 4,000 troops and attacked the Japanese lines at Chung Ho and the Japanese retreated.

On the 16th the Chinese were further reinforced by 13,000 fresh troops, and on the 17th attacked the Japanese, who are said to have lost 4,000 men and their heavy baggage.

A Convention Called.

The committee appointed by the Central Labor Union to confer with representatives of the people's party as to their joining issues on political lines, in New York, submitted their report at a meeting of the Central Labor Union. The report recommended that the union issue a call to all laboring organizations in the city to attend on September 1st a convention of the people's party and the Central Labor Union. The report was accepted and an order for the call was issued.

Like a thunder clap from a clear sky comes the news that Hon. Wm. M. McKleroy was dead. Only a few of the friends of that splendid gentleman knew of his poor health and his death has caused profound astonishment and grief throughout the state. There never was a braver, truer man in Alabama than Col. McKleroy, and in common with his many friends we mourn his departure, and tender to the bereaved ones deepest sympathy.

H. S. Nelson, of Columbiana wrote Col. Oates that his sons, sons-in law and grandsons to the number of 16 joined him in helping to his election. The patriot hopes to do better next time.

Over 50 bales of cotton were received in Montgomery, last Friday. That which was sold brought 6¼ cents.

The Reform Advocate of Wetumpka recognizes that the people will hereafter demand to hear the issues discussed and hence urges that the Populistes nominate no man for Congress except he can cope with the Democratic speakers.

WHAT THE SUGAR RING GOT.

The sugar ring is a combination of sugar refiners and speculators to prey upon the public.

It has a practical monopoly of the business of refining sugar. It manipulates the price of its stock. Without any protection or other aid from the law it would be able to pay heavy dividends upon stock fourfifths of which represents no actual investment whatever.

But the ringsters are not content with this. They have "held up" Congress and compelled it, in order to get any tariff reform to pass a law authorizing them to levy a special tribute of thirty or forty million dolars a year upon the people for which they render absolately no return.

When it was decided to impose a duty according to value on all imported sugar for the sake of revenue to the Government the sugar ring was greatly benefited. As refined sugar is worth more than raw it must pay more under such a law, and practically it could not be imported at all. This secured to the sugar ring its monopoly of our market at prices yielding an excessive profit.

But the ring was not content with this. Through its four Senatorial agents, who held the key to any tariff legislation, it compelled Congress to add a clause imposing an additional duty of one-eighth of a cent a pound on importations of refined sugar.

That is to say, it exacted a law to compel the people of the United States to pay additional tribute to the sugar ring at the rate of one-eighth of a cent a pound on all the sugar consumed in the country, or about $5,000,000 additional per year.

This duty absolutely prevents the importation of refined sugar, and as nobody uses any other kind everybody must buy the sugar refined by the sugar ring at one-eighth of a cent a pound more than the ring could have charged if this duty had been omited.

There is no basis of "protection" in this. It is a simple levy of tribute. Not a penny of the extra tax goes to the Government. All of it is pocketed by the sugar ring, and it is levied upon every pound of sugar used in the country.

The people will not tolerate so insolent a robbery. They will not leave on the statute books a law so unjust secured by means so iniquitous. World.

Gains In The Free List.

Among the salvages from the Wilson bill in the compromise finally passed nothing is more satisfactory than the additions to the free list.

To untax a necessary of life or an essential of industry is to afford complete relief from artificial burdens. It leaves no sophisticated questions as to whether the foreigner, the importer, the merchant or the consumer pays the tax. All free list is tariff reform completed.

The following are the more important additions made in the new bill.

Binding twine	Petroleum crude and refined
Sulphate of copper.	Nickle ores.
Copper metal and bars.	Paintings.
Coperas.	Drawings, sketches.
Cotton ties.	Nursery stock.
Fresh fish	Farming implements
Halters, bar and plush.	Cotton gins
Flax, tow, hemp.	Salt.
Cod oil	Burr stones
Ivory unmanufactured.	Timber
Epsom and mineral salts.	and lumber.
	Wool.

These articles are all taxed in the McKinley law. The total decrease in duties under the new law, on the basis of the importations in 1893, has been estimated at $62,407,000. But this does not by any means represent the entire saving to the people. The greatest tax under a high tariff is that which the mine-owners and manufacturers are able to exact by reason of the restraint upon competition. The saving to consumers will be many times 62,000,000.

As a partial offset to this there must be reckoned the difference between the most unjust and unnecessary new sugar tax and the saving from the bounty that has been abolished. This will probably amount to 15,000,000

Gone Back on Reuben.

The Republican Bureau.
146 Times Building.

New York, Aug. 11.—If Capt. "Rube" Kolb is sincere in his threat to secede from the Union and establish an independent Government in Alabama, he will have to look elsewhere than New York for moral support and the inevitable munitions of war. The Captain's credit was as sound as Cleveland's spinal column 10 days ago, but on the face of the returns he stands convicted of the worst crime in the political calendar, and his old friends of the Union League Club have gone back on him. Not only do they charge him with rank treason to Republican traditions in allowing himself to be defeated but it is alleged, in addition that he deliberately sold them out for filthy lucre. This is the way a Union League magnate relates the story of Captain "Rube's" perfidy:

"Kolb," said he "came to New York in the latter part of June, and with a great flourish of trumpets announced that he was going to swing Alabama into the Republican column. He explained that it would be impoisible to accomplish this feat in the State election but seemed confident of its achievement in 1896. It would not do, he said for him to pose as a Republican this year, as the protection idea had not had time to take root in Alabama. But there was no doubt in his mind that once the Democrats were defeated, Alabama could be depended upon to cast her vote for a Republican Presidential candidate. He told a plausable story about the cupidity of the negro voters, and dwelt upon the great need of funds in which he found himself.

"Well to make a long story short Kolb made such a deep impression upon the gentleman with whom he conferred in this city that abundant assistance was promised and given. Senator Hear and the Home Market Club of Boston interested themselves in the Southerner's behalf and I have no doubt that the expenses of Kolb's campaign was paid by well-to-do Republicans in these two cities. I hear it whispered now that considerable doubt exists about the disposition that was made of the money sent from here, some charging that it has been misapplied by Kolb or his campaign managers."

This is mild version of the story. Others aver that Captain Kolb bled his Northern friends to the extent of 100,000 dollars on the strength of an alleged deal by which the money was to be exchanged for "nigger" votes. But as the returns show that the negroes supported the democratic ticket almost solidly for the first time since their enfranchism, it is plain the bargain, if it ever existed was not carried out; hence it is inferred that the Union League fund was diverted to other channels.

Something Every Farmer Ought to Know.

Many of our readers know Mr. F. M. Mize of this county, and know him to be a man of intelligence, veracity and a first class farmer. He has fine stock all the time and he makes them fine by giving them proper attention. A few days since in a conversation with him, he said "I never loose any hogs by cholera Some years ago my neighbors hogs were dying all around me and some of them died at my gate but not one of mine ever had the disease. The cause of my hog's exemption from the dreadful malady was that I mixed soda with their food two or three times a week. Some times I gave them the soda in slops and at other times I wet the corn and rolled it in soda and fed it to them. This," continued Mr. Mize, "is a sure preventive and will keep the hogs in a healthy condition, and I do not fear hog cholera." Ex

Silver Here and Abroad.

Recent events cannot be said to be encouraging to the silver monometalists who are now meeting in Washington in the name of bimetallism. On Thursday the Texas Democrats declared for both gold and silver money and adopted the New York Declaration, which was universally approved by the opponents of free coinage, the "dollar unit of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value." The Iowa Democrats had already made the same phrase their own, while Missouri had renounced Mr. BLAND'S ultimatum that the ratio of 16 to 1 must be maintained.

And now comes a denial from London of the rumor so comforting to the silverite, that the Indian mints are to be reopened to silver. It is not true. The Indian Government is not yet weary of its experiment, and will continue the anti-silver policy. The only effect that is expected from the continued depreciation of silver is that India will be forced to a gold basis.

It is clear that both Orient and Occident are opposed to Senator STEWART and Mr. A. J. WARNER, and that the belief that good money is more desirable than plenty of bad money is growing more common. World.

The friends of Hon. Gaston Robbins are of course considerably disappointed that he was not nominated to succeed himself in the next Congress. Mr. Robbins is an elegant gentleman, and a man of splendid character, and withal a true Democrat who will not be found sulking in his tent. He will give Hon. Maudis L. Wood of Selma his loyal support. Messrs. Tipton Mullins and T. U. Crumpton were put on the executive committee.

Governor Jones has commuted the sentence of Alex Shelton from death to life imprisonment.

Elders J. G. Lowery and M. M. Wood closed their meeting at Verbena Sunday night. They had good congregations and good interest, but only three additions.

We congratulate Mr. Earnest Tidwell and Miss Junet Eilandt on their happy marriage which took place last Tuesday. May a life of happiness and usefulness be theirs.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Cusseta, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

to get two good papers and a reliable time piece for almost nothing.

The Columbia Watch, for the kind, is first class in every respect. It contains a small movement all the advantages of a first-class chronometer. It has the best clock movement, with spring in a band, steel pinion, clean, free train and is an A 1 time keeper, Thousands have tested them, and we have many testimonials of their worth. It is 1 1-32 inches in thickness and 2 3-8 inches in diameter. It is just what thousands of boys, and men too, all over the country have been aching to posess. It is such a watch as a workingman has been needing to take the factory, to the shop, to the mill, or to any place where a reliable watch is liable to suffer from wear or exposure. Address

Child's Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

University School.

Wednesday Sept. 12 is the day of opening. Ninety four pupils enrolled last sesion with classes in advanced Eng grammar, Rhetoric Higher Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry Natural Science, Natural Philosophy and Latin, besides the usual Primary and elimentary Branches. Next Session the classes will be more advanced. Had an excellent corps of pupil. School building proved ample and comfortable. Not a single case of serious sickness among the pupils. The people not only of Clanton but of the entire county manifested a deep interest in our school. We are also indebted to the Press of Clanton. For these we are grateful. It seems now that nothing remains but for the teachers to do their duty, and success is insured. Better work must be done next than last. We have undertaken a great work, that of founding a first class school and to the accomplishment of this end we shall direct our best energies. We are not at Clanton for one year or two, but for life. There will be difficulties, but they must be overcome. We anticipate reverses, disappointments, and in some cases, lack of appreciation, but the school will go on. All great enterprises have been born and reared amid such hindrances. We have here every essential condition of a first class permanent school. It is our purpose to have none other than first class instructors and that regardless of cost. This will cost us and our patrons more money, but we base our hope of success upon merit and not upon cheapness. We are not bolstered up by sectarian or other organized influences, but rely for success solely upon the approval of our fellow citizens. Their approbation we shall strive to deserve, but shall not attempt the folly of trying to please every body. All must understand that this school is ours in the same sense that certain stores, mills etc are yours. We feel thoroughly competent and qualified for our work, and if you send your children, do so with the understanding, or else not at all. We can manage spoiled children, but excuse us from spoiled parents. We want no patron who does not heartily endorse our management. To such we can be of no advantage, nor they to us. In financial matters, too, there must be prompt compliance with our terms. Our living is by teaching, and we are not capitalists. In no school of like grade are the rates of board and tuition so cheap as in ours. Our work is worth all we charge, and no concesions will be made except in very special cases. The Incidental fee and three months tuition are due at opening of school. This should be paid in cash, still, if not convenient for you to do this, see us before opening of school and make satisfactory arrangements, we will help you all we can. We lost money last session by "running accounts" for accomodation. Get Uniforms for your boys, they are the cheapest and best clothing you can buy. There will be no change of text books. See me, and learn what books your children will need, and you can buy them of me or, elsewhere as you please. In the book store of Montgomery or Birmingham you can buy good second hand books at about half price. Don't fail to have your books the first day of school, and don't fail to have your children also the same day. The loss of one or two weeks at beginning of session is irreparable. In conclusion I am pleased to say that our prospects for next session are good.

His eloquence of speech and pen and his Land of Liberty gave him entrance into the heart and home of every enemy of monopoly.

Last week an announcement in the Banner said that hereafter all receipts for money collected and all advertising contracts would not be valid unless signed by Frank Crichton this caused a flutter and made people ask "what's the matter with White? Where is White?"

Mr. Crichton, who we are told is a pleasant and progressive man will continue to run the Banner and we trust for him that reward which comes to a faithful newspaper man.

A PROPELLING FORCE

In Natures Storehouse For Suffering Humanity.

J. D. Thomson, Anniston, Ala. "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propeling force in natures storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so mile and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

It Is Wonderful What the electropoise Will Do

Children's Feet.

Foolish as well as careless mothers allow their children to wear cramping footgear, the former on account of a desire to have the little people's feet appear small and the latter from thoughtless inattention. A pair of shoes is bought which fit the foot snugly. The feet grow rapidly, and the shoes soon become too small. The proper plan is to get the shoes large enough for the growing feet, and then they will not have to be cast aside until they are worn out, and the feet will retain their normal shape.

Gasoline as a Cleanser.

A gown that has become sadly soiled, and yet is not of wash material, may be as well cleaned as if it had been put into the tub. This is done by using gasoline in bulk. It may be bought at any hardware shop where materials for different sorts of stoves are kept. Use plenty and wash the frock in a big pan without any ripping apart at all. It will come out spotless, not even requiring to be ironed at all.

"A Practical Age"

Is a fit epithet for the present age. "Of what use is it?" and "How soon will I get my money out of it?" are questions always asked before making an investment of any kind. Bright, intelligent young ladies no longer spend their time in acquiring useless accomplishments. Parents who wish to render their children independent, cannot do a wiser thing than give them a course in shorthand and typewriting. For young ladies it is a genteel and pleasant work, and for young men it is often the stepping stone to a higher business position. KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

NOW A LAW.

The Tariff Bill Goes Into Effect By Limitation.

Mr. Cleveland Refused to Endorse the Measure.

HE WRITES A LETTER TO GENERAL CATCHINGS

Giving His Reasons for Witholding His Signature.

The new tariff became a law Monday night. Its term at the white house expired at midnight. Mr. Cleveland failed to sign it. Under the constitution, it having been adopted by both houses of congress and having remained in the hands of the president for ten days, it became a law at midnight.

Though Mr. Cleveland intimated in his letter to Chairman Wilson that he would veto the bill, he failed to do so. He likewise failed to sign it, but throws the responsibility of the law on congress. In doing so Mr. Cleveland writes a letter explaining his position. This letter is addressed to Mr. Catchings instead of to Chairman Wilson. He does that for the purpose of getting his views before the people. Why he did not address it to Mr. Wilson is unknown. He abuses the bill, but says it is better than the McKinley bill and is a step in the right direction. He will not interpose a veto.

Mr. Cleveland's Letter.

President Cleveland has written the following letter to Representative Catchings, of Mississippi, in which he sets forth his views of the new tariff law and gives his views for not approving the bill:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., August 27, 1894.—Hon. T. C. Catchings—My Dear Sir: Since the conversation I had with you and Mr. Clark, of Alabama, a few days ago, in regard to my action on the tariff bill, now before me, I have given the subject further and most serious consideration. The result is, I am more settled than ever in the determination to allow the bill to become a law without my signature.

"When the formation of the legislation, which it was hoped would embody democratic ideas of tariff reform, was lately entered upon by the congress, nothing was further from my anticipation than a result which I could not promptly and enthusiastically endorse. It is, therefore, with a feeling of the utmost disappointment that I submit to a denial of this privilege.

"I do not claim to be better than the masses of my party, nor do I wish to avoid any responsibility which, on account of the passage of this law, I ought to bear as a member of the democratic organization. Neither will I permit myself to be separated from my party to such an extent as might be implied by my veto of the tariff legislation, which, though disappointing, is still chargeable to democratic effort. But there are passages in this bill which are not in direct line of honest tariff reform and it contains inconsistencies and cruelties which ought not to appear in tariff laws or laws of any kind. Besides there were, as you and I well know, incidents accompanying the passage of the bill through the congress which made every sincere tariff reformer unhappy; while influences surrounded it in its latter stages and interfered with its full construction which ought not to be recognized or tolerated in democratic reform councils.

"And yet, notwithstanding all its vicissitudes and all the bad treatment it received at the hands of pretended friends, it presents a vast improvement to existing conditions. It will certainly lighten many a tariff burden that now rests heavily upon the people. It is not only a barrier against the return of mad protection, but it furnishes a vantage ground from which must be waged further aggressive operations against protected monopoly and governmental favoritism.

"I take my place with the rank and file of the democratic party who believe in tariff reform, and who know what it is; who refuse to accept the close of the war; who are not blinded to the fact that the livery of democracy has been stolen and worn in the service of republican protection, and who have marked the deadly light of treason that has blasted the councils of the brave in their hour of night.

"The trusts and combinations—the communion of pelf—whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserved, should not be forgotten or forgiven. We shall recover from our astonishment at their exhibition of power, and if then the question is forced upon us whether they shall submit to the free legislative will of the people's representatives, or shall dictate the laws which the people must obey, we will accept and settle that issue as one involving the integrity and safety of American institutions.

"I love the principles of true democracy because they are founded in patriotism and upon justice and fairness toward all interests. I am proud of my party organization because it is conservatively sturdy and persistent in the enforcement of principles. Therefore, I do not despair of the efforts made by the house of representatives to supplement the bill already passed by further legislation, and to have engrafted upon it such modifications as will more nearly meet democratic hopes and aspirations.

"I cannot be mistaken as to the necessity of logical and sensible tariff reform. The extent to which this is recognized in the legislation already secured is one of its encouraging and redeeming features; but it is vexatious to recall that while free coal and iron ore have been denied us, a recent letter of the secretary of the treasury discloses the fact that both might have been made free by the annual surrender of only about $700,000 of unnecessary revenue.

"I am sure that there is a common habit of underestimating the importance of free raw materials in tariff legislation, and of regarding them as only related to concessions to be made to our manufacturers. The truth is, their influence is so far-reaching that if disregarded a complete and beneficent scheme of tariff reform cannot be inaugurated.

"When we give to our manufacturers free raw materials we unshackle American enterprise and ingenuity, and these will open the doors of foreign markets to the reception of our wares and give opportunity for the continuous and remunerative employment of American labor. With materials cheapened by their freedom from tariff charges the cost of their product must be correspondingly cheapened. Thereupon, justice and fairness to the consumer would demand that the manufacturers be obliged to submit to such a readjustment and modification of the tariff upon their finished goods as would secure to the people the benefits of the reduced cost of their manufacture, and shield the consumer against the exactions of inordinate profits. It will thus be seen that free raw material and a just and fearless regulation and reduction of the tariff to meet the changed conditions, would carry to every humble home in the land the blessings of increased comfort and cheaper living.

"The millions of our countrymen who have fought bravely and well for tariff reform, should be exhorted to continue the struggle, boldly challenging to open warfare and constantly guarding against treachery under half heartedness in their camp.

"Tariff reform will not be settled until it is honestly and fairly settled in the interest and to the benefit of a patient and long-suffering people. Yours very truly,

"GROVER CLEVELAND."

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

Her Majesty Prorogues Parliament for Six Weeks.

Queen Victoria prorogued parliament Saturday. In her speech closing the session her majesty said among other things:

"My Lords and Gentlemen: It affords me sensible gratification to be able to dismiss you at the end of a session which has been little less than a prolongation of the previous one, and it gives me pleasure to reflect that your labors, if they have been exhausting, have also been fruitful.

"My relations with foreign powers continue to be friendly and peaceful. It is, however, a matter of regret that a variety of questions relating to Africa between my government and that of the French republic still remain unsettled. It is my wish that these be arranged without unnecessary delay, and I am engaged in friendly negotiations looking thereto.

"In concert with the president of the United States I have taken the steps necessary to put into effect the award of the tribunal of arbitration on the question of the seal fisheries in Behring sea, and have assented to an act of parliament for this purpose similar to the act which has been passed by the congress of the United States. The governments of the two countries are also in communication with the principal foreign powers with a view to obtaining their adhesion to the regulations prescribed by the award.

"I regret to state that war has broken out between the empires of China and Japan. After endeavoring, in concert with Russia and other powers, to prevent the outbreak of hostilities, I have taken steps to preserve a strict neutrality between the contending parties. I have concluded a treaty with the emperor of Japan in the regulation of commercial intercourse between that country and the United Kingdom."

At 2:40 o'clock the house of commons was summoned to the house of lords. Lord Herschell, the lord chancellor, read the queen's speech, after which parliament was formally prorogued for six weeks.

VILLAGES SWEPT AWAY.

Gohna Lake Breaks Through Its Dam With Disastrous Results.

Advices from Simla, British India, state that Gohna lake, which for some time past has threatened to break its bounds and sweep down the valley at the head of which it lies, has broken the dam which controlled the waters. Villages along the valley were swept out of existence an instant after the roaring torrent struck them. Ample warning had been given by the government and the inhabitants of the valley, with all their movable property, had been removed, so that no life was lost.

Secretary Carlisle and Attorney General Olney were closeted until 6 o'clock Friday afternoon at the department of justice, studying over the hard knots in the tariff bill, with a view to Secretary Carlisle issuing a circular letter of instructions to collectors of customs explaining its doubtful schedules and the hidden meaning of the wrongly punctuated paragraphs. Secretary Carlisle is especially anxious to find some law or construction by which he can admit goods which, under the present law are dutiable (now in bond,) but which come, under the new tariff law, into the United States free of duty, without subjecting the owners to the expense of exporting them and then re-importing them.

A Levee Caves In.

Late Monday night, the levee at the head of Pauline street New Orleans, caved into the river for a distance of about 250 feet. The levee for years stood apparently firm and sound, and was regarded by the levee board as one of the most substantial that protected the city from inundation.

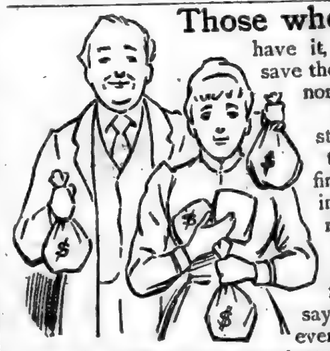
Why They Fade.

Colored clothing fades because it is put into hot water. Even the brown hosiery will keep the bright russet tint if washed in cold water. Nothing else is good for lisle thread, silk or silk and thread underwear. Printed lawns, cottons and linens are in danger the moment hot water touches them. Woolens, on the other hand, should never be put in cold water. Only white goods should be boiled.

Tobacco Caused Consumption—Nothing but Cures the Tobacco Habit and Consumptive Gets Well.

TWO RIVERS, Wis., Aug. 25.—[Special.]—Great excitement and interest has been manifested in the recovery of an old-time resident of this town, Mr. Jos. Bunker, who has for several years been considered by all his friends a hopeless consumptive. Investigation shows that for over thirty-two years he used three and a half pounds of tobacco a week. A short time ago he was induced to try a tobacco-habit cure called "No-To-Bac." Talking about his miraculous recovery today he said: "Yes, I used No-To-Bac, and two boxes completely cured me. I thought, and so did all my friends, that I had consumption. Now they say, as you say, 'how healthy and strong you look, Joe,' and whenever they ask me what cured my consumption I tell them No-To-Bac. The last week I used tobacco I lost four pounds. The morning I began the use of No-To-Bac I weighed 137¼ pounds; to-day I weigh 169, a gain of 42¼ pounds. I eat heartily and sleep well. Before I used No-To-Bac I was so nervous that when I went to drink I had to hold the glass in both hands. To-day my nerves are perfectly steady. Where did I get No-To-Bac? At the drug store. It is made by the Sterling Remedy Company, general western office, 45 Randolph street, Chicago; New York office, 10 Spruce street, but I see by the printed matter that it is sold by all druggists—I know all the druggists in this town keep it. I have recommended it to over one hundred people and do not know of a single failure to cure."



Those who have the most have it, as a rule, because they save the most. They're more economical. These people buy Pearline. Proof—in all stores of the better class throughout the land, you'll find the sales of Pearline far in the lead. Now, these economical people wouldn't use Pearline for their washing and cleaning, if they didn't find it to be just what we say—the most economical in every way. Would they?

Electricity Revolutionizes Farming.

There are electricians in Texas making a specialty of installing battery outfits for charging barb-wire fences with electricity. There are many thousand miles of such fence in Texas which serve to keep the cattle in bounds, except in cases of a stampede, when the pointed barbs are entirely too mild. It has been found that such fences charged with electricity will stop the wildest stampede. It is also contemplated to attach telephone transmitters and receivers at convenient points to such electrified wire and thus enable the "rounders" to be in constant communication with ranche headquarters. As many of the ranches are scores of square miles in area, the utility of such use of electricity can readily be seen.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

Secretary Smith was in consultation with the secretary of the treasury Wednesday morning in regard to the removal of the government building at Chicago to Atlanta. The entire commission, with the exception of the representative from the navy, has been appointed and within the next week the chairman will be named. Secretary Carlisle says that just as soon as the chairman was named he would meet with the commissioners and discuss the feasibility of removing the building.

W. J. Burns, the special agent of the secret service bureau of the treasury department, who has been at Jackson, Miss., for nearly two months, made formal demand Wednesday upon the governor and auditor for the surrender of the plates upon which the special warrants were printed, over which the controversy between the treasury department and the state of Mississippi has arisen. Mr. Burns first called upon the governor, who declined to surrender the plates, and then on Auditor Stone, who likewise declined. Mr. Burns stated that he had performed his duty by making the demand as directed and had nothing further to do but to make his report to the government and await further orders.

The Hon. William L. Wilson, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, was a passenger on the American liner "Paris," which sailed from New York for Southampton Wednesday morning. Mr. Wilson said before sailing that he was going abroad in order to recuperate from the severe strain of his congressional labors. "I am going to London, where I shall knock around for about ten days and then come home. I am only going in order to make the voyage, which my doctor tells me will do me more good than anything else that I can do. As soon as I return I shall plunge at once into the thickest of the political campaign, and I shall certainly need all the strength I can get."

Acting United States Treasurer Meredith has revoked the special notice issued June 18, 1894, under which small notes have been sent by express from the treasury here at government contract rates for deposits of gold and gold certificates and shipment of notes from the United States treasury at Washington under its provisions is discontinued. Small notes may hereafter be furnished by subtreasurers at their counters to the extent that such notes are on hand in excess of the requirements of the current business of their offices in exchange for gold and gold certificates and large denominations of legal tender notes. Small notes will be shipped on subtreasurers' orders to the extent that they can be spared.

Secretary Carlisle has called for the resignations of Peter S. Garretson, of New Jersey; James P. Lowe, of Massachusetts, and Frank Milliken, of Maine, all chiefs of division in the architect's office, treasury department. Messrs. Leaver, Harrington, Latham and Beatty, also chiefs of division in the treasury department, who resigned by request some months ago, but who have been continued, were notified that their services would be no longer required after October 1st, next. The places of this last batch of chiefs of division will be filled by putting in chiefs of division in the comptroller's office appointed by Secretary Carlisle, who have been legislated out of office by the provisions of the treasury reorganization bill, which takes effect October 1st.

Another surprise is about to be introduced to the public by the whisky combine. It will announce its determination to oppose, by every possible legal means, the payment of the increased tax of twenty cents a gallon on its goods now in bond. This is admitted practically by P. J. Hennessy, who says that probably the whole matter will have to be settled by the supreme court of the United States. The point made by the whisky men and attorneys friendly to them, is this: Goods manufactured and in bonds at the time the new tariff law went into effect are not subject to a tax of $1.10 a gallon, because there was an implied contract with the government when it took charge of the goods that the tax was to be only 90 cents a gallon. As the combine has about 10,000,000 gallons in bond it would save close to $2,000,000 should it be permitted to cart away its whiskey upon the payment of only 90 cents a gallon tax.

Carroll D. Wright, superintendent of the census and commissioner of labor, and ex-officio chairman of the labor committee which conducted the strike investigation at Chicago, has this to say in regard to the speculative forecasts of the result of the committee's work in Chicago: "All prognostications as to what the strike committee will recommend are purely guess work. The committee has not indicated in any way what it will do as to the results of the investigation. The inquiry was conducted with great success, in our estimation. All of the principal parties involved, both on the side of the labor unions and on the part of the railroads and the Pullman company, came freely before the committee at its invitation and gave every opportunity for the fullest and most searching inquiry into their affairs. The committee will meet again in Washington on the 26th instant for the purpose of taking supplemental testimony that may be required by either party or that the committee itself may deem necessary for its full deliberation. The committee will aim to make a report to the president about the middle of November. The testimony is very bulky, and will probably aggregate 2,000 octavo pages in print."

SOUTHERN SPECIALS

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Governor Carr, of North Carolina, has offered rewards of $100 each for the capture of Bud Harris, Will Downs and Plato Bartlett, three young white men, who, with Charles Bridges, perpetrated a horrible crime in Hayward county. Bridges has been captured, but the others are at large.

The business men of Athens, Ga., will in a few days organize a business men's league. The object of the league will be to promote the interests of Athens and to furnish all necessary information to capitalists seeking southern investments. This league will have fifty or sixty active members and will do much good.

In the face of a general belief in the magnificent condition of the cotton crop, The Garland News published in the heart of the cotton region of Dallas county, Texas, states that in that section half of the cotton crop has been destroyed by boll worms, and if the showers continue, the crop is likely to be entirely destroyed.

Parties who have just returned from a trip through north Louisiana over the New Orleans and Northwestern railroad and through the southern tier of counties along the line of the Houston Central, Arkansas and Northern railroad, report that the cotton crop of those sections has been damaged fully 20 per cent by blight, rust, shedding, etc., caused by the excessive and continuous rains.

Much excitement exists in Hancock county, Georgia, about a shooting affair on a large scale near Devereaux station Monday night. Anything like reliable facts is difficult, the scene of the shooting being several miles from Sparta. Rev. B. F. Gaston, who claims to be an agent to procure negro emigrants for Liberia, was shot dangerously. Three or four more negroes were also wounded.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: The attorney general has been officially notified that the supreme court was willing to hold an extra session to decide upon the constitutionality of the dispensary law of 1893, provided the attorneys on both sides consented to the hearing of the case in extra session. To this the attorneys have already signified privately their consent and written consent to the same will probably be filed at once.

The Columbia, S. C., Journal publishes an interesting article stating that rumor has it that the legislature may be called together in extra session to change the election laws, in order "that there may be no question of the legality of Tillman's election to the senate. It should be stated that the republicans are now contesting the legality of the eight box and registration laws of the state," and if these laws are declared constitutional, might not the legislature elected under them, and which, in turn, elects a United States senator, also be unconstitutional.

It is estimated by Joseph Gruenhut, statistician of the Chicago health department, that three-fourths of the working people who were out of employment a year ago, are now earning wages. He bases his estimate on the reports made by the factory inspectors. The idle wage workers in the city last September, according to Gruenhut, were not less than 100,000. The depression following the boom of May and June, 1893, continued until recently. A steady return of workingmen and women to their regular vocations has since been noticeable and now not more than 25,000 of the 100,000 are out of work.

A. R. U. DIRECTORS ON TRIAL.

Before the Court to Answer to Contempt Charges.

The contempt cases against Eugene V. Debs, George W. Howard, Sylvester Kelliher, L. W. Rogers, James Hogan, W. E. Burns, Leroy M. Goodwin, W. J. Elliott and J. F. McVean, directors of the American Railway Union, came up in the United States circuit court at Chicago Wednesday morning before Judge Woods. The defendants are accused of violating the injunction issued by Judge Woods and Grosscup during the recent strike, which restrained the American Railway Union and all others from any interference with the mails or with interstate commerce.

Seven Burned to Death.

A St. Paul, Minn., special says: Seven people were burned to death in the forest fires at Marengo, a few miles north of Ashland, Wis. The news has just been received at Ashland. The bodies have reached that city, but are so badly burned that recognition is impossible.

After the Lynchers.

Governor Turney of Tennessee, has offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the parties who lynched the six negroes in Shelby county last week. This decision was reached after a consultation with Criminal Judge Cooper, of Shelby county.

HUNDREDS DIE.

FEARFUL FOREST FIRES RAGE IN MINNESOTA.

Three Towns in Ashes and Many People Dead.

The first report of the terrible loss of life at Hinckley, Minn., was received at St. Cloud early Sunday morning from Pine City through a message to the officials, which said that Hinckley had been burned. The Great Northern freight building was said to be the only building left, and that thirty people perished.

A second telegram at noon placed the dead at nearly 200, and word was also received to be prepared to render assistance. From the stories of survivors the loss of life at Hinckley is variously estimated at from one to four hundred, and it is almost certain the loss will equal two hundred. It will be several days before the full extent of the disaster will be known.

HUNDREDS OF CHARRED BODIES.

Dispatches of Sunday from Mora, a neighboring town, state that one hundred and forty-eight bodies have been taken out of Hinckley and places in the vicinity. The neighboring town of Pokama is wiped out. The eastern Minnesota train which left St. Paul at 10 o'clock Saturday night took 300 people on board and moved westward toward St. Cloud. The train has not been heard of since. It has not reached St. Cloud, and has not gone back to Hinckley. There is a general fear that it has been burned with all on board. There is no chance that they are alive, unless they have found a stream or slough into which they could go and escape the fire.

All is confusion and excitement among the surviving people, who are searching for their children, and children searching for their parents. The death list increases every hour. The walls of the railroad round house and of the schoolhouse are the only parts of buildings in Hinckley which remain.

Every family in Pokama is homeless and in danger of starving to death. A freight train is in a ditch one and a half miles west of Pokama. Twenty-five people are in the caboose and the fire is all around them. If they are not rescued soon, all must perish.

THREE TOWNS IN ASHES.

A special of Sunday night from Pine City says: Three towns, Hinckley, Mission Creek and Pokama, now lie in ashes and more than 200 corpses lie in the reigion in the neighborhood of Hinckley. The vast valley between the Kettle river and Cross Lake is laid waste, including several villages and settlements.

Besides the towns that were reduced to ashes, farms were swept clean by the flames. The forests are still burning fiercely and rain is required to drown the fires that are sweeping over that vast region.

Whole families have been cremated. In some instances only one or two men escaped from a neighborhood to tell of the destruction. They saved their lives by running to small lakes or hiding in potato fields, and reached Pine City more dead than alive.

The dead are being picked up by the score and brought here. Searching parties are penetrating the burned district but find none but the charred remains of the inhabitants. The people from Hinckley and Mission Creek, who escaped with their lives, are destitute, having neither homes nor food.

ESTIMATED LOSS OF LIFE.

A special to the St. Paul Pioneer-Press from Pine City, gives the following estimate of the dead: Hinckley, 200; Sandstone, 46; Sandstone Junction, 25; Pokama, 25; Skunk Lake, 29; miscellaneous, 30—total, 355.

Six Towns Destroyed.

Advices of Monday from Duluth state that so far as heard from the forest fires which have shut that city out of communication with the outside world for over twenty-four hours, both by wire and rail, have almost completely wiped out six towns—Hinckley, Minn., at the junction of the St. Paul and Duluth and Eastern Minnesota railways, with a population of 1,200 or 1,500; Sandstone, fifteen miles north on the Eastern road, a quarry town, with a population of 1,000; Partridge and Mansfield, small stations farther north, near the Wisconsin border, with a population of 300 each; Shell Lake and Baronette, Wis., on the Omaho road, south of Spooner, with a population of 2,000 each, both lumber towns. Besides these, Bayfield and Washburn, on Lake Superior, from which nothing can be heard, have probably suffered considerably, and numerous little settlements all through the northern parts of Wisconsin and Minnesota. No names can be obtained on account of interrupted transportation and telegraphic facilities.

A special correspondent investigating the result of the fire in the towns burned on the St. Paul and Duluth road counted 312 dead bodies. There are 217 dead at Hinckley, seventeen at Sandstone, twenty-two at Pine City, five between Sandstone and Miller, with the interior yet to hear from.

RELIEF TRAIN SENT OUT.

A relief train returned at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning from a run down the St. Paul and Duluth road, bringing about 250 destitute and blistered people from points along the line. At Sandstone fifty bodies, most of which had been identified, were found. The work of searching for the dead still continues. Another train is being made up to carry supplies, clothing and doctors to the burned districts.

THE LOSS AT PINE CITY.

A private dispatch received at Minneapolis from Pine City says that the number of victims in and near that place from the forest fires will reach at least 425.

LATEST DISPATCHES

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

Between August 27 and September 3 there were 53 cases of cholera and 21 deaths throughout the German empire.

A careful estimate of the number of lives lost in the forest fires at Hinckley, Minn., places the total at 275, and the total in the burned district at 625.

The Nevada republican state convention has nominated John P. Jones, present surveyor general, to be governor, and R. Sadler, of Eureka county, lieutenant governor.

The state populist convention of Colorado met in Pueblo and renominated Governor Waite. Other nominations were: Lieutenant governor, G. W. Nannon, of Arapahoe county; state auditor, S. L. Lincoln, of Boulder county.

The New Hampshire republican state convention met at Concord Wednesday. Charles A. Busiel, of Laconia, was nominated for governor. At the second district congressional republican convention Hon. Henry M. Baker was nominated by acclamation.

At Jacksonville, Fla., William Hayes, a dissolute young fellow, shot and killed his wife and seriously wounded his mother-in-law. The latter was unable to give any alarm, and therefore the crime was not known until some time after the deed was done. The couple were only married a year and a half ago.

The vote of the Vermont towns thus far reporting shows heavy republican gains. The indications are that the republican majority will exceed that of any in the last 20 years and far surpass that of 1892 the presidential year. The average republican majority in off years since 1876 is a little less than 17,000.

A movement has been inaugurated in Chattanooga to secure a joint exhibit of all Chattanooga's enterprises at the Atlanta exposition. Interviews had with the various manufacturers develop the fact that such an organized movement will be asked for very shortly. A meeting is to be held in a few days to take definite action in the matter.

A break has occurred in the ranks of the manufacturers at New Bedford, Mass., which will probably result in the resumption of work in all the mills within a few days. The directors of the Bristol corporation met Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of taking action looking towards the starting up of the mills. It was practically decided to do so.

Advices from Winnipeg, Manitoba, state that fire is burning on both sides of Rainy lake and along Rainy river. Large tracts of timber have been burned on the Canadian side. A woman and four children were burned to death. The fires jumped the Rainy river from the Minnesota to the Canadian side. All settlers back from Rainy river have been burned out, losing everything, and several lives have been lost.

Knoxville has just suffered from the largest fire experienced in years. The large tobacco factory of W. C. McCoy and the livery stable of J. N. McBee & Co., on Broadway, were entirely consumed. There were several horses in the livery stable, and these were saved, but the fine carriages and buggies were destroyed. Nothing about the tobacco factory was saved. The loss is estimated at $40,000; insurance, $10,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CHINESE BOATHOUSES BURN,

And Over a Thousand of the Celestials Lose Their Lives.

Special dispatches from Shanghai state that the British gunboat Red Pole has sailed from Chee-foo for Port Arthur. Junks arriving at Chee-foo from Newchand report a large number of bodies of Japanese floating in the water at the mouth of the Taiung river.

Fire started among some flower boats that were moored stern to stern in the Canton river, and nearly all of the craft were destroyed. The boats were moored in fleets and those employed on them lived on board. Hundreds jumped overboard and were drowned, while still greater numbers were burned to death. At least one thousand persons perished.

JAPANESE ATTACK PORT ARTHUR.

A dispatch to the London Times from Shanghai says: "At Tien-Tsin dispatch from Chinese couriers says that thirteen Japanese ships, with over four thousand troops, are attacking Port Arthur. The Chinese garrison, numbering 5,000 men and the Chinese fleet, have been ordered to attack the Japanese."

Incorporated in Mississippi.

At Jackson, Miss., the purchasers of the Georgia Pacific railway, which was sold on August 18th, at Atlanta, presented their application to the governor and formed a corporation known as the Southern Railway Company in Mississippi. The incorporators are Anthony J. Thomas, Leslie Ryan, of New York, and Andrew F. Fox, of Mississippi.

WHEN a pugilist "takes the cake," is it pound cake?

THE UNSEEN GOLD SUPPLY.

IT MOVES IN A STEADY STREAM TOWARD THE MINT.

Keepsakes and Jewelry May Be Hoarded, But the Mint Gets Them—How Gold is Melted.

"OLD Gold and Silver Bought Here," was a sign hanging in front of an Eighth avenue shop that attracted the attention of two passers-by a few days ago. One of the passers was a Sun reporter, the other was Mr. J. Robley Dunglison, Registrar of Deposits in the Philadelphia Mint, who probably knows more about the unseen supply of gold than any other man in this country. The "unseen gold supply" is a term the mint people use to describe the tons of gold and silver that lie in the half-forgotten boxes in bureau drawers—old gold pencils, old watch cases, neglected pocket pieces, broken chains, spectacle rims, and a thousand other bits of metal that have intrinsic value. Most of these things are sure to find their way to the mint sooner or later, and when they do it is Mr. Dunglison who makes an entry of their weight in the mint's big books.

"There is one of our feeders," Mr. Dunglison said, as he read the sign. "You would be surprised to know how much of the gold and silver that we turn out in coin comes to us through such places. There are thousands of buyers of old bullion in this city, and tens of thousands of them throughout the country. In the aggregate they send us a great many tons of bullion every year, and so put a great deal of money into circulation that would otherwise lie idle.

"There is no piece of gold or silver so large or so small," he continued, "that the dealers will not buy it. Do you know that gold filling out of extracted teeth make a considerable item in the mint's gold? They do. When a dentist extracts a tooth he is sure to extract also any gold that may be in it, and these tiny bits after a while make a little boxful, which is sold to a dealer. The idea seems unpleasant, but it is not, when you know how thoroughly all bullion is refined and cleansed in the mint before it is coined.

"You will find that all these dealers would a little rather buy old silver than old gold, because there is more profit in it. The price of silver fluctuates so much that they can always buy it for considerably less than its real value; but the price of gold never varies. An ounce of gold is worth $20.67 always, in all civilized countries; and this is so well understood that the dealer must pay pretty nearly that much for it. He generally increases his profit a little by paying in goods instead of in cash. The dealer must be able to do a little crude assaying himself, or he is likely to make mistakes. Gold jewelry, for instance, is rarely made of pure gold. Our mint standard for pure bullion is 1000, and we rarely get a watch case or a ring or a chain that assays more than 500, showing that it is half gold or silver and half alloy. You think you are carrying a gold watch, but the chances are ninety-nine in a hundred that the cases are half copper. The cases will reach the mint some day, almost to a certainty, and then the copper will come out.

"The flow of old jewelry to the mint is almost as certain and steady as the flow of water down an incline. The old trinket is broken and useless, and you lay it away. Perhaps it is an heirloom, or for some other reason you are attached to it, and you would not think of selling it. But a rainy day may come, and you are glad to sell it. In any case, you are sure to die some time, and your heirs will not care for the chain; then we get it and turn it into dollars or eagles.

"We do not buy bullion in small quantities at the mint—nothing less than $100 worth of gold or silver at a time, and then we do not pay for it until it has been assayed. If you bring us $100 worth of metal that you suppose to be gold, we weigh it and give you a receipt for it, and three days later you can call and receive the money for whatever gold we find in it. No matter if the lot only contains a dollar's worth of gold, we will receipt for the weight and extract the gold for you and pay you for it. But you lose all the base metal, because in the refining everything but the gold and silver is destroyed. That is, it is practically destroyed, because our work is with gold and silver only, and we do not make any effort to save the base metals. It could easily be done, but it would not pay for the time and trouble. We could separate not only the gold and silver, but the copper also, and the lead and whatever else is present.

"When you take a quantity of old gold to the mint to sell, your metal is not mixed with any other metal. Each lot is kept separate until it has been assayed. Your gold is put into an iron box with two locks, and when its turn comes the box is taken to the melting room, where it is opened by two men, each of whom has a key to one of the locks. The metal is put into a crucible, with a little borax to prevent its sticking. The crucible is put into a furnace, and when the metal is melted it is moulded into a bar. That bar contains all the metal in your lot, whether it be gold or brass, and it is the assayer's business to find out how much gold it contains. While it is in the crucible it is stirred constantly and thoroughly, so that all its metals may be distributed equally throughout the bar.

"When the bar is returned to the weighing room the assayer ships from it a tiny piece that must weigh just half a grammar, or 7.7 grains troy. The bar and the sample are numbered to correspond, and the bar is locked up in the iron box again. But the chip is taken to the assaying room, where it is put through one of the most delicate mechanical processes in the world. No danger of visitors following the chip to the assaying room, for a man who is working with scales that will weigh the thirteen-hundredth of a grain cannot be talking to visitors.

"You are not familiar with the bone-ash cup, I suppose, that we call the cupel? To the uninformed that is one of the wonders of the mint. It is simply a little, shallow cup made of bone ashes moistened and pressed, but it does some wonderful work. It will absorb any metals that are melted in it, except gold and silver. That sounds a little doubtful, but it is a fact that can readily be accounted for on scientific principles. You melt a lump of mingled gold and copper in this little cupel, and every particle of the copper disappears, leaving the gold alone in the bottom of the cup. That is the first step in assaying gold, taking no account of a dozen minor operations that merely lead up to it.

"This melting in the cupel does not give pure gold, however, for gold is often alloyed with silver. After the tiny button that remains in the cup has cooled sufficiently, it is flattened with a hammer and run between rollers till it comes out a little spiral that we call a cornet. This is put in a little vessel like a thimble with a slit in the bottom, and is boiled in nitric acid. The acid dissolves the silver, which runs out through the slit, but it cannot dissolve the gold. The tiny chip that remains in is pure gold."—New York Sun.

How Thermometers Are Made.

A small glass tube, blown into a bulb at one end, is partly filled with mercury; the mercury is boiled to expel air and fill the tube with mercury vapor, and then the tube is hermetically sealed and allowed to cool. The gradations are found as follows: The instrument is immersed in ice water, and the freezing point is found, and marked; then it is placed in water which is allowed to reach the boiling point, and so 212 degrees is found. The spans between are marked by mathematical calculations.—New York Telegram.

Way to Please an Author.

Mark Twain says there are three "infallible ways of pleasing an author: 1. To tell him you have read one of his books; 2. To tell him you have read all of his books; 3. GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week shows that the reorganization of the southern railroads, now nearly pleted, will be followed by considerable railway building. Extensions of several lines are to be begun at once and work on some roads that were left unfinished will be resumed. The outlook continues to be encouraging in all lines of industry. There has been no material advance in prices, but producers are finding it easier than it has been to make sales. The Southern cotton mills are in exceedingly good condition. A good many enlargements and additions will be made and several new mills on a large scale will be built during the coming season.

Thirty-one new industries were incorporated or established during the week, together with ten enlargements of manufactories and eight important new buildings. Among the new industries of the week are: A $150,000 cotton mill to be built at Spartanburg, S. C.; the Quinimont Coal and Coke Company, of Quinimont, W. Va., capital $150,000; the South Bound Land Company, of Columbia, S. C., capital $50,000; the Skyland Furniture Manufacturing Company, of Asheville, N. C., capital $30,000; the Wichita Falls Mining Company, of Wichita Falls, Texas, capital $30,000; the Union Woodworking Company, of Parsons, W. Va., capital $25,000, and the Pierpont Lumber Company, of Crescent City, Fla., with $15,000 capital.

The erection of agricultural implements works at Houston, Texas, is also reported; a cotton compress at Sheffield, Ala.; a cotton mill at Canton, Ga., and electrical plants at Athens and Cuthbert, Ga. Flour and grist mills are to be built at Clarysville, Ky., and Chubbick, N. C.; a furniture factory at Lexington, Ky.; ice factories at St. Augustine, Fla., and Moundsville, W. Va.; coal mines at Claremont, W. Va., and a granite quarry at Winnsboro, S. C. An oil and gas developing company has been chartered at Nashville, Tenn.; an oil mill is to be built at Muldoon, Texas; a tobacco factory at Hickman, Ky., and woodworking plants at Florence and Mobile, Ala., at St. Francis, Ark., Rochelle and Waldo, Fla., and Hickman, Ky.

Waterworks are to be built at Arkadelphia, Ark., Cuthbert, Ga., and Thibodaux, La. The enlargements include a planing mill at Nolin, Ky., a cooperage at Little Rock, Ark., mining plants at Cleveland, Tenn., and Corona, Ala., phosphate works at Acme, Fla., a $30,000 addition to a cotton mill at Concord, N. C., water works at Bedford City, Va., and woodworking plants at Bridgeport, Ala., Beaumont, Texas, and Gauley Bridge, W. Va. Among the new buildings are business houses at Jacksonville, Fla., Moorefield, Ky., New Berne, N. C., and Giddings, Texas, a $40,000 railway station at Greenville, Texas, a sanatorium at Mobile, Ala., and a warehouse at Harmony, Grove, Ga.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

BURYING CHARRED BODIES.

Survivors of the Forest Fires Removed to Places of Safety.

Specials of Tuesday state that nearly all those who survived the terrible forest fires in northern Minnesota have now been removed to places of safety in Superior and Duluth, and as a heavy rain has quenched the flames, there will be no further casualties.

The work of searching for the dead is progressing in earnest. Monday afternoon, fifty-four bodies were buried at Sandstone.

Most of them were charred beyond recognition and were buried wherever found. When the relief train reached Sandstone not a sign of a building was left in the town. Around or in the ruins of each house were found several human bodies. The living inhabitants of the town were brought into Superior at midnight.

At Hinckley 326 bodies were lying in the streets. They are being buried as rapidly as possible by a committee from Pine City.

At Pokegame, on the St. Cloud division of the Great Northern, there are 28 corpses. They are still lying unburied, the rest of the people having left the place. At Partridge, only two are dead, though not a building is standing. It is impossible to tell where Partridge was, as the whole surrounding country is in ashes.

Passenger traffic was resumed on the St. Paul and Duluth Tuesday. On the Great Northern through trains will not be running for some time.

ALABAMA CONGRESSMEN.

Nearly All of Them Renominated in the Conventions.

A Montgomery special says: The following are the democratic nominees for congress chosen in the district conventions held throughout the state:

First District—Richard H. Clarke, renominated.

Second District—Jesse F. Stallings, renominated.

Third District—General George P. Harrison, to succeed Hon. William C. Oates, governor-elect.

Fourth District—Mardis Wood, to succeed Congressman Robbins, defeated.

Fifth District—Judge J. E. Cobb, renominated.

Sixth District—Congressman Bankhead leads with a small margin over three other contestants. The convention is apparently in a deadlock.

Seventh District—W. H. Denson, renominated.

Eighth District—Gen. Joe Wheeler, renominated.

Ninth District—Oscar W. Underwood, to succeed Congressman Turpin.

COTTON CROP OF 1894.

The New Orleans Exchange Issues Its Official Figures.

The New Orleans cotton exchange issued its official announcement of the cotton crop of 1893-'94 Saturday. This announcement is made on the 1st of September of each year, and is regarded as the most authentic official report of the crop issued. The figures this year are as follows: Port receipts for the year, 5,940,092. Overland, 931,706. Southern consumption, net, 878,019. Total crop, 7,549,817 bales. Gross southern consumption, including 40,406 taken from ports, 718,515.

Japanese Spies Beheaded.

Advices from Shanghai state that the two Japanese spies who were surrendered to the Chinese authorities by the U. S. consul, under whose protection they had been placed, were promptly beheaded. In consequence of this summary action all the Japanese remaining in Shanghai, about 700, have decided to leave that city at once.

There is no truth which so much needs pressing upon the hearts and minds of the young as that 'Evil communications corrupt good morals." Every day we see boys associating with those whose life and speech are vile. Young and middle aged men consort with parties whose habit it is to use profanity and obscenity. Who drink and gamble and whose every step is downward. Warn these boys and young men of the dangers before them, and they reply "There is no danger that I shall ever go their way, I have too much respect for myself"—But history is being repeated over and over every day, and boys and young men are having their good manners and good morals corrupted every day. Men, women and children are known by the company they keep. Let that company be immoral and dishonorable and soon the public will place you in the same catelogue.

SOME OF SAM JONES' SAYINGS.

When a doctor of divinity sits all day on the bank and fishes at the same hole without catching anything he ought to go to another hole or change his bait. If I can't catch fish with a hook I try a seine and then I get all the fish that are big enough to keep from slipping through the holes.

I believe in a woman having all the rights she wants except that of father of a familiy.

The dude and the bum have the same instincts—except that one out-stinks the other.

During the war a party of confederates saw a Yankee gunboat coming up the river, and they tried to run their cannon down to the bank to give it a passing shot; but undergrowth was thick and the cannon was taken from its carriage and lashed to the back of a big mule. The gunner trained the cannon and touched off the fuse which began to splutter and scared the mule so that he kept turning round and round. The confederates did'nt know which way the cannon would shoot and every man skinned up a tree. A preacher should load his gun and run every man up a tree.

When the Republicans were turned out of the Government pasture like a lot of calves, they had to eat grass or starve. Then the Democratic calves came in, and my, my, how they did pull at the teat and wiggle their tails!

If any man thinks he can say harder things than I can let him lamn away.

If my tongue doesn't go off the first time I put on another cap and try it again.

I am in favor of some such whiskey law as the South Carolina dispensary law—if I can't get all I'll take part. If I can't kill a snake by cutting its head off I'll cut off its tail and keep cutting off till I get to the head.

The dude is the skum of society's pot, and the bum is the dreg at the bottom—the meat lies between.

The last issue of the Banner gives the correct definition of Populite and Democracy—Both words mean of the people. The Democratic party proudly points to its record and without a blush, save that of conscious pride, proclaims itself still the party of the people against individual or corporate greed.

In the language of Speaker Crisp of Ga., We say to our readers that the Democratic party enters upon its contest with republicanism and every other temporary issue which may present itself with encouragement and confidence. While we have not done all we hoped to do, we have done something in the past year to redress the wrongs of the people. We have done more for their relief than was ever done by any party in the same length of time in any country under the sun.

WHAT DEMOCRACY HAS DONE.

These are bold words, and yet I hold myself ready to defend them. Coming into power at a time of panic, when business was at a stand-still, when labor was unemployed, when our treasury was empty, with courage and fidelity we entered upon a struggle with the enemies of the people. We emerge from that struggle victorious to date.

We have repealed the McKinley law. We have greatly reduced taxation. We have made living cheaper. We have made all money taxable. We have taxed surplus incomes. We have restored freedom of elections. We have reduced public expenditures, and we have declared undying hostility to all trusts and monopolies organized for the oppression of the people. On these foundations we "build our houses," on these issues we go before the public. For them we have "fought the good fight;" to them we have kept the faith, "and of them we have no fears."

The Southern Exposition to be held in Montgomery this fall promises to be one of the best ever held in the state. The Agricultural, Mineral, Manufacturing and other advantages of Alabama will be fully shown.

THE GOVERNMENT STAMP ON MONEY.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Alabamia, who says he has been a democrat all his life, requests The Courier-Journal to answer some questions as to the currency. He asks, in substance:

First—What is the gold standard?

Second—Does the stamp of the Government make a gold eagle worth $10 or is it the intrinsic value of the gold.

Third—What makes a greenback dollar as current as any other?

With reference to the first question we may say that while the words "gold standard" are variously used by different writers, thereby causing confusion, we think that the proper answer for us in the United States is that the dollar should be worth 23.22 grains of gold that is the amount of pure gold in a gold dollar, one-fifth of the amount in a half eagle, one-tenth the quanity in an eagle, and so of other coins.

The second and third questions may be answered together. The notion that the stamp of the Government makes money is a superstition. A $10 gold piece is worth no more after it has received the stamp of the Government than it was before. Melt it down and it is still worth $10. During the civil war an eagle and $10 note bore the stamp of the Government, but at one time the gold piece was worth nearly three $10 bills. The French assignats had the stamp of the Government, but they depreciated and became worthless.

While the stamp of the government of itself is no value to metal or paper, its policy financial condition may do a good deal to make paper or an overvalued metal current. During the war every Confederate victory sent greenbacks down. Why? Because greenbacks were promises to pay, and there was a fear that the promise would not be kept. Confederate victories were interpreted to mean a prolongation of the war and the piling up of a debt so enormous that possibly it would never be paid. The Government was not then redeeming its notes in coin, and there were apprehensions that it might never do so. After the war the probability of redemption of greenbacks was greater and their value approached that of gold. When the Government began to redeem every greenback in gold standard. Since then every paper dollar buys as much as a gold dollar.

What makes a greenback as good as gold then for current purposes is the willingness of the Government to pay gold for it, when wanted, coupled with ability to do it. If either the ability or the inclination of the Government to keep its dollars at par were destroyed, gold would then go to a premium.

What is it that makes the check of a solvent business man pass as readily as money in the community where he is known? Why will a bank freely give you gold for his promissory note? There is no stamp of Government about his paper. The reason it is good is because he is willing and able to pay his debts. Let him pursue a wasteful course until he is bankrupt, and his note will become worthless. The Government has great resources, but they are not inexhaustible. There are bankrupt Governments in plenty in the world. Gold is worth its face value to Uncle Sam, but the values of money depend for their value, in whole or in part, on the policy and ability of the Government, not on the stamp. What is needed is so to shape the policy of the Government as to keep all the currency of equal purchasing power.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

The indications are that the Populites will drop Hon. A. P. Longshore, a faithful worker for their cause and nominate Mr. T. H. Aldrich a rich mine owner near Montevallo, The republicans have already given Aldrich their nomination.

Down in the Second District the Populist are passing by all their faithful ones and looking to persuading Mr. W. T. Smith a rich saw mill man, of Chapman, to enter the contest. All this evidently means that the Populites are tired of running their hands in their pockets to pay campaign expenses and hope that these rich men will be induced to run, and will also consent to pay their own expenses.

Did you ever look in Loftins Character Sketches and see the picture he draws of the man lying on a bed that was too short and trying to cover with a blanket that was too narrow? If you have you can then appreciate the condition of certain men in Clanton and Chilton County, who have flattered themselves that they are silent partners in the Banner.

The recent misunderstanding between the former editor and the present business manager and editor of that paper created such a rolling under that blanket that the well known feet, heads, noses and hands of several meek gentlemen who have been playing secret partners, got from under cover.

It was pretty well understood that those individuals were under that blanket, but now certain of us have proof about as clear as "Holy writ" as to just who the quiet owners are, and in due time and manner the public will all know. In the very nature of things fraud will be uncovered.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Married at Coopers last Sunday, Mr. Turner Eiland to Miss Birdie McDaniel. We wish them success.

Mrs. W. H. Sarter and her bright little one, Miss Elenor were in Clanton last Thursday.

Dr. J. A. Sims of Atlanta has been in our town for several weeks. He made many friends while here and the latch string will always hang on the out side for him.

One of the happiest men in town has been Judge Honeycutt. His meeting at Providence resulted in the conversion and restoration of over 20 souls.

Miss Katie Bradley of Lapine arrived here Tuesday afternoon just in time to enter school Wednesday. Miss Katie is a bright young lady, and we, trust her stay in Clanton may be pleasant as well as profitable.

Misses Helen and Tot Ehrman left Wednesday morning for Columbia Tennessee where they will enter school. We hope their stay will be pleasant and profitable, but regret very much to part with them.

The friends of Prof. S. J. Strock, congratulate him and his bride Nee Miss Maude Gorman, on their happy marriage, and wish for them a happy married life.

If men about Clanton who drink will all go home when they get drunk and remain there until they get sober the reputation of Clanton for good manners and good morals will improve.

A PROPELLING FORCE.
In Natures Storehouse For Suffering Humanity.

J. D. Thomson, Anniston, Ala. "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propeling force in natures storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

It Is WOnderful What the electropoise Will Do

Sourwlpa, Ala., Aug. 11, 1894.

I have used the Electropoise with unfailing success on my family and friends, curing a long list of diseases. without medicines, Among them were milk leg, measles, la-grippe, several kinds fevers, chills, old sores, colds, violent pains etc. The Electropoise takes the place of doctor and drug store.

Egyptian Book of The Dead.

The Egyptian "Book of the Dead" or funeral ritual contains probably the oldest existing record of the faith of man in the immortality of the soul. Its chapters are found inscribed on mummy cases or written on rolls of papyrus within them. The book recounts the supposed experience of the soul after death, its passage across the land of darkness in the blessed fields, to its final judgment and admission into the presence of its Father in "eternal dwelling place of the cleansed spirit." The following passage from one of these mummy cases recently exhumed shows its express declaration of a future life. "The osiris (soul) lives after death. Every god rejoices with life. The osiris rejoices as the gods rejoice." It is supposed the "Book of the Dead" originated with Egyptians between 2,000 and 3,000 years before Christ. A mummy case from the great pyramid, inscribed 1,700 yea before the time of Jesus, has the following inscription: "O God, the protector of him who cries to thee, he is thine. Let him have no harm. Let him be as one of thy flying servants. Thou art he; he is thou. Make it well for him in the land of spirits."—Home Magazine.

Don't Tread on Me,

Vibrates the rattle snake with his rattle. Sensible people take alarm at the chill which ushers in chills and fever. If they don't know they should, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the preventer and remedy. Nor should they forget that it remedies dyspepsia, liver complaints, nervousness, sleeplessness and debility, and is a general tonic without equal.

The True Laxative Principle

Of the plants used in manufacturing the pleasant remedy, Syrup of Figs, has a permanently beneficial effect on the human system, while the cheap vegetable extracts and mineral solutions, usually sold as medicines, are permanently injurious. Being well informed you will use the true remedy only. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

An honest dollar is one that is honestly earned, be it gold, silver or paper.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury,

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

FLOOD IN TEXAS.

THE LEONA RIVER BECOMES A RUSHING TORRENT.

Whole Families Drowned and Towns Completely Annihilated.

A terrible catastrophe befell the thriving town of Uvalde, Texas, Thursday night and there is mourning in many households. The calamity was entirely unexpected. The treacherous Leona river, swollen to a raging torrent by recent rains, rushed without a moment's warning down upon the town, submerging and wrecking many houses and drowning a number of people. In this arid section such destructiveness by the elements has never before been chronicled.

In the excitement it is not definitely known how many have been drowned.

It was about 2 o'clock in the morning when the flood came. Just as the storm broke over the city a terrible torrent of water rushed down the Leona river, overflowing the banks of that stream and flooding the lowlands on either side to a depth of several feet. The east side of the city is built on lowland and was directly in the path of the water. All the houses in this part of the town were submerged. There were a number of miraculous escapes and the rescuers and the rescued performed many heroic acts.

An earthquake shock of some moments' duration was distinctly felt during the night. At one place near the city about a quarter of a mile of heavy cracks appeared on each side of the Leona river, having apparently no bottom.

The loss to the Southern Pacific Railroad Company is enormous, forty miles of track and many bridges having been washed away. A rough estimate of the loss to property in general and the railroad company will, as far as known, reach a million and a half dollars.

A Later Account.

Another and later account says that the deluge did not come from the clouds, as was at first supposed, but that it came out of the ground and its bursting forth was caused by an earthquake which rent the earth at several places along the Leona river, near Uvalde. The cracks in the earth with the water pouring therefrom are still visible. The Leona river, so-called, is a dry stream ten months of the year, but it is known that a subterranean basin and stream of water exists underneath the dry bed, as flowing artesian wells are obtained by boring a few hundred feet. It is supposed that this artesian basin of water is now escaping through the cracks caused by the earthquake. The shock of the earthquake was distinctly felt at Uvalde and at points for many miles around.

THE FLOODED DISTRICT.

A special from San Antonio says: The scene of destruction and desolation in the flooded district for a distance of 100 miles west from here and extending south from the Southern Pacific railway to the Rio Grande 200 miles away, is simply terrible. Thousands of acres of pasture and farm land is under water.

It is estimated that the damage to crops in the valley of the Leona river will reach $500,000, while in the valleys of the Saco and Sabine rivers the losses will be fully as much or more. Many thousands of cattle, horses and sheep were swept away. Up to Friday night all telegrams received by Southern Pacific railway officials and for the press came by the roundabout way of El Paso, Pueblo and Kansas City, all direct communication with Uvalde and other flooded towns being cut off.

Latest reports received are more alarming than the earlier ones. It is still a matter of uncertainty as to the number of lives lost, but additions to the list of drowned are constantly coming.

About one-half the houses of Uvalde, a town of 2,300 people, were carried away, and there is much suffering there, but no more fatalities are reported from that place. Nothing has yet been heard from the settlement of seventy-five families several miles below Uvalde, but there are still grave fears that many if not all of them were swept down by the torrent.

ARCTIC EXPEDITION FAILURE.

Dr. Cook's Crowd Narrowly Escape a Watery Grave.

A cable dispatch from North Sidney, N. B., says: The fishing schooner "Rigel," of Gloucester, Mass., arrived Wednesday morning with the passengers and crew of the ill-fated steamship "Miranda," which left New York July 7, carrying Dr. Cook's arctic exploration party. The Miranda left Sukker Tappan, Greenland, August 9, for Holstenberg.

The vessel struck a sunken rock outside of the harbor. There was a heavy wind and sea prevailing, and a large hole was stove in the bottom, and the ballast tank was filled with water. The pumps were useless. The tank did not burst and the Miranda succeeded in getting back into Tappan safely, but was not regarded as fit to return to St. Johns with her passengers. A relief party, consisting of Drs. Wok, Rogers, Thompson and Dunning, of Yale University, Lod, of Harvard and Porter, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technolgy, set out from Sukker Tappan to Holstenberg, 140 miles distant, with five Esquimaux in an open boat, for assistance. The journey was made in five days under stormy conditions.

The schooner "Rigel" was by chance met with. The passengers and food were transferred to the "Rigel" and the "Miranda" then started for Labrador with the "Rigel" in tow. On account of the bursting of the water tank of the "Miranda" the crew and officers were transferred to the "Rigel" August 23, and the "Miranda" was left to her fate.

TRADE TOPICS.

Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Review of Trade for the past week says:

"The activity which came with exhausted stocks, and was increased by the removal of uncertainty about the tariff, has continued with heavy entries of foreign goods since the bill became a law. But the people who know best are saying 'improvement will come,' rather than 'improvement has come.' The gain is not yet what has been expected, and business, if good in comparison with last year, is still poor in comparison with years preceding. Presumably there has not been time to feel the full effects of the change, and a gradual gain will be more healthful and encouraging than a spasmodic rise, but the expansion of commercial loans has suddenly ceased, prices of manufactured products show weakness rather than strength, and there has been a reaction in the stock market.

"August has ended, but the ulterior demand for money still merely balances the receipts of superfluous currency from eastern points, although crops are moving quite freely. The recent material increase in demand for commercial loans appears to have been due to payments for sugar imports, for whisky taken out of bond, and for imported goods taken out of the custom houses, and has dropped off sharply. The unavoidable conclusion is that the desired increase in domestic distribution has not yet reached such proportions as to influence the loan market.

"The mills are not running full, though the stoppage at Fall River looks every day more like an effort of the operatives to force curtailment of production in order to lift prices and make reduction of wages seem unnecessary. So far, print cloths have advanced a quarter, but without corresponding advance in other goods, and while the demand is encouraging, it does not compare with years before the last. Neither in cotton nor woolen mills has there appeared this week an increase in production. In woolens, orders for spring goods of certain qualities have been quite large, buyers concluding that prices are about as low as they will be. The demand for products of iron and steel has increased, but prices tend downward where any change appears, as there is not enough business yet to employ the works in operations. Steel bars are sold at 1 cent at Pittsburg; wire nails 1.05 cents, with bessemer iron at $11.65, several additional furnaces having gone into blast. An encouraging sale of 40,000 bundles of cotton ties in competition with foreign ties duty free, warrants the hope that current prices in other branches may be low enough to meet the coming rivalry, and a sale of mesaba ore at $2.25 delivered at lower lake ports is reported.

"There is a better demand for structural work, though one considerable contract for Cuba was broken off by the advance in Spanish duties.

"Failures are still few and small. For the third week of August reported liabilities were $2,976,518, but for the three weeks only $8,214,470, of which $2,845,338 were of manufacturing and $3,384,414 of trading concerns. The average was only $11,521 per firm failing. The failures this week have been 188 in the United States, against 356 last year, and 40 in Canada, against 29 last year."

BRIBERY RAMPANT.

The New Orleans Grand Jury Unearths Much Rottenness.

After indicting eleven members of the city council, including its president, and besides the city engineer, the term of the New Orleans grand jury expired, and it was discharged by Judge Moise after presenting a report which is the most scathing denunciation of the crookedness rampant in the city hall.

The first subject treated of was the sale of railroad franchises by the city council for ridiculously low prices. An investigation of the books of the New Orleans Traction company, which now own nearly all of the street car lines of the city, shows remarkable discrepancies. For instance there is the sale of the extension of the franchise of the New Orleans City and Lake railroad, for which the city received $700,000. The Traction company's books show that $800,000 was paid to Henry Bier, the broker, besides a commission of $80,000.

The books of Mr. Bier do not show where the extra $100,000 went to, and he could not produce his ledger, as he said it had been lost. The traction company's books show the disappearance of $65,000 which was paid to Maurice J. Hart, who is the manager of the Rosetta Gravel company, and who is generally supposed to have engineered the railroad deals through the council. The gravel company's books do not show any entries of these checks.

As to contracts, the report refers to the jail contract and recites all the crookedness connected with it. A deal, which failed to go through in connection with this contract, was said to have netted this official and the members of the special committee of the council $5,000.

Favored legislation in the interest of a certain paving contractor is strongly commented on, but there was no possibility of getting at sufficient evidence to indict for bribery. The fact that not one member of the city council responded to the request of the grand jury to assist in exposing crookedness is cited, and the new garbage scheme is vigorously denounced.

Franchises granted to the Illinois Central railroad are shown to have been given regardless of public interest.

Two indictments for bribery accompanied the report. One was against Councilman Dan A. Mayer, and the other against Alderman John M. Clark. The former was charged with feloniously and corruptly proposing to receive a bribe from Narcesse Lucas for a steam boiler privilege. The indictment against Clark was for receiving a bribe from W. B. Evardell, clerk of the National Rice Mill Engine Co., September 12, 1892, for favoring an ordinance giving the company permission to lay a pipe from its mill to the river. Mayer has been indicted before, but this is the first indictment against Clark. He is the representative of the Ninth ward.

City Health Commissioner Kempster, of Milwaukee, has formally asked the state board of health to take control of the smallpox epidemic in the city. State troops will not be sent to Milwaukee to quarantine the city or any part of it, nor will the state board of health take charge for the present at least. This is the result of advice given the city authorities and the state board by Governor Peck. Governor Peck insists that the local authorities should do their full duty.

A dispatch from Uniontown, Pa., says: In this end of Connellsville field the coke men went out again Tuesday and nearly all the plants south of this place are idle once more. Before the old hands went back and pleaded poverty and peaceful intentions to the operators, they had an understanding with their fellows that they would go back long enough to displace the colored men and drive them out of the region, which would enable the original strikers to get control again.

A Chicago special says: Attorney-General Malloney is still after the Pullman Palace Car Company. He has notified its attorney that he will appear before Judge Gibbons and ask leave to file the amended petition in the quo warranto proceedings in which the company is asked to show cause why it should not forfeit its charter. The reasons given are that the company sells gas and water without proper authority, and also does a good business in supplying steam heat to residences at a large price.

Emperor William, of Germany, accompanied by the empress arrived at Konigsberg Tuesday morning in order to unveil the monument erected to the memory of his grandfather, Emperor William I. Consequently the town was in holiday attire and crowded with visitors. The imperial party then proceeded to the main square where the monument stands. Prayer followed, after which the emperor unveiled the monument.

Congressman Jerry Simpson opened his campaign at Wichita Tuesday night. He devoted most of his time to the "republican enemy," charging the republican minority in congress with responsibility for much of the legislation of the fifty-third congress. To the populist members he credited the income tax annex and said it was the only measure passed in the interest of the masses and he alleged that the people could expect no relief unless they elected populist congressmen who are pledged to give the country a currency based not only on gold and silver, but on all the wealth of all the people of all the land. Mr. Simpson spoke heartily of woman suffrage.

A MOTHER'S STORY.

HAPPINESS COMES AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Terrible Experience of a Well Known Official's Wife—A Story That Appeals to Every Mother in the Land.

From the Chattanooga, Tenn., Press.

No county official in East Tennessee is better known and more highly esteemed than Mr. J. C. Wilson, Circuit Court Clerk of Rhea County, at Dayton, the home of Mr. Wilson. He enjoys the confidence and respect of all classes, and in the business community his word is as good as his bond. Just now Mr. Wilson is receiving heartiest congratulations from his numerous friends because of the restoration to robust health of his estimable wife, who has for years been a helpless invalid. Mrs. Wilson's high standing in society, and her many lovable traits of character have won her a host of friends, and her wonderful recovery has attracted widespread attention.

As the Press was the medium of bringing to the invalid lady's attention the remedy that has effected her remarkable cure, a reporter was sent to Dayton to interview Mrs. Wilson, in order that the general public might have the benefit of the sufferer's experience and be made aware of the treatment that wrought such a marvelous change in her condition. The reporter was welcomed at the Wilson home, and the enthusiastic lady with becoming reluctance gave the history of her affliction and the manner in which she was relieved:

"Yes," said Mrs. Wilson, "I was for 8 years an invalid with one of the most distressing afflictions woman can suffer. For 8 years I moped around, dragging myself with difficulty and pain out of bed. My little ones went untrained and were greatly neglected, while I looked listlessly and helplessly at the cheerless prospect before me and them. I suffered the most intense pains in the small of my back, and these seemed even greater in the region of the stomach, extending down to the groins. I suffered agony sleeping or awake. Despair is no word for the feeling caused by that dreadful sensation of weakness and helplessness I constantly experienced.

"I was treated for my trouble by several local physicians, but they were able to give me only temporary relief by the use of sedatives and narcotics. I had almost given up all hope of ever securing permanent relief when I saw an account in the Press of a cure which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had effected. I decided to try them, as I knew the lady who had been cured and had great confidence in her statement. I began to take the pills in October, 1892, and in two months I was doing light housework and attending to the children without any bad effects or weakness, such as I had formerly experienced. Hitherto, I had been unable to retain any food, but now my appetite grew stronger, and with it came back that old, healthy and hearty tone of the stomach. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me, and I assure you the cure has brought a great change in our home. I can now rejoice in my husband's success, for I feel that I have something to live for. Who has a better right to feel this than a mother? One thing more. I have recommended these pills to others, and many of the women of Dayton have taken them with good results, and it is my greatest pleasure to recommend to every suffering woman a remedy that has done so much for me."

An analysis proves that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

An Aluminum Violin.

Dr. Alfred Springer, of Cincinnati, has introduced an aluminum violin, which produces an enormous volume of tone, fully five times that of an ordinary wooden instrument. There is a variety of opinions as to the quality of the tone. Some musicians declared that the quality is not as good as a wooden one for solo work, but that it would prove good in orchestra work. Others take the opposite side on the question entirely.

No Use to Cry.

Dust Indespensable.

Ordinarily regarded dust is a nuisance, yet it plays a most important part in our very existence. In fact, dust gives color to not only the atmosphere, but to everything we behold. The sky is blue, the mountain green, the ripening fields of corn yellow, the evening sunset red, the clouds purple, all through dust. Our soft, uniformly diffused daylight is due entirely to dust. In truth, our days would be darker than moonless nights but for dust. The fineness of the particles of atmospheric dust determines the color we see. These dust particles intercept and diffuse the light. Some of these atoms are large enough to reflect the blue ether waves, fewer of them capable of reflecting green and yellow, and still fewer large enough to influence the red ethereal waves, hence blue is the prevailing atmospheric color. The deep blue of the sky in Italy and the tropics is solely from the fact that atmospheric dust is finer there.

Rainfall is produced by dust. Every particle of moisture evaporated by the sun condenses upon a particle of dust as a nucleus, and hence precipitation in rain. We could have no snow, no clouds, no fogs, no color without dust. In winter everything would be covered with a crust of ice. In short, without this usually considered nuisance, dust, life would not be worth living, even if living were possible.—Exchange.

Mildewed Clothes.

Clothes that are sprinkled overnight in sultry weather are quite apt to mildew before morning. Rub them with buttermilk and lay them in the sun, and the mildew, unless very bad, will disappear. Another remedy is salt and vinegar. It may be well to state that badly mildewed clothes can never be made white.

Could Only See at Night.

There is a case recorded near Lyons in 1867 of a girl who not only was unable to see in the daytime, but had to be kept in a dark room, so painful was the light to her eyes. She was taken out for exercise every night and displayed a power of vision that was almost telescopic. She was able to distinguish moving figures on a road when persons beside her with good sight could see nothing but the blackness of night. The ignorant French peasantry thought the child bewitched and an attempt was made to poison her. The parents became alarmed and fled to Paris, taking the girl with them. She was taken to a hospital, where she came into the notice of Dr. Paille, the famous occulist, and he paid the parents for the privilege of lecturing on the phenomenon. The girl eventually died insane, but retained her power of seeing at night in the dark until the last moment.—New York Mail and Express.

LONG STRIDES of diseases and derangements have their origin in torpor of the liver. Deranged appetite, constipation, headache, sour stomach, gassy belching, indigestion, or dyspepsia, are due to sluggish liver.

MR. JOHN A. DE BERRY, U. S. Inspector of Immigration at Buffalo, N. Y., writes as follows:

"From early childhood I suffered from a sluggish liver. Doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines afforded only temporary relief. I tried Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, taking three at night and two after dinner every day for two weeks and then one "Pellet" every day for two months. I have in six months increased in solid flesh, twenty-six pounds, am in better health than I have been since childhood. Drowsiness and unpleasant feelings after meals have completely disappeared. SHIPWRECKS.

We cannot see the shipwreck of a heart,
Beneath the placid waters of disguise;
The calm, sweet voice does not betray the smart,
The buried deep from gaze of scornful eyes.

We do not hear the booming gun, distress,
Above the great world's deafening crash and din;
In muffled tones it sobs its bitterness,
And silently it grieves and breaks within.

Grief cannot be appraised by tears and sighs,
For hopeless sorrow is dry-eyed in woe;
We must not judge nor deem ourselves o'erwise—
We see the surface, not the wreck below.

We cannot see the shipwreck of a heart;
We hear the merry laugh ring out so gay,
And see the smiling face, but graceful art
Conceals the shipwreck, and the darkened day.

An Electrical Elopement.

PARTLY out of pique and partly because her parents disapproved of the match Tillie promised to elope with George Webley. It wasn't a trivial elopement, a getting married before the Registrar in London and going to Paris for a few weeks, but a run to Liverpool, a marriage there by special license and a trip by fastest steamship to New York. Arriving there they would cross America and gradually work their way around the world and back to London in a year or two.

George Webley was rich, and could easily afford this kind of a wedding tour. In olden times the parents of Tillie Markham would have been more anxious that their daughter should marry George Webley rather than the poorer, but of course more moral young man, Tom Bantry. But times had changed, and it was the daughters that now looked for money with their lovers. The girl admitted to herself that she liked Tom Bantry best, but he certainly had treated her very badly. They had had an appointment for a picnic up the river, but without a word Tom had gone away, and worse still, he had sent no explanation or excuse for his desertion.

So Tillie thought she would teach him a life-long lesson, and knowing well that her parents would oppose the match, and especially its hurried conclusion, she told George Webley if he would arrange for the special license at Liverpool she would meet him at Euston station on the 27th, and together they would journey to the seaport town, be married and sail for America in the powerful steamship Erratic.

Tillie concluded that it was better to be married at Liverpool than in London, as there would be less chance of the escapade being found out until such time as they chose to disclose it. Tillie agreed that they would write letters to all concerned while on the voyage from Liverpool to Queenstown, and mail them there when there would be nothing but the broad Atlantic between them and New York.

Tillie met the postman on the steps as she was going out of the house that morning, and he handed her a bundle of letters. She had no time to read them then, nor in the cab, for there was barely time to reach the station, where she found Mr. Webley impatiently awaiting her. He had strongly advised her to bring nothing with her. Whatever was required could be bought at Liverpool, he said.

"I was very much afraid we would miss the train," he said, as he hurried her out of the cab. "I have reserved a compartment."

"There's another train, isn't there?" she asked.

"Oh, certainly, but a railway station isn't the pleasantest place in the world to wait, and since I left my hotel I seem to have met every friend I have in London, and all wanting to know where I am going."

"And, of course, you told them," said Tillie.

The young man laughed as he held open the door of the railway carriage for her to enter. He quickly followed her, and a moment after the 10.10 a. m. train slid out of the great station and began its northern journey. Tilly sat in her corner by the window and aimlessly turned over the letters in her hand. Most of them were from girl friends, but on the envelope of one of them she recognized the fine, bold handwriting of Tom Bantry. She stole a furtive glance at Webley as she tore open the envelope, but he was absorbed in his morning paper, now that his mind was at rest and they were fairly off.

"Dear Miss Markham," the letter began. "I was unexpectedly called away from London more than a week ago by the sudden illness of my uncle, Sir John Trellyan. Before departing for Trellyan Hall I wrote a letter to you explaining why I could not be at the picnic up the river. Through my own stupidity and the hurry of getting away I find I left your letter on my table in my rooms in the Temple. I had expected a letter from you while at Trellyan Hall, and when it did not come I was greatly disappointed. I found on my return this morning, as I said, my own letter which was not posted, so, of course, you did not receive it. Will you forgive me, therefore, for breaking an engagement with you and your friends without explanation? And may I call this evening, as I have something of importance (to myself, at least) to say to you? I will remain all day in my chambers at the Temple awaiting your answer with some anxiety."

He signed himself, "Yours very truly, Tom Bantry," and then added in a postscript, as if an afterthought, "I should have told you that my uncle died two days ago, which makes a great deal of difference in my plan of life, as perhaps you are aware."

Tillie Markham was a cautious young woman, and always considered that a bird in the hand was worth two in the bush. She looked at George Webley, and he smiled across at her.

"Where do we stop first?" she asked.

"Willesden Junction, I believe, and we ought to be there now."

"How long do we stop?"

"Only a few minutes."

"Do you think you could get me half a dozen telegraph blanks while we are stopping there?"

"Oh, I don't need to go out for them," said Webley, "I always carry plenty of them with me and sixpenny stamps also." As he said this he reached down a bag from the rack over his head, opened it and handed Tillie a number of already stamped telegraph forms. When the train slowed up at Willesden she said:

"Do get out, George, and find me a time book, for I want to know how many times this train stops before we reach Liverpool."

Webley had no sooner disappeared than the young lady called the guard to her.

"Where is the next stop, guard?" she asked.

"At Bletchley, miss."

"How long before we reach there?"

"We are timed for Bletchley at 11.14."

She had already written her telegram, all but the instructions where to reach her. It ran:

"Tom Bantry, Coke-upon-Littleton Chambers, Temple:
"What do you wish to see me for this evening? Answer Bletchley station, on board the Liverpool express. TILLIE."

"Can you send this off for me at once?" she asked the guard, slipping it with a sovereign into his hand.

"Certainly, miss," and he was moving away when Tillie said:

"I may have an answer to this when we reach Bletchley station. Will you see that I get it quickly?"

"Certainly, certainly, miss."

Just as the train was leaving George Webley sprang into the compartment with the train book in his hand. Tillie opened it and found the number of stops the train made between London and Liverpool. When they reached the station she said:

"Oh, George, I wish you would get me a cup of tea."

"I don't think there is a refreshment room here," he said dubiously, "but I'll go and see."

"Do, please."

The next moment the guard came up. "Here's your telegram, miss," he said.

She rapidly tore open the envelope and read: "The matter on which I wish to speak to you is impossible to explain in a telegram. When do you return?"

She took another of the telegraph forms and rapidly wrote:

"If you have anything to tell me, now is the time to tell it. I do not know when I shall return to London."

Then turning to the guard she asked:

"Where do we stop next?"

"At Rugby, miss; 11.50."

She quickly wrote where to telegraph her as she saw George approaching. She added hurriedly to the guard as she thrust her message into his hand:

"Bring me the answer when we get to Rugby."

George swung himself into the compartment, saying: "Just as I thought; not a blessed thing to eat here, but we wait ten minutes at the next stop and I may be able to get you anything you wish. I say," he added," you're not telegraphing to your friends about this, are you?"

"Oh, not about this," she replied quietly, "I am only sending some necessary telegrams, that is all."

"You know if you are in a hurry," he said, "we can send all the telegrams you want from Queenstown just as well as from here or Liverpool."

"Oh, I know that," answered Tillie, demurely. "I hope I know enough to send messages only where they ought to go, so don't be afraid."

George laughed, for he was a good-natured fellow, and the train sped on toward Liverpool. When it slowed up at Rugby station Tillie leaned affectionately over toward the young man and said:

"Now, George, you go over to the refreshment room and eat all you have an appetite for. I don't think I care for anything until we reach Liverpool."

"May I not bring you a cup of tea?" asked George, anxiously.

"Oh, certainly, certainly, if you bring it two minutes before the train is off."

Another man might have thought this request a rather singular one, but George had no brains to spare, else he would not have been on this silly eloping expedition, so he thought nothing of it, but jumped out as soon as the train came to a standstill."

The guard soon came to the compartment with a telegram in his hand. Tillie tore it open and read:

"Utterly impossible to telegraph what I wish to say to you. Tell me where you are staying at Liverpool, and I will leave by first train and meet you there."

Tillie, with a sniff of impatience, seized another of the stamped forms and rapidly wrote:

"I may sail to-morrow with some friends for America. There is no chance of your seeing me if you do come; therefore, whatever you may have to say to me say it now! It is your last chance. Telegraph me at—"

She looked inquiringly at the guard, who promptly answered: "Next stop Creve. We reach there at 1.35."

She gave the guard a handful of money to pay for the extra wording of this dispatch. That good man was rapidly becoming rich. He sighed as he remembered that the next stop was the last before reaching Liverpool. He wished that he was on a train for Scotland with such a passenger aboard.

"Here is your tea, my dear," said George, as he came gingerly along with it in his hand. The girl drank it with many expressions of gratitude toward her lover.

"Well, the next stop is Creve, and after that Liverpool," he said, as he handed back the empty cup to a newspaper boy to take back to the refreshment room.

"So the guard tells me," replied Tillie, sweetly.

At Creve the guard came to her with the final telegram. Its wording was terse and to the point. It ran: "I love you. Will you be my wife?"

"Lend me another of those blanks," she said to George.

"I haven't another, but you can get one at the telegraph office."

The train was moving off, so she said:

"Never mind. I can send the telegram from Liverpool."

They reached the terminus in an hour. Turning to the guard, Tillie said:

"Would you mind taking my things to the telegraph office for me?" And to George she added: "You wait here until I send for you."

When they reached the telegraph office Tillie turned and said quickly to the guard:

"When is the next train back to London?"

"On this line there is not one until 4.50, but you can get one on the Midland at 3."

Tillie took a last telegraph blank and wrote:

"Certainly. Why couldn't you have said so at first and saved me all this telegraphing? I return to London immediately. Call and see me to-morrow."

This being sent off she turned to the man who had been her friend all the way through.

"Now," she said, take me to the Midland train." As the guard hesitated, she added: "I am going to give you ten pounds."

The guard personally conducted her to an empty compartment of the London train. She scribbled a note to Webley on the back of a telegraph form. The note read:

"DEAR GEORGE—I have concluded not to go to America this trip. Our proposed elopement was a very foolish affair, and I hope you never thought I was in earnest about it. Take my advice and go to America. I am told that the girls over there are much prettier than yours truly.

"TILLIE MARKHAM."

"There," said Tillie, giving the note to the guard with the parting tip, "take that to the young man who is guarding his luggage. Don't tell him where I have gone, nor give him any information. He will offer you much money, of course, because he has plenty. Take the money, and tell him I have gone to the country. Tell him anything you like, only not where I have really gone."

All of which went to show that Tillie had no conscience.

The guard touched his cap and departed. After the London train had steamed away from its station the guard handed George the note. He did not get the money he expected. A look of relief passed over the young fellow's face. Then he whistled, and said to himself more than to the expectant guard:

"Sensible girl; I was getting a little tired of it myself."—Detroit Free Press.

Swarms of Antelope.

Dr. George M. Kober, who arrived yesterday from old Fort Bidwell, lately abandoned as an army post, says that antelope are swarming over the Madeleine plains, and that they are exceptionally fat, says the San Francisco Examiner.

"I rode 150 miles by stage," said the doctor, "and saw them everywhere. I was much astonished at seeing so many this side of Fort Bidwell, and even along the railroad from Amedee. The Madeleine plains are at an altitude of 4200 feet, while the mountains on either side reach about 1000 feet higher.

"We saw the first band of between thirty and forty on the stage road about ten miles north of Mutton's Station. From that on along the road somebody was always seeing antelope. It is surprising that sportsmen have not penetrated that region. The Indians are about the only ones who have been hunting them, save Chaplain Potter, and a very few others. The chaplain is a noted hunter. He has killed a great many, but all he could kill would cut no figure, considering the vast numbers.

"There are a great many deer, black and brown bear, wildcats and California lions in the mountains surrounding the plains. Altogether it is one of the greatest game countries to be found anywhere. No one can go there, if he is any kind of a shot at all, and not get loads and loads of wild meat."

Rapidity of Magnetic Current.

M. Moureaux, Director of the Paris Meteorological Observatory, reported that the curve of the magnetograph was notably perturbed sixteen minutes after the earthquake in Constantinople, July 18, thus proving that the magnetic wave had traversed 3000 kilometres with ten times the velocity of sound.—New York Witness.

A cable dispatch from Paris says: Twelve persons were killed outright and sixty injured in the accident to the Cologne express between Noyon and Chaunny, Sunday.

A Chicago dispatch says: Jackson, after having read the articles signed by Brady, as manager for Corbett, said that they were "no good," and that he refused to sign them.

Cholera is raging in the town and province of Nijni Novgorod. In Russian Poland there were 5,000 fresh cases of cholera and 2,500 deaths from that disease on an average per week.

A dispatch to the London Times from Shanghai says that the Corean reports agree with those of the Chinese concerning the defeat of the Japanese troops at the Tatung river. The wounded Japanese soldiers are arriving at Chemulpo daily.

It was announced in Wall street, N. Y., Tuesday afternoon, that J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, had purchased from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad company $2,200,000 of the company's 4½ per cent bonds. This pays off all the company's floating debt.

Seven anarchists suspected of complicity in the explosion of a bomb in front of the palazzo of the ministry of war at Rome, Italy, last May have been arrested. Five of them have confessed that the suspicions of the authorities as to their guilt were well founded.

Thomas T. Smith, county treasurer of Columbia county, Ark., has been indicted by the grand jury, charged with being a defaulter in the amount of $3,000. Smith is very popular in south Arkansas and has filled the position of treasurer of Columbia county for the past six years.

The New York state constitutional convention, held at Albany, adopted a resolution changing the term of governor and lieutenant governor from three years, as at present, to two years, and providing that in all cases the state engineer shall be a practical civil engineer.

In an interview at Paris, M. Gautron, the liquidator of the affairs of the Panama Canal Company, stated that the date of the new issue of bonds had been postponed to September 22d, when securities to the amount of 30,000,000 francs will be offered. It was not probable, he said, that a technical committee would be sent to the isthmus.

A dispatch from Fall River says: The indications are becoming strong that a majority of the striking mill operatives will resist the reduction in wages until cold weather at least. They claim that the print cloth market has so improved that there is now no excuse for a reduction in wages, and declare that they will stay out until victorious.

An Indianapolis dispatch says: The first effect of the stand taken by the Knights of Pythias in regard to the German ritual was felt Tuesday night, when Kerner lodge, No. 6, voted unanimously to surrender its charter. It had 250 members. The members then organized a benevolent order, which they named the "Indiana Zeitung Bond."

A special from Ashland, Wis., says: Strong winds have fanned the forest fires in this vicinity, and they are burning fiercely in nearly every direction. They crossed what is known as the Cemetery road, south of Ashland, Monday, and the Ashland Driving Park Association, whose buildings are located two miles out from Ashland, are in danger of burning.

The steamer Portia, of St. Johns, N. F., and Halifax, N. S., for New York, arrived at City Island at 3:30 a. m. Tuesday and reported that she ran into and sank the schooner Dora M. French, of Bangor, Maine, during a dense fog about three miles from Cutty Hunk light, Vineyard Haven Sound. The captain of the French and three of the crew of the schooner were drowned.

Yancey Lewis, master in chancery, at South McAlester, I. T., has sold the Choctaw Coal and Railway Company to the highest bidder for $3,500,000. George H. Earle, of Philadelphia, was the purchaser. The name of the road will be changed to Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad Company, and it will be extended from South McAlester to Oklahoma at an early day.

The break in the ranks of the mill owners at New Bedford, Mass., is widening. A number of them favor a compromise with the strikers, and steps to this end have been taken. The manufacturers want to start up at a reduction. This proposition the operatives have rejected, claiming that when the market reaches 3 cents the time will come for an increase in wages rather than the restoration of a reduction.

The New York state populist convention met at Saratoga Tuesday. The platform adopted re-affirms the cardinal doctrines of populism as contained in the Omaha platform of 1892. Charles B. Matthews, of Buffalo, was nominated for governor by acclamation. Robert C. Howson, of Penn Yann was nominated for lieutenant governor and Thaddeus B. Weekman, of New York city, was named for judge of the court of appeals.

There is now a hot contest on in Montana as to which shall be the capital of the coming state—Helena or Anaconda. Helena is by far the larger of the two cities, but Anaconda is backed by an influential element, which knows how to pull the wires. In flourishing times, when the smelting furnaces are in full blast, Anaconda is a place of note—in dull times, when the furnaces are not in full blast, it is hard to find a corporal's guard of citizens in the town.

The Wisconsin democratic state convention met in second session at Milwaukee. Governor Peck was renominated on the third formal ballot. Judge Rose, from the minority of the committee on platform, presented the following, which was adopted as an amendment to the platform: "We denounce the treachery of United States senators, who, claiming to be democrats, have joined with the republicans to defeat the full measure of tariff reform." This was adopted as an amendment to the platform and then the platform, as a whole, was adopted.

The first district North Carolina populists have nominated Harry Skinner for congress. He is the originator of the subtreasury scheme which the alliance afterwards endorsed.

At Charleston, S. C., Tuesday Judge Simonton sent down a decree in the case of O. H. Sampson & Co., vs. the Camperdon Cotton Mills, of Greenville. The sale of the mills is ordered on October 31st.

Arrangements have been made under which rifle teams representing the states of New Jersey and Georgia will shoot a match at Savannah on February 22d next. The team will consist of six picked riflemen from each state.

One of the most disastrous fires that ever occurred in Roanoke, Va., broke out at 11 o'clock Sunday morning in the Bridgewater building, a large three-story, cased-brick structure, which, with its contents, was entirely destroyed within an hour and a half.

The Chattanooga Tradesman has information that twenty coke operators in the Pocahontas field, of West Virginia, have formed a company to be known as the Flat Top United Coke Company, of Bramwell, W. Va., and nearly all the other operators in the field will join, thus practically controlling the entire product, which exceeds 1,000,000 tons annually.

The railway commission of North Carolina has issued an order enforcing the standard freight tariff on the Western North Carolina railway, which was lately purchased by the Southern. It says that since the consolidation of all the lines, which the Richmond and Danville formerly leased, there is no reason why the standard tariff should not be enforced.

The Southside livery stables burned to the ground at Fort Worth, Texas. Tuesday Twenty-six head of horses, valued at $8,000, and thirty-six buggies and carriages, valued at $5,000, were consumed with a quantity of feed. The stable and property burned had a total valuation of $25,000. The horses were well insured, as were also the barns and carriages. The fire is thought to be of incendiary origin.

Tuskegee, Ala., suffered from the heaviest fire ever known in the place Sunday night. The fire started in Lamar & Bros. grocery store and extended to W. E. Poeple's dry goods store and the Macon County bank. The latter building was occupied above the first floor by offices. Among the losses was the office of the Tuskegee News. The loss was quite heavy, but has not been ascertained.

Joe Henry Lloyd and Charles L. Wilson, both white, have been arrested and lodged in jail at Manning, S. C., for counterfeiting, by deputy Charles L. Emanuel. Mr. Emanuel says he found seven molds for counterfeiting in all denominations from a nickel to one dollar. It is thought that there are several more who will be arrested in a few days. The counterfeit money has been passing around for about six months.

The Columbia, S. C., Journal publishes an interesting article stating that rumor has it that the legislature may be called together in extra session to change the election laws, in order "that there may be no question of the legality of Tillman's election to the senate. It should be stated that the republicans are now contesting the legality of the eight box and registration laws of the state," and if these laws are declared constitutional, might not the legislature elected under them, and which, in turn, elects a United States senator, also be unconstitutional.

The American Pharmaceutical Association, in session at Asheville, N. C., voted to boycott manufacturers who furnish physicians with the manufactured products for use in dispensing prescriptions. This was done for the purpose of putting a stop to what the druggists look upon with alarm as an encroachment on their own business. It is claimed by them that year by year the doctors are getting more and more into the habit of filling their own prescriptions and dispensing drugs from their own offices, greatly to the detriment of the prescription business of druggists.

First Clearance of New Cotton.

The first clearance of cotton from Galveston, Texas, for this season has been made to a foreign port. The Sierra line steamer Maria cleared for Liverpool with 6,100 bales of cotton valued at $297,856. This entire cargo came from the counties in Houston

A fire at Chicago early Wednesday morning destroyed the building known as the Arch Fair on Sixty-third street. The loss is $80,000.

A dispatch to the London Daily News, from Paris, says it is not the English, but the Americans who oppose the subjugation of Madagascar by the French. The American trade in striped cloths in Madagascar is very extensive, and the Americans hold that the Patrenotre treaty does not admit of a French protectorate.

The Colorado republican state convention assembled at Denver Wednesday. The following nominations were made: Judge of the supreme court, John Campbell, of Colorado Springs; governor, A. W. McIntyre, of Alamosa; lieutenant governor, J. B. Rush, of Greeley; secretary of state, A. B. McLaffney, of Denver; State treasurer, Harry L. Mullinix, of Trinidad.

A Pittsburg, Pa., special says: The delegates to the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic got down to a solid business basis Wednesday morning. While 200,000 persons have left the city since the last old soldier passed in review Tuesday, there are still 200,000 strangers in town. The national encampment opened in the new Grand opera house and the serious business of the encampment proper then began.

The New York Herald prints a special cablegram from Paris, announcing that bad reports are being circulated concerning the health of the czar. It is said that he is seriously ill with Bright's disease, and with a pulmonary affection which has become incurable since his attack of influenza last spring. Well informed persons believe this report is exact, because news of his illness, telegraphed from Russia, never reaches its destination.

A special dispatch to the London Times from Shanghai says that native advices received on Sunday from the front are to the effect that there is continuous long-distance fighting between the Chinese and Japanese troops who are seperated by the Kimichim river. No decisive results has followed the engagements. Floods have rendered the rivers impassable. The Japanese troops, it is said, are suffering seriously from epidemic diseases.

A Jackson, Miss., special says: Public interest in what is termed "the unwarrantable arrest" of Governor Stone, Auditor Stone and Treasurer Evans, is at white heat throughout the state and if curses were coals the secret service bureau of the treasury department would be in a sad plight. Governor Stone and Treasurer Evans were carried before Commissioner Moseley, who released them on their own recognizance after fixing bail at $1,000.

A portion of north Memphis, Tenn., was swept by a tornado Wednesday, destroying and damaging property to the extent of $8,500, killing one negro and injuring two other persons slightly. The portion of the city visited is the seat of the lumber mills, and the damage falls upon three of them. Conan's cotton gin and mill, north of Memphis, were partly unroofed and trees were twisted and uprooted as if mere pipe-stems. Corn and cotton in the path of the tornado were destroyed.

Wednesday and Thursday the annual reunion of the old time Telegrapher's Association and Society of the United States Military Telegraph Correspondents was held in Baltimore. A number of noted telegraph officials and many graduates from the key who hold high positions in other lines of work from distant points were present. This celebration is especially interesting and elaborate to commemorate the semi-centennial of the telegraph in the city, where its inventor lived, and where the instrument was first successfully operated.

Advices received at Auckland, N. Z., from Samoa, dated September 6th, confirmed the dispatches already received saying that the British war ship Curacoa and the German war vessel Bussard some time ago threatened to bombard Asana, and that thereupon the rebel chief went on board the Curacoa, submitted to Chief Malietoa and gave up a hundred guns. While the war is declared to be over for the present, fears are expressed that hostilities will be renewed in a few months.

NO BOUNTY WILL BE PAID.

Secretary Carlisle So Notifies Senator Caffery, of Louisiana.

Secretary Carlisle has refused to pay the sugar bounty to the Louisiana sugar planters. In a letter to Senator Caffery he calls attention to the paragraph of the new tariff law repealing the bounty clause of the McKinley law, and says whatever may be the construction of this clause as to the authority of the secretary of the treasury to pay bounty on sugar actually produced while the act of October 1, 1890, remained in force, he thinks it was clearly the legislative intention that no bounty should be paid on sugar after the repeal.

The United States Favors It.

It is probably that the United States will respond favorably to Japan's invitation to send an army officer to that country for service with the Japanese army during the oriental war. General Schofield is in favor of it, and is getting to hear the views of Secretary Lamont on the subject.

TRADE TOPICS.

Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade for the past week says:

"The business outlook is much like an April day, with alternate clouds and sunshine. In some branches strong improvement still continues, while in others trade is diminishing. In the adjustment to new conditions such conflicting signs are to be expected, and the more because the deferred business which had awaited a settlement was by no means evenly distributed. For some time to come, it is likely, conditions in different trades and even in different minor branches of the same trades, may vary widely. Strikes lessen for the time the working force, perhaps, as much as it is otherwise increased, but the strike of garment makers spreads so rapidly that an early end is considered certain, while the strikes in cotton mills have advanced prices so much that a settlement is thought not distant.

"Of the aggregate volume of trade no exact measure exists, but payments through clearing houses for the first week of September were 7.1 per cent. greater than last year, though 29.7 per cent. smaller than in 1892. Perhaps settlements on a past business affect the record, but it also appears that commercial loans are not increasing and are limited, while western demand for moving the crops are much smaller than usual, indicating limited demands in other business, though the cotton manufacture after some weeks of increasing business which has been particularly stimulated by the strikes, rejoices in a really large demand with rising prices. Several large mills have gone into operation during the week, and others will soon follow, and the deferred business appears enough with current needs to employ the whole working force for a time.

"The iron manufacture has materially increased its output since the coke troubles ended, but with the result that pig iron is weaker, Bessemer being $11.50 at Pittsburg. At all eastern and central markets the demand for finished products is somewhat disappointing, and prices gradually tend downward, indicating a working capacity exceeding present requirements. Rails are not selling, and, except at Chicago, there appears somewhat less business in other finished forms. The woolen manufacture, in which deferred business might naturally have been larger than in others, does not increase the working force, and, after two or three active weeks, the business has slackened with about three-quarters of the usual transactions for the season.

"Failures in August aggregated liabilities of $10,139,477, of which $8,172,330 were in manufacturing and $5,078,152 in trading concerns. During the week the failures were 215 in the United States against 328 last year, and 47 in Canada against 25 last year."

TWENTY-THREE DEAD INDIANS.

The Band Was Overtaken by the Forest Fires.

A courier reached Pokegama, Minn., and reported that the bodies of twenty-three Chippewa Indians—bucks, squaws and papooses—lie upon the sands between Pokegama and Opstead, a small settlement on the eastern shores of Lake Mille Lac. They are scattered over ten miles of country and will in all probability prove food for buzzards and wolves, as the country where they lie is too far from civilization for burial ceremonies.

The Indians left their reservation two months ago and built a hunting lodge along one of the forks of Shadridge creek. Chief Wascouta was the big chief of the party and he perished with his followers. The first body found by the courier was that of an infant barely a year old. Then came those of two squaws and five children. They had evidently turned west when the fires swept through the forest. A ride of a mile brought him to a pile of ashes, which marked the site of the hunting camp. There was one tepee, the shriveled rawhide thongs marking the place where it stood. Around it were the rains of a half dozen birch wood bark shanties, protruding from the ashes were the fused barrels of rifles and shotguns. Then for five miles the pathway was lined with charred bodies. The courier counted twenty-three.

PYTHIANS ADJOURN.

Next Meeting at Indianapolis in 1896. Officers Elected.

The supreme lodge Knights of Pythias adjourned at Washington Saturday afternoon after having held business sessions for eleven days, to meet at Minneapolis the last Tuesday in August, 1896.

Officers were elected as follows: Walter B. Bicey, of Lima, Ohio, supreme chancellor; Philip T. Colgrove, Hastings, Mich., supreme vice chancellor; Albert Steinhart, Alabama, supreme prelate; Dr. R. L. C. White, supreme keeper of records and seals; Thomas G. Sample, Pennsylvania, supreme master of the exchequer; A. D. Gardner, of New York, supreme master-at-arms; James Moulson, New Brunswick, supreme master of the inner guard; John W. Thompson, Washington, D. C., supreme master of the outer guard; John A. Hinsey, Wisconsin, chairman of the board of control.

The following supreme tribunal was appointed: George R. Seay, of Tennessee, five years; John N. Alexander, of Virginia, four years; Edward A. Graham, of Alabama, three years; Benjamin T. Chase, of Maine, two years, and Frank M. Clarke, of Wyoming, one year.

It is better to wear out than to rust out, but there is no necessity for either.

The Populites will soon cease to consult Col. D. S. Troy both in their election affairs for he has said recently very plainly "we want no outside interference. The right of government within the borders of the State of Alabama is in the people of the State. They have the power and if properly invoked, the will to maintain civil government based on law. But freedom is already lost if we have to go to a New England Republic and for protection."

Mothershed of Jefferson county resigned as a member of the People's party, or Jeffersonian Democratic Committee saying he wanted to beat Goodwin into the Republican camp. And that is just what other Populite leaders are doing whether they say so or not In this district Populites have failed to make a nomination for Congress, but have recomended that all their set support W. F. Aldrich, an old time Republican, who had already been nominated by the Republicans We fail to see how Lee Hays Moses Robinson and other such good men, life long Democrats, of Chilton county can afford to go farther in their fight on the party of their fathers. We give a hearty welcome to all such men to come back and let us pull together for the future. We have differed in some matters from each other, but we are nearer together than we think for To go now with the Republican party means eternal political separation. The Democratic party is going to control Alabama regardless of combinations of parties and the outpouring of money and young and middle aged men especially will regret it forever if they allow themselves with the enemies of Democracy. The Democratic party can and will in due time make every reform and give every needed relief that any sensible people should ask for. To hasten that good time should be the effort of all good citizens, white or black. White men of Chilton county, hear us while we ask (what can you expect from the Republican party?) The headquarters of that party are among the Northern and Eastern Yankees who have never gotten over their hatred for the south and our Southern people give that party aid and comfort against themselves when ever they seek to defeat Democracy. These words we earnestly beg our readers to consider.

Tennesse has a Governor very much after the order of our Gov. Thos. G. Jones. In his mind the law is a very great and sacred affair, which cannot be violated with impunity. He is using every power to apprehend those who participated in the recent lynching of six negro prisoners. Already five of the participants have been indicted and captured, and even if they are not convicted the moral effect of the trial will be felt throughout the length and breadth of the country. The welfare of a country depends upon upholding the law, and it must be done at all hazzards, even if a few officers are killed in their efforts to save their prisoners.

A THOUGHT

True friends and fellow creatures. Can you place your hands in your pockets, and lock your hearts in a Vault of selfishness and thus stand and see your country go to ruin for want of sympathy and condolence. We can not all make politicians two thirds of the population of the U. S. are trying to make politicians men that would fill good and prominent places of other callings, men that could set good examples for their country at large at religious and social work. What if Mr. Kolb had set his head on being a preacher what great work he could have done in Gods great cause, we can't all be I am convinced that had he tried as hard to save sinners from everlasting darkness as he has to make money running for Governor our country would have been better off.

Back Woods Blunderer.

Some month s ago one Bill Stephens, a negro attempted to speak in the Court House Meeting at Birmingham and the white men picked him out, and sing-sang him of Jeffersonian extravagance. Behold how the scene changes. At Calera sept. 5th a large number of negroes with three white men, George H. Craig, of Dallas, J. D. Hardy, of Shelby, and a Mr. Frank, of Talladega met. The convention was called to order by a negro, C. H Walker, of Dallas County. J. E Bush, a negro persuaded the convention to make Mr. Craig Chairman. The Secretary was D. E. Davis, a negro, the assistant Secretary was a negro D. L. Prentice. Mr Aldrich was nominated by Bill Stephens the afore said negro the nomination was seconded by W. G Groves, another Dallas County negro, Jno. M. Gee A. A. Sensabaugh and W. F. Curry, all negroes in eloquent strains endorsed the nomination. Behold another Scene! Sept 12th the Peoples Party Convention met in Calera.

There were the leaders Kolb Bowman, Skaggs and Adams They refued to make a nomination, but passed this among othe recommendations "Resolved that we secommend that the Populists of this District suppose the said W. F. Aldrich from this the 4th congressional District of Alabama". Aldrich bear in mind, is the same put out at the negro convention. What a stomach the leaders must suppose the rank and file of Populists have, going to compel the white men of the south to swallow at one gulp the doing of a negro convention. White men of Chilton County, look at your wives look at your children and decide whether or not you are going to put a stigma forever upon them by doing according to the dictation of a negro party. The negroes vote the Democratic ticket but they dont lead it.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Riverside, East Chilton.

The farmers of this section have saved very little fodder on account of rain, crops of corn and cotton are fair, there is some complaint of moles playing havoc with the sweet potatoes, Sorghum, sugar cane and peas are Every body appears satisfied with the results of the election, no farther expression against the election law.

Prof. John Estes has good school at Pleasant Cherry and is doing good work, and his patrons are highly pleased and regret that his services can not be secured for the coming winter, he is a christian gentleman worthy of the admiration of all good people. The church at Salem has closed a 4 days meeting conducted by Rev. Jr. Bone with 3accessions, the the church seems to be very much revived Mr. N. J. Calloway is remoddling his mill and gineay and hopes to be able to do the grinding and ginning of that season at his new plant. Politics quiet, more read about education and religion. Misses Fannie and Nora Gulledge have returned to Phoenix City after a pleasant visit to their parents and many in and near Verbon. They will return home about Christmas. We welcome the VIEW as a weekly visitor and friend.

TOPICS OF THE TIME AROUND.

Mr Henly Northington, of Verbena, and Capt Robt. Seal, of Birmingham, paid Mr. H. Kendrick a most delightful visit last Saturday.

Mr. Fisk Dawson and lady of Kincheon, visited relatives here last Saturday and Sunday.

Master Willie Pyron who has been attending the Deatsville High School is at home on a visit.

The pupils of Prof. J. W. Connell, and some few out side friends, are preparing for the concert at the commencement.

The many friends of Messrs. H. Kendrick and W. H Kendrick are glad to know that they are convalescent and will soon be up again.

Mr. Cato Patillo's school is out and he is at home attending to his father's business.

There is a negro speaker here from Africa advising the negroes to emigrate to Africa and they have an idea of going. I think it will be very much to their advantage and to ours for them to go.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Granny Gentry is very low this week, but hope she will recover soon.

Mr. B. J Gross and sister, Miss G neva, and Masters Napoleon, Adelbutt and Jafe Gross attended the Baptiste Protracted Meeting at Providence Coosa County last week.

Rev. Mr, Range, of Coosa, is helping Rev. Mr. Taylor with his meeting here this week.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Our Great Offer!

The New York Weekly World
One Year, With
The Improved "Columbia" Watch
And
The Chilton VIEw
One Year
ALL FOR $2,65,

We have made special arrangements with the New York World by which we can send to our patrons The Weekly World and this paper, for 1 year each, the celebrated Columbia Watch for the exceedingly low of 2. 65. The watch will not be sold alone at any price, neither will it be furnished save in connection with the Weekly World.

THIS IS A CHANCE OF LIFE TIME, to get two good papers and a reliable time piece for almost nothing.

The Columbia Watch, for this kind, is first class in every respect. It contains a small movement all the advantages of a first-class watch ometer. It has the best clock movement, with spring in a band, steel pinion, plain, free train and is an A 1 time keeper, Thousands have tested them, and we have many testimonials of their worth. It is 1 1-32 inches in thickness and 2 3-8 inches in ameter It is just what thousands of boys, and men too, all over the country have been aching to possess It is such a watch as a workingman has been willing to take the factory, to the shop, to the mill, or to any place where a valuable watch is liable to suffer from wear or exposure. Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Messrs Roberts & Son, publishers of Birmingham, announce the appearance shortly of a "History of the Baptists of Alabama" written by Rev. B. F. Riley, D. D., late President of Howard College, now Professor of English in the University of Georgia, Dr. Riley by training, culture and natural tastes has special fitness for the preparation of such a work as this, and doubtless has written a book which will commend itself to all Baptists for its merits, and the accuracy with it records religious and denominational progress, and sketches the lives and labors of Baptist leaders during the period it covers—from 1808 to 1894.

Messrs. Roberts & Son, with their usual enterprise, promise that the work in mechanical appearance shall evince its literary worth: It will be a handsome octavo volume of more than 500 pages The illustrations will be numerous, and will embrace all the prominent leader of the denomination in the past and the older ones of the present Agents are wanted for the sale of this book in every county in the state. Liberal commissions are offered by the publishers.

A PROPELLING FORCE.

In Natures Storehouse For Suffering Humanity.

J. D. Thomson, Anniston, Ala. "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my was a burden I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propeling force in natures storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

It Is Wonderful What the electropoise Will Do

Sowarlpa, Ala., Aug. 11, 1894.

I have used the Electropoise with unfailing succe s on my family and friends, curing a long list of diseases. without medicines, Among them were milk leg, measles, la grippe. several kinds fevers, chills, old sores, colds, violent pains etc. The Electropoise takes the place of doctor and drug store.

A. J. ROGERS.

S. B. White, Jacksonville, Ala., June 23, 1894: "We have been using the Electropoise about 4 years and are well pleased with it."

As a curative agent the Electropoise cannot be equaled.

Sash Curtains.

A new way of solving the curtain question that is certainly convenient and by no means ugly is to have two sets of sash curtains—one for the upper and one for the lower half of the window. Both are hung on rods and consist of two parts, so that they can be parted in the middle. The upper set should be made long enough to fall about an inch over the top of the lower set. They may be made of muslin, silk or any fabric, with edges hem-stitched, frilled or trimmed with lace. The arrangement is a good one for small bedrooms or for kitchen windows.

$5,000,000 Tobacco Bill Saved.

CHICAGO, September 8.—[Special.]—The Chicago Inter-Ocean's Illustrated Supplement, describing the great success and merit of No-To-Bac, has made it famous in a day.

Mr. H. L. Kramer, the active man, was seen to-day at his office, 45 Randolph street, and in talking of No-To-Bac's growth, said it was hard work to keep up with the rapidly increasing demand, as every box sold advertised No-To-Bac's merit.

He said: "No-To-Bac is not sold on the strength of the thousands and tens of thousands of testimonial statements, but under an absolute guarantee to cure or money refunded." That made a long story about merit very short, as it absolutely protects the user from physical injury or financial loss. "Why," said he, "No-To-Bac will make 100,000 cures this year, and the saving will average $50.00 for every one cured, or a grand total of $5,000,000 saved from going up in smoke and out in spit." No-To-Bac, is indeed, a God-send to the poor men these hard times. According to the testimonials, however, the money saving is the least consideration, for almost everyone reports an improvement of the nervous system, increase in weight, and a revival of physical and mental powers that is indeed miraculous.

Prominent physicians look upon No-To-Bac as a great success, and are very free to prescribe it.

Every wholesale drug house in this country and Canada sells No-To-Bac, and the retail druggists are pushed to supply the demands of customers; the direct mail demand is immense.

The cost of No-To-Bac compared with the results is in a small matter, as the saving in a week pays the cost of a cure for a lifetime. No-To-Bac is sold for $1 a box, or three boxes, $2.50, with a guarantee to cure, or money refunded.

A few extra copies of the Inter-Ocean Supplement (eight pages) illustrated in five colors, have been secured and will be mailed for the asking, by addressing the Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago office, 45 Randolph street; New York office, 10 Spruce street; Laboratory, Indiana Mineral Springs, Ind

Is a fit epithet for the present age. "Of what use is it?" and "How soon will I get my money out of it?" are questions always asked before making an investment of any kind. Parents who wish to render their children independent, cannot do a wiser thing than give them a course in shorthand and typewriting. GOV. STONE PULLED.

THE TROUBLE CAUSED BY ISSUING WARRANTS

Which the Government Says Looks Too Much Like Greenbacks.

A Jackson, Miss., special says: Held to answer in the sum of $1,000 to the charge of feloniously issuing money in the semblance of United States notes. That is the condition in which Governor John M. Stone, Auditor W. W. Stone and Treasurer Evans, of this state, now find themselves.

The United States marshal received Governor Stone's surrender Monday evening at 5 o'clock. Treasurer Evans was out of the city and Governor Stone was attending an official meeting out at the penitentiary. The governor has anticipated his arrest, however, by employing Judge Campbell, the most distinguished lawyer of Mississippi, to defend the state, which, in reality, is the party in the case. That gentleman, speaking of the affair, said: "It is one thing for the United States to order a prosecution. It is quite a different thing, however, to order judges and jurors. The case will have to be tried right here before a Mississippi jury."

This litigation, which has been brewing for nearly three months, promises to be of national importance. Its decision, when it reaches the United States supreme court, where it is bound to go in time, may knock out the 10 per cent tax imposed upon state banks, for the question which will come to the front will be the right of the state, not only to issue bonds and warrants, but even money itself. It was on the 2d of January last that the legislature of Mississippi met in special session. Under the new constitution, special sessions can only exist for a period of thirty days to consider appropriation bills, articles of impeachment against state officers and similar privileged questions. In this case it was the question of appropriations made necessary by deficits in the year 1892 and 1893, aggregating over $400,000. Under the old constitution but $300,000 was raised for school purposes, while under the new it required over $900,000. Besides this, as shown by Governor Stone's message, the receipts from several sources had fallen off, notably in the matter of liquor licenses, a wave of prohibition passing over the state which closed up the barrooms in sixty-nine out of seventy-five counties of the state.

There were various remedies suggested to cure the deficit in the raising of the necessary revenue, but none of them were sufficient. Then it became necessary to consider the raising of $200,000, which would be needed before another session of the legislature could be had. The question of issuing bonds was sprung, but Frank Burkitt, the populist leader, suggested the issuance of warrants of small denominations, which could be floated among the people, paid out for services to the state and in other ways thrown into circulation. He offered to pay cash for $1,000 worth of such bonds if issued. It was on the last night of the term of the legislature that the bill was read for the issuance of these warrants, of which the enacting clause was as follows:

"That the state treasurer is authorized and required to prepare and sell at not less than par, bonds of the state of Mississippi to an aggregate not exceeding $200,000, as may be necessary to defray the current expense of the state, and the faith of the state is pledged for the redemption of those bonds."

In the conference between the two houses the term "bonds" was changed to "warrants," and though the matter was left in the hands of Governor Stone by the adjournment of the legislature, which he could only have kept in session by a special proclamation, it is secret history about the capital that Governor Stone was emphatically opposed to this legislation. But having the alternative of approving the bill or keeping that body in session, he chose the former as the best of two evils, and signed the bill. It was in June last that $50,000 of these warrants, in denominations of $5, $10 and $20, were received from the St. Louis Bank Note company, which had been employed to engrave them. The new warrants bore a remarkable likeness to the United States greenback notes. The vignette of Governor State looked well on the left hand corner. The note went in the state. It was redeemable at the state treasury on January 1, 1896, and bore a rate of 3 per cent interest. There were many who thought, when they saw the notes in circulation, that the money question had been solved, and that for all purposes of local indebtedness no one would want anything better than these pretty pieces of paper, which had behind them the credit of the state of Mississippi. The exigency of the state government required a more rapid circulation of these notes, and they were ordered to be paid, one-half in liquidation of all indebtedness in the way of salaries, etc. It was at this juncture that Chief Hazen, of the civil service division of the treasury department, wrote Governor Stone that he was entrenching upon the prerogatives of the treasury department, and demanding the surrender of the plates and the warrants still in his possession. To this Governor Stone replied that the state knew its rights and was prepared to defend them.

CAUSED BY TRAMPS.

An Ohio Town Almost Totally Destroyed by Fire.

The little village of Dalton, Ohio, located nine miles north of Massillon, was almost totally destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The fire originated in a stable and while the direct cause of the origin is unknown, it is presumed it started by tramps taking quarters there for the night. The entire loss is estimated at $200,000, the heaviest being the Royal Insurance Company. The postoffice department and its entire contents were included in the fire. The citizens are frantic with grief over the loss of their business blocks and residences and the homeless crowds and children

DEFENDS THE SOUTH.

Governor Northen Answers British Impertinence and Insults.

Governor Northen has again stood to the front as a defender of the south. He sent to the New York World a telegram for publication to which every lover of the south will say "amen."

The Governor, who in the past has used some very vigorous language on this subject, is still more emphatic in this recent utterance which was in answer to the following telegram from that paper:

NEW YORK, Sept., 9, 1894.

Gov. W. J. NORTHEN, Atlanta, Ga.:

English committee has been sent here to investigate and denounce southern lynchings. Will you please telegraph us what you think of English meddling with our affairs.

THE WORLD.

THE GOVERNOR'S ANSWER.

In reply to this query Governor Northen wired the following reply.

THE WORLD, New York, N. Y.: Say to the "English committee" who have come to this country "to investigate and denounce lynchings at the south," that I am in position to know that they have received their information from irresponsible sources, and that the English people have declined and refused to be properly informed about our laws and the conduct of our government. The English papers, to my knowledge, have declined time and again to publish statements made to them in defense of the south by Englishmen who are now residents of the south. Under these conditions we do not want any further outside hypocritical cant upon false ideas of our government.

The people of this state are quite able to administer their own affairs, and they are doing it in full justice to the negro, as our laws and our conduct will attest. We have already endured more outside interference interference in our local matters than we will submissively tolerate in the future. Let those kindly disposed Englishmen return to their own country and prevent by law the inhuman sale of virtuous girls to lustful men in high places, hang all such demons as Jack the Ripper, punish as it deserves the barbarous, wholesale slaughter of negroes in Africa by Englishmen, who go there to steal their gold; supply the necessities to prevent bread and labor riots and strikes, which are wholly unknown to the people of the south; feed and give employment to the poor, as do the people of my section; give to the oppressed Irishmen the rights humanity demands; and when they shall have pulled the beam out of their own eyes, they may then, with better grace, appoint themselves a committee to hunt for the most that may be in our eye.

While we have irregularities at the south, and negroes are sometimes lynched, they are never slaughtered by wholesale, as Englishmen sometimes destroy them.

I send you by mail the law and record of my state on these matters, and I challenge not only the English committee on lynchings at the south, but the civilized world, to show a better.

Why come, before investigation, to "denounce" the south, just prior to a congressional election, when we have just had a negro lynched in Kansas, April 2d, another in Ohio on the Sabbath, April 15th; and when white Poles and Hungarians have recently been brutally butchered in Michigan and Pennsylvania, and negroes run out of Franklin Park, N. J., in herds?

We challenge investigation by all persons who have the right to investigate these charges, but any attempt upon the part of Englishmen, tainted by their own national crimes, to arraign us for trial, must be considered as a gross impertinence.

GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week shows that the record of the week was one of steady progress. The iron industry is getting more active each day as furnaces go into blast and outputs increase. Stocks of pig iron are not increasing, but prices continue to be very low. The only cotton tie mill in the United States is now in active operation in Georgia, and seems to be able to meet any competition. The building industry is growing active in all the southern cities, and many edifices requiring for their completion large investments of capital are under way, or in preparation for contracts. The condition of the crops continues to be satisfactory. Reports as to the injury to cotton from boll worm prove to have been much exaggerated.

Thirty-three new industries were established or incorporated during the week, prominent among them being an oil mill at Temple, Tex., with $100,000 capital; the Automatic Fire Extinguisher Co., of New Orleans, La., capital, $10,000, and the Georgia Pebble Phosphate Co., of Atlanta, Ga., with $30,000 capital. An immigration aid association, with $500,000 capital, has been chartered in Atlanta, Ga.; the Eureka Manufacturing Company, with 70,000 capital, will engage in woodworking in Houston, Tex.; the Garrigus Boiler Company, capital $20,000, has been chartered in Louisville, Ky.; the Currence Milling Company, capital $15,000 in Parsons, West Virginia, and the Tomlin-Harris Machine Company, with $10,000 capital, in Cordele, Ga.

Canning factories are reported at Wellsburg, Va., and McMechen, W. Va.; proposed chemical works, to employ $400 000 at Newport News, Va.; electrical works at Henderson, Ky., and flour and grist mills at Cedartown, Ga. Ice factories are to be built at DeLand, Fla., and Moundsville, W. Va.; a fiber factory at Titusville, Fla.; a machine shop at Abbeville, Ga., and wire works at Little Rock, Ark. A shoe factory is reported at Birmingham, Ala.; knitting mills at Athens, Ga., and Louisville, Ky.; a tobacco factory at Henderson, Ky., and woodworking plants at Abbeville, Ala., Cordele, Ga., Wilmington, N. C., Mocelle, Miss., Columbia and Nashville, Tenn., and Burkeville, Va.

The enlargements for the week include flouring mills at Glasgow, Ky., Kernellsville, N. C., and Columbia, Va.; iron works at Morristown, Tenn., cotton mills at Augusta, Ga., and Durham, N. C., and electrical works at Key West, Fla.

Among new buildings are a million dollar hotel at New Orleans, La., and one to cost $120,000 at Atlanta, Ga., a city hall at Tallahassee, Fla., a court house at Columbus, Ga., a $150,000 jail at Atlanta, Ga., a $25,000 school house at Waycross, Ga., and warehouses at Henderson Ky., and Weatherford, Texas.—Tradesman (Chattanooga Tenn.)

Pence Accepts the Renomination.

A special from Denver, Col., says: Representative Lafe Pence has finally accepted the renomination of the populist convention, though under protest. He says: "I may have been misunderstood. Some kind-hearted but misinformed friend has said that my nomination to congress need not be a bar to my aspirations to the senate. But it will be. No man who is a nominee for congress has the right to aspire to the senate. I should have liked to have gone after Wolcott, and I might have been the beneficiary. I accept the determination of my constituents, however."

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

Sunday the marine hospital service was informed of the arrival at the Cape Charles, Va., quarantine station from Havana of an American bark with three cases of yellow fever on board. The vessel was sent to Fisherman's island, a portion of the quarantine station, for detention.

Information has been received at the state department that the two Americans banished from Nicaragua for complicity in the Mosquito rebellion, are now in Costa Rica. It is said that these men are well satisfied to accept the terms of banishment without demanding a trial or asking the protection of the United States minister to remain in Nicaragua.

About seventy-five or eighty government clerks employed by the treasury and war departments and the government printing office left Washington Tuesday afternoon over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad for their homes in the seventh congressional district of Kentucky to lend their energies to the support of Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge in his coming fight at the primaries for renomination to congress in the seventh Kentucky district.

A telegram was received at the Japanese legation at Washington, Monday, announcing that the emperor would take up his residence at Hiroshima, and that the headquarters of the army and navy would be moved to that place from Tokio. Hiroshima is a large town on the inland sea, about 550 miles from Tokio. The action of the emperor in taking up his residence there is taken to indicate his intentions of personally superintending active operations in the war at a point as near the scene of hostilities as is practicable.

Dr. John Guiteras, the yellow fever expert, who was sent by Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service, to investigate the alleged cases of yellow fever on the British steamer Tyzack, from Havana, now at quarantine station off Cape Charles, reports as follows: "One of the cases at quarantine is yellow fever, the other two are not. Every facility was given me for the examination of the patients. Wilson is slowly recovering from a severe attack of yellow fever. The chief engineer, Mr. Pool, has a very severe bronchitis attack and possibly typhoid fever. The steward of the ship has a slight attack of ephemeral fever."

A telegram was received at the Japanese legation Tuesday to the effect that an important treaty has been negotiated between Corea and Japan, which authoritatively defines the relations of the two countries toward each other and toward China. The object of the treaty is stated in the preamble to be the usual desire on the part of the emperor of Japan and the king of Corea to definitely fix and determine the attitude of each country toward the other, with a view of clearly elucidating the existing relations between China and Japan, which have been created by the request which the Corean government has made of the Japanese government to compel the Chinese to evacuate Corea. To secure concentrated action for the more effective accomplishment of this object, this treaty of alliance between the two countries was signed at Seoul on the 26th day of August by Mr. Otori, the envoy of Japan, and the Corean minister of foreign affairs.

The Mints at Work.

Secretary Carlisle is now demonstrating that he is decidedly more favorable to silver than he was a few months ago. He is now rapidly coining the silver bullion purchased under the Sherman law. The seigniorage he is covering into the treasury. The mints at New Orleans, Philadelphia and San Francisco are engaged in coining standard silver dollars from the bullion purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, commonly known as the Sherman law. During the month of July $430,000 was coined and during the month of August $728,000. About the same amount will be coined during the present month, September, and thereafter such amount will be coined as the secretary may consider advisable under all the circumstances. The third section of the act of July 14, 1890, provided that the secretary of the treasury should coin each month into standard silver dollars 2,000,000 ounces of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of the act as much as might be necessary to provide for the redemption of the treasury notes issued in payment of the bullion, and that any gain or seigniorage arising from such coinage should be accounted for and paid into the treasury. The coinage now going on is done under the authority conferred by this section of the law and the seigniorage derived from it is paid into the public treasury as required by law and used for the ordinary purposes of the government; but the remainder of the coins are held in the treasury in order to provide for the redemption of the treasury notes issued in payment for the bullion.

To Build Cotton Mills.

J. M. Goad, of Chattanooga, has just closed a deal with an English syndicate whereby the Alton park property, a suburb on Chickamauga creek, is sold for $500,000. It is understood the English purchasers will at once erect large cotton mills on Chicamauga creek, which will furnish all the water power wanted, and also that two large blast iron furnaces will be built.

LIGHTNING IN ILLINOIS.

Several Towns Hard by Fires Caused by Lightning.

A dispatch from DeKalb, Ill., says: Lightning played havoc among the various small towns of this section Friday night. As a result the business portion of Malta, a small town of 600 inhabitants, is in ashes, with losses aggregating $50,000.

The little settlement of Henrietta was also visited by lightning and completely wiped out. The loss will not prove very extensive.

At Caledonia four buildings were struck at different times and each was destroyed.

At Elmhurst a big barn was struck and totally destroyed. The people had hard work to save the schoolhouse, situated near by.

Rockford came in for its share of the flames, and in that town three fires were caused by lightning.

At Belvidere, a physician's stable was struck and consumed, together with two horses.

Huntley suffered the loss of three buildings, one of which was a stable. In the latter instance four horses were cremated.

At Herbert two buildings were burned.

The Northwestern Railway company's track for a stretch of three hundred feet, at Trout park, is washed out by the heavy flood.

At Geneva also a washout occurred on the Air Line, carrying away a large section of the roadbed.

THE FLEECY STAPLE.

The Agricultural Department's Cotton Report.

The September report of the statistician of the department of agriculture at Washington makes cotton show a decline of 5.9 points from the August condition, which was 91.8, against 85.9 for this month. The condition of the plant in the month of June was 88.3, rising to 89.6 in July and to 91.8 last month, as stated. The August condition for the year 1893 was 80.4, and the September condition for the same year was 73.4, a falling off of seven points. The September condition for this year is 12.5 points higher than that of 1893.

The state averages are: Virginia, 100; North Carolina, 88; South Carolina, 86; Georgia, 84; Florida, 82; Alabama, 86; Mississippi, 85; Louisiana, 91; Texas, 84; Arkansas, 89; Tennessee, 84; Missouri, 93.

The principal cause of the decided decline in the condition since the last report was the excessive rainfall throughout the larger part of the cotton belt, producing a too great growth of the weed and checking the development of the fruit, also causing shedding, rotting and rust. The general tenor of the reports is "too much rain and heat, causing too great growth of the weed and too little of the fruit."

THE PLATES GIVEN UP.

It Was Done at Attorney General Olney's Request.

A Jackson, Miss., special says: In the matter of the controversy between the state officials and the United States treasury department over the issue of special warrants, the governor and state treasurer Tuesday morning gave their personal recognizance to appear before the November, 1894, term of the United States district court in Jackson. Upon the request of Attorney General Olney through District Attorney Lee, the auditor of public accounts delivered to Mr. Lee the plates on which the special warrants were printed. These plates are wanted to be used in evidence against the St. Louis Bank Note company, with whom the contract for the printing of the warrants was made. They are to be returned to the auditor at the conclusion of said trial. The "demand" made by the special agent, Burns, for these plates, which belonged to the state of Mississippi, was refused by the state officers, but the courteous "request" of the attorney general of the United States was cheerfully granted.

MAINE'S STATE ELECTION.

Republicans Estimate That Cleaves's Vote Will Be Nearly 70,000.

A dispatch from Augusta, Maine, says: The republicans regard the result of the state election as the biggest victory they have achieved since the birth of the republican party. The total vote for governor, which two years ago was 130,000, was reduced from 15,000 to 20,000. The republicans claim that Cleaves's vote will reach nearly 70,000. In every one of the sixteen counties of the state the democracy is defeated. Waldo county elected their whole county ticket for the first time in many years. Every city in the state has probably gone republican, which is something phenomenal.

OKLAHOMA DIVORCES N. G.

Decision Which Makes Many People Guilty of Bigamy.

A decision of the supreme court of the territory of Oklahoma, just handed down, nullifies all divorces granted by probate judges in Oklahoma since March, 1893. There have been fully four hundred divorces so granted, and, as a very large percentage of the persons so divorced have been married since, they are guilty of bigamy. The people affected are in every state of the Union, having gone there to take advantage of the liberal divorce laws of the territory, which allow divorces for any of thirteen causes, after a residence of ninety days. The decision will cause a sensation all over the country.

Died from Yellow Fever.

A Baltimore special says: Second Engineer Cornelius Watson, of the British steamship Samuel Tyzack, who was taken to quarantine hospital suffering with yellow fever, died Sunday. The other two victims are in an improved condition. The vessel, with her crew aboard, is anchored at quarantine, and every precaution has been taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Seven Burned to Death.

A St. Paul, Minn., special says: Seven people were burned to death in the forest fires at Marengo, a few miles north of Ashland, Wis. The news has just been received at Ashland. The bodies have reached that city, but are so badly burned that identification is impossible.

Children's Mistakes.

Never scold a child for mistakes, and do not nervously and impatiently fret and nag and worry at it because it does not learn to do a thing after once telling. When a baby begins to sit at the table and use a spoon, there is need of continuous quiet and judicious watching and training, in order to cultivate proper habits and teach it to use the spoon and fork correctly.

There is nothing at all inviting, cunning or pretty in seeing a child play with its food or making unsuccessful and awkward attempts to get the spoon to its mouth.

Teach the child precisely what is to be done and do not stop until it understands, then mildly but firmly insist on its doing the right thing as nearly as it is able every time. There are children of five years whose table manners are everything that could be desired. There are others, children of larger growth, who all their lives are a source of annoyance to their friends because they either do not know or do not care what proper deportment is.

It is nonsense to say that one cannot teach children. Every mother of a family should take time herself, or, if she is not capable of doing this, should employ some trustworthy person to do it for her.

It is almost always possible to find time for the things we want to do most, and certainly there can be nothing more important than the judicious care that assures for the child in later years reasonably good table manners.

A crusade is being started against the engagement ring in Boston. One of the reasons given for its proposed abolition is that many girls become engaged for no other purpose than to add another ring to their collection and break off the contract as soon as it becomes convenient.

The Voice of the People

Proclaims one fact as true, namely, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters effects a cure whenever it is persistently used for the ailments to which it is adapted. Among these are malarial and dyspeptic ailments, rheumatism, nervous and kidney complaints, constipation and biliousness. A tablespoonful three times a day is about the average.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

I was not able to do the least work, but most of the time was in bed. I was all run-down, very weak, my head was dizzy, and I was extremely despondent. The first bottle I took did not seem to do me much good, but I had faith in it and continued using it until I had taken fifteen bottles, and now I do not look nor feel like the same man I was one year ago. People are astonished, and say, well, last year this time I would not have thought that you would be living now. Dr. Minnegerode, who is well known as the rector of the Episcopal church of which Jefferson Davis was a parishioner in Richmond, is lying at the point of death in Alexandria. It is not thought that he will survive.

The Lumber Trade Journal, of New Orleans in its issue of Saturday, shows that the exports of lumber and its products from southern ports of entry for the month of August aggregate $679,594 divided as follows: Timber, $292,679; lumber, $278,590, and manufacturers of wood, $8,583.

The Cherokee Falls cotton mills, situated four miles from Blacksburg, S. C., were destroyed by fire Monday night. It is supposed to have been caused by lightning. The main building and machinery and a lot of manufactured goods were entirely destroyed. The loss is unknown.

At Atlanta, Saturday, Ed. Hooks, ex-cashier of the Seaboard Air Line, charged with embezzlement, was arraigned before Justice Bloodworth for committal trial. The result of the hearing gave the case a most unexpected turn. Young Hooks' bond was fixed at $5,000—$1,500 more than was originally assessed by the justice.

The planters of Natchez, Miss., and vicinity are very much depressed at the crop outlook. Heavy rains are of daily occurrence, causing rust, rot, shedding and sprouting in the bolls and many now are apprehensive that they will not make more than two-thirds of a crop. The rains continue and no cessation is looked for until the end of the month.

The monument erected at Canton, Miss., in honor of A. D. Harvey and his brave scouts who fell in battle was unveiled Tuesday in the presence of a large concourse of citizens. Addresses were made by Wiley Nash and Scott Fields, a poem was recited by George Shelby and Miss Georgia Gaudlee, of Memphis, sang "The Confederate Veterans."

Dr. Moss and William Moore, of Lancashire, England, are in Augusta, Ga., where they will permanently locate. They expect to start in a short time a soap factory. To this they will add facilities for the output of sizing material used on yarn before it is woven into cloth. This latter industry especially will be of incalculable benefit to this section of the country.

It is stated at Montgomery, Ala., that Traffic Manager R. E. Lutz, of the Western, will be given the general freight and passenger departments of the road in addition to his present duties. In other words, the three offices will be merged under Mr. Lutz. The statement is also made that in the event the offices are consolidated as stated, the headquarters will be removed here, but no credence is given to this.

At Jacksonville, Fla., dispatch says: William Hayes, who murdered his young wife and shot his mother-in-law on the night of September 4th, is now a double murderer, Mrs. Nason, the mother-in-law, having died Saturday night. As she was dying Mrs. Nason said that Hayes was the guilty man. Hayes denies that he committed the deed and Mrs. Nason's statement is the only evidence against him. Hayes will be tried in October.

Sunday, at Tampa, Fla., the family of Mr. C. B. Fitch dined with the family of his brother-in-law, Mr. G. W. Allen. Soon after dinner the members of both families were taken violently ill and are in a critical condition. It is thought that two of the children will die. Physicians say that the people were poisoned by ice cream, which all partook heartily. The ice cream was made from condensed milk.

Monday evening Sam Bradley and Bud Bosworth, living three miles from Kennedy, Texas, started home in a wagon. They first met an old man and shot at him. Passing on a few hundred yards, they met E. Burris and Theodore and Foster Butler, with whom they had a feud. Bradley opened fire on them which was returned by Burris and the Butlers, and Bosworth fell dead. Bradley survived a few hours. The Butlers and Burris surrendered.

At Memphis, Tenn., Monday morning Judge DuBose rejected the motion to admit M. Strickfaden, charged with lynching, to bail. He also rejected a similar motion as to E. T. Armour, who is in jail under an indictment charging lynching. Armour's arrest is a surprise. He was with the faction opposed to the party supposed to have done the lynching. Some way he was elected by the friends of the lynchers in order to break the force of the anti-lynching crowd.

The Parker gold mine, situated within eight miles of Murphy, N. C., has been sold in London for £30,000, equal to $150,000. This mine has never been actively worked, but the prospects of a rich find are good. There were 300,000 shares sold at 50 cents per share. A large tract of land in Jackson county, including the Savannah copper mine, has been sold to a northern company for $125,000. The Whittier tract, in Swain county, was recently sold for $145,000 to a northern company.

President D. G. Purse, of the Savannah board of trade, replied to Mayor McDonough's letter requesting the board of trade to take steps to bring about a settlement of the difference between the longshoremen and the ship brokers. President Purse replied that in view of the fact that the issue was one pertaining strictly to the cotton business, the directors of the board of trade had decided that it would be improper for them to take any steps in the matter until the cotton exchange had been first requested to do so.

At Memphis, Tuesday, in the motion of Strickfaden, charged with lynching, to be released on bail, Butch McCarva, son of the sheriff, testified that on Wednesday before the lynching Ed Smith, Sisley and Frank Berry, three men now in jail, asked him to assist in the lynching. Richardson, the detective, they said, wanted McCarva to be in the party. They also stated to him that Richardson had agreed to make the arrests and then to allow the prisoners to be captured. McCarver did not enter into the business. Strickfaden so far has no direct proof against him.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week shows that more activity exists at present in the cotton mill industry than has been noted for a considerable time. A mill to cost $30,000 is to be built at Gaffney, S. C., one to cost $300,000 is in contemplation at Savannah, Ga., enlargements of existing mills will be made at Dalton, and Columbus, Ga., one to cost $60 000 is reported at Shreveport, La., and the citizens of Gadsden, Ala., intend to raise $600 000 wherewith to build and equip a mill on a large scale. The rolling mills in the West Virginia district have large contracts on hand, and the extensive improvements lately made at Birmingham, Ala., are to be utilized at once in the manufacture of structural iron. Southern lumbermen report better business and more favorable prospects.

Forty-six new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with twelve enlargements of manufactories and fourteen important new buildings. In addition to the new cotton mills already mentioned, two separate organizations propose to build mills at Chattanooga, Tenn. The French Oak Stave Co. has been incorporated at New Orleans, La., with $250 000 capital, a brewing company with $1-0 000 capital has been chartered at Norfolk, Va.; a $100,000 dredging company organized at Jacksonville, Fla., and a building material and wall paper factory at Atlanta, Ga., with $100 000 capital. A cotton oil mill with $100 000 capital is reported at San Antonio, Texas, a development company with $50 000 capital at Chattanooga, Tenn.; a $10 000 lumber company at Elmore, Ark., and a $30 000 tannery at El Paso, Texas.

A $20 000 machine shop will be built at Blue Springs Station, Tenn., a $20 000 wooden ware factory at Suffolk, Va., a $15,000 ice factory at Plaquemine, La., a $15 000 variety wood working mill at Florence, Ala., and a $10,000 flouring mill at Raleigh, N. C. There is also reported a distillery at Atlanta, Ga., electrical plants at Palatka Fla., and Cameron, Texas, a foundry and machine shop at Birmingham, Ala., and a flouring mill at Angleton, Texas, Art glass works are to be established at New Orleans, La., an ice factory at Darien, Ga., an oil mill at Oxford, Ala.; a button factory at Dayton, Tenn., paint works at Wilmington, N. C., and a tobacco factory at Greensboro, N. C. Woodworking plants are to be established at Lumber City, Fla., Quitman and Valdosta, Ga., Lexington, Ky., Eagle Springs and Germanton, N. C., Dayton, Greenville and Memphis, Tenn., Velasco, Texas, and Graham Va.

Water works are to be built at Abbeville, Ga., and Stephensville, Tex. The enlargements for the week include fertilizer works at Charleston, S. C., and Amherst, Va.; plow works at Chattanooga, Tenn.; a tannery at Northport, Ala., and knitting mills at Charlotte and Flat Rock, N. C. Among new buildings of the week are business houses at Little Rock, Ark., Thomasville, Ga., Beeville and Houston, Tex., a $10,000 hall at Galveston, Tex.; a $40,000 hotel at Fort Worth, Tex., and a $17,000 one at New Orleans, La., and a $100 000 opera house at Houston, Tex.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

SOUTHERN COTTON MILLS.

New Factories Being Erected And Enlargements Made.

Hooper's Mills at Mount Island, N. C., after having been enlarged, have started up again.

The Newton, N. C., cotton mills will start up again tomorrow. A large addition has been made during the summer.

The directors of the Cabarrus Cotton Mills, Concord, N. C., have increased the capital stock by $30,000, and thirty new looms and 3,000 additional spindles will be put in as soon as the necessary additional buildings are erected.

The Oates Hosiery Mill at Charlotte, N. C., which manufactures fast-black hosiery, will be enlarged to double their present capacity.

A new cotton mill is to be built at Canton, Ga. A mill to manufacture underwear is to be built at Barnesville, Ga., with a capital of $15,000.

The Anniston, Ala., Manufacturing Company, which manufactures brown sheeting and shirting, 48-square goods, has resumed operations on full time and to the full capacity of the mills.

PRIMARIES IN CAROLINA.

Governor Tillman's Opponents Voting for Delegates.

Mass meetings, and in some cases conventions, were held in the various counties of South Carolina, Saturday, to elect delegates to the independent democratic state convention that meets in Columbia Monday, and decide on what is to be done by the opposers of Tillmanism.

A Charleston special says: Reports have been received from thirty counties in the state of the movement to elect delegates to a convention to be held in Columbia to reorganize the democratic party on the democratic platform. Delegates have been elected in all but four counties, viz: Kershaw, Chesterfield, Marlboro and Sumter. In most of these the delegates are uninstructed, the question of nominating a state ticket being left to the delegates.

SOLD FOR SIXTY DOLLARS.

An Alabama Negro Goes Into Voluntary Slavery.

At Selma, Ala., Saturday, Sam Johnston, a negro about twenty-one years old, sold himself to Colonel Starke Oliver for $60. As soon as the trade was made the colonel bought a plow line and tied the negro to one of the columns of the Southern hotel until he got ready to leave for home. When the colonel left he led the negro home in old ante-bellum style. The negroes looked on in a matter of fact way and did not kick in the least.

OWENS A WINNER.

BRECKINRIDGE IS DEFEATED BY A SMALL MAJORITY.

His Friends Threaten to Contest. Great Excitement.

The Contest Abandoned.

Latest dispatches from Frankfort state that the tide was turned in the contest matter, Monday afternoon, when B. J. Welsh, the committeeman from Breckinridge's home, and one of his strongest supporters, announced that he would never go behind the returns when the committee met at Frankfort. As this would leave the committee a tie, or five to five in any event, and as other Breckinridge men on the district committee who had stood by him to the last, were not disposed to go behind the returns, the old guard of the silver-tongued orator gave up the struggle. They will not, however, concede the plurality of 526, which the Owens men claim from complete returns.

A special of Friday from Lexington, Ky., says: The Breckinridge campaign is over. Tomorrow the primaries will decide the honor or the dishonor of representing the old Ashland district. The polls will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

There have been eight months of the bitterest contention in Kentucky politics, but they will be forgotten in the eight hours of excitement tomorrow.

Tonight all sides claim a victory. At the opera house, Owens and his friends are speaking to a tremendous audience. Colonel Breckinridge is addressing thousands of enthusiastic followers from the court house steps, while Evan A. Settle is making his last appeal to his home people at Owenton.

The Result.

At midnight Saturday night all the precincts in the district had been heard from and the indications were that the Hon. W. C. Owens has been nominated by a majority of something like 360 votes. The counties went as follows:

Counties.	Owens.	Breckinridge.	Settle
Bourbon	1,030	1,151	58
Woodford	811	688	141
Scott	1,829	635	168
Oldham	407	243	264
Fayette	1,812	1,975	480
Owen	229	1,143	1,360
Henry	468	857	669
Franklin	1,516	995	288

The fight all through was the most notable combat ever waged in Kentucky. All sorts of personalities have been indulged in. Disruptions have occurred in households and members of the family have not spoken for weeks.

There were any number of personal encounters in the district during the day, and fifty excursions were run and hundreds of people went to the various towns and worked for the candidates of their choice. In every town of any size in the eight counties the women held prayer meetings and prayed for the defeat of Colonel Breckinridge. A party of 200 turfmen went to Lexington from the Latonia race course and worked for Mr. Owens. It is estimated that more than $100,000 changed hands on the result of the contest.

The feeling worked up over the race was so bitter that several prominent gentlemen took out additional life insurance. To show the interest manifested in the result of the race outside of the district, it is only necessary to mention that there were 100 newspaper correspondents in Lexington. One New York paper ordered 24,000 words.

Later News.

Further dispatches from Frankfort state that Owen's majority is 555.

During Saturday night and far into the early hours of Sunday the friends of W. C. Owens at Frankfort exhibited their enthusiasm, shooting off fireworks and parading. Main street was lined with old and young, celebrating the victory. Everywhere there was anxiety to know the exact result.

Breckinridge men, in some instances, still hold out that their man is a winner and the official count will, in their opinion, so declare. Noel Gaines, a prominent Breckinridge lieutenant, was asked regarding the threats of contest, and said:

"What is the use of a contest when we have the race won? I honestly believe Breckinridge has secured the nomination by a safe, but small majority."

An Owens man said that he thought such talk was a "bluff" and showed clearly that Breckinridge was dying hard. "But," he added, "if they attempt to defraud our man out of the result there will be blood spilled. The election was too hard fought and won to be stolen. The first sign of chicanery means blood."

The people generally regard Owens as the rightful nominee and should the district committee, which has a majority for Breckinridge, declare their favorite the nominee, a split is certain.

BRECKINRIDGE WILL CONTEST.

A Lexington special says: Breckinridge's managers claim Owen's plurality on the face of the returns is only 155 and say they will contest and have the election declared for Breckinridge. Owens's managers deny there is ground for a contest and still claim 555 as his majority.

NO TICKET NAMED.

"Conservative" Democrats of South Carolina Meet in Convention.

The convention of "conservative" democrats, of South Carolina, called to meet at Columbia, Monday night, did not get to work until 2:45 o'clock Tuesday morning, the delegates having been in secret caucus on the subject of "nominations" or "no nominations" until that hour.

About three hundred delegates, representing all but four counties in the state, and including many of the most prominent democrats in Carolina, were present. General Johnson Hagood presided.

The convention did not nominate a ticket in opposition the "regular" democracy, but elected an executive committee and adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, That this convention, composed of loyal democrats from all parts of the state, demands of the convention to assemble on the 19th instant under the call of the executive committee of the democratic party of the state as heretofore organized, explicitly to declare the true and loyal allegiance of the whole democratic party of the state of South Carolina to the principles and organization of the national democratic party and to repudiate and rescind the action of the state convention of 1892, adopting the Ocala platform as that of the democratic party of the state.

Resolved, That the convention also demands of the said state democratic convention to be held on the 19th of September to nominate no one to office who is not in full accord with the principles of the national democracy, nor one who acknowledges allegiance to said Ocala platform or to the principles of the populist party.

"Resolved, That the nomination by the convention of the nineteenth district of any candidate for any office at the hands of the democratic party holding allegiance to any other than the democratic principles and policy, shall absolve all members of the democratic party in the state from obligation to support such nominees at the general election whether or not they participated in the recent primary election.

"Resolved, That an executive committee consisting of one member from each county be appointed by the respective delegations, which committee shall be charged with the duty of the better organization of the democratic party and the presentation of the foregoing resolution to the convention which meets in Columbia on the 19th instant, and with recalling this convention at such time as they see fit prior to the 1st of October, 1894."

DR. CAVE SPEAKS AGAIN.

He Says the Confederates Did Not Fight Only to Maintain Slavery.

At a meeting of the ex-Confederate Historical and Benevolent Association at St. Louis, Mo., Rev. Dr. R. C. Cave was invited to speak. He made an address on the southern question, of which the following is a part:

"We have held our peace for thirty years, while the northern people have represented us as an ignorant horde of rebels and traitors, battling only to hold human beings in the bonds of slavery. If it is true that the confederates were traitors and fought only for slavery, the best thing that we can do is not to build monuments, but to tear these down that now stand, neglect the graves of the southern dead until the beating rain smooths the little mounds to the level of the plain and nature covers the place with its broad mantle of green, and with it the shame of the southland. But if the men who followed Lee, Jackson and Missouri's Price were not rebels and traitors, but true-hearted patriots, battling for their homes and native land, we owe it to them and to ourselves to boldly affirm and to fearlessly assert the fact."

MORTON FOR GOVERNOR.

Nominated by the Republican State Convention of New York.

The New York state republican convention at its session at Saratoga adopted a platform consisting chiefly of an arraignment of the democratic administration and then proceeded to choose a candidate for governor.

General Benjamin F. Tracy, ex-secretary of the navy, nominated Levi P. Morton; Colonel Baxter, of Chemung, nominated J. Sloat Fassett; Silas B. Dutcher nominated General Stewart L. Woodford; E. A. Nash, of Chautauqua, nominated General Daniel Butterfield, and J. B. Parker, of St. Lawrence county, nominated Judge Leslie W. Russell.

It was 7:55 o'clock p. m., when the first roll call was finished. The result was: Morton 532½, Fassett 69½, Woodford, 40, Butterfield 19, Russell 20, Bliss 40½, Arkell 1.

The result was not announced, but it was apparent that Morton had an overwhelming majority, and amid cheers the nomination was made unanimous.

Chinese Ships Sunk.

A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai dated September 19th, midnight, says: "A number of officers who were engaged in the naval battle on the Yalu river have arrived at Port Arthur with half a dozen warships badly damaged and filled with wounded men.

The Chinese cruisers Chen-Yuen and King Hsen were sunk and 600 officers and men on board of them were drowned. Only a few of the men struggling in the water were picked up. The Chao-Yung and Yung-Wei, in maneuvering for more advantageous positions, got into shallow water and run aground. The stranded vessels were helpless under the fire of the big guns of the Japanese ships and were finally set on fire by the enemy's shells and became wrecks.

"I'll take a little of everything," said Taddles to the waiter, after glancing over the bill of fare at the restaurant.

A CAUTIOUS CLIENT.

A lawyer tells the following story concerning a client, something of a wag in his way, with whom he had long kept an account. When the latter was made up, the bill, mostly for trifling services, covered several yards of foolscap, as the items enumerated the most minute details. When the client came around to settle he refused to enter the office, but stood in the door, and, holding one end of the bill, unrolled the voluminous document in the direction of his legal adviser, with the request that he would receipt it.

"Come in," said the lawyer, in his most cordial tones.

"No, thank you," replied his client, "you'd charge me rent if I did."—Tit-Bits.

The young man passes the coin to the keeper, and the elephant performs the trick.

"Well done! Now make him give me the money back again."

"Very sorry, but I have not been able to teach him that yet."

HER FATHER'S MISSION.

Her Father—"What is your mission here, Mr. Cadley?"

Mr. Cadley (somewhat of a humorist)—"I am on three missions, Mr. Caustique."

Her Father (impatiently)—"Well, what are they?"

Mr. Cadley—"Permission to marry your daughter, ad-mission to your family circle, and sub-mission to the regulations of your household."

Her Father—"Well, I have one little mission to offer before I conclude my arrangements with you."

Mr. Cadley (eagerly)—"Name it. I will be only to glad to perform it."

Her Father (in a loud tone, with a discordant laugh)—"Dis-mission!"

Mr. Cadley fainted at his feet.—Philadelphia Life.

PUZZLED WITH HIS FATHER.

"Papa," said Benny Bloobumper, who knew his father's weakness, "you know all about fishing, don't you?"

"Yes, my son," replied the elder Bloobumper, graciously. "There is very little about that gentle sport with which I am not familiar."

"You know all about the right sort of bait to use, don't you?"

"Certainly."

"That's what I was telling Freddy Faugle, and we agreed to leave something about fishing for you to decide. We had a discussion about it."

"Well, Benny, I am very glad to see you taking such an interest in fishing, as well as to see such confidence in your father's judgment. What was the point on which you and Freddy differed?"

"I don't know as we differed, exactly. Freddy didn't seem to quite agree with me, though."

"State the question, Benny."

"Well, fish run in schools sometimes, don't they, papa?"

"Yes."

"That's what I told Freddy."

"Didn't he believe it?"

"Oh, yes, he believed that all right."

"Then what in it you wished me to decide?"

"Well, I told him that when fish ran in schools the pepper-boat to me was bookworms. Now, ain't I right, papa?"

Mr. Bloobumper resobed for his slipper, and Benny disappeared out of doors.—Harper's Bazar.

How Metals Get Tired.

Fatigue of metals is an expression which has come into use only in recent years, and it describes a condition of the material not previously understood. The expression stands for a straining of the relationship to each other of the molecules of which the metal is constituted.

In the metals, there is a point in their resistance to pulling, bending, or crushing, known as the elastic limit, the point at which permanent strain commences. The elastic limit of iron or mild steels for example, in its normal condition, is reached, roughly speaking, when about half the breaking load is applied. If the stresses brought to bear upon a piece of metal are within this limit, it will sustain these stresses without injury, however long they may be applied. If the stresses exceed the elastic limit, if however small a degree, fatigue of the metal will result, and, if they are continued, breakage sooner or later will inevitably take place. To guard against accident from such insidious fatigue, it has now become usual, in the best practice, to withdraw permanently from use parts of machinery, such as railway crank and carriage axles, upon the soundness of which the safety of many lives may depend, after they have performed a certain number of revolutions, even although no flaw or sign of injury can be detected.

If, however, metals are strained beyond the elastic, but not broken, and if the straining is not continued, the material will recover its elasticity by rest alone. Some years ago, Professor B. W. Kennedy demonstrated by many experiments the recuperative property of metals after fatigue. Bars of iron and steel, strained in a testing machine beyond the elastic limit, and so weakened thereby that if they were tested again the following day they would take permanent set at one-third or less of their former load, would, if allowed to rest for about two years, be found not only to have recovered their original elastic limit of strength, but to have exceeded it, and to have become stronger than before in the direction in which they had been pulled. If the period of rest was materially shortened, the restoration of strength was found to be incomplete.—Knowledge.

The Deadly Tiger Snake.

"We hear a great deal about the deadly qualities of the rattlesnake, the adder and copperhead," said George Wharton, of San Diego, at the Ebbitt this morning, "and pretty nearly everybody had shuddered at the description of the horrible effects that ensue from the bite of the Gila monster. They have a snake in Australia, though, whose fangs are more deadly than those of all the others I have mentioned combined. I allude to the tiger snake. The reptile does not grow to large proportions, a length of three feet being a pretty good size, and its skin resembles the coat of the animal after whom it is named. The bite of the tiger snake is instantly fatal, and chemists who have analyzed its poison as far as possible are of the opinion that it possesses precisely the same qualities as prussic acid. Persons have been known to walk out of their houses on the briefest sort of an errand and to have been found dead five minutes afterward from the effects of the tiger snake bite. The Government of Australia has a standing offer of $5-000, or a thousand pounds, which is nearly the same thing, to be given to any one who may discover a remedy for the bite of a tiger snake. A man named Underwood, so I have been told, once discovered the successful antidote, and proved its efficacy by allowing himself to be bit by the deadly reptile and incurring no evil effects from it. He wanted two thousand pounds for his secret, however, which the colonial authorities refused to pay. One day, while drunk, Underwood was giving an exhibition and allowed two tiger snakes to bite him. In his maudlin state he had forgotten where he had laid the bottle containing the antidote, and he died in a few moments, his secret perishing with him."—Washington Star.

Flower-Growing for Perfume.

Grasse and Cannes, France, are the centres of a very active industry in the manufacture of perfumery near the Mediterranean Sea. In the vicinity of the former city the annual output of orange blossoms is nearly four million pounds, of roses three-fourths as much; white jasmine, tuberose and other fragrant flowers are largely cultivated. It is found that the most favorable conditions to the success of flower growing for perfumes are an attitude of 500 to 2000 feet above sea level, a soil rich in calcareous elements, and a situation well sheltered from cold winds, and not subject to the severe frosts which in autumn and spring affect the lowlands. Flowers grown in localities of the elevation mentioned are said to be far more rich in perfume than similar varieties cultivated in valleys of damp lowlands.—American Agriculturist.

Unrecognized Dainties.

The smallest bird now eaten in England is the wheatear, an exquisite little white-fleshed bird like a miniature partridge in flavor; the smallest quadruped that was once a delicacy, but is only remembered in Roman traditions, is the dormouse. There are those who have tried the bat, and found it tastes like a house burning, only more so.—The Spectator.

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

The Galesburg, Ill., track now holds the world's record for trotting, Alix clipping a quarter of a second off her record there Wednesday afternoon, going the mile in 2:08¼.

In a fight which took place between one hundred police constables and a picket of 5,000 men about Logan pit, near Motherwell, Scotland, the miners used catapults freely. The police defended themselves with their batons, and the picket was ultimately driven back with many casualties.

The democrats of the fourth West Virginia congressional district held their convention at Petersburg Wednesday and nominated Hon. W. R. McKinney, by acclamation. Ex-Gov. McKenny's name was not presented to the convention. The nominee is one of the most distinguished lawyers in the state and a resident of Petersburg.

The Connecticut republican state convention, in session at Hartford, Wednesday, nominated for governor ex-Senator O. Vincent Coffin, of Middletown; lieutenant governor, Lorin A. Coké, of Barkinsfield; secretary of state, Colonel William C. Mowery, of Norwich; state treasurer, George W. Hodge, of Windsor; comptroller, ex-Senator B. H. Meade, of New Canaan.

The bottom seems to have dropped out of the spirits of turpentine market at Savannah, Ga. The factors received an offer from the buyers Wednesday of 24½ cents a gallon for 30,000 casks of spirits of turpentine, and after a conference they decided to accept the proposition and the sale was authorized. A month ago they were holding this stuff for 29 cents. This deal alone represents $375,000.

A special from Anniston, Ala., says: Captain W. H. McKleroy, First Lieutenant Thomas L. Stokes and Second Lieutenant P. H. Long, of the Woodstock Guards, of Anniston, have forwarded their resignations. Press of business and other circumstances caused Captain McKleroy's resignation. Lieutenant Stokes removed to Atlanta and Lieutenant Long gives no definite reason for his action.

For the week ending September 17th, in east Prussia, there were twenty-eight new cases of cholera and nine deaths from that disease. In the Elbe district one new case of cholera was reported, and one case of that disease was announced at Hesse-Nassau. In the Rhine district two new cases of cholera and two deaths were reported, and in Silesia there were fifty-four cases and twenty-three deaths.

A Lexington, Ky., dispatch of Wednesday says: On the best information to be had it can be said that the district democratic committee will declare the Hon. W. C. Owens, of the county of Scott, the democratic nominee for congressman for the Ashland district. There is very little likelihood of Colonel Breckinridge making a contest, and, should he do so, it is almost a certainty that the committee will refuse to go behind the returns.

At Chicago, Wednesday, Judge Gibbons sustained the demurrer to the amended pleas of the whiskey trust to the information in quo warranto and directed the attorney general to prepare a judgment of ouster against the trust. Judge Gibbons granted the request of the defendants for an appeal to the supreme court of the state. The court passed entirely upon the law in the case, but at the same time declared that in his opinion the Cattle Feeding and Distilling Company was a trust.

At Columbus, O., special says: By a large majority the democrats of Ohio, in state convention assembled Wednesday reversed the pronunciamentos of all previous state, as well as national gatherings of the party, in declaring unequivocally in favor of the free coinage of silver. By a vote almost as large, endorsement was given through the medium of an indirect resolution to the attitude taken by Senator Calvin S. Brice in the recent tariff reform contest. The debate on these two issues occupied nearly four hours of the continuous session.

BANKHEAD A VICTOR.

Renominated After a Hard Fought Contest.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: Bankhead wins and he wins on a 16 to 1 silver platform. The action of the state executive committee at its meeting Wednesday caused T. L. Lung, the only remaining contestant for the nomination, to withdraw and Bankhead will be nominated at the sixth district primaries without opposition. It will be remembered that over five hundred ballots were taken in the sixth district convention without making a nomination, and by resolution the convention referred the nomination to a district primary.

The Liberian government has promised to each colonist, Mr. MaMullen says, a number of acres of land, with cultivating implements and temporary shelter, until the colonists can build their homes.

Senator Nolen of Coosa, father to our townsman, has deserted somewhat the paths he taught his sons to follow and has been running with the Pops., Jeffs., and Reps, but he still has some good old Democratic leaven in him. In reply to the speeches of those who would take shot guns and seat Kolb by force he said about this: I am opposed to honest election leagues and it is the sheerest folly to talk about seating Kolb at the point of the bayonets. And until he takes some step himself to prove his election he should not ask his friends to act rashly.

Hon. Marion L. Wood who was nominated for congress for the 4th district has resigned and next Tuesday primaries will be held to make a new nomination.

The VIEW believes most cordially that the primaries should vote for Hon. Gaston A. Robbins to succeed himself. There is no reason that Mr. Robbins should be refused a second term in congress. He is a clean man, and will render better service than he has done in the past, and we trust that Chilton County will give him solid support.

The Selma Times gives the following account of J. D. Hardy's speech at a negro pow-wow at Selma:

Hardy then took the floor and made a 15 minute speech, and opened up by saying that a man had a right to vote for whom he pleased, "but if a man voted for a republican he was a republican and if he voted for a democrat he was a democrat" Said Aldrich the republican was the nominee of the republicans as well as of the Jeffersonians; that they did not propose to buy any republicans to vote for Aldrich; would need all their money to buy white democrats who were for sale. We are going to buy democrats this year, and if you fellows want to sell you had better sell to the democrats, for the republicans are not going to purchase you. We have a couple of counties up our in which we can do some stealing too. We have nominated a man (Aldrich) who will carry the contest into the halls of congress; had lived in a democratic county for 20 years, but they had jam (the democrats) down now.

Col. Hardy said the peoples party and the Jeffersonians had made republicanism respectable by coming over to it.

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY—The Coinage of both Gold and Silver, without discrimination, which means the free coinage of both as opposed to the policy of contraction, which is being dictated by England, and which levies tribute on every product of the farm, on valuations of all kinds and on all compensation for labor.

The Great Issue now is the double standard against the single standard—the use of both gold and silver as standard money metals, against the organized effort to hold the currency of the country strictly to the gold basis.

THE ATLANTA CIRCULATION, 156,000.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTION

published at ATLANTA, GA., and having

A CIRCULATION OF MORE THAN 156,000, chiefly among the farmers of the country, and going to more homes than any weekly newspaper published on the face of the earth is

The Leading Champion of the People in this as well as in other great contests in which they are engaged against the exactions of monopoly.

By special arrangement with The Constitution the paper publishing this announcement is prepared to make

A REMARKABLE CLUBBING OFFER, by which both this paper and The Constitution will be offered for one year at almost the price of a year's subscription to one paper.

BOTH PAPERS FOR $1.50,

THE CONSTITUTION IS THE BIGGEST AND BEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published in America, covering the news of the world, having correspondents in every city in America, and in the capitals of Europe, and reporting in full the details of debates in congress on all questions of public interest. It is

THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, and as the exponent of southern opinion and the purveyor of southern news it has no equal on the continent.

THE CONSTITUTION'S SPECIAL FEATURES

are such as are not to be found in any other paper in America.

THE FARM AND FARMER'S DEPARTMENT,
THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT,
THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT,

are all under able direction and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed.

Under the editorial management of Clark Howell, its special contributors are writers of such world-wide reputation as Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Frank R. Stockton, Joel Chandler Harris, and hundreds of others, while it offers weekly service from such writers as Bill Arp, Sarge Plunkett, Wallace P. Reed, Frank L. Stanton, and others, who give its literary features a peculiar Southern flavor that commends it to every fireside from VIRGINIA to TEXAS, from MISSOURI to CALIFORNIA.

Do Not Delay, but send your name now. If you are already a subscriber to your home paper, and you want The Constitution only, communicate with The Constitution direct, and send One Dollar for one year's subscription with your guess in the prize contest. You can get your home paper, however, publishing this, and The Constitution, for almost the price of one, and remember that all clubbing subscriptions must be sent to this paper and not to The Constitution.

THE CONSTITUTION is among the few great newspapers publishing daily editions on the side of the people against European Domination of our money system, and it heartily advocates:

1st. The Free Coinage of Silver,
Believing that the establishment of a single gold standard will wreck the prosperity of the great masses of the people, though it may profit the few who have already grown rich by federal protection and federal subsidy.

2d. Tariff Reform,
Believing that by throwing our ports open to the markets of the world and levying only enough import duties to pay the actual expenses of the government, the people will be better served than by making them pay double prices for protection's sake.

3d. An Income Tax,
Believing that those who have much property should bear the burdens of government in the same proportion to those who have little.

Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes!

To those who take advantage of this clubbing offer The Constitution will distribute Two Thousand Dollars in CASH PRIZES, by the following plan: We have placed in a sealed envelope in the keeping of the Treasurer of the State of Georgia, and locked in the great vaults of the State, a legal tender note, which like all federal paper currency is numbered, each note of every denomination issued by the government having its own number. The number on this particular note is composed of eight figures, and on the arrangement of these figures as they appear on the note depends the distribution of the two thousand dollars in prizes offered.

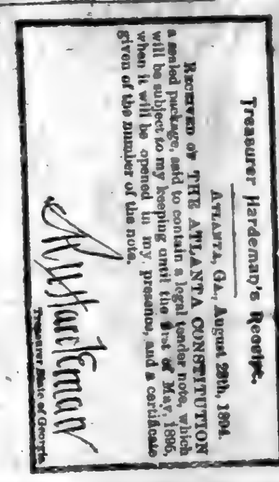
The following figures compose the number of the note: 5-3-4-0-1-0-7-8

though of course they are not given here in the order in which they appear on the note.

To those who in sending with their subscriptions a rearrangement of these figures so as to give the number as it is on the note, we will distribute prizes as follows:

$1,000	IN CASH to the person who gives the number of the note.
$500	IN CASH to the person who, not giving the exact number, comes nearest doing so.
$250	IN CASH to the person who comes second nearest.
$100	IN CASH to the person who comes third nearest.
$50	IN CASH to the person who comes fourth nearest.
$30	IN CASH to the person who comes fifth nearest.
$15	IN CASH to the person who comes sixth nearest.
$10	IN CASH to the person who comes seventh nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming eighth nearest
$5	IN CASH to the person coming ninth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming tenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming eleventh nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming twelfth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming thirteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming fourteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming fifteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming sixteenth nearest.



Treasurer Hardeman's Receipt.
ATLANTA, GA., August 28th, 1894.
Received of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION a sealed package, said to contain a legal tender note, which will be subject to my keeping until the first of May, 1895, when it will be opened in my presence, and a certificate given of the number of the note.
A. W. Hardeman
Treasurer State of Georgia.

Each of these prizes will be delivered in cash, subject to the following conditions: (1st). Each guess must accompany a clubbing subscription to the paper publishing this announcement and The Constitution at the above announced clubbing rate, which must be in cash. (2d). All clubbing subscriptions must be sent through the paper making this publication and not to The Constitution. (3d). This offer is to be closed on the first of May, 1895, and guesses received with subscriptions after that time will not be counted in the distribution of these prizes. (4th). Should there be any ties in the guesses, the prizes will be divided. (5th). Every new or renewal subscription to either of the two papers will be entitled to a guess with every subscription.

THE CONSTITUTION heartily advocates an

EXPANSION OF THE CURRENCY

Until there is enough of it in circulation to do the legitimate business of the country.

If you wish to help in shaping legislation to these ends, GIVE THE CONSTITUTION YOUR ASSISTANCE, lend it a helping hand in the fight, and remember that by so doing you will help yourself, help your neighbors, and help your country!

AS A NEWSPAPER:
THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION has no equal in America! Its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every bailiwick in the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE:
It prints more such matter as is ordinarily found in the great magazines of the country than can be gotten even from the best of them.

AS AN EDUCATOR: It is a school house within itself, and a year's reading of THE CONSTITUTION is a liberal education to any one.

AS A FRIEND AND COMPANION: It brings cheer and comfort to the fireside every week, is eagerly sought by the children, contains valuable information for the mother, and is an encyclopedia of instruction for every member of the household.

Miss Annie Shackelford teacher of music in the University School was called last Friday to the bed side of a sick sister in North Alabama. She hopes to return in a few days more.

The entire community grieves with Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Matthews in their great bereavement. Little Lillian, their bright eyed girl of some four summers came home last week from a visit quite ill and died about 3 o'clock Sunday evening. May the sorowing ones be comforted by that same saviour who said "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not."

Clanton was particularly fortunately during the past summer in having a large number of most elegant people from Montgomery and elsewhere to spend the heated term in our midst. Among that number none made more friends than did Mrs. Stradford and little Miss Louise, who remained with us until last week.

CALL FOR PRIMARY.

In accordance with the following resolutions adopted by the Democratic congressional executive committee of the fourth district of Alabama, a primary election is hereby ordered to be opened and held on Tuesday, the 2nd day of October, 1894, in each precinct, or voting place in every county in said district for the purpose of electing a Democratic nominee for congress for said district. And to this end the executive committeemen in each precinct or voting place throughout said district are hereby charged with the duties conferred on them by virtue of said resolutions.

Whereas, the Hon. M. L. Wood has tendered this committee his resignation and the same has been accepted, as the democratic candidate for the office of representative of the Fourth Congressional district of Alabama in the 54th Congress

And whereas, the time is now short for selecting a candidate for said office and for certifying his nomination to the proper authorities thirty days before election as required by law in order that his name may be printed on the official ballots.

Therefore, Be it resolved:

1. That a primary election for the selection of said candidate is hereby ordered and called for the district to be held on Tuesday, the 2nd. day October, 1894.

2. That the qualifications of voters shall be those prescribed by the Democratic State Executive Committee.

3. That the Beat Committee shall the meeting together and with two other qualified voters as managers, one of whom only shall favor the same Candidate, unless all the qualified voters in the beat favor the same one, shall hold said election by ballot, which shall be direct for the Candidate for office.

4. That said managers shall forthwith count the vote and certify the number received by each candidate, and the beat committeeman immediately carry or send the same to the Chairman of the county executive committee of their county.

5. That each Chairman of the County Executive Committees of the District, shall forthwith, as soon as the returns are made to him from the beats in the county cast the results, certify the number each candidate received and immediately carry or send his certificate of the same to the Chairman of this committee at Jacksonville, Ala.

6. That the Chairman of this Committee shall forthwith, after receiving the said returns of all the votes cast in all the counties in the District, ascertain the number of votes cast for each candidate and shall immediately and publicly declare the name of the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes in the District and said Canditate shall be the nominee of our party for said office.

7. That in the event the Chairman of this committee is absent or unable from any cause to perform the above imposed duties, the Secretary of the Committee is hereby authorized and requested to act for the Chairman and his acts shall be as the acts of the Chairman.

"A PROPELLING FORCE."

In Natures Storehouse For Suffering Humanity.

J. D. Thomson, Anniston, Ala.: "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propelling force in natures storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

It Is Wonderful What the Electropoise Will Do

Souwilpa, Ala., Aug. 11, 1894.

I have used the Electropoise with unfailing success on my family and friends, curing a long list of diseases without medicines, Among them were milk leg, measles, la grippe, several kinds fevers, chills, old sores, colds, violent pains etc. The Electropoise takes the place of doctor and drug store.

A. J. ROGERS.

S. B. White, Jacksonville, Ala., June 23, 1894: "We have been using the Electropoise about 4 years and are well pleased with it."

As a curative agent the Electropoise cannot be equaled.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIRS—Some time ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison; my whole body was a perfect sore; my hair was all gone, and I was totally blind in one eye. I finally was induced to try a bottle of your great blood medicine, and, to the surprise of all my friends, in four weeks I was sound and well, my sight was restored and my hair grown out, and I am still sound and hearty, and have never felt a symptom of the disease since taking the V. WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

The gold reserve increased Monday nearly $400,000, standing at the close of business in the treasury at $57,430,851.

Orders have been issued to hurry the work on the Detroit at Norfolk, so that she may sail for China in compliance with Secretary Herbert's directions as soon as possible.

The comptroller of the currency has declared a third dividend of 10 per cent in favor of the creditors of the State National bank of Knoxville, Tenn., making in all 55 per cent.

The mail from Gray Gables received at the white house Tuesday morning contained forty-seven commissions of newly appointed officers, among them twenty-one postmasters in New York state.

Secrerary Carlisle is overwhelmed with letters from senators, congressmen and others asking for the reinstatement of treasury clerks who have been dismissed within the past few days. So far as known not one of these discharged persons has been reinstated.

Secretary Carlisle has asked for the resignation of Jeremiah O'Rourke, of Newark, N. J., supervising architect of the treasury department. Mr. O'Rourke was appointed to his present position by Secretary Carlisle shortly after the advent of the present democratic administration, succeeding W. J. Edbrooke, of Chicago.

The first matter that occupied the attention of Secretary Herbert when he returned to the navy department after five weeks' absence, was that of reinforcing the Asiatic squadron, and after a brief consultation with Secretary Gresham, he issued preliminary orders to the commanders of the Machias and Detroit to prepare to proceed to China as soon as possible.

The post office department, because of the insufficiency of the appropriation, is obliged to stop advertising unclaimed letters, which cost $20,000 a year. Quite a number of other departments—notably the army and navy departments—by reason of services of exigency, are on the ragged brink of deficiencies, which it will be difficult to avoid.

Surgeon General Wyman, of the marine hospital service, has appointed Passed Assistant Surgeon J. A. White, Lieutenant Robertson, of the revenue cutter service, and Dr. G. G. Thomas, of Wilming, N. C., as a board to select a site for a quarantine and marine hospital station at or near Southport, N. C. Congress made an appropriation of $25,000 for this station, and as soon as the board selects the site work on the building will begin.

Firing the Clerks.

Employes of the treasury department are thoroughly worked up over the discharges now being made to carry into effect the reorganization provided by the Dockery commission. So far the "ax" has fallen most heavily upon the women employes and many high-priced female clerks have been discharged. The scene Monday and Saturday, when the dreaded yellow envelope containing the discharge was handed to the victims, were in many cases pathetic. It was not unusual to have a half dozen groups of pretty crying clerks in one bureau. Many of the female clerks discharged had been long in the service, and one case is mentioned of a woman who was among the first ever appointed to government office by United States Treasurer Spinner, over thirty-five years ago. Twelve clerks were discharged Monday.

The Government Taking an Interest.

The government has asked to be given general supervision of the exhibit of the mineral and geological resources of the southern states at the Cotton States and International exposition, and the exposition company has gladly granted a request, which will mean very much, not only to the exposition, but to each and every southern state. This exhibit is to be made entirely outside of the government exhibit; and the decision means that the government will have the general supervision of the exhibits in the mining building as well as of the government exhibit itself. This request not only shows the great interest which is being felt by the government officials in the exposition movement, but a display so arranged and handled that it will afford the southern states an opportunity of making a display of their mineral wealth, which should be practically impossible, under any other circumstances. The force of the geological survey will practically be placed in this exposition work and the government geologists will bend their energies toward making it the most thorough and complete exhibit of southern resources, which has ever been made—greater, perhaps, than has ever been believed possible. The proposition comes from the government without any solicitation on the part of the exposition people, and the cost will be defrayed outside of the exposition appropriation. It means, in fact, just that much additional aid from the government, and it is a very great deal.

Sugar Men Want Damages.

The Miles Planting and Manufacturing Company, a corporation of the state of Louisiana, organized for the purpose of planting and growing sugar cane and manufacturing sugar, filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia Wednesday afternoon, a petition for a writ of mandamus directed against Secretary Carlisle and Commissioner of Internal Revenue Miller, to compel these two officials to make a preliminary inspection of their works. The petition says that the company was induced to go into the sugar business by the bounty act of October 1, 1890. The commissioner of internal revenue issued five licenses to them July 2, 1894, for their manufactories, which are situated at Amite, Homer, Monroe, St. James and New Hope, and they were required to give bonds for $250,000. There is a rule of the treasury department which requires preliminary inspection of a manufactory of sugar and the petition states that the present is the time for such inspection of the company's works, but both Commissioner Miller and Secretary Carlisle have refused to comply with this rule. They claim that this is illegal and will damage them to the extent of $50,000. They say there is no substance to the pretext that the new tariff law went into effect August 28th last, repeals and annuls the old law, and that the failure of the government to inspect their works practically amounts to the destruction and confiscation of their property. A rule to show cause was issued by the court returnable on October 4th.

VICTORIOUS JAPS

MAKE IT DECIDEDLY UNPLEASANT FOR JOHN CHINAMAN.

Thousands Killed and a Host of Prisoners Taken.

A dispatch to the London Times from Shanghai says Japanese reports received there place the number of Chinese captured at Ping Yang in the recent battle at 14,000, including four general officers.

Advices from Chemulpo state that there are 50,000 Chinese between Ping Yang and Yalu. The Chinese are still interrupted.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Pall Mall Gazette telegraphs that the Japanese in three divisions attacked Ping Yang. The assault was entirely unexpected by the Chinese, who, though poorly armed, fought well behind their earthworks. After a series of desperate battles, the Chinese were completely routed and all their arms, ammunition and stores were taken by the enemy. The fighting lasted throughout the night, bright moonlight enabling the Japanese to use their field guns with much execution. Three hundred Japanese were killed. The Ping Yang garrison numbered 20,000.

THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS.

A dispatch to The Central News from Ping Yang, dated September 17th, 2:30 o'clock p. m., says that 14,500 Chinese prisoners were marched through there yesterday and hundreds of other prisoners are coming in every hour. None of these men were wounded. Transports have been ordered to Ping Yang inlet to convey the prisoners to Japan.

A dispatch from Shanghai says the report that 50,000 Chinese troops are between Ping Yang and the Yalu river is generally discredited. The force around Ping Yang comprised the flower of the Chinese army and was really the only effective force in China. The men composing the levies now being made inland have no idea whatever of modern warfare.

The Pall Mall Gazette's Shanghai correspondent says the Japanese are rapidly advancing upon Moukden.

The correspondent also says it is reported that Viceroy Li Hung Chang has been deposed.

The Shanghai correspondent to the Central News telegraphs as follows: "While Chinese transports were landing troops at Yalu, a Japanese fleet attacked the Chinese warship conveying the transports. A severe battle followed. The Chin-Yuen and another Chinese warship were sunk and the Chio-Yung and Yang-Wei went ashore. The Japanese lost three vessels. The Chinese report that their loss at Ping Yang was six thousand six hundred men."

THE PLATES GIVEN UP.

It Was Done at Attorney General Olney's Request.

A Jackson, Miss., special says: In the matter of the controversy between the state officials and the United States treasury department over the issue of special warrants, the governor and state treasurer Tuesday morning gave their personal recognizance to appear before the November, 1894, term of the United States district court in Jackson. Upon the request of Attorney General Olney through District Attorney Lee, the auditor of public accounts delivered to Mr. Lee the plates on which the special warrants were printed. These plates are wanted to be used in evidence against the St. Louis Bank Note company, with whom the contract for the printing of the warrants was made. They are to be returned to the auditor at the conclusion of said trial. The "demand" made by the special agent, Burns, for these plates, which belonged to the state of Mississippi, was refused by the state officers, but the courteous "request" of the attorney general of the United States was cheerfully granted.

NEWS FROM CHINA.

A Fearful Conflagration—Japanese Routed by Coreans.

Advices from Shanghai state that the city of Lung Kin, in the province of So-Chuen, has been visited by a conflagration which has destroyed two thousand buildings. Over a hundred persons lost their lives in various ways as the result of the fire. Among the dead is the wife of the governor of Lung Kin. The governor's house was burned and several temples were destroyed. The loss is estimated at ten million taels.

Advices from Corea say that the Coreans attacked the Japanese advance guard, 2,000 strong, who were on the march from Fuesan to Seoui, and so completely dispersed and destroyed the column that only eight hundred of them succeeded in getting back to Fuesan.

General Li Yung Fu, of the Chinese army, attempted, with a chartered steamer, to convey 500 troops from Swatowa to Formosa. The owners of the vessel, however, rescinded the contract upon hearing that the Japanese squadron was in the vicinity. Subsequently three Japanese officers boarded the transport and examined her papers.

De Cassagnac's Advice.

A Paris special says: M. Paul de Cassagnac, writing to the press, advocates permanent occupation of Madagascar by France. The Matin urges that the march of the French upon the capital of Madagascar be no longer delayed.

The cotton mills of the Patterson Mills Company, at Chester, Pa., that have been idle for several months resumed operations Monday on full time, giving employment to about 300 employes.

The St. Petersburg authorities report that during the period from September 8th to 14th there were ninety-two cases of cholera and fifty deaths from the disease in the city and thirty-five new cases and sixteen deaths in Warsaw.

A tornado from the southwest descended upon the towns of Jennings and Minings, Oklahoma, Monday. Fifty homes were destroyed and it is known that three persons, a young woman and two children are dead and several persons hurt.

The editor-in-chief and one reporter of The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, have been sentenced each to pay a fine of 50 marks or to go to prison for five days for circulating the report in February last that the Hamburg-American line steamship, Augusta Victoria, Captain Barends, from Hamburg for New York, had foundered.

Governor Roswell P. Flower, of New York, has formally announced that he is not a candidate for renomination for governor. The announcement has created considerable surprise, as there was an impression abroad that the governor would run again. Who will be the democratic candidate is as yet extremely uncertain.

W. J. H. Traynor, of Michigan, supreme president of the American Protective Association, has made final arrangements for transferring the supreme council to the city of Washington. This will be accomplished in a few weeks. A printing plant will be located in the city for the issue of the newspapers and documents printed by the association.

Kenneth Clark, treasurer of the Minnesota State Fire Commission, returned to St. Paul from Hinckley and announces that the total amount he has received for the sufferers in $30,454. Besides this, the St. Paul relief committee has in its hands $24,184, which has not yet been turned over to the state commission. About $4,000 has been collected at Stillwater.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has issued orders on the Camden and Amboy, N. J., division for all departments to resume work on eight hours' time, six days each week. For the past thirteen months the shipyards, machine and car repairing shops have only worked eight hours per day, five days each week, while the trainmen had worked only half time.

The great strike at the New York and Cleveland Gas and Coal company's mines, at Pittsburg, Pa., has been declared off and the men are returning to work as individuals. President W. P. Dearmot says all will be taken back, as they fought equally hard. In the five mines 1,300 men are affected. They renounce their organization and go to work at the 55 cents per ton rate.

The celebrated suit for $25,000 damages brought against Congressman E. A. Morse, of Canton, Mass., by Mrs. Helen M. Gougar, the temperance and woman suffrage advocate, of Lafayette, Ind., terminated at Boston, Friday night, in a victory for the defendant. The jury, after being out one hour and forty-five minutes, rendered a verdict of acquittal.

Carrieri & Levato, proprietors of one of the half dozen or more private banking institutions in the Italian quarter, at Pittsburg, Pa., have disappeared, taking with them all of the funds on deposit amounting to about $10,000. Crowds of foreigners are collected about the vicinity of the bank, anxious to find some one upon whom they might wreak their vengence.

From present indications, the fire which destroyed Stumph Bro.'s mattress factory and a number of adjoining buildings, was second only in its fatal results to Washington's greatest disaster in recent years, the collapse of the Ford's theatre building. It is now believed that seven people lost their lives and the bodies of four of them are supposed to be in the ruins.

Emperor Francis Joseph received the Austro-Hungarian delegations at Buda Pesth, Sunday. Addressing them he congratulated them upon the fact that the confidence expressed in 1893 that peace would be preserved and consolidated had been confirmed by the establishment of a still more peaceful situation throughout Europe, and the existence of the most amicable relations among the powers.

Fire which began in the large mattress and bedding factory of Stumph & Bros., at Washington, Monday, completely destroyed the building. Several other buildings, among them the Woodruff File and Cabinet works, where the patent files used by the United States government are made, were also totally destroyed. Six persons are missing from the employes of the mattress factory and four bodies have been recovered from the ruins.

A special from Hinckley, Minn., says: Excursionists flocked to this region from every direction Sunday. The rains of Friday had put out all the forest fires and the air was clear and the day was fine. Trains were supplied free and excursionists did as they pleased. A party of them from St. Cloud contributed over $1,000 to the relief fund. The gloom of the region has been dispelled to some extent and Hinckley is the busiest place in Minnesota. A large amount has been appropriated by the state commission to the uses of the people in Hinckley and more than half of it is being expended in rebuilding the town.

WHY HE DIDN'T WANT IT.

Jones—I say, old man, have you a dollar you don't want?

Smith—Yes, here it is. Take it.

Jones—Awfully good of you, old man. You are sure you don't want it?

Smith—Yes, absolutely sure. It's counterfeit.—Truth.

LAWLER IS COMMANDER.

Grand Army Veterans Elect Him by a Small Majority.

A Pittsburg, Pa., special says: After one of the most heated contests in the history of the order, Col. Thomas G. Lawler, of Rockford, Ill., was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, defeating his only opponent, Colonel Ivan N. Walker, of Indianapolis, Ind., by the narrow majority of eleven in a total vote of 549. Considerable excitement attended the balloting, the two candidates frequently running neck and neck, while twice the Indiana man was in the lead. His friends had figured out that he had won by six majority until the result of the ballot was declared and the boys from Illinois, in the theatre as well as in the lobby and out on the sidewalk, went fairly wild with enthusiasm.

Lawyer's election marks the downfall of the Pennsylvania and eastern element that has long been all-powerful in the high councils and control of the order, and will lead to the appointment of a new quartermaster general to succeed General Louis E. Wagner, of Chicago. Lawler was offered the support of the Pennsylvania delegates on condition that the appointive power was given to the east, but he declined to enter into any bargain, and so the eastern strength was thrown to Walker. The western and southern delegates, however, voted solidly for Lawler. He was nearly forty votes ahead when the calling of the roll of delegates was concluded, but twenty-nine votes from the officers and council of the administration went to his opponent and the Rockford veteran was literally pulled through by the skin of his teeth.

THE OTHER OFFICERS.

The other officers elected by the encampment were: Senior vice commander, Major A. P. Burchfield, of Pittsburg; junior vice commander, Charles H. Shule, New Orleans; surgeon general, O. W. Weeks, Marion, O.; chaplain-in-chief, Rev. T. H. Hagerty, St. Louis; representative to council of administration, Charles W. Gerwig.

The southern members of the council elected are: Virginia and North Carolina, August Hagen; Tennessee, H. W. Veasey; Arkansas, A. D. Thomas; Georgia, Joseph H. Thibadeau; Alabama, G. H. Patrick.

Hearty applause greeted the resolution directing the incoming commander-in-chief to endeavor to secure the reinstatement of discharged from governmental service, and also to protect such veterans as yet remain in office. As a rider to this resolution the following was also carried amid vociferous shouts:

"That the Grand Army of the Republic, in the twenty-eigth national encampment assembled, respectfully request the president of the United States to issue an executive order to the heads of the several departments of the government, and through them to its subordinates having the power of appointment, employment and retention of persons in the public service, that due consideration be given to the claims of veterans of the war, and that in letter and in spirit any laws in reference thereto, which give them a preference, be faithfully carried out."

Breaking all previous records, in beginning and ending its business within two days, the twenty-eighth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic adjourned sine die Thursday night. A year from next Monday the boys in blue, crossing Mason and Dixon's line for the first time in the history of the order, will fraternize with their opponents of the sixties and thus make visible demonstration of the oft-repeated assertion that there is no longer a north or a south, but one country, free and undavided. And, if but a tithe of the pledges and promises made by the visiting Kentuckians are redeemed the encampment of 1895 will never be forgotten, either by the union or confederate veterans, that are fortunate enough to be among the participants.

FARMERS AS HIGHWAYMEN.

An Attempt to Rob a Train Results Disastrously.

A special from Fort Madison, Iowa, says: Four masked men attempted to hold up train No. 5, the Utah and Colorado express, on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road near Gorin, Mo., seventy-five miles west of here, at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. As a result "Dad" Prescott, the engineer of the train, is probably fatally wounded. Two of the bandits are believed to lie dead or wounded in the woods that surround the track, and the other two are fleeing across the country pursued by railroad detectives with bloodhounds.

The attempt to rob the train failed completely. The plot was formed three weeks ago and the railroad and express officials have had a spy in the camp of the bandits ever since. From the time the train left Chicago at 5 o'clock last evening, railroad and express detectives, all walking arsenals, climbed on at every station.

TWO OF THE ROBBERS CAPTURED.

A dispatch from Keokuk says: Five farmers living three miles north of Arbella, Missouri, are the men who held up the Santa Fe train at Gorin, Mo., fifty miles west of here, last night.

Two of the men were captured at Memphis, Mo., this morning, one being shot six times with a Winchester. He cannot live. The names of the captured men are Charles Abrams and Lincoln Overfield, the former being the one badly wounded.

DEMOCRATS FLOP.

Louisiana Sugar Planters Go Over to the Republicans.

A New Orleans special says: The sugar planters' convention or mass meeting held Monday went over bodily to the republican party. If there had been any purpose on the part of those who were faithful to the democracy to attend and capture the meeting it was abandoned as hopeless. The session passed off without a word being said in behalf of the democratic party and without any debate or discussion of any kind. There were 850 present, sugar planters, manufacturers and merchants. Although the lumber, rice and other interests had been invited, there were very few persons present except sugar men.

The minimum penalty for serving drinks on Sunday in western Australia is £50. A hotel-keeper in Perth, the metropolis, was recently mulcted in the sum of £150 for illegally refreshing a party of three on the Sabbath, the court refusing to regard the three drinks as constituting a single offense. Another curious feature of the licensing law in western Australia is that the licensee must not absent himself from the house for more than twenty-eight days in the year, except by special permission of a stipendiary magistrate, a restriction on personal liberty that has long been the source of much irritation and indignation to the trade.

A Dainty Bed Cover.

A bed cover made of heavy white linen sheeting, hemstitched all around, and etched in a conventional design with blue linen floss, with a fringe on either bedside of blue and white floss, simply knotted in, would make a bedspread in every way desirable for a blue and white room. A much less expensive and equally attractive cover is made of heavy unbleached cotton sheeting. Clustering in one corner and reaching across the spread is a graceful design of woodbine etching in crewels of almost every shade of green, brown and yellow. An unobtrusive red note is supplied by an occasional bunch of berries done in that color. A deep hem about the whole cover is feather stitched in yellow crewel, and crewels of the varied shades tied into the hem on two sides form an attractive fringe. A long, narrow scarf of the sheeting, similarly etched and finished, forms the covering for the pillows, and not the least desirable thing about such spreads as these is the ease with which they can be kept in condition.—Exchange.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Maryland Biscuits.

While it is true that we send plum puddings to England and may send coals to Newcastle, it is altogether impossible that the rest of the world should ever send biscuits to Maryland, through this—her recipe for the same—she takes pleasure in making known to the rest of the world not comforted with Maryland biscuits.

Aunt Dinah takes 2 quarts of flour, a heaping tablespoonful of lard, a tablespoonful of salt, and mixes them to a very stiff dough, adding the cold water cautiously for fear of getting it too soft and sticky. Then she works and works it on the bread board till it blisters all over—the dough, not the board—when she breaks it off in small pieces, molds it with her fingers into tiny, shapely forms, picks them with a fork and puts them in a hot oven to cook. If the temperature is right, they will be brown and crisp in 20 minutes.

This is the way they are made on the eastern shore, while on the western shore the process differs only in that they are beaten vigorously with a mallet or a potato masher, instead of working with the hands, and though the biscuits from both sections of the state are delicious there is perhaps a finer flakiness about the beaten ones. —New York Herald.

A Curious Superstition.

Natural phenomena often give rise to superstitions, and when these are of long standing and have been augmented by tradition, credulous people seem to pin their faith to them unquestioningly. The natives of the vicinity of Laos regard with the extremest awe a certain plateau that divides their territory from Anam. This plateau is covered with trees and dense foliage, and is a region of almost perpetual rains. Hunters are forbidden to speak aloud, to fire guns, or make any unusual noise, and fires must not be lighted lest it should cause the rain to fall. These untutored children of the forest long ago grasped the idea that rainfalls could be precipitated by concussion or by disturbing the strata of the air. They, however, regarded the matter as something supernatural and wonderful, not being able to grasp the idea of natural cause and effect.

How It Will End.

Scientists have different opinions as to how this world will end, and most of them are as foolish as can be imagined. One says that the surface of the earth is slowly but surely diminishing, and that some day the land portion will go into water, and that we shall all be drowned. Another says that eventually the earth's center of gravity will be changed, and that we will be smashed to pieces in the debris. Another, that the earth is being drawn nearer to the sun every day, and that when it gets there, we will be cremated alive. Another, that humanity will retrograde until it reaches nothing. Another, that we will be driven over to the equator and frozen to death. In the meantime we have to hustle for a living while we are here.

The Natural Sequence.

When the world shall have become sufficiently civilized to grant to mothers their rights, the most natural thing to follow is that mothers will protect the rights of their children.—Nebraska Woman's Weekly.

GEORGIA IN BRIEF.

NEWSY ITEMS GATHERED HERE AND THERE OVER THE STATE

And Condensed Into Pithy and Interesting Paragraphs.

A paper mill and a creamery are two new enterprises for Marietta.

It is estimated that Georgia's watermelon shipments have brought into the state from half to three-quarters of a million dollars.

* * *

The governor has reappointed as state depositories for a term of four years the Milledgeville Banking Company and the People's Savings bank, of Rome.

The grand jury of Habersham county has recommended that $2,500 worth of bonds, for the purpose of building a new court house, be issued. The question will be submitted to a vote of the people.

Barnesville will have another knitting mill. This is now a certainty. A citizens' meeting was held in the city council chamber recently and a full discussion was held. It was the unanimous opinion that Barnesville should and could secure the new enterprise.

The Fulton county grand jury has indicted Ed Hooks, charged with embezzling the funds of the Seaboard Air-Line. The witnesses that went before the grand jury were Local Agent Doyle and Major Courtney, who examined Hook's books.

The Herron-Thomas Tobacco Company may they intend having a plug tobacco exhibit at the Cotton States and International exposition, in Atlanta that will be all made of Georgia-raised leaf, and a filler that will prove an eyeopener to both exhibitors and visitors.

In the concluding chapters of the Wesley tragedy at Atlanta it now seems that youthful Will Myers will have to play the ugly role of a branded criminal. The words of his own mouth, as well as nearly every detail of the tragedy, point to him with terrible distinctness as the sole perpetrator of the deed.

Jeff Bockmore, the negro who miraculously escaped the gallows after arrangements for his execution had been made and fixed, died in the penitentiary last week. His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment last March. Bockmore killed a negro on a Georgia Pacific work train about two years ago. The killing occurred while the train was running at full speed between Decatur and Atlanta.

A reward of $150 each has been offered by the governor for the capture of two unknown murderers and their delivery to the sheriff of Dougherty county. On the 30th of last June, the dead body of Watt Ellis was found in the Flint river. A gunshot wound was found on his body and his throat had been cut. On the 10th of September in the same locality the skeleton of an unknown man was found. The cases are mysterious, and and it is rumored by the local authorities that the offer of the reward may unravel the mystery.

For the first time in its history a negro has entered Mercer college as a student. This new thing took place a few days ago when Miss Pauline Gambrell, daughter of Dr. Gambrell, the editor, was admitted to the school of theology. At a meeting of the board of trustees held in June last a resolution was adopted establishing a school of pedagogy, and it was at the same time agreed to admit both males and females into this department. Miss Gambrell bears the distinction of being the first to apply for admission to the department, and her application favorably passed upon.

John R. Young, of Savannah, president of the Atlantic Short Line railway company, gives it out that work on this road will soon be resumed. The road is projected to run from Macon to Pinoora, a point nine miles west of Savannah. The road is graded between Stillmore and Macon, a distance of thirty-eight miles and eleven miles of the track laid. The road will be an important line to the south and, it is claimed, will soon be ready for operation. It is said that the work of construction will begin up very soon, and that it will be pushed forward to a speedy completion.

A force formed by Adjutant General Kell makes Captain John A. Miller, of the Governor's Horse Guard, major of the First Battalion of Georgia Cavalry instead of Captain J. M. Barnard, of the Troup Hussars. An election for major was ordered for the 19th of September. The candidates were Captain John A. Miller, of the Governor's Horse Guard, and Captain J. M. Barnard, of the Troup Hussars. The election came off, each company voting through its commissioned officers. Barnard received eight votes and Miller seven. The election of the Richmond Hussars was found to have been illegally conducted, and acting under orders from the governor, General Kell threw out the four votes of the company and declared Captain Miller elected major by a majority of three votes.

Dr. George F. Payne, state chemist, has just issued his complete fertilizer bulletin for the season 1893-'94. It is an interesting and valuable publication and contains a vast deal of information of special value to the planters of this state. The bulletin is larger than usual and contains in addition to the regular analysis, a great deal of valuable information concerning fertilizers. The bulletin ought to be in the hands of every man in Georgia who desires to farm intelligently. The fertilizer business is not only growing in every state in the union but in every civilized country in the world. Georgia is the largest consumer of fertilizers and charges by far the smallest tax. The tax of 10 cents a ton runs the department free of all expenses to the state. No other state has a smaller tax than 25 cents a ton, some running as high as 50 cents.

One of the most important meetings ever held by the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist convention that recently held in the office of the board at Atlanta. Action was was taken in two very important matters—the election of Rev. Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Augusta, as assistant corresponding secretary, and the reception of a committee's report in regard to important concessions made by the northern Baptists to those of the south. Rev. Dr. Lansing Burrows is now pastor of the First Baptist church of Augusta. He has been with that church for eleven years, and is universally loved and respected in that city. He is a man of splendid appearance and is an orator of no mean ability. He is better known as the secretary of the Southern Baptist convention, to which office he was elected in 1882.

Means Much for Georgia.

Governor Northen's immigration plan for Georgia is attracting wide attention. It will, when established, be the largest affair of the kind in the south. The Baltimore Manufacturers' Record said of it in a recent issue:

"One of the greatest friends of southern immigration is Governor Northen, of Georgia. He was one of the first to perceive how necessary were more people to the prosperity and development of his own state, Georgia, and the whole section of this country. Recently he has perfected an elaborate plan in which the railroads entering the state will participate. Briefly stated he will combine a bureau of information with a land and immigration agency. The governor will take charge as soon as his present term of office expires, which will be in November. The different counties in the state will be advertised by pamphlets and other matter setting forth their advantages to would-be settlers. This advertising matter will be systematically distributed in the north and west, and as the governor states that the railroad companies have promised him $12,000 to start the enterprise, he will be well provided with funds at the outset.

"The Manufacturers' Record congratulates Georgia upon the decision of Governor Northen to devote his attention to attracting settlers to that favored state."

OWENS NOMINATED.

The Meeting of the District Committee in Frankfort.

The democratic congressional district committee met at Frankfort, Ky., Saturday. Mr. Johnston, of Fayette, read a protest dated Lexington, September 20th, from Col. Breckinridge in regard to the injunction granted by Judge Cantrill, in the Bourbon case, as an extraordinary abuse of his powers as a judge. The protest asserts that Judge Cantrill was his bitter enemy, and that Colonel Breckinridge was satisfied he had received a majority of votes over Owens and that the declaration of Owens' nomination would be making the committee a party to a fraud. It concluded by saying he would not make a formal contest. The committee then counted the vote which gave Owens' plurality at 225. Owens was declared to be the nominee. This action is final as far as the district committee is concerned. The committee then adjourned.

MORE JAPS FOR COREA.

Seven Thousand Fresh Troops Have Been Landed at Chemulko.

The London Times' Shanghai correspondent telegraphs that advices have been received from Chemulko under the date of September 16th stating that a fleet of thirty-two Japanese transports, convoyed by a number of war ships, have arrived there. The transports had on board seven thousand soldiers, three thousand coolies and two thousand pack horses. The troops are being pushed forward as rapidly as possible toward Seoul, in order to protect that city from any attack that may be made upon it by the Chinese.

Cheer others on this earth if you wish to lay claim to a bright hereafter.

A rumor that the Czar was dead created a panic in financial circles in Vienna Tuesday, but the excitement was allayed when it was learned that the rumor was unfounded.

Eight clothing contractors of Boston, Mass., Monday afternoon signed the agreement submitted by the striking garment workers, and eighteen hundred strikers returned to work.

A rescript has been issued, envoking an extra session of the Japanese parliament at Hiroshima, October 15, for seven days, in order to discuss matters requiring the sanction of the parliament.

The bessemer steel works of the Troy Steel and Iron Company's plant at Troy, N. Y., have started up after having been idle since the middle of March. Five hundred men were given employment.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Portland, Ore., broke out at 4:30 o'clock p. m. Sunday in the dock of the Pacific Coast Elevator company, and raged for three hours, destroying property valued at nearly $1,500,000.

The executive committee of the Spinners' Union at Fall River, Mass., held a meeting Tuesday forenoon and voted to make a second week's strike payment at once. The committee also decided to call a special general meeting of the union.

A special cable dispatch from Montevideo says: The rebels in Brazil, according to reports received at New York, have made a further advance. Motto Groso, it is said, will soon be in open revolt. The San Macto garrison deserted the rebels after killing the officers.

Commenting on a dispatch stating that a fresh Japanese army 90,000 strong is ready to take the field, the London Daily News expresses the opinion that Corea is not their destination. If this is true, there can be only one other objective point, and that is a dash on Peking.

General Willard Slocum died at Ashland, O., Sunday, aged 74. He was inspector-general of the thirteenth army corps before and during the siege of Vicksburg, and was breveted brigadier-general. He was one of the two delegates appointed by Governor Brough to meet with the loyal men of the south in 1866.

At New York, Tuesday, A. H. Miller & Son sold at auction for the receiver of the Richmond and West Point Terminal Railroad and Warehouse Company a long list of stocks and bonds held by the Terminal company. The entire list was purchased by the reorganization committee.

One of the largest republican demonstrations in the history of Marion county, Indiana, was signalized Tuesday at Indianapolis by the inauguration by Governor McKinley of the state campaign. Ex-President Harrison presided at the meeting and introduced Governor McKinley in a few felicitous remarks. Governor McKinley spoke over two hours.

It is now practically certain that three men lost their lives in the elevator fire at Portland, Ore., Sunday. They were seen on top of the building while it was burning and are believed to have perished in the flames. None of these men have been seen since the fire, and there is no doubt that their remains will be found when the debris has been cleared away.

From present indications, the fire which destroyed Stumph Bro.'s mattress factory and a number of adjoining buildings, was second only in its fatal results to Washington's greatest disaster in recent years, the collapse of the Ford's theatre building. It is now believed that seven people lost their lives and the bodies of four of them are supposed to be in the ruins.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen held a two-day's session celebration of the eleventh anniversary of the organization of the body. Several thousand railway employes were present, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Order of Railway Conductors, Order of Railway Telegraphers, and the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association.

President F. T. Day, of the Plankinton bank, at Milwaukee, Wis., was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a charge of receiving a deposit when he knew the bank was insolvent. Mr. Day furnished bail for $10,000, and was released from custody. O. L. Olason, one of the directors of the bank, qualified in the sum of $5,000 and the bond was accepted on condition that another surety would be secured for a like sum.

A London cable dispatch says: The European bourses are affected by the news of the czar's health, as he is now recognized as one of the strongest supporters of peace and it is feared that in the event of his death his successor would seize the opportunity to secure the naval ports on the Pacific and enlarge his boundaries in the direction of the Pamirs at the expense of China; either of which steps, it is believed, would easily precipitate a war.

The Nevada state central committee of the silver party through its chairman, J. H. Kinkhead, has written a complimentary letter to Senator John P. Jones, commending his course in leaving the republican party. The letter assures the senator he need not feel called upon to resign the senatorship as the demand of the republican party and declares that he owes his position to the whole people of Nevada, who, irrespective of party, wish him to represent them in the senate.

The strike of the shirt-makers for more pay and less work, ordered at New York, Saturday evening, assumed a size Monday morning which was a surprise even to the strike board. Over 3,000 shirt-makers, of whom at least two-thirds are women, are now on a strike. There are about 300 shirt-making firms in the city, and the leaders of the strike say that work had been abandoned entirely in all of them. The demands are for an increase in the present price of 50 per cent., and also that eight hours shall constitute a day's work.

The joint meeting of the Southern General Passenger Agents and the Central Traffic Association was well attended at Cincinnati Tuesday. The chief rate clerks in the territory of both associations were also present and will remain some days to prepare the new schedules. The rates for winter tourists were fixed the same as last year from Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Ohio valley gateway points. From interior points round trip tickets will be 80 per cent of double fare for one way. These tickets will be on sale from November 1st to April 30th.

The sixth week of idleness in Fall River, Mass., opened Monday without any promise of an early resumption of work. The manufacturers seem more united than ever in their determination to make the operatives yield to their terms, and as the pendulum of trade swings, it seems to be bringing the time of their winning nearer at hand. The weakening prices in the cloth market, coupled with the weakness of the demand for goods, is modifying the manufacturers who, five weeks ago, were disposed to yield and compromise with the operatives.

The Maryland Trust Company of Baltimore, has been selected as trustee for a general mortgage of $2,500,000, executed by the Elyton Company of Birmingham, Ala. The Elyton Company is the successor of the Elyton Land Company, which owns most of the land on which the city of Birmingham is built. The general mortgage is to cover all the property owned by the Elyton Land Company, which, in turn, agrees to execute and deliver the property to the Maryland Trust Company as trustee, to be held as security for the general mortgage bonds to be issued.

FITZ WHIPS CREEDON.

And It Took Only Two Rounds To Do It—Some Heavy Hitting.

A New Orleans special says: The middle weight championship still stays in America, and the long, lanky, lean blacksmith wears the belt. In less than two rounds he protected his claim to it against Creedon, the Australian, before 8,000 people, Wednesday night, and though short, the fight was a good one.

It was apparent when the men entered the ring that the crowd was about equally divided between the two men, but before the first round was over Fitz's stock went away up and he again became the favorite of New Orleans. It took him just four minutes and forty seconds of actual fighting to do the work. In the first round he had Creedon down and the Australian remained on his knee till Duffy was ready to count him out. It was vicious work both men did, and when Fitz opened the second round he did it with a smile. He rushed the work, and the first pass sent Creedon whirling, but Creedon managed to recover and was aggressive. Then Fitz caught him squarely on the chin with his left just after landing his right over the heart. The blow was a fearful one and knocked Creedon flat of his back. The blood spurted from his nose and mouth, and Duffy sprang forward and began his count. Fitz waited till the count was done, and then walked to his chair, while Creedon's friends carried him to his corner. Among the interested spectators was Mrs. Fitzsimmons, who watched the fight from the club's office window, and immediately after the award had been made Fitz walked to the side of the ring upon which the window opened and waved his hands to her. She was in full view of the spectators, and when she was seen a rousing yell went up. Fitz then walked to Creedon's corner and shook hands with the man he had defeated.

HE CHALLENGES CORBETT.

Duffy secured the attention of the house and stated that Fitz would challenge Corbett for a finish for $10,000. Immediately after the fight Fitz hurried to the telegraph office and sent a half dozen messages. Then he went to a hearty dinner. At the dinner table he said:

"I thought I would win and I did. I now want a chance at Corbett and am ready with my $10,000. I have plenty of money behind me, and I think I can do him. Anyhow I am willing to try."

Creedon was taken to his headquarters. He was badly bruised. One eye was closed and his lips were terribly cut. He took his defeat philosophically and said that he was sorry he lost, more on account of his friends than himself.

Bought by Englishmen.

The news has been given out by representatives of the Farmers' State Alliance of Texas, which organization is very strong and influential, that $3,000,000 worth of the bonds of the projected North and South railroad, from the Manitoba line to the gulf, chartered as the Interstate and Gulf, have been sold to English capitalists and that negotiations are nearly closed for the sale of $3,000,000 worth more. The scheme of the promoters is to have state identity in the construction and ownership of the line.

HILL NOMINATED.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS UNANIMOUS FOR HIM.

Mr. Whitney Declines the Honor—The Convention Stampeded.

The New York democratic state convention was called to order at Saratoga at noon Wednesday by Senator Hill.

William C. Whitney was considered the choice of the convention for governor, but announced positively that he would not accept the honor. He declined to state his reasons at length, but gave the impression that his business interests would not allow his acceptance of the nomination.

Tammany's adherents were thrown into a condition bordering on a panic when the bulletin announcing that Whitney had declined the nomination for governor was read.

Senator Hill was first shown the dispatch and said: "I supposed that he would decline to accept it. I had said all along that Whitney had no desire to enter politics."

Lieutenant Governor Sheehan looked disappointed as he read the dispatch and said: "Whitney would have been a very strong man, and the situation is now rather mixed. We have wasted valuable time chosing a shadow."

John Crimmins, a personal friend of Whitney, has received a personal message stating that Whitney declined for personal reasons.

In the headquarters of the other candidates the news caused great rejoicing, and the several booms received a new impetus. The Thatcher people at once began to assert that their candidate would be nominated on the first ballot, and some of the Tammany people expressed the same belief. The Buffalo people, on the other hand, asserted that the candidate should be chosen from Western New York, and that Lockwood would be the man who could unite all factions. The adherents of Mr. Cooke, of Rochester, also declared that their man could be named on the first ballot.

Senator Hill declined to say that he was for any candidate. The partisans of Hill were, of course, delighted at the declaration of Whitney that Hill was the fittest candidate to make the race. In the lobbies a report was started that Bourke Cockran would stampede the convention in Hill's favor.

Hill Gets It.

After the platform had been adopted the convention resolved to proceed with nominations. The chair recognized Gaylen R. Hitt, of Albany, who, in an eloquent speech, placed in nomination for governor John Boyd Thatcher, of Albany.

When Mr. Hitt had finished Edwin Reynolds, of Allegany, arose and said: "The united democracy of Allegany county desires to place in nomination their first and only choice—David B. Hill."

That was all he had time to say. The crowd went wild with enthusiasm. Men stood on their seats and waved their hats for three minutes.

Senator Hill pounded with his gavel. Finally Colonel Fellows, of New York, arose, and the crowd thinking that he would say something about Hill, subsided. Senator Hill then asking the indulgence of Colonel Fellows, said: "I am grateful to the democrats of the Empire State for the courtesy and kindness of the past, but must say to you I cannot agree to be your candidate again for governor."

Forced Upon Him.

Bourke Cockran, of New York, arose, and, climbing over the reporters' table to the platform, said in part: "When the life of a nation is at stake and the laws which govern its existence fail to control its destinies the supreme will of the people is the only resort. At such time the right of revolution is invoked. Such a time has now come to us.

"By all the ties that have bound him in the past, by his hopes of the future, by his duty to his country, I demand that he lead us, and I now name him for governor." (Prolonged cheers.)

Mr. Cockran then put the question to the convention: "Will you make the nomination unanimous?" Every one in the hall, delegates, spectators and all yelled, "Yes!"

Turning to Senator Hill, Mr. Cockran then said: "Senator Hill, we summon you to your duty."

STEWART FILES AFFIDAVITS.

Says He's Being Made the Victim of Conspiracy and Blackmail.

Senator William M. Stewart, of Nevada, who is made a co-respondent in a suit for divorce brought in the courts of the District of Columbia by a man named Glasscock, against his wife, filed in court at Washington Saturday voluminous affidavits, setting forth that the case is one of conspiracy to blackmail and that the plaintiff and respondent had continued to reside together as husband and wife after the suit was filed.

JAPS ARE AHEAD.

They Will Hereafter Be Recognized as a Sea Power.

The London Times published a leading article in which it says that Japan has already effected enough to convince intelligent men the world over that henceforth they must reckon with a new power in the far east. Ping Yang and Yalu have opened the eyes of all not willfully indifferent or blind to the fact that a new state has taken her rank in the hierarchy of nations, and that her votes has no longer to be ignored in their councils.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation As Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week shows that the demand for iron continues steady and large, and several more furnaces are going in o blast. Stocks do not accumulate, but prices are not advancing as yet. The coal mining industry is now in full activity and is fairly pro-perous. A marked feature of the business improvement is the considerable number of enlargements of manufacturing plants of all kinds. The textile industry is active in all parts of the south, and if the plans now under way are carried out the increase in the number of new mills and of capital therein invested will be the greatest for many years. The cotton oil industry is now beginning operations as the new crop of seed comes forward, but the mill men are offering much lower prices than were paid last year.

Thirty-one new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with eight enlargements of manufactories and twenty-four important new buildings. Prominent among th new incoporations are the Little Rock Real Estate Co., of Little Rock, Ark., capital $400,000; a railway supplies manufacturing company, at Meridian, Miss., with $100,000 capital, and the Ennis Cotton Oil Co., of Ennis, Tex., with $50,000 capital. The Georgia Buff Brick Co., capital $50,000 has been organized at Atlanta, Ga., a lime and cement company with $25,000 capital at Alexandria, Va.; the Farmer's Basket and Package Co., with the same capital, at Charleston, S. C.; a $30,000 improvement company at Hillsboro, Tex.; a $12,000 lumber and cooperage company at Black Rock, Ark., and a $10,000 lumber company at Richmond, Va.

Flour and grist mills are reported at Elkin and Gibsonville, N. C., and Dallas, Texas; iron and wire works at Little Rock, Ark.; a saw factory, at New Alexandria, Va., and soap factories at Augusta, Ga., and Knoxville, Tenn. A shoe factory is to be built at Erin, N. C.; a tobacco and snuff factory at Statesville, N. C.; a twine factory at Fayetteville, N. C., and woodworking plants at Stevenson, Ala., Newberry and Quincy, Fla., Walesboro, S. C., Nashville, Tenn., Bartley, and Mountain Rock, Va.

Waterworks are reported at Columbus, Ga., Portland, Ky., and Oxford, Miss. The enlargements for the week include a flouring mill at Elizabethtown, Ky., an electrical plant at Greenville, Ala., an ice factory at Lynchburg, Va., paint works at Wilmington, N. C., phosphate works at Barrow, Ga., a tannery at Lynchburg, Va., and a planing mill at Monroe, La.

Among the new buildings are business houses at Demopolis, Ala., DeLand, Fla., Augusta and Dublin, Ga., Ellenboro, N. C., Charlesville, Tenn., and Pocahontas, Va.; a $19,000 depot at Norfolk, Va.; a $300,000 hotel at Birmingham, Ala., and one at Huntingdon, Tenn.; a school building at Camden, Ark.; warehouses at Salem, N. C., and Norfolk, Va.; twenty cottages at Gadney, S. C., and forty cottages at Burlington, N. C.—Tradesman, (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

LATEST WAR NEWS.

The Chinese Emperor Regrets the Death of General Tso Fung.

A dispatch to the London Central News, from Shanghai, says that in an imperial edict, issued September 23, the emperor of China expresses great personal regret at the death of General Tso Fung, who was killed in the recent battle of Ping Yang, and orders that his remains be given military honors due a provincial commander-in-chief, and that his sons be treated with especial favor.

The dispatch further says that General Tso Fung, though wounded severely continued to lead his troops until struck by a bullet which killed him.

First Lieutenant Ching, of the Chinese cruiser Chih Yuen, which was sunk during the recent naval battle at the mouth of Yalu river, escaped when the vessel sank, and he has organized a party and started out to endeavor to recover his captain's body. The Chinese declare that the Chih Yeun sank a large Japanese iron clad during the progress of the fight by ramming her, but this statement is just as strongly denied by the Japanese.

Following the example set by Japan, the Chinese government demands the registration of all Japanese residing in China.

A dispatch from Shanghai to the London Times states that the anti-foreign feeling in Pekin is growing steadily. Foreigners while on the streets of the city are constantly subjected to insult and annoyance by the soldiers. The court seems scarcely to realize the fact that the country is engaged in a serious war.

Chinese agents in Europe and the United States have been ordered to purchase forthwith any warships that are obtainable. Two serviceable vessels were purchased at Buenos Ayres on China's account prior to the Yalu river battle.

Many vessels loaded with munitions of war are on their way from Hamburg and other European ports.

BLOW AT JACKSONVILLE.

The Hurricane Does Considerable Damage in the City.

A Jacksonville special says: The hurricane passed northeast of this city at 1 o'clock Wednesday. The highest wind here was forty-six miles per hour. Rain fell in torrents and gusts of fierce winds dashed it into houses. Nearly every residence in the city was well drenched in this way.

There were not many disasters or heavy losses. The most serious was the blowing down of 900 feet of the new terminal station that had been put in position. It was laid flat and M. H. Maynardie, station master of the Savannah, Florida and Western railway, narrowly escaped death. He was knocked down by flying timbers. The loss is above $10,000.

Trees were blown down and tin roofs were torn off. Much damage was caused in this way throughout the city. Some damage is likely to be reported from the railroads south of here. All have been seriously washed. Many breaks are reported along the coast below St. Augustine. Matanzas and Lake Worth it is feared that much damage has been caused if not loss of life. The wind there was sixty miles an hour. Jacksonville has had no communication with any portion of the state south of here since last night. Much uneasiness is expressed over the situation.

Powderly as a Lawyer.

Terrence V. Powderly, ex-general master workman of the Knights of Labor, was admitted to the bar of Luzerne county, Pa., Monday. It is said that Mr. Powderly may have formerly, and settle down to the practice of law in New York city.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

The president Tuesday appointed General William Ward Duffield, of Detroit, Mich., superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey to succeed T. C. Mendenhall, resigned. The position is worth $6,000 per annum.

W. H. Pugh, commissioner of customs, who was legislated out of office by one of the Dockery commission laws, will be assigned within a short time as chief of the special agents to be appointed in connection with the collection of the income tax.

The republican congressional committee, at its meeting Tuesday, disposed of the last contested nomination case before it. It was that of Cheatham against White, from the second North Carolina district, and was decided in favor of Cheatham. The contestants are brothers-in-law, and both colored. Cheatham has served a term in congress.

So many Americans have applied to the Japanese legation for employment in the service of Japan during the present war that in order to answer such applications promptly, the minister has been obliged to have recourse to a printed circular in which he returns a negative reply to all inquiries and stating that at this juncture the Japanese government does not feel under the necessity of employing any persons in addition to those who have been trained to perform the duties of such service.

The contractor in charge of the work on the Port Royal, S. C., dock has applied to the navy department for an extension of time to complete the work, as the time for finishing it under the contract, which has already been extended two or three times, expired on the 23d. While no action has yet been taken on the request, it will probably be granted. The work is said to be highly satisfactory to the department in spite of the delays, and it is thought the dock will probably be completed within a month.

A change will be made in the office of the deputy commissioner of internal revenue within the next two or three weeks. Captain George W. Wilson, of Ohio, a republican, has held the office up to this time, during the present administration, his long service fitting him for the duties. It has not been an easy matter for Commissioner Miller to find a man for the place, but he has, it is given out semi-officially, decided upon Mardie Woods, an Alabama man, who possesses the requisite qualifications. The new appointee is not endorsed by the Alabama delegation, but is said to be the personal choice of the secretary of the treasury.

Thirty-five treasury clerks have been reported to the secretary of the treasury by name as having attended the horse races at Alexander, Va., about three miles from Washington across the Potomac river last Saturday. The names of the clerks have been forwarded to the head of the bureau or division, and an explanation, it is said, has been asked from the clerks. Whether detectives have been employed for the purpose of "spotting" treasury clerks of a "sporty" inclination or whether the information has been volunteered by some treasury employe or official, intimate knowledge of the personnel of the male clerks in the treasury has been shown, and it has created a "commotion at this time, especially as many changes are being made to carry into effect the reorganization that takes place October 1st.

Reviving Industry.

A general but gradual revival of business is making itself felt in the treasury by the heavy demand for small notes of the denominations of one and two's. Money of this class is in great demand in the south and southwest, especially, and while the treasury is doing its utmost to accommodate all who ask for small money it cannot always supply all orders as promptly as desired. Preference is given to orders when gold is deposited for small notes, as it is the policy of the treasury to build up its gold reserve by all legitimate means. For the past six weeks the amount of money sent to the treasury for redemption has been unusually heavy, averaging $750,000 a day since September first.

For the Atlanta Expedition.

The geological survey has started out a corps of photographers to secure among the southern hills and mountains, and views of the mineral districts of Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky preparatory to the display it expects, to make at the Cotton States and International exposition. It is proposed to have one end of the building made into a network of these photographic transparancies, and heavy glass plates would have to be ready for framing as the building went up. The corps will reach Atlanta in three weeks' time. It will take in the Cranberry iron districts in North Carolina. Those around Knoxville, the scenes about the French Broad and Asheville and Chattanooga, before going into the mountains of Northern Georgia.

COLUMBIANA COUNTY, Ohio, is once more to the front, and this time with a madstone out that clucks like a setting hen. The chicks in the barnyard are so completely deceived that the chuck will bring their running in an instant. One of the other good reasons against the mad stone is the wings chickens do not grow on the chicken proper.

Mr. W. A. Davis, for several years the private secretary of Col. McKelvy Ha[illegible] has been appointed manager for Alabama of the Alabama Mineral Land company. This is a high compliment, but one Col. McKelvy deserved. Mr. Davis is a thorough business man, and a christian gentleman.

If you were not old enough to vote in the August election and are now 21 years old, we shall become of that age by the November election be sure and register.

White men dont be deceived into the Republican camp. Stand by pure democracy and down the Ridemgops and their hungry retainers. Twenty years ago they did so much to injure our fair state. Come boys, grey headed and join hands anew in rebuilding the waste places of Alabama.

The Republican party of Talladega County has declined to endorse the Doctrines of the Republican party. It is believed [illegible] white men will come back to the Democratic party they just cant support Mr. Aldrich.

Congressman Wm. Lawson certainly has by his double dealing in politics lost the confidence of many men on both sides.

Annie Louve Hare,
As lovely and fresh, as the dewey morning,
Now as the splendid rainbow of evening.

No picture can be more charming to sight,
Than, when, her merry, laughing eyes so bright,
Cutely peeps, though a shower of dark curls,
Which, she so gracefully tosses and furls.

Here she comes like a poor gypsy in on,
With babes in cart, and wardrobe in apron.

Glibly she tells of trouble, and sorrow,
Then, accepts welcome to stay till to-morrow,
Soon she forgets, that, she was[illegible]
Sings, dances, plays another funny trick,
Grandma sighs though she heartily laughs,
As she thinks of her babes, in the long past.
And prays that Lou's life may continue pure,
Then, to heaven, others, she may allure,

Old Grandma.

The result of the Primaries held in the 4th district for Congressman cannot be ascertained for some days yet. It is believed however that Mr. Robbins received the majority of the votes cast. Luckily we had none but good men running, and whichever is declared the nominee will give satisfaction. Messrs Robbins Plowman and Caldwell are intelligent, christian gentlemen, either of whom will poll the full vote of the district.

WILL YOU HELP?

In the great contest which is to be fought between now and the next presidential election for

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY—The coinage of both Gold and Silver, without discrimination, which means the free coinage of both as opposed to the policy of contraction, which is being dictated by England, and which levies tribute on every product of the farm, on valuations of all kinds and on all compensation for labor.

The Great Issue now is the double standard against the single standard—the use of both gold and silver as standard money metals, against the organized effort to hold the currency of the country strictly to the gold basis.

THE ATLANTA CIRCULATION, 156,000.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTION

published at ATLANTA, GA., and having

A CIRCULATION OF MORE THAN 156,000, chiefly among the farmers of the country, and going to more homes than any weekly newspaper published on the face of the earth is

The Leading Champion of the People in this as well as in other great contests in which they are engaged against the exactions of monopoly.

By special arrangement with The Constitution the paper publishing this announcement is prepared to make

A REMARKABLE CLUBBING OFFER, by which both this paper and The Constitution will be offered for one year at almost the price of a year's subscription to one paper.

BOTH PAPERS FOR $1.50,

THE CONSTITUTION IS THE BIGGEST AND BEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published in America, covering the news of the world, having correspondents in every city in America, and in the capitals of Europe, and reporting in full the details of debates in congress on all questions of public interest. It is

THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, and as the exponent of southern opinion and the purveyor of southern news it has no equal on the continent.

THE CONSTITUTION'S SPECIAL FEATURES

are such as are not to be found in any other paper in America.

THE FARM AND FARMER'S DEPARTMENT,
THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT,
THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT,

are all under able direction and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. Under the editorial management of Clark Howell, its special contributors are writers of such world-wide reputation as Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Frank R. Stockton, Joel Chandler Harris, and hundreds of others, while it offers weekly service from such writers as Bill Arp, Sarge Plunkett, Wallace P. Reed, Frank L. Stanton, and others, who give its literary features a peculiar Southern flavor that commends it to every fireside from VIRGINIA to TEXAS, from MISSOURI to CALIFORNIA.

Do Not Delay, but send your name now. If you are already a subscriber to your home paper, and you want The Constitution only, communicate with The Constitution direct, and send One Dollar for one year's subscription with your guess in the prize contest. You can get your home paper, however, publishing this, and The Constitution, for almost the price of one, and remember that all clubbing subscriptions must be sent to this paper and not to The Constitution.

THE CONSTITUTION is among the few great newspapers publishing daily editions on the side of the people against European Domination of our money system, and it heartily advocates:

1st. The Free Coinage of Silver,
Believing that the establishment of a single gold standard will wreck the prosperity of the great masses of the people, though it may profit the few who have already grown rich by federal protection and federal subsidy.

2d. Tariff Reform,
Believing that by throwing our ports open to the markets of the world and levying only enough import duties to pay the actual expenses of the government, the people will be better served than by making them pay double prices for protection's sake.

3d. An Income Tax,
Believing that those who have much property should bear the burdens of government in the same proportion as those who have little.

Two Thousand Dollars in Cash Prizes!

To those who take advantage of this clubbing offer The Constitution will distribute Two Thousand Dollars in CASH PRIZES, by the following plan: We have placed in a sealed envelope in the keeping of the Treasurer of the State of Georgia, and locked in the great vaults of the State, a legal tender note, which like all federal paper currency is numbered, each note of every denomination issued by the government having its own number. The number on this particular note is composed of eight figures, and on the arrangement of these figures as they appear on the note depends the distribution of the two thousand dollars in prizes offered.

The following figures compose the number of the note: 5-3-4-0-1-0-7-8

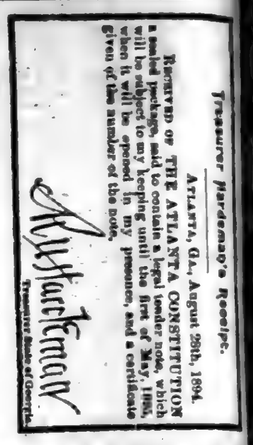
though of course they are not given here in the order in which they appear on the note.

To those who in sending with their subscriptions a rearrangement of these figures so as to give the number as it is on the note, we will distribute prizes as follows:

$1,000	IN CASH to the person who gives the number of the note.
$500	IN CASH to the person who, not giving the exact number, comes nearest doing so.
$250	IN CASH to the person who comes second nearest.
$100	IN CASH to the person who comes third nearest.
$50	IN CASH to the person who comes fourth nearest.
$30	IN CASH to the person who comes fifth nearest.
$15	IN CASH to the person who comes sixth nearest.
$10	IN CASH to the person who comes seventh nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming eighth nearest
$5	IN CASH to the person coming ninth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming tenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming eleventh nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming twelfth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming thirteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming fourteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming fifteenth nearest.
$5	IN CASH to the person coming sixteenth nearest.



Treasurer Hardeman's Receipt.
Received of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION
Atlanta, Ga., August 28th, 1894.
a sealed package, said to contain a legal tender note, which will be subject to my keeping until the first of May, 1895, when it will be opened in my presence, and a certificate given of the number of the note.
Treasurer State of Georgia.

Each of these prizes will be delivered in cash, subject to the following conditions: (1st). Each guess must accompany a clubbing subscription to the paper publishing this announcement and The Constitution at the above announced clubbing rate, which must be in cash. (2d). All clubbing subscriptions must be sent through the paper making this publication and not to The Constitution. (3d). This offer is to be closed on the first of May, 1895, and guesses received with subscriptions after that time will not be counted in the distribution of these prizes. (4th). Should there be any ties in the guesses, the prizes will be divided. (5th). Every new or renewal subscription to either of the two papers will be entitled to a guess with every subscription.

THE CONSTITUTION heartily advocates an EXPANSION OF THE CURRENCY

Until there is enough of it in circulation to do the ligitimate business of the country.

If you wish to help in shaping legislation to these ends, GIVE THE CONSTITUTION YOUR ASSISTANCE, lend it a helping hand in the fight, and remember that by so doing you will help yourself, help your neighbors, and help your country!

AS A NEWSPAPER:
THE WEEKLY CONSTITUTION has no equal in America! Its news reports cover the world, and its correspondents and agents are to be found in almost every hallwick in the Southern and Western States.

AS A MAGAZINE:
It prints more such matter as is ordinarily found in the great magazines of the country that can be gotten even from the best of them.

AS AN EDUCATOR: It is a school house within itself, and a year's reading of THE CONSTITUTION is a liberal education to any one.

AS A FRIEND AND COMPANION: It brings cheer and comfort to the fireside every week, is eagerly sought by the children, contains valuable information for the mother, and is an encyclopedia of instruction for every member of the household.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is a well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

DEAR SIRS—Some time ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. My whole body was a perfect mass, my hair was all gone, and I was totally blind in one eye. I finally was induced to try a bottle of your great blood medicine, and, to the surprise of all my friends, in four weeks I was sound and well, my sight was restored and my hair grown out, and I am still sound and hearty, and have never felt a symptom of the disease since taking the V. Cures That Faith Won't Effect

Are brought about by the use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, foremost among American family remedies. Rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver complaint, malaria and nervous complaints succumb to this reliable remedy. It does its benign work thoroughly, and those who use it reap a fruitful harvest of health. Physicians of the first standing commend it.

THE DIXIE FAIR AT MACON, GA.

One Fare Rate From All Points—Immense Preparations—Mammoth Buildings. A Grand Enterprise for Georgia.

A round trip rate of one fare from all Ohio river points will be granted to the Great Dixie Fair which is to be given at Macon next month. Mr. G. A. Macdonald, general passenger agent of the Georgia Southern and Florida Railroad, at a meeting of the Southern Passenger Association held recently in New York, secured this concession in favor of the great exhibition, and all things indicate that the exposition will be a wonderful success. Most extensive work has been done upon the grounds and buildings. Central City Park, where the big show will be held, is alive with workmen. New exhibition buildings and stables are being erected, while the naturally beautiful grounds are being put in the most perfect order. Much work was required, but it has been done rapidly and thoroughly and a wonderful transformation has been worked at the park. The main building will cover twice as much area as any other building in the state. It is being so arranged as to give the greatest advantage to exhibitors. The people of Macon and all Central Georgia are highly enthusiastic about the fair and are giving liberally of their time and money to the enterprise.

The fair will bring a great many people from abroad to Georgia, more particularly people from the West and Northwest now dissatisfied in that new poverty-stricken section, who will take advantage of the low rates that will be offered to the exposition, to visit the empire state of the South with a view of changing their location. Georgia and all adjoining states will be largely benefited by this immigration.

The fair is to be held at a most opportune time. In October the farmers of the Northwest and West have gathered their harvest and to a great extent have marketed their crops, and with such money in their pockets as their toil brings them, are in a condition to travel if they desire to do so, either to seek a new location or for health and recreation.

When you are going to use spices of any kind or pepper, get the whole grains and grind them yourself. Then you will not run the risk of spoiling your viands with pulverized chips.

"A Practical Age"

Is a fit epithet for the present age. "Of what use is it?" and "How soon will I get my money out of it?" are questions always asked before making an investment of any kind. Bright, intelligent young ladies no longer spend their time in acquiring useless accomplishments. Parents who wish to render their children independent, cannot do a wiser thing than give them a course in shorthand and typewriting. For young ladies it is a genteel and pleasant work, and for young men it is often the stepping stone to a higher business position. For terms, etc., in the best, most thorough and complete school in the South, write Miss McKnight's School of Stenography & Typewriting, 137 and 139 S. B. & L. Assn. Bldg., Wall St., Knoxville, Tenn.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials free. Address

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Theo. Sturges, one of the oldest merchants of Meridian, Miss., has made an assignment and transferred his property, $20,000, to his wife.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: Dispensary Constable McLendon, who was one of the leaders of the fatal fight at Darlington, and who was wounded therein, is about to die of his wounds, blood poisoning having set in.

A movement is on foot at Knoxville, Tenn., looking toward an exhibit from Knoxville and East Tennessee at the Cotton States and International Exposition. The scheme meets with approval, and a large exhibit will probably be made.

A Savannah, Ga., special says: A severe storm is reported off the coast of Cuba and south Florida, causing severe gales in the southern portion of Florida. The storm is reported to be moving in this direction and all ships are warned not to leave port.

Judge Cooper, of the criminal court at Memphis, Tenn., delivered an opinion in the motion for bail made by M. Strickfadden, under indictment for murder growing out of the lynching of six negroes on August 21st at Millington. Bail was denied and Strickfadden was ordered remanded to jail to await the trial for murder.

At Memphis, Tenn., Monday morning, the family of Mrs. Annie Osborne, numbering five, and a boarder named Hutt, were poisoned. The dose was put in the coffee. Mrs. Osborne prepared the coffee and partook freely. Four of the family are thought to be fatally poisoned. The physician administered antidotes for arsenic. The police have no clue, but suspect that some enemy of the family put the drug into the coffee pot.

About 200 employes of the Germania silk mill at Holyoke, Miss., went out on a strike Tuesday morning. At a meeting they appointed a committee to wait on the officers of the company and ask for an advance in their wages. The committee went to the mill office but could find no one authorized to negotiate with them. The committee reported to the operatives and all left their work. Every department in the mill is closed.

At a meeting of the Greensboro, N. C., Steel and Iron Company, the company was organized with the following officers: President, Julian C. Carr, of Durham; vice president, J. W. Scott; general manager, J. F. Jordan; secretary and treasurer, D. C. Waddell; general counsel, B. M. Douglas; directors, J. S. Carr, J. W. Scott, J. F. Jordan, W. E. Ashby, Nell Ellington, John Wilkes and George Noble, Sr. The company expects to put the furnace in operation at an early date.

The cotton seed mill owners of Texas have $10,000,000 invested. They say they lost $1,000,000 last year by paying too much for seed and are now charged by farmers to be combining to hammer the market down to $6 or $7 per ton. Several populist farmers in northern Texas have been indicted for combining to keep up the price of cotton seed and Attorney General Culberson is preparing to bring suit against certain cotton seed oil mills for violation of the anti-trust law by combining to keep the price of seed down.

A Savannah, Ga., special says: Mr. Samuel Martin, representing S. M. Inman & Co., is in the city for the purpose of opening a branch office of that firm here. The purpose of the firm is to sell their cotton in this market and put it on shipboard here. They expect to use the port freely which will add largely to the receipts here, much of this cotton having formerly gone through Norfolk and Charleston. Inman & Co. are perhaps the largest buyers of spot cotton in the world and the opening of an office here will mean no doubt a great deal to the port.

Three interesting bills were filed at Nashville, Tenn., Monday, to recover for the use of the county money wrongfully paid out by means of county warrants by R. A. Lassiter, ex-clerk, to the judge of the county court. One bill is against Annie Eyster and others to recover $4,330, which it is alleged Lassiter paid out of county funds for a house now in Mrs. Eyster's name. The other bills are against C. E. Burton & Co., grocers, for about $2,5000, and A. Brown, liveryman, for $600, it being alleged that Lassiter paid his private grocery and livery bills in county warrants.

BLOODSHED EXPECTED

When Blackwell Attempts to Collect the Bond Taxes.

A special of Monday from Sturgis, Ky., says: If Captain Blackwell carries out his threat there is going to be much bloodshed in this vicinity in the next forty-eight hours. Blackwell has declared that he will collect the bond tax and the taxpayers solemnly swear that he will not. The preparations on both sides are very warlike. The big cannon at DeKoven, which did service in the civil war, was rolled into position yesterday and rammed to the muzzle with powder and slugs. It was placed on the crest of a hill which commands the entrance to the precincts affected by the tax. At the approach of the posse it will be fired, and its discharge will be the signal for the people to form ranks and meet the enemy.

The situation is critical, and an armed collision is almost a certainty. Captain Blackwell was appealed to by the ministers to give up his project, but he was deaf to their entreaties and announced his intention of collecting the tax. He said:

"My men are ready, and my guns, which were ordered from Boston, have arrived. Where they are stored I refuse to state, and when we start I also decline to say, not wishing to give my plans away to the enemy. Those people owe that tax and must pay it. As for the bullets they have for us, I guess we can stand them, as none of the men will be other than men who have stood fire before."

STORM IN FLORIDA.

The Expected Hurricane Reaches the Atlantic Coast.

A special of Tuesday night from St. Augustine, Fla., says: "Trains south of here are all stopped by a storm, which is increasing in velocity. The sea is a mass of seething breakers and the great waves are rushing over the sea-wall. All crafts have been taken to Sebastian river. Anastasia island is submerged. The steam tug Greenwood, from Eastport, Me., is anchored in the harbor. A driving rain is coming in gusts. All wires south are down.

WIND OF DEATH.

A DISASTROUS CYCLONE SWEEPS ACROSS THREE STATES

Killing Hundreds of People and Devastating Millions in Property.

A fearful cyclone swept across the states of Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota Friday evening, killing over one hundred people, injuring an untold number and destroying a vast amount of property.

At Ellington, Ia., one woman, Mrs. Johnson, was killed outright and Mrs. Boberts was probably fatally injured. At Hayfield, another Iowa town, many houses were carried away and several people were killed and many were wounded. In Bingham township, Hancock county, five people are reported killed.

Spring Valley, Minn., the beautiful and prosperous city, situated amid peace and plenty, was struck by the cyclone at 10:30 o'clock at night, wrecking the north or residential portion of the city. While a large audience was in the opera house witnessing a tragedy, another tragedy was being enacted a short distance away, caused by the storm, which struck the finest portion of the town. Teams were set to work to carry the dead away and remove the injured to the Lewis House, which was converted into a hospital. Physicians were sent for from Wykoff, Racine, Grand Meadow and Austin, who, with the help of the resident doctors, were kept busy all night setting broken legs, arms, sewing up gaping wounds and binding up injured heads.

News from Lowther, Ia., is that three persons were killed and seven injured in the cyclone. The storm seems to have swept through the northern tier of Iowa counties and crossed into Minnesota in the southeastern corner of that state.

At Dodge Center, Minn., Warren Fairbank's warehouse was blown down.

At Cresco, Ia., the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul depot was severely damaged by the wind, and it is feared it will have to be rebuilt. The storm crossed the Mason City line two miles west of Grafton. The wind left a clean pathway behind it, taking everything within its reach.

A Des Moines special says: Four people were killed north of Mason City and two fatally injured. The cyclone destroyed eight farm houses.

At Leroy, Minn., the damage by the cyclone was not fully realized until daylight. All the buildings in the central and eastern part of the town were leveled to the ground and the pretty little village is completely crippled. The hotel and two stores were burned to the ground by fire, which started early in the evening, and which became uncontrollable when the cyclone made its appearance at precisely 10:45 o'clock. The killed are: Henry Findlay, Charles Gilbert, Mrs. Dunton, Joe Nelson.

At Spring Valley, Mich., three people are dead and two fatally injured.

Twenty-six persons are reported killed in Kossuth county, Ia., and thirty-nine injured, some fatally, while the greater part of the town of Cylinder, twenty miles west, was badly damaged by the storm. North of Cylinder the family of Alix Gouldon, four in number, were killed.

Between Burt and Algona, Ia., the following were killed:

Mr. Blackhouse's child, two children of Mr. Sowappas, Mr. Erench's two children, Mrs. George Beaver, Myrtle Beaver George Holman's child, Mr. Dingman, Frank Bicklemeyer.

Five persons were killed by the cyclone which passed five miles north of Osage, Ia. Many others were hurt and will probably die. The dead are as follows: Mrs. Patrick Lonegan, Mrs. Phil S. Herbert, Annie Perry, Harry Herbert, Ruth Herbert.

A special from Elma, Ia., says: The town of Lowther, located five miles north of this city, which was unfortunate enough to be in the path of Friday night's cyclone, is now a mass of bent timbers and splinters. The damage done to Lowther and vicinity will exceed $100,000.

CONVICT FARM SELECTED.

No More Mississippi Prisoners Will be Leased.

A Jackson, Miss., special says: Governor Stone, who is charged by law with certifying that the price agreed upon by the commission for a state prison farm is reasonable, has sent Attorney General Johnston a letter in which he approves the purchase price of the land situated in Rankin county on the A. and V. railroad, six and a half miles southeast of Jackson. This tract is known as the Hunter and Stevens property. It comprises 3,207 acres, for which the commission agreed to pay $6 per acre, amounting to $19,472. It is estimated that this land is half woodland and half cleared. The governor made a personal inspection of all lands offered. The leasing of convicts is forbidden by the new constitution after December, 1894.

SENATOR JONES WILL RESIGN

On Demand of the Republican Committee of Nevada.

Senator Jones, of Nevada, who was asked by the republican state committee of Nevada to resign his seat in the United States senate because he had gone over to the populist party has decided to comply with the request. This decision on his part is given on the authority of his closest political friends.

LATEST DISPATCHES

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

The Scotch coal owners held a meeting at Glasgow Wednesday afternoon and resolved to evict from their houses all miners who do not return to work.

Referee Edward Jacobs filed in the superior court at New York Wednesday morning a report in which he recommends that Kuehne Beveridge Coghlan receive an absolute divorce from Charles F. Coghlan, the actor.

The prohibitionists of North Carolina, in mass meeting recently, decided to make no nominations this year. Yet there was a meeting in Wake county Wednesday and a full ticket was nominated, though only ten delegates were present.

The Connecticutt democratic state convention Wednesday afternoon nominated the following ticket: For governor, Earnest Cady, Hartford; lieutenant-governor, Morris Z. Beardley, Bridgeport; secretary of state, Edward O. Kilduff, Waterbury; treasurer, Stephen O. Bowen, Easton; comptroller, Nicholas Staub, Stamford.

"We favor the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation on earth." This was the voice of the democrats of Nebraska, as embodied in the integral portion of the financial plank of the state platform passed Wednesday night by a vote of 392 to 150.

A state of lawlessness prevails in Randolph county, Alabama, in the community in which Whaley, the government informer, was murdered two weeks ago. Whaley has two brothers who live in the same neighborhood. Almost every night guns are fired around their houses, rocks are thrown into their windows and an attempt was made to burn one of their houses a few nights ago. Several families in the neighborhood have left every night through fear of visitation from this gang of desperadoes.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: A movement is on foot to carry 500 of the most prominent and influential business men of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana, to Washington when congress convenes, for the purpose of lobbying through the Nicaragua canal bill. The proposition is to have the commercial clubs in fifty or sixty of the largest towns in these states send ten delegates each to Birmingham, from which city they propose to go to Washington on a special train.

The democratic congressional committee of the seventh Kansas district met at Great Bend Wednesday and endorsed Congressman Jerry Simpson for re-election. The democrats at Wichita say that the committee had no authority to do this and that the Australian ballot law in vogue in Kansas would forbid it, so that, as there is a large element of democracy opposed to any endorsement of populism, it is probable that an injunction will be asked, prohibiting the placing of Simpson's name on the ticket as a democratic nominee.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

According to Bradstreet's Report For the Past Week.

In their report of the state of trade for the past week, Bradstreet's says:

"The condition of general trade this week is an improvement over one week ago, in that favorable features reported then have been maintained. The surprisingly good reports of business south, and, with some exceptions, west, are indicated by our special advices from Baltimore, Nashville, Chicago, St. Louis, Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. Baltimore jobbers in all leading lines report the volume of merchandise distributed in excess of expectation, and especially dry goods in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama, except in the fruit and coal regions. Other southern products being in good supply, orders continue liberal and mercantile collections are easy. Nashville, while reporting no improvement over favorable features made last week, notes their continuance and that collections are prompt.

"One sale is reported of 10,000 tons of southern pig iron this week. Activity reported in almost all lines at Chicago a week ago, is continued, merchants being satisfied with the volume. Far western buyers who used to buy in eastern markets are purchasing stocks at Chicago.

"Greatest activity is shown in dry goods, clothing, millinery and shoes. Wool is active. St. Louis manufacturers and jobbers of clothing and hats reported business heavier than in their preceding experience in like products. Sales of millinery and dry goods are large, as well as those of lumber.

"Charleston telegraphs that general trade is fair, without new features; Chattanooga, that there has been some slight improvement in business; Memphis, that business is quite active, especially in dry goods and groceries; Atlanta, that collections are freer and trade is improving; Savannah, that the volume of business continues to improve and that extraordinary heavy dealings in spirits of turpentine have taken place. Dry goods jobbers at Augusta have been doing a larger business than for sometime previous, while at Jacksonville local trade has been cut into by heavy rains. Only a fair volume of business is reported from Birmingham, and at New Orleans there has been very little change. Galveston reports that sales of dry goods will continue smaller until the middle of October, when new orders will be received. Texas cotton is beginning to move, which helps business collections."

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is preparing a gigantic coup that will draw Washington and New York nearer together by forty minutes. This is the new $3,000,000 tunnel under the City of Baltimore, by which the transportation of cars across the river at Baltimore will be obviated.

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

CROAKERS MAKE WILLIAM EXCEEDINGLY WEARY.

He Says Better Times and Brighter Prospects are Dawning.

Now is a good time to look on the bright side and be thankful. The old people who have memories of the war can't help being thankful when they recall the trials and tribulations of that awful time and the reconstruction trouble that followed in its wake. There was poverty, desolation and depression, while now there is peace and plenty and political freedom. For two or three years we have been passing through that reaction that always follows a boom—an inflation. Just so depression always follows a big drunk or a protracted spree, and the victim has to take medicine and suffer from stagnation of blood and brain. But the nation is now recovering and it is a good time to look up and get a glimpse of the bright side. Confidence is fast being restored, and soon the long hidden money will come forth and go to work. Of course, there is something in the tariff and something in silver legislation, but all this time there has been just as much money in the nation as there was five years ago. It has been hidden and kept dormant from lack of confidence. That was good medicine. It put a stop to the unnatural boom that built great houses and put nothing in them. It forced economy and made the people pay their debts. This silver business about which our greatest statesmen differ had but little to do with it, and if right now the ratio was suddenly fixed at 16 to 1, or any other ratio, the common people wouldn't know the difference for months to come. Does any one suppose that it would raise or lower the price of cotton—a price that has been fixed by England for half a century, and fixed according to the law of supply and demand? If the farmers make more cotton than the world needs they must take the consequences. There are more consumers than producers and cheap goods are a comfort to them. I would rather be a farmer and make cotton at 5 cents a pound than be a poor factory girl or a hireling of any kind. There is no privilege so precious as freedom—time to come and go at your own pleasure; time to rest if you are tired; time to lie down if you are sick; time to visit a sick neighbor, or go to church or camp meeting, or even to the circus or a hanging. All this the farmer has, but the pale-faced factory slave does not, and many of them feel like singing:

"Oh, but to breathe the breath
Of the cowslip and primrose sweet,
With the sky above my head
And the grass beneath my feet."

The discontent and ingratitude of these political farmers is a sin against heaven. Shrewd and unprincipled ambitious politicians sowed the seed of discontent among them, and from the stump and in their newspapers are everlastingly preaching the riches of Vanderbilt and the Goulds and Astors instead of the blessings of a peaceful home among the hills or in the villages where the sun shines and the rain falls and there is nothing between them and a kind providence except their own discontent. I don't wish to envy anybody, but I would today rather be an humble farmer with a little farm well tilled and a little wife well willed and half a dozen healthy children to love me and make me glad, and some roosters to crow and hens to cackle and cows and colts and pigs and sheep and a good garden and orchard and some good nabors not far away, than to be Vanderbilt or Grover Cleveland; but most of these populists want Vanderbilt's money without his troubles. We all look over the fence too much to see what our neighbor has got. Envy and selfishness are at the bottom of our politics, and a good deal of it is mixed up with politics and religion.

"What fools these mortals be" about politics. A populist leader said the other day that a "monument ought to be built to Grover Cleveland's infamy as high as the stars." What kind of talk is that from an intelligent American citizen? With these bitter partisans it is all love or all hate. They idolize a man or they denounce him. Mr. Cleveland is our president, and while he is nothing but a man with like failings to ours I've, he deserves the respect of the nation. The democratic press denounced Mr. Harrison the same way. There is too much abuse and too much idolatry. It is amusing to see the gyrations of these professional politicians. Here we at the south have been congratulating ourselves that the secretary of the interior has already cut down the pensions $20,000,000 by searching out frauds and perjuries in that department. That is what our papers said, and we cried hurrah for our noble secretary. But the Grand Army at Pittsburg got hold of it and denounced him for doing it, and it was hurting the northern democracy and the New York World sent a man down to Washington to see what the secretary was doing to the union soldier and make a report from an interview with Deputy Commissioner Bell, who is the chief officer under Lochren. And Bell declares that not a dollar has been saved from frauds and perjuries any more than was saved under Raum, and that the $20,000,000 was simply the surplus of the appropriation and arose from a natural decrease of arrearages. The big headlines are "No Decrease in Pensions," and there are now 969,000 pensioners on the rolls. Merciful heavens! The war has been over thirty years and a whole generation of people has died, and yet there are nearly a million left to draw pensions. I wonder how many of them our little handful of confederates did kill and cripple?

But what is the use of chiming in a thing down here and having to deny it up yonder? The truth is that the average press reporter loses sight and his situation, too, if he fails to get up a sensation every now and then, and the people never know how much or how little to believe.

Commissioner Bell says, also, that the secretary had nothing to do with it; nohow, and that Judge Lochren conducts the bureau to suit himself.

But still there is light dawning out of the darkness. This army of pensioners is obliged to die off in a few years and the south is fast forging ahead, and before the close of the century will be running the national machine. The democratic party lacks a great deal of being pure and incorruptible, but a southern patriot can't go anywhere else for hope or consolation. The stealage and corruption under Grant's administration is still a foul stench in the nostrils of the American people, and the absurd theories of the populists are too ridiculous to excite even serious contemplation. The body politic has to have a little amusement now and then. The body corporate breaks out in sores occasionally and some scratching has to be done, but the doctors say we are better off for it, because they are only skin deep and prevent internal inflammation. We have had a right smart commotion within our ranks of late, but it is passing away and we will bury the populists this fall and that will be the end of subtreasury and pumpkin beans and buying the railroads with $5,000,000,000 in 2 per cent bonds. It will be the end of fooling the negro with broken promises for his vote. The negro is on probation, and he had better go slow and sure. Governor O'Ferrall, of Virginia, gave him good advice, and he had better heed it. The southern people are long-suffering and charitable to this race, but the negro preachers and teachers had better talk more about outrages and less about lynchings. That late outrage in Tennessee has sunk deep into the hearts of our people, and the question is, "Who next?" Whose child is to be the next victim. A few more outrages will remove every colored teacher and silence every colored preacher in this sovereign state.—BILL ARP, in Atlanta Constitution.

THEIR SENATORS DENOUNCED

And Declared to Be Unfit to Represent the Democracy.

The democrats of Carroll county, Maryland, met in convention at Westminster Monday and elected delegates to the congressional convention. Resolutions were unanimously adopted endorsing President Cleveland, demanding a tariff for revenue only, declaring that Senators Gorman and Gibson are unfit to represent the democracy of Maryland, and asking for the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people.

Where Man Came From.

According to a correspondent of the St. Louis Republic, man originally came to earth from Mars, riding on the tail of a comet. At least he gives that as the opinion of Mr. Wiggins, the St. Louis weather prophet and all-around scientist. The professor has discovered that Newton's idea about the law of gravitation is way off; in fact, there is no such thing. He says that electricity is the great thing in the universe now, and that all the motions of the planetry bodies are controlled by that. It is well known that when two bodies are similarly electrified, they tend to fly apart, and when they are oppositely electrified, they tend to come together. The professor seems to think that at some long past period some comet approached the planet Mars, and becoming similarly electrified, started on toward the earth. A Marsian, and his wife, too, perhaps, happened to be close by, concluded to take a little excursion, and jumping aboard were soon landed safely on the earth, which they liked so well they concluded to colonize it.

Then I suggested that I be allowed to take china-painting lessons like all the other girls. He wouldn't have it. The same way with everything else. Papa said he was determined that one of his daughters should learn to be a housekeeper and not be filled up with useless accomplishments. That's what he called them. And the consequence is that not a girl I know is a better housekeeper than I am. I can cook things that papa says are better than he gets in any restaurant in the city, but I don't know how to play a single tune on the"—

"My dear—Annie—er—beg pardon, Miss Poodick!" cried Mr. Borrowcliff, interrupting her. "I can control myself no longer. I love you to distraction. Will you marry me?"

"Yes, Arthur," replied Annie coyly, as she nestled her curly yellow head on the young man's white vest.—Judge.

A Mute Regains Speech After Two Years

After being mute for two years, the little seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Brock, of Vineland, N. J., through seeing the blood flowing from a cut on one of her fingers, suddenly regained her speech. The case is a remarkable one and has excited the interest of physicians and of those who are acquainted with the circumstances of her affliction and most remarkable recovery. Two years ago the little girl, who was then five years of age, suddenly lost her power of speech. She was eating an apple at the time and in some manner dislocated one of her teeth. She ran into the house and threw herself on the lounge with blood flowing from her mouth. She refused to answer any questions and the inquiries of her astonished parents only elicited sobs and moans.

The next day the child was still mute and also refused to partake of any food. Her parents became alarmed and physicians were called in. They were unable to diagnose the strange malady, and the child grew worse. Medical skill was of no avail, and she grew weak and emaciated. After several weeks the child died, apparently, and the doctors pronounced her dead and left. The little form was covered with a shroud, and prepations for the funeral begun when signs of life were discovered in the seeming corpse.

The girl sat up and with her fingers made signs indicative of her desire for food. From that moment she began to mend, slowly, and in the course of a year regained her former good health and spirits. She was still, however, as silent as a sphinx. Nothing could induce her to utter a word, and she continued in this condition until a short time ago. She accidentally cut her finger while playing one day, and the red blood flowed from the wound. Either the sight or the smell of the fluid seemed to have a strange effect upon the child, and that day marked the turning point in the history of the case. During that same night, while in bed, she startled her sister by speaking her name distinctly. She also uttered several other words distinctly. Since then she has been improving daily, and now can articulate quite plainly.—Trenton (N. J.) American.

Beware of Fresh Olives.

Eastern visitors in California are always much interested in the olive plantations which in recent years have become a feature of the most southerly counties of the State. The lovers of the succulent fruit when pickled and bottled for sale in the East and North are always anxious to taste the olive fresh and ripe. There is a popular impression that it is sweet and delicious, but, like many other popular impressions, this is a delusion and a snare. A few miles south of San Diego, where the railroad makes a junction with a small one track road leading into Mexico, a large planter has taken advantage of this delusion for his own amusement. On the arrival of each train from the North numerous travelers dismount to await the starting of the train across the Mexican border. For their benefit the planter has nailed a box outside of his fence just across the way from the railroad station which he keeps filled with nice, ripe olives. A placard invites victims in these words:

FINE, FRESH, RIPE OLIVES, FREE.
HELP YOURSELF.

Of course there is a rush from the station as soon as the box and it contents are discovered, and swarms of innocents seize the pretty fruit and dig their teeth into it. Then there is a combined howl and a great deal of expectoration and disgust, for the delusive fruit are nearly as puckery as persimmons.

And the planter? Oh, he takes his fun, from a partly hidden summer house within his grounds, where he occasionally seats himself to enjoy the spectacle. It is a sure cure for the blues, he says.—New York Herald.

Favorite Trysting Place Gone.

The peculiar shaped rock which stood on the West Point parade grounds near Fort Clinton was blown into a thousand fragments the other day. Workmen have been engaged during the past week drilling holes in the old landmark. The rock had been a trysting place, and furnished shelter for the cadets since the founding of the academy. Several years ago a proposition was made to blow it up, but General Sherman indignantly protested against its destruction. The limited space for military manœuvres has made its removal imperative. A legend exists that when the first Christian missionaries came among the Indian tribes in the Highlands this rock was their pulpit.—New York Times.

FLORIDA ELECTION.

A RED-HOT BATTLE OF BALLOTS THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Spirited Contests Will be the Order of the Day.

A Jacksonville dispatch says: Every officer elected in Duval at Tuesday's election will have a contest on his hands, for the Fletcher people propose to fight every inch of ground gained by their opponents. An attempt will be made to count the vote in the third ward, where the polls were open only a part of the day and where the majority is said to be 6 for Hartridge. But the state law distinctly says that all polling places shall be open continuously from 6 o'clock a. m. until sundown. So the returning board will be forced to throw out any returns from the wards which were closed during any portion of the day.

SHERIFF BROWARD SUSPENDED.

Governor Mitchell has suspended Sheriff Broward from office, presumably because he appointed deputy sheriffs to guard the polls and watch the vote. But the law is very explicit in its language about the compulsory presence of at least one deputy at the polls during the voting. Heretofore, however, these officers have acted as peace officers, outside the booths. The question turns on the meaning of the word "at," and in this connection it is noted that the language of the law with reference to the inspectors is that they shall be "at" the polls. Of course it was never contemplated that they should stay outside. The governor has appointed Hon. E. J. Triay sheriff ad interim. Triay is now state inspector of illuminating oils.

AN ANTI-CALL LEGISLATURE.

Returns received from Lake, Nassau and Volusia counties, where there are also splits in the democratic party, indicate that the anti-commission, anti-Call wing of the party has been victorious in all three, but later information may change this result as announced from Lake county. It is very certain, however, that no railroad commission law will be passed by the legislature which was elected.

Early in the morning, in consequence of fraud having been threatened by the faction holding the inspector appointing power, three deputy sheriffs walked into each polling place and signified their intention of remaining. The inspectors all over the city thereupon closed the voting booths, awaiting instructions from the leaders. A compromise was effected in several of the outlying wards in a short time, and voting was resumed, but in the fourth, fifth and sixth wards, three of the most populous wards of the city, not a vote was cast, owing to a failure to agree upon any arrangement. In consequence of this tangle out of a qualified vote of 5,000 in Duval county only a small proportion was polled.

Governor Mitchell ordered Adjutant General Houston to Jacksonville, and all day the state troops were held under arms at their quarters, but were not needed, as not a drop of bloodshed was due to the political struggle. The main issues of the factional fight were a railroad commission and the alleged attempt of railroad corporations to capture the next legislature, and nowhere is the bitterness so developed as in Duval county. Throughout the state Liddon, for supreme court justice, has met with practically no opposition. The populist cast a very small vote for their ticket.

ANTI-CALL MEN ELECTED.

A Pensacola special says: Three state senators were elected to fill unexpired terms. Sixteen senators were elected who will hold over, and have a voice as to Call's successor in 1897. Special interest centers in the effort to defeat the regular nominees in five districts who are known to be aggressively opposed to Call, to-wit: W. D. Chipley, of Escambia; John E. Hartridge, of Duval; Charles Dougherty, of Volusia; W. U. Thompson, of Nassau, and Frank Adams, of Hamilton. Senator Call openly urged opposition to the regular nominees in these districts and the feeling has never been higher in Florida than in this contest. W. D. Chipley, in this district, has been elected by an estimated vote of nearly 4 to 1, having seventeen out of twenty precincts.

PRIVILEGED TO QUIT,

But Must Not Combine to Influence or Injure Others.

In a long decision read by Justice Harlan and prepared by him, the United States circuit court of appeals at Chicago reversed, in part, the famous decision of Judge Jenkins in the case of P. M. Arthur and others, against the Northern Pacific railroad, in which Judge Jenkins decided that men had no right to combine for a strike under certain conditions, chief among which was when there was intent to injure the property or business of the road. Although the case is reversed in part and the cause remanded with directions to strike out certain portions of Judge Jenkins' opinion, the effect of the decision is to prevent all strikes unless they be absolutely peaceable. The order, while prepared by Justice Harlan, was also participated in by Judges Woods and Bunn.

The County $60,000 in Debt.

The October county court, which convened at Chattanooga Monday morning with the recently elected Judge Walker, republican, in the chair, will make a desperate effort to drag Hamilton county out of the deep well of debt into which it has fallen, by borrowing $60,000, the present amount of the county's indebtedness.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week shows that the heavy storm which passed over the coast portions of several of the southern states during the week was quite destructive to the orange crop in Florida, now nearly ready for the market, and injured the Georgia and South Carolina rice crop about 10 per cent. The Birmingham iron market continues active. Southern iron is growing in popularity and is commanding a premium for many uses as it becomes more widely known. Cotton growers are holding back cotton seed for higher prices, and millmen say they cannot advance on their present offers. General business does not improve so rapidly as was expected during August and the first part of September, but it is in fair condition and collections are good.

Thirty-three new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with four enlargements of manufactories, and sixteen important new buildings. Prominent among the new industries of the week are the Tuckasegee Lumber Company, capital $600,000, organized in New York to operate mills near Asheville, N. C.; the rebuilding of the Cherokee cotton mills, near Blacksburg, S. C., at a cost of $90,000, and the Glenn Springs Co., capital $60,000, of Glenn Springs, S. C. Boiler and sheet iron works on a large scale are to be established in New Orleans, La., a tobacco factory employing 350 men in Greensboro, N. C., and a rope and twine factory at Roswell, Ga. A $22,000 cotton compress will be built at Meridian, Miss., a $30,000 mill building and electrical company has been organized at Fort Worth, Texas, and brass works to cost $60,000 are to be built at Staunton, Va. Wire works capitalized at $20,000 are reported at Port Valley, Ga., and a $10,000 flouring mill at Quitman, Ark.

There is also reported brass works at Buchanan, Va., a barrel factory at Norfolk, Va.; two cotton compresses at Houston, Texas, and flour and grist mills at Middlesborough, Ky., Oakland, La., Gibsonville, N. C., Mossy Creek, Tenn., Grapeland, Dallas, San Antonio, Temple and Waco, Texas. A foundry and machine shop will be built at Asheville, N. C., and woodworking plants at Athens, Ga., Shreveport, La., and Jumping Branch, W. Va.

Water works are to be built at Emberton, Ga., Bookdale and Sulphur Springs, Texas, and Bayard, W. Va. The improvements include a furniture factory at Huntsville, Ala.; wagon works at Raleigh, N. C.; a compress at Winona, Miss., and spoke works at Bellington, W. Va. Among the new buildings of the week are business houses at Knoxville, Tenn., Madisonville, Tex., and Chilhowie, Va.; a hotel at Pensacola, Fla.; a depot at Harodsburg, Ky.; a $35,000 college building at Knoxville, Tenn.; an $8,000 school building at Lincolnton, Ga., and warehouses at Winston, N. C., and South Pittsburg, Tenn.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

SPLIT OVER FUSION.

Nebraska Democrats Agree to Disagree and are Badly Mixed.

A special from Omaha says: The Nebraska state democratic convention, after a turbulent session, split at midnight over the fusion. When Judge Holcomb, the populist candidate, was named for governor, the administration men bolted. The bolters numbered 104, and they at once organized into a reparate convention and began the work of selecting a straight democratic ticket.

The following state ticket was nominated by the bolters, including the delegates of six counties: For governor, P. D. Sturdevant; lieutenant governor, R. E. Dunphy, secretary of state, D. T. Rolf; auditor, Otto Bauman; treasurer, Luke Dridenthal; attorney general, John H. Ames; commissioner of public lands and public buildings, Jacob Bigler; superintendent of public instruction, Milton Doolittle. The bolters' convention then adjourned after adopting the same platform with the exception of the silver plank. Before the split the convention unanimously endorsed William Jennings Bryan for the senate.

THE REGULAR TICKET.

The following nominations were made by the state democratic convention after midnight: For governor, Silas A. Holcomb, the populist candidate, was nomited by a large majority on the first ballot. The balance of the ticket is: Lieutenant governor, J. N. Griffin; secretary of state, F. J. Ellick; treasurer, G. A. Linkhardt; auditor, H. J. Dahlman; superintendent of public instruction, W. A. Jones; commissioner of grounds and buildings, S. J. Kent. With the exception of Linkhardt and Dahlman the nominees are the ones put up by the populists. The platform adopted declares for "the free and unlimed coinage of gold and silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation on earth."

GERMAN OFFICERS MUTINY.

A Hundred and Eighty of Them Placed Under Arrest.

A cable dispatch from Berlin says: The arrest of a large number of non-commissioned officers on Saturday evening at the Moabit barracks by a detachment of the Fourth regiment of foot guards, is attracting much attention.

In all, about 180 non-commissioned officers and others belonging to the chief gunnery school, were placed under arrest, and were escorted with fixed bayonets to the Potsdam railroad station, and from there they were taken to the Madgeburg fortress.

The affair, however, was more in the nature of a students' outbreak than of revolt against superior officers. Only the elder men and some eighty non-commissioned officers are concerned in the present proceeding, and it is probable that the inquiry of the military authorities into the affair will prove that a large number of innocent men were arrested.

KILLED WIFE AND CHILDREN.

A Dastardly Crime Committed by a Georgian in Mexico.

A dispatch from Victoria, Mexico, says: An American family, consisting of husband and wife and their three children, from Georgia, took up their residence on a plantation about forty miles from this city. The man's name was Frank Holman. Word has been received that, while crazy from the effects of Mexican intoxicants, he killed his wife and two children. After committing the deed he made his escape from this section. The crime was witnessed by the younger child, who reported it to the authorities. Holman is said to have left Georgia on account of some crime he committed there.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

An international question involving the United States and Germany has been raised by that feature of the new tariff law which inspired the most domestic trouble—the sugar schedule. The German government, through its ambassador, Baron von Learms Jeltzeli, has made a strong protest to the secretary of state against that clause of the act which imposes an additional duty of one-tenth of a cent per pound on sugars imported from those governments which pay an export bounty on the article to their producers.

Notification has been given to this government in an informal way of the ratification by the chinese government of the new treaty between the United States and China, which was negotiated by Secretary Gresham and the Chinese minister, Yang Yu, and ratified by the senate on the part of the United States. Only for the formal exchange of ratifications between the department of state and the minister is to be transacted to make the treaty the law governing the relations of the two powers, and this ceremony will doubtless take place within the month.

The grand jury of the District of Columbia have returned indictments against Henry O. Havemeyer and John E. Searles, of the sugar trust, and Allen L. Seymour, of the stock brokerage firm of Seymour & Young, for refusing to answer questions put to them by the senate sugar trust investigating committee. The grand jury also brought in an indictment against Mr. MacCartney, of the firm of Carson & MacCartney; this last, however, merely being to perfect a previous report. All of the cases will come up for argument on demurrers on October 12th.

Southern War Claims.

Deputy Comptroller Mansur, of the treasury department, has just rendered a decision of especial interest in the south. It relates to the claims of churches, school buildings and the owners of structures of that character for their use by the federal troops as quarters and barracks during the war. There are, as is well known, a large number of claims pending before congress and in the departments for payment for the use of buildings of this character, which were used by the federal authorities during the war, sometimes for storage purposes, sometimes as quarters for troops. These claims had been rejected by certain officers of the treasury, but Comptroller Mansur has rendered a decision in regard to buildings in certain of the border states, authorizing payment for their use. This decision relates more especially to buildings in Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri, but it is hoped that it may open the way to a recognition of the claims from states further south, many of which have been pending in congress for years, without favorable action.

The Debt Statement.

The debt statement issued Monday afternoon shows a net increase in the public debt less cash in the treasury during September of $8,512,700. The interest bearing debt increased $140, the non-interest bearing debt increased $824,181 and the cash in the treasury decreased $7,220,337. The balances of the several classes of debt at the close of business September 29th were: Interest bearing debt, $635,042,810; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,330,030; debt bearing no interest, $380,094,496. Total, $3,017,566,336. The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash (in the treasury) outstanding at the end of the month were $612,436,470, a decrease of $2,914,102. The total cash in the treasury was $774,185,928. The gold reserve was $58,875,317. Net cash balance $61,044,402. In the month there was an increase in gold and bars of $2,779,887. The total at the close being $123,665,756. Of silver there was a decrease of $3,852,977. Of the surplus there was in national bank depositories $16,865,598, against $17,330,879 at the end of the previous month.

AN INDEPENDENT STATE TICKET

New York Will Have Two Democratic Tickets Out.

The Brooklyn Eagle makes the following announcement:

"There will be an independent democratic state ticket in the field. It is not only probable, but it is virtually certain that it will be headed by the name of Charles S. Fairchild, formerly attorney general of the state of New York, and more lately the secretary of the treasury in President Cleveland's first administration.

"Nominations for lieutenant governor and judge of the court of appeals will also be made. The whole ticket will comprise, in the words of one who is active in the work, 'men of commanding ability, of exalted character, of devoted democracy and unquestionable hostility of corruption, to slavery, to political degradation, to the brutality of machinism, to the brainlessness of bossism and to the sale of law.'"

The Tax War Averted.

The threatened railroad tax war at Sturgis, Ky., has been averted. Collector Blackwell now declares that he will come with only his son, Gip, as a companion. A legal effort will be made to stop him on his first attempt to collect the taxes.

TRADE TOPICS.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's report of business for the past week says: "The feature of general trade throughout the country is found in moderate reactions within the week, more particularly in the volume of purchases of staples in the west, where trade has been quite active, and at eastern points; in the course of prices the week failing to show any upward movement of note in this line and in the check the business south, together with damage to the rice and orange crops.

Less satisfactory reports come from some of the more important distributing points south, owing to the effect of the storm. Augusta reports the outlook not so bright, and refers to the low price of cotton and its effect upon the purchasing power of producers. General business has been unsettled, also at Savannah and at Jacksonville, and rice and orange crops have suffered. There has been no material gain in business at New Orleans, importation of fruits and receipts of bulk grain being light. There has been a fair business in hardware at Chattanooga, but other lines report less activity. Nashville says iron pipe mills are unable to keep up with orders, but pig iron in that market is quieter. Business is practically unchanged at Charleston, Memphis and Birmingham."

MAY ATTACK PEKING.

Japs Favor Forcing the War With China.

Advices from Yokohama, Japan, state that the general public is now in favor of continuing the war against the Chinese in defiance of all obstacles and it urged that a desperate attack upon Peking be made. All party feeling for the time will be suspended and the diet will readily vote whatever credits are needed. Reinforcements are continually going forward, but nothing is known in regard to their destination.

LI TO TAKE THE FIELD.

Dispatches from Shanghai state that the emperor has granted Li Hung Chang's request to be allowed to take the field in person, and that Li Hung Chang will make his headquarters at Lau-Tai, near Kai-Ping, the present headquarters of the provincial commander-in-chief of Chih-Li. It is also reported that the Chinese troops have evacuated Corea, and are now massed at Chiu-lang-Ching, thirty miles westward of the Yalu river.

EXPRESS ROBBERS ON TRIAL.

Hardin Charged with Stealing a Cool $35,000.

The criminal court of Davidson county, Tenn., in session at Nashville took up the case of Charles A. Hardin, Charlton Elrod, Charles Taylor and James Morris, known as the Adams express robbery case Monday morning. These men are charged with fraudulent breach of trust and embezzlement, Hardin being indicted as the principal, and the others as accessories.

In November, 1892, two packages received at Galveston from New York were found to contain only brown paper. One had contained $25,000 and the other $10,000. Hardin is charged with abstracting the money and substituting the brown paper.

The other defendants are charged with being accessories and shared in the proceeds.

FIVE FOUND DEAD.

Fatal Wreck of a Freight Train in Illinois.

At 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning a freight train bound for Chicago was wrecked on the Chicago and Northwestern railway at Grover's crossing. When the wrecking crew reached the spot the voice of a man was heard calling for help. His head protruded from beneath the debris. A car was loaded with green planks and it was removed as rapidly as possible, the result being the discovery of five dead bodies, one man badly injured and a boy seriously bruised and shaken up.

CYCLONE IN LITTLE ROCK.

Whole Blocks Demolished and a Number of People Killed.

A terrible cyclone struck Little Rock, Ark., at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night and devastated the business portion of the city. Several people are known to have been killed and injured. The main portion of the business center, bounded on the south by Third street, on the north by the river front, on the west by Center street, is practically ruined and the damage incalculable. The total property loss will probably approximate a half million dollars.

A Rich Find.

A special from Calverts, Ala., states that a few days ago, while E. B. Shepard, who lives near that place, was having a fence placed around his orchard, a negro named Lewis Johnston, in digging a posthole, struck a box which, on being opened, was found to contain $1,100 in ten and twenty-dollar gold pieces.

A County Treasurer Indicted.

The grand jury in session at Dallas, Texas, found indictments against County Treasurer William Cole and County Commissioner McAdams, Orr and Fisher, charging them with embezzlement of funds from the county treasury. The shortage is not definitely known, but it is said to be about $12,000.

Heavy Damages in Cuba.

The terrific storm which raged throughout the island of Cuba from early in the evening of September 28 until the following night, destroyed forty-seven houses in Santa Cruz del Sur. The pier there was also swept

SOUTHERN SPECIALS.

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

A Raleigh, N. C., special says: The telegraph line between Wilmington and Southport, lately sold by the government and bought by Senator Ransom, has been purchased from him by J. T. Harper, of Southport, and will be operated.

The property of the Oyster Canning and Cultivating Company, at Brunswick, Ga., including oyster farms, steamboats, shells, plant and machinery, were sold Tuesday by Sheriff Berrie, and were bid in by John C. Lehman and F. D. Aiken for $10,200. The property cost more than $25,000.

Charging the grand jury in the United States court at Chattanooga, Monday morning, Judge Key stated that any man who purchased a registration certificate or prevented a voter from registering for the coming election could be indicted in the United States courts. The charge created a sensation.

One of Chattanooga's largest industries may be removed to St. Louis. It is the Chattanooga Plow Company, which does an immense business in South America and keeps a force of 300 hands at work the year round. Negotiations are now pending between St. Louis parties and Newell Sanders, president of the company, for the removal of the plant to East St. Louis.

A Nashville, Tenn., special says: An investigation, instigated by Comptroller Harris, has resulted in the Davidson county grand jury returning 108 indictments for tippling without license. The list of indictments includes people in every walk of life from the high class hotel and restaurant to the lowest dives and bawdy houses. Some of those indicted pay their license, but had allowed them to lapse and failed to renew. It is understood that a thorough investigation is to be made, and that indictments against people in other lines of business may follow at once.

It is rumored that the Jekyl Island Club has been offered $1,000,000 for the clubhouse and island, near Brunswick, Ga., by Phil D. Armour, the Chicago meat packer. John E. duBignon, of Brunswick, a member of the club, said in regard to the matter: "There is a standing offer of $1,000,000 for the island and improvements. The matter of the sale has been discussed by the club, but no definite decision has been made. The Jekyl Island Club is a regularly chartered corporation under the laws of the state of Georgia, and as such all the stockholders will have to vote on the question of sale.

Captain George W. Goethals, engineer in charge of the Tennessee river improvements, has been transferred from Florence to Washington. The office at Florence, which has been under Captain Goethal's charge, will be transferred to Nashville under the supervision of Captain John Biddle. The removal of the government office has caused a vigorous protest to be sent to Congressman Wheeler by the business league of Florence. General Wheeler has been telegraphed and urged to use his influence immediately against the removal of the office, as it is believed that the removal will be against the best interests of the Tennessee valley.

The penitentiary commissioners of Tennessee Tuesday afternoon opened bids for the construction of the new penitentiary as follows: Joe P. Fulcher & Co., Nashville, $951,659.29; W. G. Bush & Co., Nashville, $953,639.76; H. T. Sinnott & Co., Nashville, $1,101,000; Angus Campbell & Co., Joliet, Ill., $1,122,353; Miles & Bradt, Atlanta, Ga., $1,150,383; James Duvault & Co., Columbus, O., $1,360,088. Only $800,000 was appropriated by the legislature, and $155,000 has already been spent for land and $40,000 is to be used for a stockade.

Seven People Drowned.

Seven people were drowned at Chaska, Minn., Saturday. Louis Scharf and family, who had attended a fair, starting home at 7 o'clock. Scharf was intoxicated and whipped his horses and furiously dashed down the river bank over the ferry and into the river. His wife, five children and Miss Mary Ruskin, Mrs. Scharf's sister, were drowned, as were the two horses. Scharf clung to the wagon box and was rescued.

Owens and Denny.

A Lexington, Ky., special says: Judge Denny, the republican nominee for congress, is out in a letter to W. C. Owens asking him to meet him in joint debate. Mr. Owens replied that he would meet the judge, and, beginning next week, the Ashland district will have another red-hot campaign. This time it will be between a republican and a democrat.

How Connecticut Towns Went.

Returns from 124 of the Connecticut towns that held elections on Monday show that eighty-two went republican, twenty-five democratic and three divided. Last year the same towns stood seventy-two republican, thirty-eight democratic and one divided.

About four miles outside the City of Mexico, a large hairy spider was discovered, which had on one of its legs a gold ring with the initials Q. T. to J. J. The ring would fit the finger of a two-months-old child. The ring appeared to restore the spider's encumbrance considerably.

CHILTON VIEW.

WM. W. HARE, Ed. & Pub

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

CLANTON ALA. OCT. 11th 1894

COULDN'T STAND IT

Mr. Leo F. Greer the recent populist candidate for representative and who presided over the recent populist convention in Calera, which indorsed W. F. Aldrich, the republican, for congress; handed the Hot Blast for publication the following manly letter, which is self-explanatory.

He was a member of Albrid's congressional campaign committee, but forwarded his resignation. The letter was dated Oct. 1st and addressed to his friends and supporters.

The gist of the letter is this: For months it has been charged that the Jeffersonians and Populists would land in the Republican camps as has promptly denied by said people. Now those charges are proven true by the combination of the three parties to strike down the white man's party in Alabama and to install into office a party that has been a stigma and [illegible] in all southern climes for [illegible] years. In the past his actions had been from Pure Motives, but he will not further follow the voice of a stranger. He cannot and will not support Aldrich. He refuses to allow himself bartered off to the Republicans. He is not willing in after years for his children to know that he deserted the southern banner and forgot under the banner of northern Republicans. I'e can go with the people, but not into Republicanism.

Dr. Gross, the leader in Alabama of the Farmers Alliance repudiates the moving of the Populist into the radical camps and will have nothing to do with Aldrich. The Athens Democrat which has warmly supported Kolb now repudiates him and the Republicans and supports true Democracy. Evenger Manning, the founder of Populism in Alabama repudiates the contract and will not follow nor lead the white men of Alabama into the Republican party. So it is going all over Alabama. Men honestly in favor of reform will not desert Democracy and go over to the enemies of our section.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of, said land viz: William Caton, of Strasburg, Ala., William Scott, of Strasburg, Ala., Jacob Hayes, of Strasburg, Ala., Dennis Singletary, of Jenkins, Ala.

H. Price, Register.

A WORD TO SCHOOL OFFICERS

Many School Boards compelled to employ incompetent teachers simply because they do not know of any one more competent.

The State Normal College at Troy has several scores of graduates now teaching, and there are many scores more on the road to graduation, who must stop to teach a term, or session even, to secure money to pursue a course to Completion.

Besides there are several scores of experience and successful teachers now taking a Professional course in the Peabody Summer School of Pedagogy Associated with this College, and continuing their teaching at the same time.

Already the calls for teachers come in faster, sometimes, than we can send them out but we will gladly aid Boards, or officers to secure suitable teachers, where this is possible. This is not done by us to make money by furnishing positions, but our only motive, or purpose is to prepare and send out well trained teachers as we are now doing. In many sections where Normal School graduates have been tried they will have no other.

The teacher educated to be a teacher like the physician educated to be a physician, is better ready than the self-constituted empiricat who reigns—no stays in so Many school houses.

So we say to school officers generally we will help you all we can, if you will describe your school, tell us the kind of teacher you want, and salary paid, and enclose a postage stamp for reply.

With no other expense than our time, we will gladly serve you in securing a good teacher and building a good school.

Yours for the children,
P. R. Eldridge,
Pres. State Normal College, Troy Ala.

WILL YOU HELP?

In the great contest which is to be fought between now and the next presidential election for

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY—The Coinage of both Gold and Silver, without discrimination, which means the free coinage of both as opposed to the policy of contraction, which is being dictated by England, and which levies tribute on every product of the farm, on valuations of all kinds and on all compensation for labor.

The Great Issue now is the double standard against the single standard—the use of both gold and silver as standard money metals, against the organized effort to hold the currency of the country strictly to the gold basis.

THE ATLANTA CIRCULATION, 156,000.

WEEKLY CONSTITUTION

published at ATLANTA, GA., and having

A CIRCULATION OF MORE THAN 156,000, chiefly among the farmers of the country, and going to more homes than any weekly newspaper published on the face of the earth is

The Leading Champion of the People in this as well as in other great contests in which they are engaged against the exactions of monopoly.

By special arrangement with The Constitution the paper publishing this announcement is prepared to make

THE CONSTITUTION is among the few great newspapers publishing daily editions on the side of the people against European Domination of our money system, and it heartily advocates:

1st. The Free Coinage of Silver,
Believing that the establishment of a single gold standard will wreck the prosperity of the great masses of the people, though it may profit the few who have already grown rich by federal protection and federal subsidy.

2d. Tariff Reform,
Believing that by throwing our ports open to the markets of the world and levying only enough import duties to pay the actual expenses of the government, the people will be better served than by making them pay double prices for protection's sake.

3d. An Income Tax,
Believing that those who have much property should bear the burdens of government in the same proportion to those who have little.

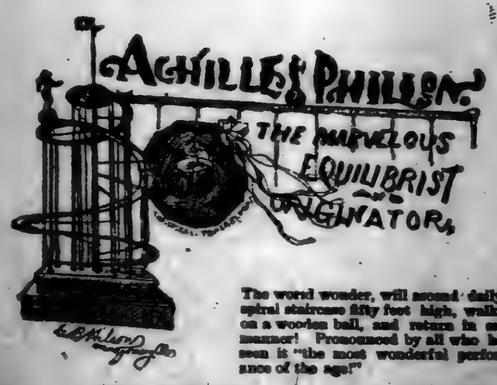
Grand Exhibits,
Thrilling Attractions.

Trotting, Running and Pacing Races; Bicycle Riding and Balloon Ascensions.

At an enormous expense the manager has engaged a band of Acrobats, who will, each day, in front of the Grand Stand, give one of their wonderful performances. Also a troupe of Japanese whose feats are astonishing.



The world wonder, will ascend daily a spiral staircase fifty feet high, walking on a wooden ball, and return in same manner! Pronounced by all who have seen it "the most wonderful performance of the age!"

THE -:- MIDWAY -:- PLAISANCE

will be another feature—on it can be seen a Turkish theatre—in which Fatima, the original muscle dancer, will appear. The cyclorama of the Battle of Gettysburg, of marked interest to all—especially the old veterans, and hundreds of other attractions too numerous to mention.

Remember, this will be the largest and best Exposition ever held. Cheap excursion rates from all parts of the state.

The shelby Sentinel gives the following introduction to MR. R. W. RUSSELL, of the firm of RUSSELL BROS. of Anniston who is now in Clanton ready to take your photographs "Mr. R. W. Russell, the photographer, will spend this week in Calera. Early next week he expects to go to Clanton to give the citizens of that place and surrounding country an opportunity to secure some of those excellent pictures he is famous for making. If the citizens of that town and vicinity want first class work in his line he is the artist to furnish it to them. The sentinel takes pleasure in commending him and his work." The editor of the view has inspected the pictures made by MR. RUSSELL and takes pleasure in saying that his work is higaly satisfactory - neasure and call on him while he is here

Prof. J. E. White is a most enthusiastic singer. He is doing what he can to improve the singing in our churches and homes. The next session of the Chilton Count Singing Convention will meet in May next and at that time Committees will rport Sunday school and church music and on musical education.

We received a well written account of the Chilton county singing Convention but our space is too much crowded for anything except news dolled down.

The Baptist Association met at Mt. Zion this week, and was largely attended.

A reader from Mountain creek calls attention to the fact that MR. MARTIN holds the two offices of Representative and county surveyer and begs to refer the county commissioners to the Constitution. The same friend wishes a man appointed who can run the same line twice.

A PROPELLING FORCE.

In Natures Storehouse For Suffering Humanity.

J. D. Thomson, Anniston, Ala.: "The Electropoise has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my was a burden. I had been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electropoise is a propeling force in natures storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

It Is Wonderful What the electropoise Will Do

Sowalpa, Ala., Aug. 11, 1894.

I have used the Electropoise with unfailing success on my family and friends, curing a long list of diseases without medicines, Among them were milk leg, measles, la-grippe. several kinds fevers, chills, old sores, colds, violent pains etc. The Electropoise takes the place of doctor and drug store.

A. J. ROGERS.

S. B. White, Jacksonville, Ala., June 23, 1894: "We have been using the Electropoise about 4 years and are well pleased with it."

As a curative agent the Electropoise cannot be equaled.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

(From the Nashville, Tenn., Banner.)

Mr. John W. Thomas, Jr., of Timta, Tenn., is a man with a most interesting history. At present he is interested in blooded horses, for which Henry County is famous.

"Few people, I take it," said Mr. Thomas to a reporter who had asked him for the story of his life, "have passed through as remarkable a chain of events as I have and remained alive to tell the story.

"It was along in 1884, when I was working in the silver mines of New Mexico, that my troubles began. At first I suffered with indigestion, and as about did the pains become that I went to California for my health, but the trip did me little good, and fully impressed with the idea that my last day had nearly dawned upon me, I hurried back home to my old home to die.

"From simple indigestion my malady developed into a chronic inability to take any substantial food, I was barely able to creep about, and at times I was prostrated by spells of heart palpitation. This condition continued until one year ago.

"On the 11th of April, 1893, I suddenly collapsed, and for days I was unconscious. In fact I was not fully myself until July. My condition on September 1st was simply horrible; I weighed but seventy pounds, whereas my normal weight is 165 pounds. All over my body there were lumps from the size of a grape to the size of a walnut, my fingers were cramped so that I could not more than half straighten them. I had entirely lost control of my lower limbs and my hand trembled so that I could not drink without spilling the liquid. Nothing would remain on my stomach, and it seemed that I must dry up before many more days had passed.

"I made another round of the physicians, calling in one after the other, and by the aid of morphine and other medicines they gave me, I managed to live though barely through the fall."

Here Mr. Thomas displayed his arms, and just above the elbow of each there was a large irregular stain as large as the palm of the hand and of a purple color; the space covered by the mark was sunken nearly to the bone. "That," said Mr. Thomas, "is what the doctors did by putting morphine into me.

"On the 11th of December, 1893, just eight months after I took permanently to bed—It shall never forget the date—my cousin, Joe Foster, of Carters' Creek, called on me and gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, saying they had cured him of partial paralysis, with which I knew he had all but died. I followed his directions and began taking the medicine; as a result I stand before you to-day the most surprised man on earth. Look at my hand, it is as steady as yours; my face has a healthy look about it; I have been attending to my duties for a month. Since I began taking the pills I have gained thirty pounds, and I am still gaining. All the knots have disappeared from my body except this little kernel here in my palm. I have a good appetite and I am almost as strong as I ever was.

"Yesterday I rode thirty-seven miles on horseback; I feel tired to-day but not sick. I used to have from two to four spells of heart palpitation every night; since I began the use of the pills I have had but four spells altogether.

"I know positively that I was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I believe firmly that it is the most wonderful remedy in existence to-day, and every fact I have presented to you is known to my neighbors as well as to myself, and they will certify to the truth of my remarkable cure."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at fifty cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

Swearing Won't Help It.

Swearing may make a fire burn, or it may make a deck hand hustle, but it won't help Tetter, or Ringworm. If you use Tetterine, it will make you comfortable and save swear words. 50 cents at drug stores or post paid from J. T. Shuptrine, Savannah, Ga.

Absolute prohibition of the sale of opium in the Marquesas group has greatly increased the demand for liquor.

FALL MEDICINE

Is fully as important and as beneficial as Spring Medicine, for at this season there is great danger to health in the varying temperature, cold storms, malarial germs, and the prevalence of fevers and other serious diseases. All these may be avoided if the blood is kept pure, the digestion good, and the bodily health vigorous, by taking Hood's

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

Sarsaparilla. "My little boy fourteen years old had a terrible scrofula bunch on his neck. A friend of mine said Hood's Sarsaparilla cured his little boy, so I procured a bottle of the medicine, and the result has been that the bunch has left his neck. It was so near the throat, that he could not have stood it much longer without relief." MRS. IDA HOOD, 324 Thorndike St., Lowell, Mass. Be sure to get only Hood's.

Among the persons who have thus been maltreated are several British subjects, including the interpretor of the British legation and Dr. Dugeon.

The seventh week of idleness opened at Fall River, Mass., Monday morning without any unusual happening as compared with the six weeks that have passed. The weavers at the Sagamore mill voted not to return to their looms, but their places have been filled by weavers from other parts of the city and the mill is nearly in full operation.

The farmers' national congress, composed of delegates from forty states, began its annual session at Parkersburg, W. Va., Tuesday. About two hundred delegates were present at the opening session and many others arrived during the day. The preliminary organization was formed and Governor MacCorkle, of West Virginia, delivered an address of welcome.

Two men were burned to death, two other men and a little girl were badly injured, and $100,000 worth of property was destroyed by fire at Naniamo, B. C. The fire started at the corner of Wharf and Commercial streets, in the Royal hotel, which was burned. Patrick Mayce, a bootblack, and a bartender, known as "Fritz," employes in the hotel, were burned to death. Three guests were badly injured.

The practice of hazing has been formally abolished at Princeton by the unanimous action of the students assembled in a mass meeting. At the close of the meeting President Patton tendered his thanks and congratulations, saying that nothing could please him more than such an action on the part of the students. Dean Murray also addressed the students. The measure was carried amid great enthusiasm.

A Chicago dispatch says: The grand jury, which has been investigating gambling for the past few days, have reported to Judge McConnell that true bills had been found against forty-six gamblers and against twenty-five prominent owners of property on whose premises it was charged that gambling had been carried on. The grand jury also recommends that the investigation of gambling be continued by a future grand jury.

The minority delegates to the New York state constitutional convention have issued an address to the people, giving their reasons for declining to vote for the address recently issued by the majority delegates. The address which is quite lengthy, is a protest against the work of the convention, which the minority claim was entirely shaped in the interest of the republican party as agreed upon by the republican members of the caucus.

At a meeting Saturday morning the conventions of both miners and operators of the Massillon, Ohio, district adopted resolutions declaring their willingness to place the questions at issue in the hands of a local arbitration committee to be selected in the ordinary manner, and to resume work in the mines at once pending the result of the arbitration. Everybody is jubilant over the settlement of the strike, which has lasted five months.

Articles of incorporation have been filed of the Council Bluffs (Ia.) Stock Yard Company. The capital stock is $3,500,000 and the incorporators are the same as those of the Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska Packing Company, which were filed about a week ago. The packing house and stock yards are to be located in the northwestern part of the city, and when located and in full operation, will increase the population by upwards of 7,500 people.

Four persons were roasted alive and two others badly burned at the residence of B. B. Pierce, in the town of Wilmot, Wis. Mr. Pierce's family consisted of his wife, three sons, aged twenty-five, twenty-nine and thirty-four years, and a daughter aged eighteen years. All slept up stairs. One of the young men first noticed the fire and leaped down stairs. He then returned to arouse the rest of the family, but perished with his brothers and sister. The father and mother escaped with severe burns.

Forty student in the Gulhane medical school in Constantinople were recently arrested on the charge of conspiring against the government. In their possession were found documents that were printed in Liverpool, Marseilles, Geneva and other cities, proving the existence of a widespread secret society. Thirty of the imprisoned students were subsequently released. The persons arrested declare that their movement was not aimed against the sultan, but only against a corrupt ministry.

A special meeting of the board of trade of Vicksburg, Miss., was held Tuesday in the interest of the anti-option convention, which will be held about November 15th. Much interest and even enthusiasm was manifested. Assurances were received from the cotton exchange that its members unanimously endorse anti-option. Committees of arrangements have been appointed by the two bodies whose members are sanguine of bringing about a monster demonstration in favor of anti-option. The author of the bill, Congressman Hatch, will be a special invited guest.

A safe in the fireproof vaults of the State bank at Mediapolis, Ia., was blown almost to atoms Tuesday morning by a tremendous charge of nitroglycerine. The cracksmen forced the vault locks without difficulty. The safe contained $5,000 in gold coin, $800 in paper currency, $400 in silver coin and $2,600 in school district school bonds, payable to bearer. The paper money was torn into bits and the coin was battered and bent and scattered to the four winds. Nineteen bonds have been recovered intact, the rest being destroyed or stolen.

THE STORM'S PATH.

FLORIDA GETS THE WORST OF THE RECENT HURRICANE.

Much Damage Done at Many Points in the Peninsula.

A Jacksonville special says: Communication with south Florida is being restored and special dispatches are pouring in relative to the damage done by the West Indian cyclone which raged in the state Tuesday and Wednesday. The dispatches all tell the same story of houses wrecked and crops destroyed, but no loss of life is reported.

At Tampa several large cigar factories were wrecked. The large three-story brick factory of Seidenberg & Co. was destroyed. The factory of C. A. Joyce was demolished, as were also the factories of Ybor & Maurara, Theodoro Perez & Co. and O'Halloran. The First Presbyterian church and the palatial Tampa Bay hotel were badly damaged. Several smaller structures were also demolished. The total loss on buildings at Tampa is estimated at $50,000.

A dispatch from Fernandina says that the schooner Edward Stewart, which was loaded and was lying at anchor, was blown across the river, pulling her anchors with her, and is now lying on a mud flat in about five feet of water. The small boats were blown away and numbers are now lying high and dry up in the marshes, together with the floating dock, which was at the foot of Center street. During the storm at Fernandina the British steamships, Boston City and Elmville, collided and were badly damaged.

A dispatch from Palatka announces great damage at that place to river craft. The steamer Princess was sunk between Palatka and Picolata. She is valued at $12,000. The steamer Edith was driven ashore. The steamer De Barry was driven against the drawbridge and wrecked. The steam yacht Maude was sunk near Crescent City.

At St. Augustine no lives were lost, but several houses were wrecked and the losses will run into the thousands. Nearly all the windows in the city were blown in and the houses flooded with water. The Ponce de Leon hotel was damaged in this way. The loss on the hotel's furniture is heavy. The waves dashed over the sea wall and made rivers on the streets. Many wharves were blown away.

Between Green Cove Springs and Palatka, on the St. John's river, twelve wharves have completely disappeared.

Between Jacksonville and St. Augustine not a telegraph pole was left standing.

The damage to the orange growers is incalculable. Dispatches say that in the large groves the ground is completely covered with green oranges. The loss will be fully 20 per cent.

Dispatches indicate that the storm was as severe in the interior of the state as on the coast. It struck Tampa and then traveled northeast from Jacksonville and St. Augustine. At Ocala and Orlando, interior points, several sea gulls and sea eels were found after the storm passed over.

It is safe to say that the storm has cost Florida more than a million dollars, but no lives have been lost unless at Key West, Titusville, Jupiter or other east coast points.

The government has levied a heavy tax on the merchants for war purposes.

A Chicago dispatch says: Phil D. Armour, when shown the report from Brunswick, Ga., that he had offered one million dollars for the Jekyl Island club house and island, characterized the story as ridiculous. He had never heard of Jekyl Island, did not have a million dollars to invest in anything, and if he had he would not invest it in Jekyl Island.

The fall term of the United States supreme court will convene Monday, October 8, and devote that day to the customary ceremonies of the opening of the term, the call upon the president, etc. The work of the first week will be upon the docket, no important cases being in immediate prospect. It is not probable that there will be any decision rendered by the court before the latter part of November.

Fifteen thousand dollars' worth of lumber, together with a commissary and contents and two immense dry kilns belonging to the Letcher Lumber Company, which has large mills just west of Anniston, Ala., have been destroyed by fire. It was with the greatest difficulty that the saw mills and planing mills were saved. The fire was the fiercest in the history of Anniston and several people were injured though not dangerously.

Two hundred men in the Locust Point tin works at Baltimore, Md., have been thrown out of work and the mill shut down indefinitely. Mr. James E. Ingrams, president of the company, offered the men a reduced scale of wages to offset the reduced tariff on tin plate which went into effect the first of the month. The submitted schedule called for 20 per cent reduction and the men refused to accept it.

The partially completed Florence (Ala.) Northern railroad has been sold at auction for $25,000. Neely, Smith & Co., of Chattanooga, were the purchasers. The same firm were the contractors who built the road, and held a mortgage against it of nearly the amount they paid for it. Thirty miles of the road has been graded. When completed it will extend from Florence to Linden, Tenn., a distance of about eighty miles, through a rich mineral section.

The thirteenth annual convention of the National Funeral Directors of America met in session at St. Louis Wednesday. More than three hundred delegates from twenty-nine different states in the union were in attendance. The convention is one of the greatest assemblages of funeral directors ever held in this country. The convention has for its object the passage of a law in every state creating a board of examiners which shall have power to issue license to embalmers, and to refuse license to parties not educated in the art.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Famous Tropical Firefly.

More than 150 families of animals on land and in water, embracing tens of thousands of species, produce phosphorescent light. They yield enough of it to illuminate London, Paris and Glasgow, says Loyd's Newspaper. The most brilliant light afforded by any land animal is that of the famous firefly of the tropics, known as the "cucujo." Thirty-eight of them yield one candle power. People in Cuba confine them in paper lanterns for going about the country at night, or for indoor lighting. Sometimes they attach one of them to each foot for traveling in the dark, to serve as a guide to the path. Also, they use them as ornaments for the dress and hair. A scientist has recently decided that the light does not depend on the vital principle of the insect. He found that an egg became luminous on being shaken in a glass receptacle. Then he dried the eggs and kept them in that condition for a long time. On being moistened they shone. The dried eggs were powdered in a mortar, but they gave light on being moistened. The beetles themselves, twelve hours after being killed by electricity, were still luminous. So the professor infers that nothing more than a chemical combination is concerned in the manufacture of this "cheapest light." He thinks there is hope that we may be able to reproduce it some day. To make a light equal in brilliancy to that of this tropical insect we must produce a temperature of 2,000 degrees. The firefly's lamp creates no heat that can be detected by the most delicate instrument. Its energy is entirely expended in illumination. Nature, while offering object lessons in the art on every hand, laughs at man's efforts to imitate her in this field.

Bees as Postmen.

To talk of training bees as postmen sounds as feasible as training cockroaches as engine drivers. Nevertheless the bee post is going to become an actual fact if everything goes well and the experiment of an English agriculturist turns out satisfactorily. The bee is taken away from home, a letter printed by microphotography is gummed to his little back, and he is thrown into the air. Home he goes, like a carrier pigeon, and the chief advantage he enjoys over his big brother is that he cannot be seen in time of war, or, if seen, could not very well be shot.

Moths in Carpets.

Moths can be successfully removed from carpets in the following manner. Wring a coarse towel out of clear cold water; spread it smoothly on the carpet; iron it dry with a good hot iron, repeating the operation wherever the moths are supposed to be. There is no need to press hard, and the color of the carpet will not be injured, as the moths are destroyed by the heat and steam.

Two men left a large case at a railroad depot at Memphis recently. As they did not return the case was opened and found to contain the mummy of a man, which it is said, came from a mine in Norway. The body was 9 feet, 1½ inches long, and was in a splendid state of preservation.

in time, if you are a sufferer from that scourge of humanity known as consumption, and you can be cured. There is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its early stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions," and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write to those who have been cured and profit by their experience.

THE WHITE MAHATMA.

WHAT PROF. BALDWIN DISCOVERED CONCERNING EASTERN MAGIC.

By the Use of Natural Laws and Some Humbug He Mystified and Frightened Adepts in the Mystic Art.

And what is a Mahatma? Prof. Baldwin explains it etymologically as meaning "a great soul." In its technical sense in India and Thibet it designates a person who can do wonderful things that border upon the supernatural, and who is looked upon as an expert or adept in the occult sciences. It is not an official title, but is bestowed by general acclaim. In this a Mahatma differs from a Yogi, who is a priest by profession. A fakir is a lower order of religious mendicants, who impose on the public by mere sleight of hand.

How did the Professor become a Mahatma? Starting in life as a public exposer of the frauds of spiritualism and the tricks of conjurers, he gradually became interested in mesmerism, hypnotism, telepathy and all kindred subjects. While he emphatically repudiates any belief in the supernatural, he yet holds that there are unseen forces in nature which can be utilized in a manner that seems supernatural to the vulgar, and are not within the mental powers of the race to explain on any known scientific basis. That that

The Professor bade his interpreter address the Yogis as follows:

"How dare you come b[illegible], who am the king of all supernatural workers, with such transparent tricks as these? With a wave of my hand, I can summon fire from heaven to burn you."

And then he brought his hands together and instantly flames burst basis exists he holds to be incontrovertible; that with the growth of the human intelligence it will be found to be within the limits of rational explanation, he holds as a matter of positive faith. He himself has found in his wife a clairvoyant of extraordinary powers, who, when she passes into the hypnotic state, can and does perform marvels of mind reading and of apparent vaticination. Naturally his mind yearned toward the dim and mysterious East, where the occult sciences are believed to have reached their highest development. He wished to pursue his studies into the region of the unknown. He held his mind open to accept it as the unknowable if it so appeared to him after examination.

At last the opportunity came. With his wife he went into the very home of mystery and magic. He met the Yogis and the Mahatmas face to face, and beat them on their own ground. He drew large audiences, and the rajahs and maharajahs who were familiar with the feats of the best native mystery men confessed themselves amazed and baffled by his performances. It was then that a native paper hailed him as the White Mahatma, and the Maharajah Jotundra Motundra Tegon of Calcutta said to him: "You must become one of us," and so introduced him to the higher circles of the Brahmins, to circles where Mme. Blavatsky had never been able to penetrate, for Mme. Blavatsky was a woman, and woman in India is looked on as an inferior, and is denied admittance to the esoteric mysteries of the adepts.

And after he had witnessed many of the performances of the Yogis he said to the Maharajah:

"I see nothing wonderful in all these things. I can do them all myself."

Then the Maharajah replied: "There are men who are greater than these. I will collect a number of the most famous Yogis in the city and invite you to a special seance. You will then be convinced."

The private seance was given. The Yogis did their best to eclipse all the former brethren whom the White Mahatma had seen. Some of their exploits were undoubtedly marvelous. Still the Professor refused to see anything in them save the operation of natural laws. He leaned over to the Maharajah and said:

"I can scatter all these men with a mere wave of my hand."

"Do it," replied the Maharajah, with an incredulous smile.

"How dare you come b[illegible], who am the king of all supernatural workers, with such transparent tricks as these? With a wave of my hand, I can summon fire from heaven to burn you."

And then he brought his hands together and instantly flames burst forth from the linen garments that they wore around their loins and their back. Shrieking, they snatched off their garments, thrust them away and fled from the scene.

This exploit earned him a great reputation. Ever after when any Yogis or fakirs met him on the street they would flee from the presence of the man who had hell fire at his command.

The Professor explains that this is one of his own inventions in the way of conjuring tricks. Indeed, he acknowledges that in all his connection with the Hindoos he mixed up trickery and chicanery with honest work and that he always found they were more interested in the chicanery.

PROF. BALDWIN.

"No," continued the Professor, "there is a coal of fire in all this occult business, but it is clouded over with an immense amount of smoke and rubbish. I have learned something in India, mostly in the way of thought reading and trance revelation. I am convinced that the Mahatmas possess secrets as to certain forces of nature which the uninitiated know nothing of. They can establish telepathic communication better than any people on earth. I have studied their methods. I am satisfied that under certain conditions of health and environment I can communicate with my wife half a mile off. Nay, when I am to be a hundred miles away from her, I simply agree that at a given hour every day we shall both shut up ourselves alone in a dark room, and I know that if any accident or harm befall her I shall feel the impact of a distinct mental impression. But in other respects, even the best work of the Yogis has been greatly exaggerated. It is the old story of the three crows. Stories pass from mouth to mouth, and are exaggerated at each successive repetition. Nay, even eye witnesses of unimpeachable character cannot be trusted. I met a fellow-countryman in India who was a firm believer. Among other wonderful things which he related was the following: A certain Mahatma, in his presence and that of numerous others, had thrown a ball of thin rope up into the air, after attaching one end of the rope to the ground. The ball soared upward until finally it disappeared into space. The rope was held taut. Then a child ran up the rope and also disappeared into space, where the Mahatma shortly followed him. Then ball, child and Mahatma all returned to solid ground. I said I could not believe this unless I had the evidence of my own eyes.

"Accordingly, we travelled a long distance to where the Mahatma lived. I had provided myself with a snapshot camera. A score of people pressed around the Mahatma while he performed the trick. For myself I had a theory that he merely mesmerised the entire crowd and made them believe what he chose. I therefore kept some thirty feet away, outside the influence of hypnotic influence. While the others were straining their necks to look upward, and were shouting with wonder and admiration, I saw nothing. Neither did my assistants. The camera reproduced the scene exactly as we saw it.

"When all was over my friend came back to me triumphant.

"'Now,' he said, 'do you believe?'

"'No,' I replied, 'I saw nothing.'

"In vain I appealed to my assistants. In vain I pointed to the negatives that I had taken. My friend turned upon me furiously and said 'I think you are not telling the truth. I think you are a knave.'

"He turned on his heel and never spoke to me again."

Professor Baldwin emphatically disbelieves in the current stories of fakirs who bury themselves alive for months at a time, and are then resuscitated by their followers. He holds there is a trick here. The faker is buried, undoubtedly. Unprejudiced watchers are placed over his grave until the allotted time has expired. But in the interim the fakir has made his way through a subterranean passage to the outer air and does not return till the time when he is to be resurrected.

As mementoes of his visit to India Professor Baldwin has a marvellous collection of jewelry—rubies from Burmah, green rubies, rose diamonds, sparkling amethysts, opals and moonstones—as well as photographs of places and scenes, and of the Rajahs, Maharajahs and Sultans who entertained him and presented him with royal gifts.—[New York Recorder.

Postal Card Failures.

The "return" postal card—that is, the double one with the prepared attachment for the answer—is a failure, as the postoffice authorities predicted that it would be, and although only 12,000,000 of them were printed, several years ago, the demand has been so small that the greater part still remain on hand, and 12,000,000 in a small edition. The total number of postal cards used last year was 600,606,606, and 18,889,000 of these were the foreign or international cards bearing a 2-cent stamp. There was a great pressure for the double card from certain agitators who thought business interests demanded it, but it is a flat failure. The officials at the Postoffice Department think the reason is that the return card gets very much soiled during its first existence in the mails and people prefer to pay one cent for a new and clean one.

The "dude card" is also a failure. The "dude card" is the familiar name which the authorities have given to the little postal card which is made of fine paper and printed with blue ink. It was made especially for the use of the ladies and costs more to manufacture than the large one, but the ladies, as well as everyone else, seem to prefer the latter, probably for the reason that they get more for their money.—[Washington Letter.

"Stretch!"

Your thoroughbred base ball crank is one of the most genial and accommodating of men. He loves his neighbor as himself and better than a brother. One of the loveliest indications of the broad spirit of humanity which throbs and pulsates through his bosom may be seen any day at the grand stand at the ball ground. Yet I have never seen it noted before. It is clear to anybody who knows the fine points of the game that if people kept popping up and down in orders to take the creaks out of their joints and unlimber themselves generally, they would be howled down as public nuisances. Therefore, the old spectators have cultivated a subtle sympathy which teaches them when the majority of them want to stretch. Some man will discover this by inspiration and call out:

"Stretch!"

Then the whole audience will rise slowly, stretch its collective limbs, inflate its aggregated lungs, and then slowly subside on the hard benches with a long drawn sigh of relief. It's a beautiful little bit of human nature.—[New York Press.

WASHINGTON NOTES

NEWS CONCERNING THE VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

Sayings and Doings of the President and Members of the Cabinet.

Secretary Carlisle has appointed George Fort, of Georgia, chief of the division of national banks in the office of the treasurer of the United States, vice Baker, resigned.

At a meeting of the Interstate Democratic Association at Washington, Saturday night, attended by nearly 200 members, a resolution was adopted requesting all members not to ride in Pullman cars when they go home to vote. Speeches denouncing the attitude of the Pullman company toward its workmen were made.

Tuesday Secretary Carlisle received from Acting Attorney General Maxwell an opinion in which he holds that the word "wool," as used in the woolen schedule of the new tariff act, refers to the hair of sheep only, and that the new and lower duties on goods made of the hair of the other animals went into effect on the signing of the act.

Ever since the decision was reached by the California circuit court that Antonio Ezeta, the ex-vice president of Salvador, was a political offender, and therefore could not be extradited, the officials at Washington have been expecting to hear of some movement against either Guatemala or Salvador from Mexico. According to advices which have reached the state department, Ezeta has been in Mexico ever since his liberation, but what his movements have been is not known.

Assistant Attorney-General Whitney and Assistant Secretary Hamlin, of the treasury department, held a consultation recently on certain points involved in the great "hat trimming" cases, involving millions of dollars, on one point of which the government lost in a case decided in Boston, Mass. One of the strong points upon which the government relied in these cases was that protests against the payment of higher duties, filed after the delivery of the goods, are invalid. The United States circuit court of Boston held the reverse, and the United States, because of the importance of the point involved, has decided to take an appeal to the higher court.

Especial interest centers in the case of the government against the Sugar Trust which is to come up before the supreme court now in session. This is a suit in equity filed by the United States against the various corporations composing the Sugar Trust, upon the ground that it is carried on in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The circuit court at Philadelphia and the circuit court of appeals at the same place, decided the case against the government. Mr. Justice Jackson, when he was on the circuit bench, decided a case against the government involving similar questions as to the whisky trust. The whole question as to the validity and effect of the Sherman anti-trust act, and whether or not under it trusts, such as the Sugar Trust and the Whisky Trust, could be dissolved by the federal courts, will be presented and decided in the Sugar Trust case.

Vincent Bounced.

S. S. Vincent, United States marshal for the district of West Virginia, at the request of the attorney-general, has resigned and D. Garden has been appointed to the vacancy. Mr. Vincent was appointed in 1893. In September last Vincent and several deputies were present at a political meeting at Wayne, W. Va. At the conclusion of the address, which did not please him, Vincent arose to reply, whereupon many of the audience left the hall. This seemed to have angered Vincent and an altercation arose, which culminated in an affray, during which one man was killed and three others wounded. The marshall and his deputies were arrested and are under bond to await the action of the grand jury. Complaints have been made to the attorney general that twice before Vincent or his deputies had been guilty of creating disturbances at political meetings at Bluefield and Huntington.

Canal Board Appointed.

That great project which has excited so much interest in New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia and the great ports on the South Atlantic coast, to unite Chesapeake Bay with the Delaware by a canal, and thus supply the most important line in an internal water-way route from Florida to Long Island Sound, received an impetus Tuesday by the appointment of an export board of commissioners to select the line of the canal. In the last river and harbor appropriation bill, provision was made for this work. The members of the board, as announced by Secretary Lamont, are: General Casey, chief of engineers; Colonel Craighill, now in charge of the river and harbor works at Baltimore; Captain George Dewey, of the navy, a member of the lighthouse board; Mende Cohen, of Baltimore, ex-president of the Society of Civil Engineers, and J. Alexander Portet, of Savannah, a civil engineer of wide reputation and of excellent standing. The board is expected to go to work speedily in order to comply with the requirements that its report be made to congress at the short session.

Carlisle for the Senate.

A special from Frankfort says: The Daily Capital, official democratic paper of Kentucky, will announce Secretary Carlisle as a candidate for United States senator.

TRADE TOPICS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade for the past week says:

"The lowest prices ever known for wheat and cotton necessarily imply somewhat restricted resumption of other products. With the chief money crops of the west and south sinking in value, it is not strange that purchases of manufactured products are smaller than was expected. Wheat has touched the lowest point ever known for options, and cotton the lowest ever known in any form with the present classification, and the accumulation of stocks in both products is discouraging to purchasers for an advance. Producers are compelled to sell at prices below the ordinary cost of raising crops, and in some western states there is also a lamentable failure of the corn crop. Under the circumstances it would be very strange if the demand for manufactured products should be quite as large as in other years.

"Cotton is one-eighth of a cent lower, the cash price being the lowest known for forty-five years, and considering the difference in classification, it is perhaps lower than at any time in 1849, and estimates that the crop is more than 10,000,000 bales are more commonly credited now than estimates of 8,500,000 were two months ago. With favorable weather the yield seems likely to net larger than ever known.

"Cotton print cloths are a shade stronger, as the news from Fall River regarding the duration of the strike is less encouraging, but for other goods the market is low, as might be expected in view of the heavy decline in the raw material.

"The condition of industries is in some respects more satisfactory. Evidently there is a larger demand for iron products than there was a month ago, though the increase in output has been somewhat greater than the increase in the demand, so that prices steadily tend downward.

"Bessemer pig iron is selling at $10.-90 at Pittsburg and bar iron at 95 cents, with steel bars at $1.05, while a contract to suppress the principal western competitor in nail manufacture is expected to hold the price at $1 for wire and 85 cents for cut nails. The structural iron market is fairly active at the west, without change at the east, and while the coke output has now become the heaviest ever known, 149,775 tons for the week, the price is declining and steps are being taken to limit the supply. The volume of domestic trade indicated by the exchanges at the principal clearing houses is 11.8 per cent larger than a year ago, but in comparison with 1892 shows a decrease of 22.8 per cent.

"In the money market more commercial paper is coming into sight, though on the whole the market is by no means encouraging and good single-named paper has been placed at 3 per cent, the lowest rate on record.

"Commercial failure in third quarter of 1894 have involved liabilities of $20,361,196 exclusive of banking institutions and railroads, against $32,-469,821 reported a year ago for the same quarter, and for nine months of 1894 the liabilities have been $131,-094,509, against $251,334,265 last year. The manufacturing liabilities were $12,381,892, against $23,605,865 reported a year ago, and in trading $14,131,280 for the quarter, against $58,814,176 a year ago. For the month of September the liabilities have been smaller than in any other month this year, only $6,897,124, of which $2,904,-373 were of manufacturing and $3,-650,092 of trading concerns.

"The failures for the past week have been 219 in the United States, against 320 last year, and thirty-nine in Canada, against forty-five last year."

HURRICANE IN NEW YORK.

Great Damage Results and a Number of Lives Lost.

A New York special of Wednesday says: The gulf storm which broke upon this section shortly after midnight has done great damage on sea and on land. The tracks of the New Jersey Southern railroad, between Sea Bright and Highland Beach, N. J., have been covered with sand and washed up by the waves.

The fishing smack Louise was driven ashore at Highland Beach, and is a total loss. Her crew of ten men was taken off by the life saving crew. At Sea Bright and vicinity, a number of buildings were unroofed.

At Long Island City the big iron tank belonging to the East River Gas Company was blown down to within five feet of its foundation. The tank was 200 feet high and 185 feet wide.

The police wires were all blown down, and small boats all along the shore from Long Island City to Bowery bay beach were broken and thrown upon the beach.

BUILDING BLOWN DOWN.

A large, seven-story brick building in the course of erection at No. 74 Monroe street, collapsed on a tiny, brick-front tenement and dwelling house which flanked it on either side. There were nearly twenty persons in the tenement house and ten in a rear extension to the house on the other side of the collapsed building. Both were crushed, and by 3 o'clock four bodies had been taken from the ruins, two of them mutilated almost beyond recognition, and at least fifteen persons are under treatment for severe injuries received.

Blizzard Threatened in the Northwest.

North Dakota, portions of South Dakota, and the northern border of Minnesota, are buried under a heavy fall of snow. The storm, which, in some localities, has developed into a blizzard, began Sunday morning, and every indication points to a repetition of the blizzard of fourteen years ago.

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

A Brief Summary of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

The Fall River manufacturers at a meeting Wednesday adopted a resolution agreeing to open their mills Monday, October 15th, for the purpose of allowing all who are so disposed to go to work at the cut rate of wages.

The big establishment of the Cleveland Foundry Company at Cleveland, O., burned Wednesday night, entailing a loss of $100,000. The works of the Favorite Desk and Seating Company were also destroyed; loss $15,000.

Mayor John Fitzpatrick, of New Orleans, has filed his answer in the civil district court in the impeachment proceedings taken by the Citizens' Protective Association. The mayor makes general and specific denials of all the allegations made by the committee.

The Tennessee grand lodge Knights of Honor met at Nashville, Wednesday. The grand officers and more than sixty representatives were present. The grand treasurer's report showed a balance of $5,280 in the treasury. There are now 119 lodges with a membership of 6,180, a loss of 581, due to hard times.

A dispatch from Berlin to the London Telegraph says that Professor Leydon has again been summoned by wire to attend the czar and will start at once for Livadia and remain some time. According to the Cracow newspapers pyaemia has been established and none of the official reports concerning the patient's condition tally with the facts.

Various rumors are in circulation in Shanghai, China, the most prominent being that 40,000 Japanese troops have landed near Shan-Hai-Kwan, on the boundary between the Chinese provinces of Manchuria and Chi-Li, at the eastern end of the great wall which traverses China. The telegraph wires have been cut, thus hindering communication with that district.

A dispatch from Shanghai to the Central News says that, although the Chinese government has plenty of men at its disposal, there is a total lack of modern arms for their use. This deficiency, the dispatch asserts, the Germans are endeavoring to supply. Many of the Chinese soldiers recently sent to the front have been armed only with jingals and bows and arrows.

A special from New Castle, Wash., says that a dust explosion occurred in brest thirty-five of the fifth level of the Oregon Improvement Company's mine Wednesday with a result that one miner is dead, and ten seriously burned, two probably fatally. The explosion occurred at an early hour when the second shift changed for the third shift, and all miners being in the gang accounts for the small fatality.

The twentieth annual convention of the American association of bankers convened at Baltimore Wednesday morning. Every section of the union was represented. Secretary Giese, of the association, says that the crowd's check for $150,000,000 would be cashed. Addresses of welcome were made by the Hon. John P. Poe and Enoch Pratt, chairman of the Baltimore clearing house. Mayor Latrobe also made an address of welcome.

A dispatch from Fort Monroe, Va., says: The schooner Henry Lippett, Captain Howes, with coal from Georgetown, while anchored in the roads, was run into by the schooner Red Wing Wednesday night and sank. Captain Howard, the mate and the steward took to the rigging and were rescued at midnight by the crew of the Bay Line steamer Alabama. Five of the crew took to the boats and have not been heard from.

The Birmingham, Ala., Typographical Union has adopted a resolution to the effect that, whereas the general assembly appropriates about $30,000 annually for public printing, nearly all of which is sent to other states naturally to the detriment of the home printers, that it would be wise for the legislature to establish a state printing and do its own work, thereby giving employment to Alabama printers and keeping the money in the state.

Colonel Isaac N. Stevens, formerly chairman of the republican state central committee of Colorado, has gone over to the populist party. In a speech, severing his connection, he said: "Now firmly convinced that the republican party is unalterably opposed to the free coinage of silver, and firmly convinced that the party in this state is dominated by a secret, oath-bound organization which threatens the rights of personal liberty and the perpetuity of our institutions, I can act no longer with that party."

OLIVER W. HOLMES DEAD.

His Life Was One of Good Deeds and Full of Honors.

A Boston, Mass., special says: Oliver Wendell Holmes is dead. Without the semblance of a struggle or a pain he passed away as he has lived, peacefully and beautifully. The end came at 12:10 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the venerable poet's home, 296 Beacon street. He was surrounded by his children, and visibly expression of their presence up to within a few minutes of the last, though unable to speak. Then he closed his eyes wearily and seemed to fall asleep, as indeed he did—the sleep of death, at which the whole world will mourn. His death was due to exhaustion following a severe attack of eczema.

ENGLISH TROOPS FOR CHINA.

Preparations for Sending 10,000 Soldiers to the Empire.

A cable dispatch from London says: It can be stated on authority that the developments of the past week in eastern affairs will lead to concerted action on the part of the European powers. On Monday last, Mr. N. R. O'Connor, the British minister at Peking, warned the foreign office by cable that the condition of affairs in China was such that the government was not able to guarantee protection to the foreign residents at the treaty ports, and the missionaries in the interior of the country. The minister in the same dispatch stated that the Chinese imperial council was disorganized, and that the collapse of the government was not looked upon as an impossibility, and advised that instant action be taken for the protection of lives and property of British subjects in China.

The substance of this dispatch was at once communicated by Lord Rosebery to the governments of France, Russia and Germany, with the suggestion that the powers co-operate in increasing the guards at the treaty ports and in measures for the protection of the missionaries.

When the cabinet met on Thursday, friendly responses from all three of the powers named had been received, and these so thoroughly cleared up the situation as to enable the ministers to give the premier and the earl of Kimberly, secretary of state for foreign affairs, a free hand to take whatever steps in the matter they might consider necessary. No question of intervention between Japan and China has arisen, however.

It is reported that preparations are being made to send 10,000 troops to occupy the leading treaty ports, and if the present intention is carried out, parliament on reassembling will be asked to grant a credit of £4,000,000 to cover the expenses of the expedition.

The offers of mediation between China and Japan are all widely divergent. The truth of the matter is that it is the general belief in official circles that the members of the cabinet are unanimously against any foreign interference, and, so far as Great Britain is concerned, favor allowing the Japanese to reap the full fruits of their victory, unless, of course, they seek to injure the commercial interests of Europe.

DISPENSARIES WILL OPEN.

South Carolina's Supreme Court Passes Upon the Question Again.

A Columbia special says: For the second time Governor Tillman's liquor law came out of the hands of the supreme court Monday evening, on this occasion completely rehabilitated.

"The city council of Aiken against Holly & George" was the title of the case in which Justices Pope and Gary, Tillmanites, sustain the dispensary, reversing the decision, pronouncing it unconstitutional delivered by the court last April, when Samuel McGowan, anti-Tillmanite, was a member. McIver, adhering to his previous opinion, dissents now.

It will be remembered that the April decision was upon an act passed in 1892. On August 1st Gary, elected over McGowan last December, succeeded him, and a week previous Governor Tillman proclaimed in force the act of 1893, which he had suspended in April.

Since the proclamation the dispensaries have been running on full time and constables have been seizing contraband spirits. When the dispensary at Aiken was reopened the city council at once arrested George, the dispenser, and Holly, a member of the county board of control, for violation of a city ordinance against the sale of liquor.

The state carried the case before Circuit Judge Aldrich, who sustained the city council, and then the state appealed to the supreme court. A special session of the latter was immediately convened.

INVADE CHINESE SOIL.

A Report That the Japs Have Captured Che Foo.

A cable dispatch from Yokohama says: It is reported that the Japanese have captured Che Foo, which is a treaty port of China on the north coast of the Shang Tung promontory. It has a good harbor, an active trade and a population estimated to number about 30,000.

The Westminister Gazette (London) also publishes a dispatch from Yokohama which says that the Japanese have captured Chee Foo. The government, however, has received no information confirming this report. A dispatch from Hong-Kong says that the Min river at Foo-Chow has been closed to shipping. The British warship Undaunted has been ordered to Nagasaki, and the gunboat Firebrand to Newchwang.

CHINA TRYING TO ARBITRATE.

The Italian minister at Pekin has addressed a note to China, at the request of his government, inviting suggestions with Japan in an endeavor to bring about an end of the war, and tendering his own offices in order to complete such an arrangement.

The general of the Jesuits has sent a memorial to the pope, asking him later to use his influence with the European powers in order to terminate the war.

Carlisle Won't Run.

A Washington special says: Secretary Carlisle authorizes the absolute denial of the report from Frankfort, Ky., that he would be a candidate for the senate to succeed [illegible] the end of [illegible] expires.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND ON THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

A profound sensation was caused in the National Convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society in Minneapolis last week when Archbishop Ireland delivered his address. He referred to Delegate Cahill's ruling in not admitting saloonkeepers to church membership, commending his course.

"The church" he said, 'has not taken a firm stand for the cause of temperance, and it now remains for the lay members to do their duty' The Catholic Church is joined by its members, and it becomes the duty of the Church to pursue its members to become temperate in their habits and advocates of total abstinence.

"America has set her face against the saloon" said the Archbishop "he den of corrupt politics is any man who will not come out for ten pennies is an odious excrescence of the soil. I appeal to you in the name of the country, of God and the Church to lead all Catholics to be true Catholics and observers of the Church. Have your festivities, but let not the tables bear the weight of alcoholic spirits. The greatest self-denial to-day is in the pledge. Be charitable, but the best charity to practice is to lead your brothers in the ranks of temperance.

"I am not looking for the millenium, but we can reduce the number of drinking men so that it will be the accepted saying that the drunkards are among the Catholics.

Speak to the victims of drink they have the principals of faith in them, and only need a helping hand. If we should maintain a crusade against intemperance for half a decade what a change we would affect! If it is not accomplished it is the fault not of the weak, but of the strong who are unwilling to take up the work.

I make no reference to the personal character of saloonkeepers but the business is bad. It is the enemy of God and the country.

Let the day soon come when we shall not see the name of a Catholic above the portals of a saloon. I believe we shall not succeed with the poor man, until we have clubrooms and coffee-houses for him, for the saloon is now his clubroom. We must have all Catholics in office arrayed against the saloon element and its interest."

The promptness with which Capt. Plowman and the people generally appealed to the State Executive committee shows that the point has been reached when men who value the good of the country are not willing that even the appearance of fraud shall taint the nomination or election of our office holders. Democracy has these principles in it that can live and succeed by clean methods and our people must lose no time in eliminating every thing that smacks of dishonesty from our party machinery. It wont do to say we are as honest as other people. We must and others in those ways when can be assisted.

WILL YOU HELP?

In the great contest which is to be fought between now and the next presidential election for

THE PEOPLE'S MONEY—The Coinage of both Gold and Silver, without discrimination, which means the free coinage of both as opposed to the policy of contraction, which is being dictated by England, and which levies tribute on every product of the farm, on valuations of all kinds and on all compensation for labor.

The Great Issue now is the double standard against the single standard—the use of both gold and silver as standard money metals, against the organized effort to hold the currency of the country strictly to the gold basis.

THE ATLANTA CIRCULATION, 156,000.
WEEKLY CONSTITUTION

published at ATLANTA, GA., and having

A CIRCULATION OF MORE THAN 156,000, chiefly among the farmers of the country, and going to more homes than any weekly newspaper published on the face of the earth is

The Leading Champion of the People in this as well as in other great contests in which they are engaged against the exactions of monopoly.

By special arrangement with The Constitution the paper publishing this announcement is prepared to make

A REMARKABLE CLUBBING OFFER, by which both this paper and The Constitution will be offered for one year at almost the price of 1 year's subscription to one paper.

BOTH PAPERS FOR $1.50,

THE CONSTITUTION IS THE BIGGEST AND BEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER published in America, covering the news of the world, having correspondents in every city in America, and in the capitals of Europe, and reporting in full the details of debates in congress on all questions of public interest. It is a

THE GREAT SOUTHERN WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, and as the exponent of southern opinion and the purveyor of southern news it has no equal on the continent.

THE CONSTITUTION'S SPECIAL FEATURES

are such as are not to be found in any other paper in America.

THE FARM AND FARMER'S DEPARTMENT,
THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT,
THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT,

are all under able direction and are specially attractive to those to whom these departments are addressed. Under the editorial management of Clark Howell, its special contributors are writers of such world-wide reputation as Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Frank R. Stockton, Joel Chandler Harris, and hundreds of others, while it offers weekly service from such writers as Bill Arp, Sarge Plunkett, Wallace P. Reed, Frank L. Stanton, and others, who give its literary features a peculiar Southern flavor that commends it to every fireside from VIRGINIA to TEXAS, from MISSOURI to CALIFORNIA.

Do Not Delay, but send your name now. If you are already a subscriber to your home paper, and you want The Constitution only, communicate with The Constitution direct, and send One Dollar for one year's subscription with your guess in the prize contest. You can get your home paper, however, publishing this, and The Constitution, for almost the price of one, and remember that all clubbing subscriptions must be sent to this paper and not to The Constitution.

THE CONSTITUTION is among the few great newspapers publishing daily editions on the side of the people against European Domination of our money system, and it heartily advocates:

1st. The Free Coinage of Silver,
Believing that the establishment of a single gold standard will wreck the prosperity of the great masses of the people, though it may profit the few who have already grown rich by federal protection and federal subsidy.

2d. Tariff Reform,
Believing that by throwing our ports open to the markets of the world and levying only enough import duties to pay the actual expenses of the government, the people will be better served than by making them pay double prices for protection's sake.

3d. An Income Tax,
Believing that those who have much property should bear the burdens of government in the same proportion to those who have little.

It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

DEAR SIRS—Some time ago I contracted a severe case of blood poisoning. My whole body was one sore, my throat was all gone, I was totally blind in one eye. I finally was induced to try a bottle of your great blood medicine, and, to the surprise of all friends, in four weeks I was sound and well, my sight was restored and my hair grown out, and I am still sound and hearty, and have never felt a symptom of the disease since taking the V. How a Chinaman Farms.

A large part of the farming of China is done by irrigation. It is wonderful how well they work, and how much they get off the land. Three crops a year is by no means uncommon, and if any sign of a failure of crop is seen, the seed for another crop is straightway sown.

It is wonderful how small the farms are. There are thousands of holdings in China which are less than an acre, and some are even as small as the tenth of an acre. It is estimated that an acre of land will, in the better parts of the empire, support a family of six, and a volume could be written on Chinese agriculture.

The use of fertilizers is universal, and, though there are practically no horses and few cattle, there is no land which is so well fed. Everything is saved. Thousands of men do nothing else but gather up bits of fertilizing matter and sell them. The refuse of a rich family will bring more than that of a poor one, and the slops of the foreign part of Shanghai are farmed out annually for a sum which gives the city the most of its educational fund.

Potato peelings, the parings of finger-nails, the shavings of the head, and other refuse from a part of the fertilizing material, and this is usually put together in such liquid form that not a bit of it is wasted. The manure is kept in great vats, and the farm is watered like a garden. Each plot gets its daily food and drink. A dipper full from a vat is put in each bucket of water, and the mixture is poured in at the roots of the plants. All throughout this part of China such fertilization goes on, and from twenty to thirty dollars a year is sometimes spent upon an acre of land.—Ex.

Eat Apples.

Chemically the apple is composed of vegetable fiber, albumen, sugar, gum, chlorophyl, malic acid, gallic acid, lime and much water. Furthermore, the German analysts say that the apple contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable. The phosphorus is admirably adapted to renewing the essential nervous matter of the brain and the spinal cord. It is perhaps for the same reason, rudely understood, that old Scandinavian traditions represent the apple as the food of the gods, who, when they felt themselves to be growing feeble and infirm, resorted to this fruit, renewing their powers of mind and body.—North American Practitioner.

"A Practical Age"

Is a fit epithet for the present age. "Of what use is it?" and "How soon will I get my money out of it?" are questions always asked before making an investment of any kind. Bright, intelligent young ladies no longer spend their time in acquiring useless accomplishments. Parents who wish to render their children independent, cannot do a wiser thing than give them a course in shorthand and typewriting. For young ladies it is a genteel and pleasant work, and for young men it is often the stepping stone to a higher business position. For terms, etc., in the best, most thorough and complete school in the South, write Miss McNutt's School of Stenography & Typewriting, 137 and 139 S. Bdy. L. Assn. Bldg., Wall St., Knoxville, Tenn.

Short and Crisp Items of General Interest to Our Readers.

Throughout Holland there were sixteen new cases of cholera the past week and eight deaths from the disease, of which number six new cases and one death were in Amsterdam.

By an explosion in the Luke Fidler mine shaft at Shamokin, Pa., Tuesday, one man was killed and four others are in the mine with no avenue of escape. The shaft is on fire. Fifty-five other workmen were taken out alive.

Dan Nicolas Talmeron, the Spanish republican leader, who was visiting Lisbon, was arrested Sunday evening and ordered to leave the country. Arrangements had been made by his admirers to entertain him at a banquet.

M. Pinguult, a prominent sugar broker in Paris has been arrested charged with embezzling the sum of 144,000 pounds, which, it is claimed, was due to Baron Hirsch, the compliment, as the result of recent speculations in sugar.

The London Exchange Telegraph Company says that, in order to get back British tin-plate makers who went to America the Welshman manufacturers, in addition to guaranteeing them work, promise to pay their fares home.

The Tudor Iron works, at East St. Louis, Mo., were partially destroyed by fire Tuesday morning. The loss on the machinery is $50,000 and on the building $10,000. Nearly three hundred men are thrown out of employment.

The long delayed settlement with the creditors of ex-Governor Foster and his partner, has at last come about. The assignee has announced that he would be able to pay 40 cents on the dollar, and the claims amount to $213,000. The settlement with creditors will begin at once.

The Italian government has declined to spend an additional $350,000 to complete the warships which have long been in course of construction. Another cruiser, the Cristoforo Columbo, has been ordered to Chee Foo. Among her officers is the duke of Abruzzi, nephew of King Humbert.

The Mollenhauer sugar refinery at Brooklyn, N. Y., employing 1,800 men shut down Monday for an indefinite time. The Mollenhauer people say that a singular feature of the market is the fact that they have sold syrup and molasses ahead, but there is absolutely no market for refined sugar.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg states that a sudden change for the worst has taken place in the condition of the czar. The dispatch adds that the minister of war has ordered prayers for the preservation of the life of the czar, to be offered up in all the garrison and regimental churches.

Three men were killed Monday morning in an explosion in the Illinois steel works at Chicago and a number of others injured by the accidental explosion of a steam pipe, the fragments of which were scattered in every direction. The exploded pipe was one of the largest main feeders running through the entire plant.

The University Press, (Cambridge, Mass.) John Wilson & Son, has assigned for the benefit of creditors. The concern is one of the oldest and largest printing houses in Cambridge, having been established in 1839, and was believed to be very strong financially. The company employs nearly 350 persons. The assets and liabilities are not yet known.

The Unson foundry and Pullman Car Wheel Company, of Pullman, Ill., has filed articles of surrender of charter. The capital stock is $500,000, divided into 5,000 shares, of which Geo. M. Pullman owned 4,993. On September 29th the directors decided on closing up. The assets of the company were sold and the proceeds divided among the stockholders and the charter surrendered.

Four of the leading druggists of Cincinnati have been arrested upon warrants issued by the food inspector, charging them with selling adulterated drugs. The warrants were issued after a chemical analysis of Professor Fennell, of the articles in question—paskola, vin mariani and unfermented wine. His report is said to have shown all these preparations to be adulterated within the meaning of the statutes of Ohio.

John Ravell, a farmer near Ironwood, Mich., together with his family of five, were blown up by an explosion of giant powder Monday. Ravell and a five-year-old son were killed outright, the bodies being mangled in a frightful manner. Mrs. Ravell and a six-year-old daughter will undoubtedly die. The others were not dangerously hurt. Ravell was thawing out giant powder in the oven of a stove, preparing it for blasting stumps.

The Freistnnige Zeitung, of Berlin, says: "We are drifting into a customs war with America. If the German-Americans succeed in getting Chancellor von Caprivi on their side, and the United States refuses to modify the sugar tariff, reprisals by Germany will mean an increase of the grain duty from 35 to 50 marks. Counter reprisals by the United States will follow which will damage German commerce ten times more than did the Russian tariff war."

Letters from Paris say that, owing to the strained relations between England and France and the excited state of the latter nation, the American colony in Paris is very much annoyed by the proceedings of the natives whenever anyone speaks English in their hearing. In the cafes and restaurants the waiters show their resentment by grumbling and careless service, and in some the proprietors have even refused to allow English-speaking patrons to be served.

A strike was begun by 12,000 coat makers at New York Tuesday morning and, as a result, the workshops of 175 large manufacturers in the dry goods district, and the smaller workrooms of 1,000 contractors, or "sweaters," whose places are scattered all over the lower east side, are idle. The strike is for the purpose of abolishing the piece work system, the enforcement of weekly wages, a 25 per cent. increase of wages, a nine hours work day, and the employment of Union men and women.

B. P. Hutchinson, once Chicago's greatest board of trade operator, and familiarly known as "Old Hutch," has closed his last deal. It was his cigar business. He opened a retail store a week ago. Business was slow. In the rear of the cigar store, however, a poker game flourished. The Civic Federation became aware of the side issue to the cigar store business, and a raid was threatened. The management accordingly concluded to stop selling cigars, so a "For Rent" sign was placed in a conspicuous place and the doors closed.

COTTON IS SHORT.

A Decline of Over Three Points From September.

Returns to the statistical division of the department of agriculture for the month of October, make cotton show a decline of 3.2 points from its September condition, which was 85.9, as against 82.7 for the present month. The condition of cotton in June was 88.3, in July 89.6, rising to 91.8 in August.

The lessened prospective yield in the states of North Carolina and South Carolina is due, in part, to the storm which occurred in the latter part of September. For the most part, however, the decline in the condition through the cotton belt is due to continued rains that began about the middle of August and extended into September. There is much of shedding, rot and just reported, as a consequence and in addition no little loss from insect ravages, particularly the boll worm.

Texas is the only exception to the general falling off in condition, that state having gained four points, notwithstanding the excessive rainfall in some parts of the state. The percentages by states are as follows:

Virginia, 89; North Carolina, 81.3; South Carolina, 79; Georgia, 79; Florida, 71.9; Alabama, 84; Mississippi, 80; Louisiana, 89; Texas, 88; Arkansas, 79; Tennessee, 79; Missouri, 90.

The state averages for September were: Virginia, 100; North Carolina, 88; South Carolina, 86; Georgia, 84; Florida, 82; Alabama, 86; Mississippi, 85; Louisiana, 91; Texas, 84; Arkansas, 89; Tennessee, 84; Missouri, 93.

The indicated yield in hundredths of bales per acre by states is as follows: Virginia, 48.5; North Carolina, 33.4; South Carolina, 35; Georgia, 37; Florida, 26.3; Alabama, 30.7; Mississippi, 35; Louisiana, 43.2; Texas, 40; Arkansas, 29.5; Tennessee, 29.4; general average, 34.7. The indications as to yield are merely preliminary and subject to future revision.

SUSPENDING OFFICERS.

Governor Tillman Wants to Discipline Mutinous Companies.

A Columbia, S. C., special says: Governor Tillman has issued a special order in reference to the military companies who refused to go to Darlington at the time of the dispensary disturbance. The commissioned officers of the following commands are suspended, beginning April 1st last: German Fusiliers, Montgomery Guards, Irish Volunteers, Palmetto Guards, Sumter Guards, Carolina Rifles, Company B of the Washington Light Infantry, German artillery, all of Charleston, the Gordon Volunteers, Orangeburg; the Gordon Light Infantry, Winnsboro; the Catawba Rifles, Lancaster; the Governor's Guards, Columbia; the Zouaves and Richland Volunteers, Columbia; the Jenkins Rifles, Yorkville. Exceptions are made in the case of Captains Alston, of the Richland Volunteers; Anderson, of the Columbia Rifles, and Cogewell, of the Washington Light Infantry. The suspension also includes the staff officers of the fourth brigade, General T. A. Hugunin commanding. It is further ordered: "That the non-commissioned officers and men composing the above named companies are forbidden to exercise any of the functions of militiamen until further orders from the commander-in-chief."

TYPOS MEET.

The International Union in Annual Session in Louisville.

The forty-second annual convention of the International Typographical Union opened at Louisville, Ky., Monday morning at Odd Fellows' Hall. W. B. Prescott, president of the Union, called the convention to order. Mayor Taylor delivered an address of welcome to the visitors. Col. K. M. Kelly, editor of the Commercial welcomed the typos on behalf of the press and H. A. Boles, president of the local typographical union, on behalf of the local printers.

The union, by a vote of 75 to 25, refused to extend the terms of the officers from one year to two years, as recommended by the president. It also refused to change the annual meetings to biennial meetings, as recommended by the president and committee on laws. A number of minor changes in laws of the union were made. The session will continue several days.

TOBACCO FACTORIES BURN.

$25,000 Worth of the Weed Goes Up in Smoke.

Fire which started Tuesday night in A. G. Fuller & Co.'s tobacco factory, at Danville, Va., threatened to be one of the most disastrous the city ever had, as a high wind was blowing, but Fuller's frame factory and M. Neal's brick tobacco factory were the only buildings burned. Fuller's loss is $20,000. Neal's factory had 150,000 pounds of scrap tobacco on storage, most of which belonged to Dibrell Brothers. The loss is $5,000, insurance $3,500.

Henry of Navarre King of the Turf.

The great special race for $5,000, at one mile and a furlong, settling the supremacy of the turf, was run at Morris Park, N. Y., Saturday. Henry of Navarre won, Clifford was second, and Domino was third, beaten off. This marks Henry as the best horse in America, literally the king of the turf.

Judenism Rejected.

The house of magnates, of Hede Pasth, Hungary, rejected by a vote of 109 to 103, the government bill providing for the legal recognition of the Jewish religion.

NOTING THE MOST INTERESTING OCCURRENCES OF THE DAY.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Returns so far from the primary elections held in Louisiana Friday indicate the nomination of Ogden in the fourth, and Robertson in the sixth district for congress.

The large stock yards of Lutz & Co., in Meridian, Miss., have been destroyed by fire. The loss is $7,000; the insurance $3,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The first receipts of new sugar at New Orleans, sixty barrels, from Magnen's Glenwood plantation, Assumption parish, sold at the sugar exchange Tuesday by Murphy & Farwell to A. K. Seago & Co. for 2¼c. The sugar was classed yellow clarified.

Thirty-six head of fine bluegrass trotters were sold at auction at Lexington, Ky., Monday morning at an average of something over two hundred dollars per head. The breeders say the good prices formerly realized for Kentucky trotters are returning. The highest price was $700, paid for a daughter of George Wilkes.

A report reached Galveston, Texas, Sunday, that the British steamship El Frida, Burgess, master, was beached at the mouth of the Brazos river. The El Frida reached the mouth of the Brazos from Port Eads for Velasco last Friday night and in attempting to enter the river she ran afoul of the west jetty. She lies head on and is apparently uninjured. She will probably be floated without damage.

A Lexington, Ky., special says the friends of Breckinridge are bringing him out for senator. Secretary Carlisle, Senator Blackburn, Governor Brown, General Buckner and Henry Watterson are among the other names mentioned. The friends of Owens are insisting on Senator Blackburn taking the stump immediately in the Ashland district for Owens.

In the federal court at Aberdeen, Miss., Monday, E. L. Tarry, president of the First National bank, of Starkville, which failed last year, was convicted under section 5209, Revised Statutes of the United States. The charge was misapplication of the bank's credit. The minimum penalty is five years imprisonment. Other officers of the bank have been indicted.

A North Carolina company obtained a charter from the secretary of state for the purpose of acquiring, owning and operating gold mines in Halifax county, that state. The company is a strong one and the capital is $500,000. The company has bought property in Halifax county and will develop mines thereon. Thus far assays made are said to show the ore to be exceptionally rich.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week says: Each week brings more satisfactory information as to the condition of Southern manufacturers. The number reported for this week is larger than for three months past, and the number of changes and improvements is also large. Textile mills are doing well; some of them report that prices are low, but none that they cannot work at a profit. The iron output continues large and is steadily absorbed by the trade. Lumbermen are in better shape than during the spring and summer, but there is still room for improvement. Crops are large and have been made on a cash basis.

Fifty-one new industries were established or incorporated during the week, among which are: The American Smelting Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., capital $1,000,000; the Real Estate, Mining and Manufacturing Co., of Rome, Ga., capital $200,000, the Lombard Iron Works and Supply Co., of Augusta, Ga., capital $100,000, and the rebuilding of the Tanners' and Dyers' Extract Co., of Charleston, W. Va., at a cost of $100,000. The Coketon Lumber Co., capital $100,000, has been chartered at Coketon, W. Va.; the Sherwood Lime and Lumber Co., with the same capital, at Sherwood, Tenn.; the Santa Fe Coal and Manufacturing Co., capital $60,000, at Rockdale, Texas, and machine shops to cost $50,000 are to be built at Atlanta, Ga. HILL'S OPPONENTS.

The Third Ticket Nominated for New York State.

The third ticket party of New York, at a meeting held Tuesday evening, decided to nominate the following ticket: For governor, Everett P. Wheeler, of New York; for lieutenant governor, Daniel M. Lockwood, of Buffalo; for judge of the court of appeals, Charles F. Brown, of Orange county.

Mr. Wheeler has announced his acceptance of the nomination. Mr. Shepard said that Messrs. Brown and Lockwood would also accept the nomination.

A PRINTER'S LUCK.

He Falls Heir to a Cool Three Million Dollars.

Through the agency of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railway and its connections, a Cincinnati bank has furnished Samuel Benjamin $1,500 to take himself, his wife, son and two daughters to Australia and back to secure an estate of $3,000,000 left him by an uncle. The bank secured legal evidence of the existence of the bequest from Australian executors before advancing the money. Benjamin is a native of Russia, and is a printer.

A Japanese Clock.

The real Japanese clock, one of the kind in use among that brown skinned, almond eyed race of orientals before they came in contact with the time-keepers of European pattern, is the oldest horological instrument imaginable. They are of many kinds and patterns, of course, but all are alike in one respect—viz., in recording the flight of time without that seeming indispensable adjunct, the pointer rotating on an axis.

In these queer Jap timekeepers the scale and figures (characters) are arranged in a fashion more resembling a Farenheit thermometer than anything else, the pointer or "hand" being attached to a rod, which is continually sliding downward in the "time tube," thus pointing to the hour and minute as it slowly but imperceptibly falls toward the "bulb" or "weighthouse." A square linked chain is attached to the upper end of the rod, to which the time pointer is affixed, and when the clock is "wound up" it is done by simply coiling the chain around the toothed wheel. A heavy weight fastened at the other end of the rod continually pulls rod and pointer downward, thus plainly and simply recording the flight of time.—St. Louis Republic.

Sleep for Children.

A physician urges upon mothers the necessity for plenty of sleep for children during the age of development. A child brought up in a town can scarcely get too much sleep. The least amount for a child up to 4 years of age should be 12 hours, 11 hours from that to 7 years, 10½ from 7 to 10, 10 from that to 15 and 9 up to 20 years of age.

Nor is it a good plan to make a practice to awaken children at some required breakfast hour. See, if possible, that they go to bed sufficiently early to get their quota of sleep by the time the breakfast summons sounds, but in any event let any morning task or duty go by rather than the growing and building sleep power be shortened. Fortunately mothers these days have much more liberal and enlightened notions about child bringing up than formerly, and they more often select the right and most important line of action in this respect.—New York Times.

Oatmeal in the Soup Pot.

Few people, says a well known cook, appear to realize the value of oatmeal as a means of thickening soups and stews, etc. It should be smoothly mixed with a little cold water and stirred thoroughly to the rest in a boiling state. It requires brisk boiling for 15 minutes, but need not be stirred all the while, as cornstarch or flour must be. This means of thickening is not only the most nourishing, but also the cheapest.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

BUDS, Society buds, young women just entering the doors of society or womanhood, require the wisest care. To be beautiful and charming they must have perfect health, with all it implies—a clear skin, rosy cheeks, bright eyes and good spirits. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, backache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best restorative tonic and nervine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy especially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict womenkind at one period or another. You'll find that the woman who has faithfully used the "Prescription" is the picture of health, she looks well and she feels well.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic displacements common to women, where there are symptoms of backache, dizziness or fainting, bearing down sensations, disordered stomach, moodiness, fatigue, etc., the trouble is surely dispelled and the sufferer brought back to health and good spirits.

"WOMAN'S ILLS."

MRS. W. R. BATES, of Dilworth, Trumbull Co., Ohio, writes:

"A few years ago I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which has been a great benefit to me. I am in excellent health now. I hope that every woman, who is troubled with 'women's ills,' will try the 'Prescription' and be benefited as I have been."

Dollars or Kicks

for women, according to whether they do, or don't do, their washing in a sensible way. If they use Pearline, it means good, hard dollars saved. Pearline is economy. All that ruinous rubbing that makes you buy linens and flannels twice as often as you need to, is spared, to say nothing of your time and labor.

See the troubles that women have to endure with other ways of washing. There's that hard, wearing-out rub, rub, rub, or the danger of ruining things with acids if you try to make it easy. Washing with Pearline is absolutely safe.

Send it Back — Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, he ought to. 640 JAMES PYLE, New York.

It is generally supposed that the designation of the streets in Washington by numbers and letters make perfectly clear in what part of the city any given address can be found. Yet the Baltimore Sun's correspondent complains that Washington is beginning to be as badly off as London in respect of duplicate street names. He says that Washington has five Kings streets or places, eight Madison streets or alleys, seven thoroughfares named after Grant, six after Lincoln, six after Jackson, six after Washington, five after Pierce, and many duplicates of small streets named after residents of local note, besides six Prospect, eight Pleasant thoroughfares and six "T" streets or alleys and about one hundred duplicates of other names fair or foul.

Japan publishes periodically what may be called a blue book, embodying the statistics of the Empire, and showing its progress in population, commerce, manufactures, education and other directions. That for the year 1892, just issued, is full of interesting information, and exhibits gratifying evidence of the prosperity of the country since its adoption of Western usages in government and administration. The population of the islands is a little over 41,000,000, the gain since 1882 being 4,400,000. There are 11 towns, having from 10,000 to 30,000 inhabitants; thirty-six which have over 30,000; six which have over 100,000, and three, Tokio, Osaka and Kioto, which have over 300,000. The statistics of emigration show that the largest number of the expatriated go to the Sandwich Islands, and the next largest to the United States. But the outflowing volume of the population is not large, only about 10,000 for the year mentioned, showing a moderate increase over preceding years. The whole number of Japanese residing abroad is a little less than 40,000; exports increased three-fold in the ten years preceding 1892, in which year they were a trifle less than $100,000,000, and imports about $75,000,000. We buy more of Japan than any other nation buys, our bills in good years amounting to something like $40,000,000; but England commands the bulk of her import trade, a condition which may be changed at any time.

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

The house of bishops of the Episcopal church met at New York Wednesday night with fifty-nine bishops for the election of a missionary bishop for the diocese of Olympia, Washington. The day was occupied with preliminaries.

O. A. Larrazola, attorney for Victor L. Ochoa, one of the leaders of the Mexican revolution of last winter, who was arrested a few days ago at Ft. Stockton, Texas, went before the federal court and demanded that Ochoa be produced in court.

The first consolidated mortgage deed of the Southern Railway Company has been filed at Knoxville, Tenn. The mortgage is for $120,000,000, in favor of the Central Trust Company, of New York. No mortgage for as large an amount was ever before made in Tennessee.

The steamer Moyune, recently purchased in England by the Japanese government, has arrived at Yokohama, having made the passage from Cardiff in thirty-three days, steaming the distance without stopping. Although Chinese warships were on the lookout for her, she had no difficulty in eluding them.

A squad of police visited the Technological institute at St. Petersburg, Russia, and, proceeding to the dormitory, arrested thirty of the students, who had retired. The students are charged with being engaged in a nihilist conspiracy against the government. The visit of the police was a complete surprise to the authorities of the institution, as well as to the students.

Alexander, the eighteen-year-old king of Servia, arrived at Potsdam, Germany, Wednesday evening from Buda-Pesth on a visit to Emperor William. Great preparations had been made for his reception, and it was generally understood that this meant that the visit had political significance. The railway station was beautifully decorated and a guard of honor was drawn up on the platform.

A fire occurred in the yards of the Thayer Lumber company, at Muskegon, Mich., Wednesday morning, which caused the loss of a few thousand dollars. During its progress a pile of lumber forty feet high toppled over and caught Assistant Fire Chief John Ellens. His back, arms, legs, skull and chest were broken, and his body was frightly burned. He died in ten minues after being taken out of the wreck.

The federal grand jury at Chicago Wednesday afternoon reported a true bill against ex-Governor John L. Beveridge, president; F. D. Arnold, vice president and Samuel M. Biddison, secretary of the State Mutual Life Insurance Company. The indictment charges the defendants with using the mails to further a business of a lottery. It is alleged that the concern is in its essence a lottery. The officers were arrested some time ago, and gave bail before Commissioner Hayne.

THESE GOT GOLD.

Bold Bandits Hold Up a Train in California.

The Coastbound overland train, due at Sacramento, Cal., Friday night, was held up by two masked men about six miles below the city. The robbers, armed with revolvers, compelled the engineer and fireman to accompany them to the express car, where Messenger Page was told that if he did not open the doors the engineer and fireman would be shot. Page, however, at first attempted resistance and fired twice, but, fearing that the trainmen would be killed he let the bandits in the car, where they secured four bags of gold, containing about $1,500. The robbers then uncoupled the engine and after running it toward the city a short distance, reversed it and jumped off making their escape. The engine ran into the uncoupled train but as the steam had run low, no damage was done.

AN INSANE MOTHER'S DEED.

She Sets Fire to the House and Holds Her Children in the Flames.

Mrs. Jennie Harrigan and her three children perished by fire in a barn upon their farm in the outskirts of Elizabeth, N. J., Monday. The residence was also burned. The husband and father was absent at the time of the calamity. The general belief is that Mrs. Harrigan became suddenly insane and set the house on fire, and that she then took her children and went into the barn, and, locking the door, set it on fire. As the flames began to close around them, the mother gathered the children about her and held them there until they were overcome. The eldest of the children was six years of age and the youngest fourteen months.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEWSY ITEMS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Sayings and Doings of the Official Heads of the Government.

A cablegram received at Washington Monday morning by the department of state from the American Charge de Affairs Denby, at Pekin, stating that the reports of danger to foreign residents at Pekin are greatly exaggerated; that there had been only one attack upon the Americans and that was a very insignificant affair, and was followed by prompt punishment; and that an imperial proclamation had been issued to the local authorities enjoining the protection of foreigners.

The officials of the bureau of engraving and printing express the opinion that the losses of postage stamps by the thefts of Smith and his confederates will not exceed $1,200 or $1,500. Up to this time five postmasters in different parts of the country have made complaints of shortages in the invoices of stamps shipped them, but in each case the loss was very small. It is expected that by the middle of the coming week they will have received reports from all postmasters whose shipments of stamps could have been tampered with.

Vincent Bounced.

S. S. Vincent, United States marshal for the district of West Virginia, at the request of the attorney-general, has resigned and D. Garden has been appointed to the vacancy. Mr. Vincent was appointed in 1893. In September last Vincent and several deputies were present at a political meeting at Wayne, W. Va. At the conclusion of the address, which did not please him, Vincent arose to reply, whereupon many of the audience left the hall. This seemed to have angered Vincent and an altercation arose, which culminated in an affray, during which one man was killed and three others wounded. The marshall and his deputies were arrested and are under bond to await the action of the grand jury. Complaints have been made to the attorney general that twice before Vincent or his deputies had been guilty of creating disturbances at political meetings at Bluefield and Huntington.

Expenditures and Receipts.

Official figures obtained from the treasury books show that up to last Monday the expenditures for the fiscal year have exceeded the receipts $9,500,000. For the corresponding period of 1893 the expenditures exceeded the receipts $22,500,000. The annual report of the commissioner of customs to the secretary of the treasury contains the statement that the "undermentioned districts and ports reported no transactions" during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1894. In the appended list are the following: Annapolis, Md.; Apalachicola, Fla.; Atlanta, Ga.; Beaufort, S. C.; Brunswick, Ga.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Cherrystone, Va.; eastern Maryland; Fernandina, Fla.; St. Augustine, Fla., St. Mark's, Fla.; St. Mary's Ga.; Georgetown, S. C.; Stonington, Conn.; Natchez, Miss.; Newport News, Va.; Pamlico, N. C; Pearl River, Miss.; Pensacola, Fla.; Petersburg, Va.; Richmond, Va.; Rappahannock, Va., and Teche, La. All the ports named have a collector, and many of them deputy collectors and clerks. The collectors either receive a stated salary or fee compensation.

Bonds Not Subject to Tax.

Felix A. Reeves, the solicitor of the treasury, has rendered a decison which will be of interest to every citizen of Georgia. It was rendered at the request of Mr. R. G. Clark, of Rome. Mr. Clark wrote to Secretary Carlisle stating that the county commissioners of Floyd county proposed to issue a certain amount of county bonds, bearing a low rate of interest, in denominations of five, ten and twenty dollars. One of the purposes in view in issuing these bonds was the intention of using them the same as local currency. Mr. Clark inquired whether such action would conflict in any way with the United States banking laws. Mr. Carlisle referred the letter to Mr. Reeves, who advised the secretary that no statute of the United States prohibits the issuance of county bonds in any denomination. According to Mr. Reeves any county has a right to issue bonds when not in contravention to the constitution of the state. As to the state bank tax of 1875, Mr. Reeves says that the word "county" is not enumerated among the corporations, persons, firm, association, state bank or state banking associations, and, therefore, county bonds are not subject to the 10 per cent tax.

HARDIN AND ELROD ACQUITTED.

Finale of the Sensational Express Robbery Case in Nashville.

At Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday, a verdict of not guilty, as to all the defendants was rendered by the jury in the case of Charles Hardin, Charlton Elrod, Charles Taylor and James Norris, who have been on trial for two weeks on the charge of embezzling $95,000 from the Adams Express Company. Hardin was indicted as the principal and the others as accessories before the fact. A large number of witnesses were examined.

Watching John Bull.

A dispatch to The London Times from Berlin says that troubles at Lourenzo Marquez, Delagoa Bay, create the greatest concern in Berlin. It is assumed that England intends to raise the occasion to extend her possessions northward along the coast of the Indian ocean, and, possibly, to attempt to acquire the whole region belonging to Portugal.

STAMP STEALERS

Make a Big Haul From the Bureau of Engraving.

A Washington special says: The stamp robbery at the bureau of engraving and printing, discovered a few days ago, turns out to be much larger than at first supposed. Instead of one package containing 50,000 2-cent stamps, it is now believed that over 200,000, and possibly 250,000 stamps of various denominations are missing. Postmasters in all parts of the country, it is thought, have received fewer stamps than they ordered, and failed to notify the department of the deficiency. When their quarterly reports are made up these shortages may be found. It will take two weeks to discover the full extent of the robbery. When it is known that Thursday's shipments of stamps were served to 1,800 postmasters, some idea of the enormity of the task of ascertaining what offices have received short packages, is had. The stealing has been going on for thirty days, and seems to have been the result of a plot.

William B. Smith, formerly of Plainfield, N. J., and George W. Longstreet, who were employed in the stamp department of the bureau of engraving and printing, are under arrest and the detectives are looking for William A. Beach, who was until recently employed in a billiard room in a hotel in the city, and a man, whose name is believed to be Simmerslitz. Both men left Washington Thursday for the purpose of selling stamps.

Friday Smith made a proposition to the police authorities to turn state's evidence and make a full confession they would sign a paper guaranteeing him full protection. He said he would implicate government employes much higher than himself. He was told that such protection could not be granted. Smith then told the authorities that he knew where Beach was, but would go to jail before he would tell his whereabouts. The authorities are at a loss to know what to make of Smith's offer, as he has told so many conflicting stories since his arrest.

CHINA WANTS PEACE,

But the Victorious Japs Refuse all Overtures.

The Central News (London) claims to have the highest authority for the statement that overtures looking to a declaration of peace between China and Japan were made a few days ago but that Japan rejected the proposals, considering them inadequate.

According to the Central News, however, there is every reason to believe that the proposals were eminently satisfactory to China, and that her representatives signified a willingness of their governments to acquiesce in them.

THE JAPANESE PARLIAMENT MEETS.

The Japanese parliament, which was convoked for a seven days' session, to consider war measures, met at Hiroshima Monday. Count Kusamoto was elected president and M. Shimada vice-president.

THE PALACE DIVIDED.

The imperial palace at Pekin is said to be divided by two factions, contending, the one for peace, the other for war. The war party consists of the Emperor, the Imperial Tutor Ung-Tungho, and Olohopu, director of the board of war. On the side of peace are the Empress Dowager, Prince Kung and Li Hung Chang.

FIRED UPON THE MOB.

Three Men Killed in an Attempt to Save a Rapist's Life.

In the criminal court at Washington Courthouse, Ohio, Wednesday, Jasper Dolby, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Mary C. Bird, of Parrott's station, a week ago, confessed the crime and was sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years. There was every prospect of a bloody fight as a great mob was in town bent on lynching Dolby, and the sheriff had two companies of state militia present to help him protect the prisoner.

A special grand jury was called. Dolby was indicted and his trial and sentence followed promptly. The county officers hoped by this means to quiet the mob and avert a fight.

As darkness came on, however, a crowd of 1,500 people surrounded the jail and had battered down the doors when they were fired upon by the guard in the fight which followed three men werekilled and ten wounded.

THE DECISION REVERSED,

And O'Brien Can Be Tried for Embezzlement.

A Chattanooga dispatch says: Last spring the county circuit court quashed the indictment against M. J. O'Brien, ex-supreme court chancellor of the Catholic Knights of America, for the embezzlement of $75,000 from that order. The decision of the court was based on the Tennessee statute which denies legal redress to corporations not having an abstract of charter granted in the state. Tuesday the Tennessee supreme court, sitting at Knoxville, reversed this decision and made O'Brien liable to criminal prosecution pending the examination of authorities cited by Mr. O'Brien's counsel.

LUMBERMEN ORGANIZE.

Saw-Mill Owners Hold a Convention at Brunswick and Elect Officers.

The lumbermen of Georgia and Florida met in convention at Brunswick, Ga., Monday. Hon. J. W. Bennett delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city. The object of the meeting was to organize for the purpose of restoring the price of lumber to living rates. No industry is more demoralized than the lumber business, owing to the unprecedentedly low price that has prevailed for the past two years.

BAD FORTY PASSES.

Debs' First Lieutenant, Mr. Howard, Traveled Like a Lord.

A Chicago dispatch says: George W. Howard, vice president of the American Railway Union, and widely known as the first lieutenant of Debs in the great strike last July, recently lost a pocketbook containing forty annual passes, and he advertised for them. The passes were over all the leading railroads, and among them was a Pullman pass. The passes were subsequently found and safely returned.

The news of Howard's loss was a great shock to laboring men. They recalled that Mr. Howard often scored labor leaders who were so faithless to their trusts as to receive subsidies from railway managers in the shape of free tickets. He was especially severe on Labor Commissioner Carroll D. Wright for having a Pullman pass.

A $120,000,000 MORTGAGE

Filed at Knoxville, Tenn., by the Southern Railway Co.

The first consolidated mortgage deed of the Southern Railway Company was filed at Knoxville, Tuesday. It includes all the road-bed, buildings and equipments of the road, in Virginia, North Carolina, South Caroline, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and the District of Columbia.

The mortgage is for $120,000,000, in favor of the Central Trust Company, of New York. Gold bonds to run one hundred years, at 5 per cent, are to be issued. The mortgage will be registered in 176 counties through which the road runs. It contains over 50,000 words, and Deputy Registrar J. L. Faulkner will require two weeks to copy it. No mortgage for as large an amount was ever before filed in Tennessee.

TO COIN A BRITISH DOLLAR.

The Government Sanctions it and it Will Be Put out in 1895.

At a meeting of the directors of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, held at London, the chairman announced that the government had given their sanction to the coinage of a British dollar for circulation in straits settlement and Hong Long. The fall in the price of silver, he said, had affected the eastern trade and lessened the export of the Mexican dollar to such an extent as to threaten the eastern colonies with a total absence of currency.

A Solid Company This.

It is stated that the report of the American Cotton Oil Company, for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1894, to be submitted at the stockholders' annual meeting at New York on November 1, 1894, will show that the company, during the year, paid off about $250,000 of its bonds, all of its interest charges, 6 per cent. dividend on its preferred stock, and earned in addition a small surplus on its common stock.

A Bank Goes Under.

The Buffalo County, Neb., National bank closed its doors Friday. The closing was caused by a $19,000 judgment against the Sands clothing house, in which the bank was interested, and a couple of directors demanding their deposits. The Sands clothing house was closed at the same time, but no other business houses have been affected so far as known. The assets and liabilities are not yet known.

The Short Day Discussed.

Friday morning's session of the International Typographical Union at Louisville was principally devoted to a discussion of the short day question. The original motion was that after September 1st, nine hours would constitute a day's work. It was finally decided that the motion be referred to referendum.

He Paid Millet's Bills.

M. Ziem, the Paris painter, relates a story of the brother of the present President of the French Republic, and Corot, the artist. M. Casimir-Perier, jr., was an intimate friend of Carot. On a visit which he made to the great artist in 1875, in his home at Verdizon, in the forest of Fontainebleau, he found Corot putting the last touches on his "Biblis" ("Nymphs in the Forest at Sunlown.") The masterpiece filled Casimir-Perier with enthusiasm, and he begged the artist to sell it to him.

"I'll give you my canvas," replied Corot, "on one condition—that you pay the butcher and baker bills of my friend Millet."

"Taken," answered the wealthy frenchman.

In Chailly, where Millet lived, the butcher and baker were asked to make out their bills and send them to M. Casimir-Perier. The art-lover was somewhat surprised when he found that Millet had lived on credit for twelve years, and that the bills amounted respectively to 22,000 and 7,000 francs, over $9,000. M. Perier paid the bills according to agreement, and carried home the Corot. The price at that time was considered enormous, as the purchaser could have bought the painting in the market for about 1,500 francs, less than $300. The bargain, however, after all was a good one, as the picture today, it is estimated, is worth about $40,000. It is still in possession of the Casimir-Perier family.—[New York Tribune.

Gaston A. Robbins

That is all right. We cheerfully nail Gaston A. Robbins' name to the mast-head of The Times as the Democratic nominee for Congress from the 4th District. He will be elected. Every white man in the district claiming to be a Democrat can with pride and a good conscience vote for him. He is an honest man. He conscientiously represented his constituens through the stormy and trying scenes of the first and extra sessions of the present Congress. He is better equipped now than when he first took his seat. He never stumbled nor flickered. He stood with his colleagues in repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and in demanding additional currency legislation to relieve the financial depression of the country.

He voted for repeal of the iniquitous McKinley tariff, which Mr. Aldrich, the Republican-conglomerate nominee, favors. Mr. Robbins offered an amendment to the present tariff law putting agricultural implements on the free list which should entitle him to the confidence of every farmer in the land. Mr. Robbins is a practical, level-headed man——there is not a ring of the visionary crank about him. He is true to his party, and will make a faithful, intelligent representative of the people.

Let the people cheerfully vote for Gaston A. Robbins.

WILL YOU JOIN THE BAND?

HE WANTS 12 CENTS FOR COTTON

Mr. N. B. Riddle, of Bayou Sara La., in the N. O. Picayune then appeals to the farmers of the entire cotton growing region of the U. S.;

"Suppose this season's cotton crop yields 10,000,000 bales with other countries to make some increase in their production we cannot look for more than 5½ cents for all we ever will produce again which is so low that we can't make enough to meet the expense of producing it. But on the other hand suppose we plant only ONE-HALF of what we did this year it would put for our crop 8 or 10 cents per pound for all we make; besides we will not be at great expense in doubling that in creasing our crops. The other half of land that we now put in cotton let us put in corn peas potatoes peanuts grass and other crops that we can use at home. Let every planter get good stocks of hogs cattle horses etc.: with our extra corn peas potatoes peanuts grass etc. we can make more money than we ever did by making so much cotton. The second year after such farming I am willing to say that cotton will bring 12½ cents per pound and we will be at but little expense to make it. Both merchant and farmer will be in better shape than at present with prospect of getting better. I venture to say that we have power enough in the cotton belt to crush all the corn in the world. Then why do we buy corn and pork when we can raise it so cheap——both mules and cattle horses hogs and just as fine hay as grows in the world? I also predict that within five after this is done if it is ever done that the people of this cotton region will be the most independent and the richest who ever lived in the world."

This is the solid truth; and we are amazed that the farmers and land-owners and merchants have not organized themselves into a Band or League to accomplish this mutual benefit. The land owner should not rent and the merchant should not advance to parties who would not obligate themselves to make an honest effort to raise corn and meat enough to supply their home necessities. But why talk?

Let no Democrat think for a minute of voting the Democratic ticket. Democracy stand, for all those principles in which the people can trust. The Populites are being looled into the Republican party. The leaders against Democracy is ever part of Ala are mostly the old——dyed in the wool——Republicans who were ousted under the charge led by the noble Houston. As they see the divisions among the white men they are crawling from their hiding place and raising such shouts of free ballot and fair count as to confuse the thinking men into opposing Democracy. They are the same unwashed haters of the south and her prosperity that they were in the days of old and they should be as thoroughly rebuked by a united Democracy as in that glorious victory of 1874.

If Mr. Aldrich the northern man who came south and got rich by having a monopoly of his skirt of coal, should be elected to congress and here should be legislation proposed whose aim would be to put coal within easier reach of the poor people, would he side with the people or with the other corporations whose interest it would be to keep up the price of coal?

If the question of putting federal soldiers around the voting places should arise as it doubtless will which side will Mr. Aldrich support?

The following Inspectors and Returning Officers have been duly appointed to serve at the various voting places in said county at an election to be held in said state and county on the 6th day of November 1894.

The Law Will Talk.

Senator Mills is right in discussing other subjects than the tariff on the stump in Texas. Beyond necessary explanation of its provisions in the way of information there is no occasion to discuss the tariff for the next two years.

The new law will speak for itself. What is the use of high tariff and rhodomontade when facts are talking? What sense in theorizing when experience is giving object lessons? If the prices of many necessaries go down as business men's advertisements prove to be the case is it not folly to continue arguing that the tariff is not a tax or that the foreigner pays it? The statesman refute the statesman Wanamaker the shop-keeper is more convincing than McKinley the candidate. If free raw material proves a blessing to manufacturers and workmen alike are they not sure to know it? If lower duties mean more commerce both ways—a greater purchasing capacity here and better markets for our products abroad—can the fact be concealed by partisan harangues?

If the income tax shall relieve the poor of a portion of their burdens without oppressing the rich will not the fact appear? Demonstration is ever stronger than declamation. The law is speaking for itself. It will continue to talk for the next three years. The rappers on both sides might better save their breath. After ten years of tariff discussion the people have an earache. Give them a rest.

World

The Grand Jury of Dallas County returned 109 true bills and in citing gambling they have this to say: all violations of law have claimed our attention, but one more prolific of shameless perjury and most productive of more degradation was found to be that of gambling. It hardens the old, it victimizes the young, and deadens the consciences of both. To the young, it blights the present and blasts the future, and leads to dishonor greater than the act itself. Some men who, in all relations of life, stand up in their integrity and promptly resent impugnment of their veracity, come before a grand jury and, on their sacred oaths, deliberately testify with the boldest effrontry in a manner known to them to be false. This, doubtless, is the greatest evil of all. It stifles the honest prompting of consciousness destroys moral sensibility and cannot fail to even annihilate there own self-respect. The next Grand Jury of Chilton County should make dilligent inquiry as to gambling in our bounds and bring to justice both white and black.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the teachers of Chilton County at Clanton Sept. 29 1894.

We the teachers of Chilton County in Institute assembled deem the Public School System of Alabama inadequate to the development of a good citizenship and that the Public Fund is entirely inadequate. Therefore be it resolved: 1st, That we urge all citizens of the county to take an active interest in this important question.

2nd. That we urge our representatives to use all possible means to secure an improved system and to increase our Public Fund.

3rd, That we ask the people of the county co-operate with us in our effort to better our common school.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Miss. Mamie Gooden of Alpine is visiting Mr. Lowery's family.

Marrying and giving in marriage has become the order of the day in Clanton. Report says there are yet other weddings to take placer.

The friends of mr. and Mrs. Matthews rejoice to know that little Sam is in a fair way to recover.

Master John Evans has been sick for a few days, but we trust he will soon be able to say "I am well".

A faithful citizen-ship, a citizenship devoted to upbuilding the country will do more to drive out illicit whiskey making and selling than all the detectives that can be placed in Chilton county. Have we that citizenship?

Mr. Jonathan Rice of Strasburg called to see us Monday and informed us, that his people are pleased with Miss Beulah Henry, who is teaching school. We extend a cordial welcome to Miss Henry.

Those who step into the law office and editorial room of Charles W. Hare scarcely recognize the once dusty printing office. He has had the room neatly painted and furnished so that it presents an inviting appearance.

The Elite Literary and Musical Society of Clanton holds weekly meetings at the home of Mrs. Hester every Friday night. Their programes are full of interest.

A WIFE'S advice is generally better than it appears. Take it and go to Alex Rice Montgomery and buy your Men's and Children's Clothing.

On the first Monday in November Prof. A. B. Harwood will begin a public school at Aldridge's School House. Parties desiring their children transferred to that school should at once attend to the matter.

The Chilton County Alliance meets today at Collins chapel near Strasburg.

Delegates were elected to attend Kolb's Montgomery convention and then it was moved that every member of the Peoples Party in Chilton county be invited to attend.

Visitors to our Exposition can save $$$ in looking over our stock before making purchases. ALEX RICE, Montgomery.

Chilton county lands will grow almost anything needful for man's comfort.

Prof. Harwood presented us with a stalk of sugar cane with seventeen joints, says he has some with 20 mature joints.

The friends of Mrs. C. W. Hare and Miss. Annie Shackelford sympathize with them in the loss of their sister, Miss. Carrie Shackelford. Miss. Carrie was one of the loveliest girls we ever knew and numbered as her friends all who knew her.

Mr. W. W. Duncan an bride have returned and have begun house-keeping in the pretty Phillips cottage.

The bride and groom were serenaded on Tuesday night last by their friends.

There were regular Sunday services in the Baptist Church Sunday

A collection for Ministerial education was taken. The Conference appointed a business Committee to meet Monthly to consider matters of discipline and other church business. The committee consists of W. I. Mullins Chairman, W. J. Sampey, Macon, W. D. Sartor and O. R. Bell. Where members are living disorderly lives this committee will first make investigation before reporting to the church.

Mr. W. C. Dickerson one of Chilton's true Democrats brightened our sanctum yesterday.

Married, at half past eight O'clock, at the residence of Mr. W. H. Middleton, by Rev. A. J. Briggs, Mr. G. W. Anderson of Springfield Tenn. to Miss Gamma Middleton. The bridal party left for the home of the groom on the 9:30 train. Every body regrets to lose Miss. Gamma from Clanton, but unite in wishing for bride ane groom a happy journey through life.

Mr. R. H. Chestnut will soon move his interesting family to Zirman's mill.

The editor of the View is enjoying the luxury of riding in a road cart and is now prepared to go after the molasses, meat, meat and corn promised by his readers Just say when?

Mr. Potts has been quite ill, but is able to sit up now.

Come in this week for beautiful photos. A rare opportunity right at home. Will leave first of next week.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.
"Castoria is a better remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

DEAR SIRS—Some time ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. My whole body was affected, my hair was all gone, and I was totally blind in one eye. I finally was induced to try a bottle of your great blood medicine, and, to the suprise of all my friends, in four weeks I was sound and well, my sight was restored and my hair grown out, and I am still sound and hearty, and have never felt a symptom of the disease since taking the V. Nickel Steel the Coming Metal.

Though nickel was used for coins two centuries before Christ, it is only recently that the discovery of the remarkable properties of its alloy with steel has brought it into general commercial prominence. The tensile strength of this alloy—nearly one-fifth greater than that of ordinary steel, while its ductility remains the same—will doubtless cause it to supplant common steel in many places where great strength is required. For instance, the American Atlantic liner Paris has been supplied with a spare length of shafting of this alloy. It is said that this casting has a tensile strength of about 90,000 pounds, thus leaving existing British or German steel shafts quite a respectable distance in the rear. The production of nickel has increased within ten years from 1,000 tons per annum to over 5,000 tons, while before 1876 not more than 600 tons were produced in any one year. The most noticeable increase has been in the manufacture of nickel steel, ostensibly for armor plates and guns, but it is not likely that its use will stop here, especially as the price tends steadily downward.—Age of Steel.

No Pay, No Light.

Of the Europeans in the service of the king of Corea, only one draws his pay quite regularly, viz: the electrical engineer at the palace. The king and his court are terribly afraid of ghosts, and consequently sit up at nights. Only magicians and the electric lights are capable of laying the specters. Whenever the engineer's salary is not paid to the day, the electric current suddenly gives out and does not resume its activity until all arrears have been settled.

Gone Out of Business.

A most important branch of business in the human mechanism is that transacted by the kidneys. If your kidneys have gone out of business, look out! Soon they will become diseased, unless they resume the payment of their debt to nature. Use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters at the start and all will be well. Employ it, too, for malarial and dyspeptic troubles, constipation, liver complaint and biliousness.

Never have children habitually sleep with older persons.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS,

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Rev. Dr. Minnegerode, former pastor of Christ's church, of Richmond, Va., Jefferson Davis' church, died at Alexandria, Saturday afternoon.

One of the finest business blocks in Houston, Texas, was burned early Monday morning. The loss was very heavy, possibly one million dollars.

The large reservoir of the Tecumseh Iron Works, at Tecumseh, Cherokee county, Ala., caved in, causing its entire destruction. The loss is $5,000.

There was a wholesale jail delivery in Gadsden, Ala., Sunday night. At about 8 o'clock the jailer went in to lock up the prisoners, when he only found four men to lock up, and on investigation he discovered that eight men had gone.

There is great and growing discontent throughout the whole cotton producing region of Mississippi over the arbitrary and unreasonable manipulations of the cotton oil trust which dictates and enforces the price of cotton seed.

The new naval dry dock at Port Royal, S. C., is expected to be completed within a month. In anticipation of this, the bureau of yards and docks has contracted with Rittenhouse, Moore & Co., of Mobile, Ala., to dredge out the channel necessary to open the dock to our large, new battleships.

The United Mine Workers of Alabama held their annual meeting at Birmingham and elected the following officers: John G. Smith, president; William Malley, secretary and treasurer; J. B. Atkins, vice-president; John Stitch, W. G. Cantley, Dick Hooper and H. B. Hamper, executive board.

A new turn was taken Monday in dispensary matters at Greenville, S. C., which will lead to more complications. Warrants were issued for the arrest of a number of citizens and some of the police, who were present at the time the attempt was made to search Sol Edel's house. The warrants will be executed at once and the old sore will again be opened.

The Lumber Trade Journal, of New Orleans in its issue of Monday shows the following lumber exports from southern ports for the month of September: Total value of timber exported, $277,178; lumber, $654,189; manufactures of lumber, $74,829; total value, $995,259, against $579,504 for August, or a gain for the month of $415,775.

The express officials at Richmond, Va., now think that the Quantico train robbers did not get over five thousand dollars. Mr. Murray, who handled the pouches and cut them open for the robbers, says he is satisfied from feeling of them that the amount did not exceed this. He says the bonds were all saved, as he threw them in a pile of stuff the robbers discarded.

A rumor to the effect that the headquarters of the western system of the Southern Railway will be removed from Washington to Knoxville, has gained circulation in the latter city. It is believed to have some foundation as Knoxville was headquarters for the old East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system which is now the western system of the Southern.

Seven prisoners effected their escape from the parish jail at Shreveport, La., Saturday morning, four of whom were convicted by the recent term of the criminal court for lifetime service. They used an old file and a pair of scissors to dig out of the prison. They began work Friday morning at 11 o'clock and Friday night's electrical storm afforded the opportunity desired to complete the work. Deputy sheriffs are in pursuit.

A disastrous fire broke out Monday in the feather, wool and jute shop of Cline & Bernheim, at Nashville. The building, together with its contents, was destroyed, entailing a loss of about $20,000. The hardware store of Dudley & Black and L. H. Hitchcock & Son, on either side, were badly damaged by water and smoke. The total loss will probably amount to $50,000.

A strike of the weavers at the Hathaway and Acushnet mills at New Bedford, Mass., is threatened. When a settlement of the recent strike, which involved all the mills in the city, was reached, one of the conditions was that the mills were to conform to the demands of the weavers' particulars law. All of them have done so to the satisfaction of the weavers except these corporations.

Monday Emperor William unveiled the monument erected at Wiesbaden, Prussia, to the memory of his grandfather, Emperor William I, and in the evening he opened the new royal theater, erected by the town at a cost of 4,000,000 marks, and granted by the emperor a subsidy of 250,000 marks yearly. The beautiful watering place was crowded with enthusiastic Germans to witness the ceremonies and the town was brilliant with holiday bunting.

A special from Harrisburg, Pa. says: Iron and steel mills in this locality are enjoying an era of unprecedented prosperity. At the Pennsylvania Steel Works the production of rails and Bessemer steel the past week was the heaviest of years. The three furnaces in blast averaged nearly three hundred tons daily. For three days the Bessemer mill averaged 120 blooms every twenty-four hours. The rail mill made 4,000 tons of rails during the week, the largest production in its history.

Ready to Move Forward.

The New York Herald's special cable dispatch from Shanghai, Wednesday morning, says: "Fifteen thousand Japanese troops, under Field Marshal Oyama, are encamped across Regent's Sward promontory, to the north of Port Arthur and within sight of the naval stronghold. They are waiting for a favorable moment to move forward, while outside the port the Japanese cruisers are ready to intercept all arrivals seaward.

TRADE TOPICS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Business is still waiting for the development of retail trade. There is a little better demand in some industries, but not so good in others. Wholesale dealers in nearly all branches are halting because retail business does not yet show distinctly what it is to be. Lower prices for the great farm staples and lower wages in some establishments hinder purchases for consumption, while political interest and uncertainty also have some retarding influence. Meanwhile large imports and small exports of merchandise with inadequate employment for money here are raising the rates of foreign exchange, so that possibilities of gold exports sometimes affect the stock market. The halting attitude for the money is disturbing to those who have looked for continued gain, though rightly considered it is the natural consequence of conditions which were to be expected at this season.

"Reports from the different cities show, as they did a week ago, that while extreme low prices for cotton and wheat are checking retail purchases in the west and south, there is nevertheless a gradual gain. Monetary movements indicate that the expected expansion of interior trade has not been wholly realized, and the demand for currency from this city has materially slackened. The demand for commercial loans is weaker, and 3 per cent is quoted for prime four months' paper. Foreign imports for two weeks have been $6,900,000, of 56 per cent larger than last year, while in exports of domestic products a decrease of 11 per cent appears for two weeks in October. Yet custom receipts for the two weeks are only $280,000 larger than last year, and internal revenue $1,280,000 smaller.

"The iron industry records a larger production in September than in any other month this year, but as prices are gradually weakening because of insufficient demand for finished products, some works are preparing to close or shorten time.

The demand for cotton goods has materially slackened, and prices have been irregular, although resumption of work at Fall River and New Bedford with only five per cent lower wages indicates confidence in the future. The woolen mills still have numerous belated orders for fall goods, but the demand for spring does not increase, though in nearly all the lower-priced products domestic makers appear able to command most of the business that exists.

"Failures for the week ending October 4th show liabilities of $1,714,276, of which $805,885 are of manufacturing and $892,391 are of trading concerns. The final report for September shows liabilities of only $7,307,124, of which $3,254,373 are of manufacturing and $3,710,092 of trading concerns. The failures of this week have been 231 in the United States, against 293 last year, and forty-three in Canada, against forty-two last year.

A RICH HAUL.

Highwaymen Rob an Express Train and get Nearly $200,000.

The north-bound express between Richmond, Va., and Washington, leaving Richmond at 7 o'clock Friday night, was held up by a gang of robbers at Aquia creek. As the train rolled into the station two masked men leaped upon the engine, covered the engineer and fireman with revolvers and forced them to leave the locomotive. In the meantime a number of confederates in the daring deed were engaged in uncoupling the express car and driving therefrom the passengers. This done the engine pulled up the road about a mile, bearing only the express car. The safe was rifled.

It is believed that the robbers secured in the neighborhood of $180,000, as an unusually large amount of money went out of Richmond Friday evening, to say nothing of the through currency. When the men secured their swag they started the locomotive off at a rapid rate of speed, alighting themselves. On towards Washington rumbled the engine with no one at the throttle until it reached Guantico, which place is only thirty miles this side of the national capital.

As soon as the other train officials realized what had happened, the news of the flying locomotive was telegraphed ahead and a number of cars were rolled upon the track at Guantico to stop the engine and probably prevent loss of life as well as property. The engine crashed into the cars demolishing them and playing havoc with itself. The messengers, according to reports received, were not hurt. They were B. F. Crutchfield and H. Murray, both of Richmond. The safe in the express car was not blown open. One of the messengers was carried up the road and commanded to open the casket of treasure which he did in compliance to the dictates of half a dozen pistols. There were seven robbers in the gang.

The express messenger said that the safe contained $150,000. The robbers secured this and all of the express packages containing money. It is thought this amount will foot up to about $180,000.

OLIVER W. HOLMES DEAD.

His Life Was One of Good Deeds and Full of Honors.

A Boston, Mass., special says: Oliver Wendell Holmes is dead. Without the semblance of a struggle or a pain he passed away as he has lived, peacefully and beautifully. The end came at 12:10 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the venerable poet's town house, 296 Beacon street. He was surrounded by his children, and visibly conscious of their presence up to within a few minutes of the last, though unable to speak. Then he closed his eyes wearily and seemed to fall asleep, as indeed he did—the sleep of death, at which the whole world will mourn. His death was due to exhaustion following a severe attack of asthma.

Pleaded Guilty of Embezzlement.

Cashier Buchanan, of the Sonora, Texas, bank, pleaded guilty Friday morning in the United States court of embezzlement from the United States postoffice and was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary. He, with his brother, the president of the bank, and his deputy postmaster, raised $3,000 on fictitious postoffice money orders.

Squinting in Children.

Squinting, especially in children, may often be cured by blindfolding the sound eye for a considerable part of each day and thus gradually forcing the affected eye into use and obedience to the will. The surgical operation for the same purpose is extremely simple and in the hands of a properly qualified practitioner is not attended with the least danger.

ASSIST NATURE a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels and you thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need of your doctor's service.

Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Once used, they are always in favor. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and their attendant discomfort and manifold derangements. The "Pellets" are purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. No care is required while using them; they do not interfere with the diet, habits or occupation, and produce no pain, griping or shock to the system. They act in a mild, easy and natural way and there is no reaction afterward. Their help lasts.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. In proof of their superior excellence, it can be truthfully said, that they are always adopted as a household remedy after the first trial. Put up in sealed, glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, or to relieve distress from overeating, take one after dinner. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules; any child will readily take them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

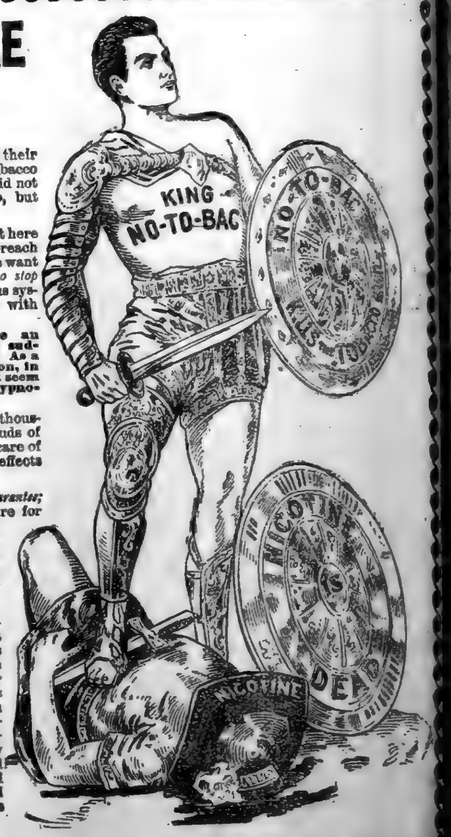
DON'T TOBACCO SPIT AND SMOKE YOUR LIFE AWAY.



Ah! what a warning this should be to millions of America's men who are daily tearing down their naturally strong physical and nervous system. Do you smile when we say that the use of tobacco is not a "habit" but a disease? Stop a moment! Did you not educate yourself to use tobacco? Did not take to it naturally? Well no! And now you want it—why? Because tobacco tastes good? No, but to gratify a desire hard to explain, and only satisfied by nicotine.

LIFE'S SHORT! The use of tobacco makes it shorter. We want to say right here that we have not the time, much less the inclination, to preach printed sermons for the sake of making a man quit tobacco, if he doesn't know that it hurts him. We want to talk to the man who realizes that he is tobacco spitting and smoking his life away; who wants to stop and can't. Do you ever stop and think that tobacco produces a diseased condition of the nervous system—so much so, that you are compelled from time to time, to feed the never ceasing demands with tobacco, and that you may have, like millions of other men,

A TOBACCO HEART? Nearly every day the newspapers give an account of some eminent man falling suddenly dead at his desk from heart disease. As a rule no middle-aged man in active business dies thus suddenly unless poisoned, and that poison, in the majority of cases, is tobacco. Meanwhile the slaughter goes on. The press and the pulpit seem muzzled, the majority being participants in the popular vice, and those who are not seem hypnotized and afraid to speak out.

VITALITY NICOTINIZED! Tobacco destroys manhood. Tens of thousands of men feel the darkening clouds of early decline upon them because nature, not exhausted naturally, but burdened with the taking care of tobacco-poisoned blood, fed day and night, has surely and slowly succumbed to the frightful effects of tobacco upon the vital forces, that makes strong men IMPOTENT and destroys their manhood.

YOU ASK FOR PROOF? Test No-To-Bac under our absolute guarantee; feel how quick No-to-bac kills the desire for tobacco, eliminates the nicotine, steadies the nerves, increases the weight, makes the blood pure and rich and tingling with new life and energy. Hundreds of letters from aged men testify to years of tobacco slavery, and tell how No-to-bac destroyed tobacco's power and brought back feelings long since dead, while sensations of a younger existence once more warmed the cockles of the old man's heart. Gloomy days were gone, the sunshine was brighter; the warbles of the little birds all spoke of love; the old man made young again and—happy.

IT IS TRUE, NO-TO-BAC DOESN'T CURE EVERYONE. What's the use of telling a lie to get caught at it? You know and so do we, that the claim "never fails to cure" is a quack lie, and fraud's talk. We do business with the good American people, appreciate their patronage, and give value received. Our guarantee is clean cut and to the point. Read it. We would rather have the good will of the occasional failure than his money. We talk about this for your own sake and to protect you from frauds and thieves—the meanest kind of thieves, who would rob you within the pale of the law. They go just far enough in the imitation of No-to-bac to practice a fraud on you and escape prosecution. Beware of the man who says, just as good as NO-TO-BAC, for it stands alone, backed by men of national business reputation and integrity, personally known to the publisher of this paper, who also is ready to indorse our guarantee. Send for our beautifully illustrated work entitled "King No-To-Bac—His Work in America," and read of the thousands not only cured of the tobacco habit, but made strong, vigorous and manly in strength, weight and vitality once again. You run no risk. No-to-bac is guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

TENS OF THOUSANDS OF TRUTHFUL TESTIMONIALS

Have been received from enthusiastic users of NO-TO-BAC. We print a few to show how NO-TO-BAC does the work. We do not want our testimonials doubted, for they are truth—pure and simple. We know it and propose to back them up by offering a reward of $5,000 to anyone who can prove that any testimonial published is false, or that we have knowingly and willingly caused to be printed testimonials that do not, so far as we know, represent the honest opinion of the writers.

Tobacco Caused Consumption—No-To-Bac Cure the Tobacco Habit and Restored Health—Gets Well.

TWO RIVERS, Wis., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Great excitement and interest has been manifested in the recovery of an old-time resident of this town. Mr. Joseph Bunker, who has for several years been considered by all his friends a hopeless consumptive. Investigation shows that for over thirty-five years he used three and a half pounds of tobacco a week. A short time ago he was induced to try a tobacco cure called 'No-To-Bac.' Talking about his miraculous recovery to-day he said: "Yes, I used No-To-Bac, and two boxes completely cured me. I thought, and did all my friends, that I had consumption. Now they say, as you say, 'how healthy and strong you look, Joe,' and whenever they ask me what cured my consumption, I tell them No-To-Bac. The last week I used tobacco I lost four pounds. This morning I began the use of No-To-Bac I weighed 127¼ pounds; to-day I weigh 129, a gain of 1½ pounds. I eat heartily and sleep well. Before I used No-To-Bac I was so nervous that when I went to drink I had to hold the glass in both hands. To-day my nerves are perfectly steady. Where did I get No-To-Bac? All the druggists in town keep it. I have recommended it to over one hundred people, and do not know of a single failure to cure." (This special telegram appeared in over 2,000 papers of the Western Union Association.)

Cigarette Habit and Tobacco Cough Gone.

OVERMAN, Ga., March 16, 1894: GENTLEMEN:—I was an inveterate cigarette smoker, consuming an average of fifty daily. I was never seen without one in my mouth. Since taking No-To-Bac the desire is gone with that everlasting cough. I feel simply fine. I am sure that No-To-Bac is all you claim, and more, too. Yours truly, JOS. HAGAN.

Brother Editors Say, "We Chewed and Smoked 40 Years—Now Cured and Happy."

VERONA, Mo., March 23, 1894. DEAR SIR:—We smoked and chewed tobacco for 40 years. February 1, 1892, we commenced using No-To-Bac. We have no desire now for the "weed" in any form, and feel much better in every way. Boys, take No-To-Bac

No-To-Bac Makes My Nerves Strong.

PITTSBURG, PA., June 18, 1894. GENTLEMEN:—One box No-To-Bac entirely cured me of the tobacco habit and strengthened my nerves, built up my system and increased my weight 14 pounds. I now praise No-To-Bac to my friends and all tobacco users. Yours sincerely, WESLEY L. ZEIDERS.

Three North Carolinians Cured.

NEUSE, N. C., May 1, 1894. GENTLEMEN:—Your No-To-Bac has completely cured myself, E. G. Hatch and W. A. Green of this place. Mr. Green has used tobacco in every form for thirty years and had used it for 15 years. We are all gaining in flesh every day. No To-Bac is truly worth its weight in gold. Yours truly, J. T. HUNTER.

OUR GUARANTEE IS PLAIN AND TO THE POINT. Three boxes of NO-TO-BAC, 30 day's treatment, costing $1.50, or a little less than 10c a day, used according to simple directions, is guaranteed to cure the tobacco habit in any form, Smoking, Chewing, Snuff and Cigarette Habit, or money refunded by us to dissatisfied purchaser. We don't claim to cure everyone, but the percentage of cures is so large that we can better afford to have the good will of the occasional failure than his money. We have faith in NO-TO-BAC, and if you try it you will find that NO-TO-BAC is to you Worth its Weight in Gold.

PUBLISHER'S GUARANTEE. We, the publishers of this paper, know the S. R. Co. to be reliable, and will do as they agree. This we GUARANTEE.

WHERE TO BUY OR ORDER NO-TO-BAC. Sold by every wholesale and retail druggist in the U. S. and Canada, or sent by mail anywhere on receipt of price—1 box, $1; 2 boxes, $2.50. Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

When the Crop's Laid By.

There's a brighter world
And a bluer sky,
When the crop's laid by,
When the crop's laid by;
The sun can blaze his best on high,
And the long, long rain can sob and sigh;
But there's still a light in the farmer's eye
When the crop's laid by!

There's a brighter world
Where the wild doves fly,
When the crop's laid by,
When the crop's laid by;
The children romp where the gold sheaves lie,
The pigs grunt happily in the sty,
And the bright head dances on the rye
When the crop's laid by!

A WOMAN'S WAY.

It was a bright winter morning, and Mr. Segrist's two pretty nieces had just come down stairs as fresh as Hebe. Very pretty girls they were, in a delicate, womanly fashion, although nobody would ever have been reminded by them of the Venus de Medici, and not an artist had ever thought of asking them to sit for a Madonna. It is the every-day style of beauty that wears best.

"So he has failed, has he?" said Cora to her uncle, who had just been promulgating the news of the day from behind his newspaper. "What a pity! and he was so nice and agreeable."

"Failed!—Mr. Kirkwood!" echoed Lisa, her cheek losing a shade or so of its bloom. "Oh, uncle, how did that happen?"

"As most failures happen, my dear," said Mr. Segrist, folding up his paper. "Too much press of canvas and too little ballast. It is a pity; he was a good young fellow enough, and this will throw him back twenty years."

Lisa sat thinking, her pansy eyes fixed intently on the pattern of the table-cloth, her red lips apart, until her sister's clear, bird-like voice roused her from the temporary abstraction.

"Upon my word, Lisa," the elder cried, merrily, "I do believe you are in a trance. Why don't you answer my question?"

Lisa started, both cheeks suddenly crimsoning.

"I—I was thinking, Cora. What was it you asked me?"

"About our ball-dresses for tomorrow evening."

"Oh, Cora," cried downright Lisa, "how can you talk about ball-dresses when—when you remember who was to have taken you there?"

"Mr. Kirkwood?" said Cora calmly. "Of course he'll not go now, but we can easily send for Cousin George."

"Then you really mean to go."

"Of course. Why shouldn't I?"

"I think he loved you, Cora," said Lisa, in a low voice; "and you thought so, too."

"He must learn to unlove me then, said the elder sister with a musical little laugh, as Cora calmly poured out a second cup of coffee for her uncle.

"But Cora," plead her sister, "it isn't as if you yourself were poor. You know we will have a little money of our own."

"Very true, dear Lisa; but I mean to keep my own and not to spend it in bolstering up the ruined fortunes of any unlucky speculator. No, no child; my husband must bring money of his own, not be a drain upon my slender resources."

Lisa shook her head.

"That sounds very sensibly," said she.

"Does it? Now I think it has for this evening-general sound to it. Do you mean book at those tulips from the green point of view?"

When the Crop's Laid By.

There's a brighter world
And a bluer sky,
When the crop's laid by,
When the crop's laid by;
The sun can blaze his best on high,
And the long, long rain can sob and sigh;
But there's still a light in the farmer's eye
When the crop's laid by!

There's a brighter world
Where the wild doves fly,
When the crop's laid by,
When the crop's laid by;
The children romp where the gold sheaves lie,
The pigs grunt happily in the sty,
And the bright head dances on the rye
When the crop's laid by!

A WOMAN'S WAY.

It was a bright winter morning, and Mr. Segrist's two pretty nieces had just come down stairs as fresh as Hebe. Very pretty girls they were, in a delicate, womanly fashion, although nobody would ever have been reminded by them of the Venus de Medici, and not an artist had ever thought of asking them to sit for a Madonna. It is the every-day style of beauty that wears best.

"So he has failed, has he?" said Cora to her uncle, who had just been promulgating the news of the day from behind his newspaper. "What a pity! and he was so nice and agreeable."

"Failed!—Mr. Kirkwood!" echoed Lisa, her cheek losing a shade or so of its bloom. "Oh, uncle, how did that happen?"

"As most failures happen, my dear," said Mr. Segrist, folding up his paper. "Too much pross of canvas and too little ballast. It is a pity; he was a good young fellow enough, and this will throw him back twenty years."

Lisa sat thinking, her pansy eyes fixed intently on the pattern of the table-cloth, her red lips apart, until her sister's clear, bird-like voice roused her from the temporary abstraction.

"Upon my word, Lisa," the older cried, merrily, "I do believe you are in a trance. Why don't you answer my question?"

Lisa started, both cheeks suddenly crimsoning.

"I—I was thinking, Cora. What was it you asked me?"

"About our ball-dresses for tomorrow evening."

"Oh, Cora," cried downright Lisa, "how can you talk about ball-dresses when—when you remember who was to have taken you there?"

"Mr. Kirkwood?" said Cora calmly. "Of course he'll not go now, but we can easily send for Cousin George."

"Then you really mean to go."

"Of course. Why shouldn't I?"

"I think he loved you, Cora," said Lisa, in a low voice; "and you thought so, too."

"He must learn to unlove me, then, said the elder sister with a musical little laugh, as Cora calmly poured out a second cup of coffee for her uncle.

"But Cora," pleaded her sister, "it isn't as if you yourself were poor. You know we will have a little money of our own."

"Very true, wise Lisa; but I mean to keep my own and not to spend it in bolstering up the ruined fortunes of any unlucky speculator. No, no, child; my husband must bring money of his own, not be a drain upon my slender resources."

Lisa shook her head.

"That sounds very worldly," said she.

"Does it? Now I think it has just the common-sensical sound to it. People must look at these things from a practical point of view."

"Uncle!" cried Lisa, almost passionately, "don't you think she ought to like him all the better because he is in trouble?"

"My dear, my dear," said the old gentleman, composedly, "I can't pretend to judge of these things. You girls must manage to settle your own affairs."

"My mind is quite made up already," said Cora Segrist calmly.

And when poor Guy Kirkwood's card came up that afternoon Bessie, the maid, came courtesying demurely down into the parlor with:

"Please, sir, Miss Cora is engaged."

Guy Kirkwood went slowly and sadly away, without answering a single word. If only she had remained true to him, but now—

Well, such was the way of the world.

"Uncle, can I speak to you for a minute?"

Mr. Segrist, setting away the piles of dusty papers in his library, started at the sound of the soft, bell-like voice.

"My child, I thought you and Cora had gone to the ball."

"Cora has gone, Uncle; but I thought I would rather remain at home, Uncle—" And here she paused and hesitated.

"Well, child, what is it?"

"You are my guardian and trustee, uncle," she went on, as if forcing herself to speak. "Will you tell me how much money Cora and I have each got?"

"About ten thousand dollars, Lisa."

"And can I do as I please with it?"

"That depends on circumstances. Probably yes."

"Well, uncle, I want to lend it to Mr. Kirkwood to help him get into business again."

"Child, for what?"

"Because he has no friends left, uncle; because I feel so sorry for him," said Lisa Segrist, with deepening color and downcast eyes. "And, uncle, he must not know who let him have it."

"Why not?"

"Oh, because I couldn't bear to have him know. It could be managed, couldn't it?"

"Yes, I suppose. But are you really in earnest, Lisa?"

"Yes, uncle."

"Well, well, child," said Uncle Segrist, smiling, though he was in reality deeply moved. "You shall have your own way."

The next week Mr. Kirkwood's lawyer informed him that ten thousand dollars lay at his banking house, subject to his draft or order at any time.

"Ten thousand dollars!" cried poor Guy, quite overwhelmed. "Who would lend me ten thousand dollars?"

"That is what I am not at liberty to inform you," said Mr. Jessop.

And it was in vain that Guy Kirkwood, marshalling in his memory all his probable and improbable friends, tried to fix the benefit upon one or the other of them. He could not piece it; he must just accept it in the spirit in which it had been given.

"And I will try to prove to my unknown friend," he said in a choking voice, "that the favor has not been bestowed in vain. Upon this foundation I will build up the beginning of a more prosperous career."

Kirkwood's words proved almost prophetic. Five years from that time he had not only regained his former position in the commercial world, but he had shot beyond it; and Cora Segrist, who in the meantime had indulged in several futile flirtations and broken off two engagements, began seriously to consider the propriety of once more spreading her net for the bird she had let fly so long ago.

"Because I really am getting quite middle-aged!" said Cora demurely; "and Mr. Kirkwood is certainly more charming than ever."

Guy Kirkwood came often to Segrist's mansion; but Cora, disposed though she was to take the most favorable view of matters, could not but see that it was more on her sister's account than her own.

"Does he really care for her, I wonder?" thought Cora; "or is it only to revenge himself upon me for the manner in which I dismissed him five years ago? Nonsense! Lisa isn't half as pretty as I am, and she never was. I shall win this battle yet."

Mr. Kirkwood had just posted a letter—a missive whereon hung his fate—directed to Lisa Segrist. For he had learned to love the shy, gentle girl, and, lacking courage to tell her so in words, he had put the substance of his heart' hope on paper.

From the post office he went directly to old Jessop's law sanctum.

"Have you paid back that ten thousand dollars, according to my orders?" he said.

"I paid it today, with legal interest, both simple and compound, for five years," answered Jessop succinctly.

"I only wish I knew whom to thank for this stepping-stone to fortune."

Old Mr. Segrist, who was sitting by, looked up queerly, over the tops of his spectacle glasses.

"What would you give to know, Guy?" said he.

"Half I am worth," was the impulsive answer.

"Well," chuckled the old man, "I can tell you on cheaper terms than that. I was bound over to secrecy for five years, but the time was up last week. Your mysterious, good angel was none other than my little niece, Lisa."

Kirkwood colored—his heart gave a great upward bound. Lisa! his Lisa! He turned silently away, and left the office.

"A curious way of acknowledging a favor!" cried Mr. Segrist a little testily.

"Hem!" commented Mr. Jessop. "There are some people who feel too little to say 'thank's,' and some who feel too much. My client, I rather think, belongs to the latter class. I do not believe he is ungrateful."

"Nor I either—on the whole," said Mr. Segrist, repenting him of his haste.

As for Guy, he went straight to Lisa.

"Lisa," he said, "I have written you a letter which you will probably receive tomorrow morning, but I cannot wait for it to come now. I have learned this evening whose hand lifted me from the deeps of poverty and discouragement—whose hidden bounty carved out a new path for me. Lisa, there is but one way to pay you; to give you myself and my whole heart, if you will deign to accept the poor return."

Lisa had grown very pale and quiet.

"No," she said, "I accept no mere tribute of gratitude."

"But, Lisa, the letter which I wrote to you before I heard these things—the letter asking you to be my wife—you must answer that now," he pleaded, refusing to let go her trembling hand. "You have said no to my second offer; what say you to my first?"

The roses had returned to Lisa's cheek, the soft light of her eyes, as she put the other hand willingly in Kirkwood's, and answered:

Sayings and Doings of the Official Heads of the Government.

Judge Cole has dismissed the petition for habeas corpus in the case of Smith, the stamp robber, and remanded him to jail for trial.

The program of the postoffice officials is to prevent the correspondence of bond investment companies from being carried through the mails and the postmaster general will order criminal proceedings instituted in every case brought to his attention.

The presidential party, including the president and family, Mrs. Perrin, Miss Rose Cleveland and the three detectives who have been at Buzzard's Bay, Mass., all summer, left that place for New York Tuesday by special train, with a director's car attached for their personal use.

While the Indian officials at one time showed a desire to appoint civilians as Indian agents in place of army officers, where army officers have been relieved, it has now been determined to fill such vacancies with army officers. The war department has been asked to designate army officers to fill vacancies in each case.

The secretary of the interior has requested the secretary of war to send troops into the Indian territory to suppress lawless bands which have been operating there and in the adjacent country. Accompanying the request was a communication which was received from the Indian territory, detailing a deplorable condition of affairs there.

According to Commodore Chadwick, chief of the bureau of naval equipment, the coal bills of the navy are steadily increasing, owing to the greater consumption of coal by modern vessels. The annual report of the bureau shows that there will be a deficiency of $80,000 in the appropriation for equipment, owing to the fact that $191,291 more was expended for coal in the past year than in the year previous.

President Cleveland and family arrived at Washington Thursday night over the Pennsylvania railroad. Private Secretary Thurber had two carriages in waiting for the party, and they were driven to the executive mansion, which has been thoroughly renovated during their absence. Two private detectives walked, one on each side of the president, guarding him closely, to prevent any such advance as that made by the crank at Dr. Bryant's house in New York.

At the present ratio existing between the treasury receipts and expenditures, the indications point to a deficit for the month of October of seven millions in ordinary expenses and of five millions in interest or a total of $12,000,000 for the month over and above receipts. This will bring the excess of expenditures over receipts for the current fiscal year to about $18,000,000. For the same period of last year the excess was $29,000,000.

Several days ago, at Washington, a baby died of smallpox and from this source has sprung five others. The child's father is an employe in the pension office, and he communicated the disease to Judge E. M. Bucker, of the law department of the pension bureau, and William Owens, a messenger in the same bureau. Judge Bucker lives at a boarding house containing twenty-six guests. Some have become frightened and left, while others are quarantined.

The postoffice department was notified Tuesday from Wilmington, N. C., of the theft of many thousands of stamps, but as yet nothing is known as to where they were taken from. The dispatch from Wilmington said that the thieves tried to ship them by express to New York, but a postoffice detectiveexamined the stamps as government property. The names of the parties implicated have been ascertained, and warrants issued for their arrest. It is expected that the robbers will be apprehended within twenty-four hours.

Orders have been issued to the Montgomery, directing that the vessel reach Mobile, Ala., on the 20th of November. She will afterwards cruise in the waters of the gulf for the purpose of testing coal mined in the southern states. The department intends to make Key West a coaling station sufficiently large to accomodate the ships cruising in its vicinity. Coaling in the Caribbean sea is expensive, and it is Secretary Herbert's intention hereafter to have our ships take coal as far as possible at Key West. He has notified the southern coal companies that a test of all coal that may be delivered free at Mobile, Pensacola or Key West, in quantities not less than one hundred tons, will be made by the Montgomery.

They are Subject to Tax.

Secretary Carlisle has made public the decision of the attorney-general on the question as to whether counties have the right to issue interest-bearing bonds of small denominations for general circulation. The attorney-general says:

"I have yours of the 17th instant, in which you request my opinion on the question whether the proposed issue of interest-bearing bonds by the county commissioners of Floyd county, Ga., will be in conflict with the banking laws of the United States. You enclose the opinion of the solicitor to the effect that such issue, if made, will not conflict with the banking laws of the United States, and, for the reasons given by the solicitor, I concur in that conclusion.

"As to the question whether such bonds, if issued, will be subject to taxation under sections 19 and 20 of the act of February 18, 1875, does not arise upon any facts now existing and is one upon which my opinion is not asked. I express no opinion respecting it."

The decision does not pass upon the question whether such bonds, if issued, will be subject to the 10 per cent. tax on currency. It is understood, however, that Secretary Carlisle holds that they will be subject to this taxation in like manner as the issue of state banks, and that in this opinion he has the support of the law officers of the government.

STRAUSS DECLINES

To Accept Tammany's Nomination for Mayor of New York.

A New York special says: The biggest sensation of a campaign that has been replete with them was sprung Friday by Mr. Nathan Strauss, who briefly, but with emphasis which meant that coaxing would do no good, declined Tammany's nomination for the mayoralty.

Though the possibility of such an act had been talked of in political circles, but little credence was given it by the general public. The aspect of a man, after having virtually accepted the most prominent office in the gift of the people of New York, declining that nomination, was so unique that most people heard the rumors and simply laughed at them. Friday morning, however, the prophets did the laughing. At about 10:30 o'clock Mr. Strauss sent his letter of declination to the Tammany executive committee. All day the big eight wrestled with the problem of successorship, and wrestled with Hugh Grant, for the members of the committee were of one mind in their desire to have the ex-sheriff and ex-mayor become the organization's candidate.

HUGH GRANT THE MAN.

Grant wasn't a bit anxious to have an honor which, under the circumstances, is a dubious honor at best, but after much persuasion he submitted the terms and conditions under which he would accept the nomination, and these were promptly acceded to by the authorized representatives of the great organization.

SMALLPOX AT THE CAPITAL.

Clerks of the Interior Department Ordered to Be Vaccinated.

Secretary Smith issued general orders Thursday that everybody in the interior department shall be vaccinated forthwith, in view of the prevalence of smallpox in Washington city. The secretary was inoculated with vaccine two days ago, and determined, if possible, that no new cases shall break out in the interior department. The rooms in the interior department occupied by Judge Bucker, one of the smallpox patients, have been disinfected and the clerks employed there were sent to their homes.

A COMBINE WANTED

WHEREBY FARMERS MAY DICTATE THE PRICE OF COTTON.

Letter from John Roddey to Southern Cotton Planters.

The Columbia, S. C., State prints the following from John T. Roddey, member of the New York cotton exchange and a son of a wealthy South Carolinian. He has for some time been advocating some concerted action by southern farmers:

To the thinking farmers of the south—For the past two years I have made cotton commissions my business, and daily have I witnessed the downward tendency of your product. If you will think for a moment, you will realize the fact that though you are the producers of this country and should be the most independent, yet you are the most dependant people in America.

"Why? Because there are combinations on nearly everything you use. The manufacturers of the north combine on everything and say what it shall bring, while you sell your product for whatever they are willing to pay you. Why cannot you protect your cotton in the same way?

"I should like, if it meets your approval, to organize a trust company called the Southern Farmers' Trust Company, for the purpose of protecting your product from the depressing influences of speculators, spinners and capitalists, and provide a means by which you can name the price for your product, instead of having the price dictated to you, as is now the case. I feel satisfied this can be done by forming a trust, which would be able to handle most of the cotton you grow.

"Let the capital stock be $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, subscribed entirely by the farmers of the south and divided into as many shares as may be necessary and small enough for every cotton planter to subscribe. Let each farmer take stock to his utmost capacity and support the trust in every possible way.

"In case you receive 10 cents for your cotton, instead of 5 cents, which you are now receiving, you save on a crop of 6,000,000 bales about $200,000,000, at least twice as much as the capital stock of the trust company. In case speculators should become frightened even at the mention of the trust and advance the price of cotton, so much the better for you, but very likely they would attempt at first to bluff you.

"I think it is now time to act. What benefits the farmer or laborer unquestionably benefits all classes. If such a plan should meet your approval, I would be more than glad to meet a representative cotton grower from each state or alliance, either in New York or in some southern city, to see if something cannot be done to bring about some benefit to the south. Something must be done or your lands will not be worth cultivating.

JOHN T. RODDEY."

A SHIP RUN DOWN.

Cut in Twain by the Steamer Paris During a Storm.

The steamer Paris, from New York, which arrived at Southampton Wednesday night, reports having encountered terrific weather with mountainous seas, which swept over her deck. On the morning of October 24, at 1:30 o'clock, during the height of a storm, she came into collision, 50 miles from the Scilly islands, with a bark or full rigged ship, the name of which it was impossible to learn. The officers of the Paris believe the sailing vessel was cut completely in two. The Paris stood by for five hours until daybreak, with her boats in readiness to rescue any of the crew of the unfortunate vessel that might be seen, but saw no trace of the ship. The vessel was struck amidships, and it is thought must have foundered immediately, all hands on board going down with her.

TRADE TOPICS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

"Cotton below 6 cents and wheat below 55 cents, each lower than ever, since present classifications were known with the exports of gold, instead of products at such low prices in October are the salient features in business this week. Distribution of goods to consumers goes on fairly at gains at nearly all points in comparison with last year, but not yet at a rate to sustain the present volume of manufacturing production, so that prices weaken a little. With many features of encouragement, business has not yet answered expectations and it is evident that the loss of part of the corn crop, and the unnaturally low prices of other great staples, affect the buying power of millions.

"Domestic exports from New York in two weeks of October were 18 per cent. less in value than last year, while the increase in the value of imports has been 27 per cent. Much of the decrease in exports is in price, but in August and September the quantity of wheat decreased over a third. Provisions and cotton gained, but oil decreased, and in minor products exports in September declined 16 per cent. The increase in imports exclusive of sugar was over 35 per cent. in September, and in two weeks of October at New York over 43 per cent. With this heavy increase in purchase and a decrease in sales of products abroad, the market for foreign exchange is in position to be quickly affected by withdrawals of capital of apprehensions regarding the future peace of Europe. It appears that three trust companies here now hold over $40,000,000 idle money and that eastern mill loans are being taken from New York by New England banks, while the northwestern demand for money is unusually small. The treasury is again falling backward in reserve, and large imports yield a little less revenue than last year, while internal revenue for the past three weeks is $4,600,000 smaller than a year ago.

"The dry goods business and textile industries were especially favored by the demand in August and September. Wholesale and then retail stocks have been replenished, and business waits for retail sales, which are as yet lower than was expected. In cotton goods the new business has been narrow and resumption by the Fall River mills has depressed prices to some extent."

"The iron and steel business makes a better showing this week. Bessemer pig having stiffened to $10.90 at Pittsburg, and at Chicago and New York further structural and bridge orders have been placed, but bar iron has fallen to 90 cents for common and $1 for steel at Pittsburg, which are prices below those current in Great Britain. There is a good demand for sheets and some good bridge contracts are reported.

"Failures in October thus far have been moderate in strictly commercial lines, the liabilities amounting to $8,341,937, of which $1,796,636 were of manufacturing and $1,996,686 of trading concerns. Some failures of banking, investment and loan companies, not here included, have not proved of general importance. During the past week the failures have been 255 in the United States against 341 last year, and forty-three in Canada against twenty-nine last year."

NEW YORK COPS INDICTED.

The Grand Jury Return True Bills for Bribery.

The New York grand jury found indictments for bribery against ex-Police Captain Michael Doherty, his former wardmen, John Hook and Bernard Meehan, and ex-Sergeants of Police George C. Ledwith, Hugh Clark, Felix McKenna, James W. Jordan and Charles J. Parkerson, all of whom were dismissed from the force several weeks ago.

It can be stated with certainty that the cases of ex-Police Captains Green, Stephenson and Devery have not yet been taken up, but that they will be considered without further delay.

The case of Captain Schmittberger is as yet undecided. It is a question whether or not the grand jury will consider it before notice is taken by the police commissioners. The following prisoners have been released on bail: Ex-Wardmen Bernard Meehan, ex-Wardmen John Hook, ex-Sergeant Hugh Clark, ex-Sergeant Felix McKenna, ex-Sergeant Charles Parkerson and ex-Sergeant J. W. Jordan.

JUST THINK!

The Selma Times says: In February, 1890, in Willard's Hall in the city of Washington, there were held sessions of the Woman's National Union. "This Union is composed of those who believe that the Woman's Suffrage Association has not gone far enough into the matter of woman's wrongs," so says the account of the meetings.

The Executive committee of this Union adopted some rash and startling resolutions. Here is a sample of them:

"Resolved, That the Christian church, of whatever name, is based on the theory that woman was created inferior and secondary to man and brought sin into the world and caused a sacrifice of a Savior. That Christianity is false and its foundation a myth.

Resolved, That every church is the enemy of progress and the chief means of enslaving woman's conscience and reason, and that therefore, as the first and most important step toward her emancipation, we should free her from the bondage of the church.

We ask the readers to stop, turn back, and read over again, and slowly these astonishing resolutions. At first reading, the full force of their mischievous import will not be gathered.

Did you note those words: Christianity is false, and its foundation a myth? Do you endorse that statement?

Here is another sweeping declaration:

'Every church is the enemy of liberty and progress, and the chief means of enslaving woman's conscience and reason.'

'Every church!' This includes the Catholics, the Hebrews, the Episcopalians, the Christians, the Baptists the Methodists the Presbyterians and all others. Are all these good people engaged in the wicked work of enslaving woman's conscience and reason?

Who believes it?

Who is this that thus assaults every church? It is the Woman's National Liberal Union.

Mr. William F. Aldrige of Alabama was the temporary secretary of the meeting at which these monstrous utterances were made. He read a number of letters from various parts of the country showing the interest taken in the 'move' ment.

Secretary Aldrich read a list of committees, he himself being Chairman of the Committee upon Organ and his wife Committee on resolutions.

Secretary Aldrich announced the following officers: President Matilda Gage; Vice-President Mrs. Josephine C. Aidrich of Alabama Treasurer Mr W. F. Aldrich of Alabama.

Mr. W. F. Aldrich of Alabama then presented some observations on public defenders. The speaker advocated the employment of a set of public officials to be called Public Defenders.

The Mr W. F. Aldrich who figured so conspicuously in this assemblage of haters of every church and denouncers of our Christianity, is the same Mr. William F. Aldrich who is now a candidate for Congress from the Fourth Congressional District in Alabama, it was fitting that a man entertaining his views should have been nominated by Hon. William J. Stevens, a negro for and in consideration of money paid in hand.

Mr. Aldrich has the legal right to hold his own opinions on all questions social political and religious. So long as he is in private life, no one will discuss his views or any of these matters. But when he aspires to represent the people in congress his opinions on all questions touching his fitness for that position are legitimate matter of inquiry.

He is a protective tariff Republican. Therefore he is not a proper man to represent a district composed almost entirely of men who are opposed to being taxed for the benefit of Yankee manufacturers and owners of coal mines.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the worth of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Circuit Court will begin November 26th.

Mrs. William Phillips gladdened her Clanton friends by a visit last week.

Mr. Joel Denn's of Prattville was a visitor to our sanctum last week.

Mrs. M. A. Hare, mother of the editor, after a visit of some weeks to his family left last Thursday to spend the winter in Florida.

Miss. Gussie Cunn, after a few weeks stay in Tennessee, is again visiting her Mrs. Caine near Sardaurg.

Messrs. Middleton of Hayneville and Birmingham were in Clanton last week to see their sister married.

Miss. Norma Thomas will assist in getting up the local items each week and we will thank our friends to inform her of news that will interest the public.

Mr. W. M. Adams of Montgomery is visiting his sister, Mrs. Dr. Stewart.

Rev. B. E. Pegin attended Moody's meeting in Birmingham last Sunday.

The editor of this paper attended court at Wetumpka Monday and heard Senator Morgan's great speech to a large audience.

Col. Wm. C. Oates favored our town with a speech last Thursday. The audience was small, but those present were well repaid for their attendance. He does not stoop to low personal abuse but discusses in a manly and intelligent way the real issues before the people.

Be sure you have your registration certificate ready for Nov. 6th and vote for Robbins.

William F. Aldrich believes in woman suffrage and is reported to have engaged in a meeting where christianity was denounced and yet he expect to be elected be the christian voters of the 4th district.

For nearly a year little Tommie Denty was a great and constant sufferer. He often craved to die and be free from pain. As he slowly moved about our streets the thoughtful observer could but feel that his stay among us would be brief. Sunday morning last his spirit left the suffering body to meet his Heavenly Father, and while we all weep with the bereaved we rejoice at the thought of his freedom from pain.

The Sunday Schools of our town united last Sunday morning at the Methodist church where they enjoyed an interesting Lecture by Mr. Shaw who also addressed them in the afternoon.

Mr. Evans Pinchard after a week's stay in Birmingham is again at his post.

Capt. Jno. M. Caldwell of Anniston delivered a good speech at Verbena last Monday. We are glad for our people to know Capt. Caldwell.

The negroes nominated Aldrich and the Populite leaders demand of their white followers to support him. White men of Chilton don't allow yourselves deceived. Aldrich is a republican, we not with the party on the tariff and money questions which are contrary to your positions and he is simply the cat of using you as cat's paws to pull the chestnuts out for his profit.

The white men of Alabama have always won in their fights against Republicanism and if they will but remain united now and in the future, they will save this land from all the ills that may arise and give safe and just rule to all the people.

Let the Democrats of Chilton do their duty from now until after Nov. 6th Visit your neighbors and urge them to vote with you for pure Democracy.

Mr. R. A. Wright of Sistrunk spent some days in Clanton this week. He removing to Hattisburg Miss. Mr Wright was the first printer's devil Chilton county ever had, and later assisted in getting off the first copy of the View.

The Congregational Conference which met here last week was largely attended and enjoyed by all. The discussions and sermons were helpful to the moral tone of the town.

Dr. Huddleston of Wadsworth came up to hear Senator Morgan.

Politics crowd out our correspondents for this week. After the election then we will give considerable space to the county news.

Let us have nothing but fair and honest dealings with each other in next Tuesday's election. We are all citizens and must live together and should strive to be in a shape to live peaceably with all men, particularly our neighbors.

The best goods are sold here the same prices that inferior goods are sold for at other places. A many people know this and have their trade. Do you? When you do we'll surely have your trade.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

V. V. V. MEDICINE Co.

DEAR SIRS—Some time ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. My whole body was affected, my hair was all gone, and I was totally blind in one eye. I finally was induced to try a bottle of your great blood medicine, and, to the surprise of all my friends, in four weeks I was sound and well, my sight was restored and my hair grown out, and I am still sound and hearty, and have never felt a symptom of the disease since taking the V. V. V.

What Is Heroism.

There are different kinds of heroism, says an exchange. To some people it is jumping into the midst of danger, and to others it is the quiet endurance of everyday troubles.

The boy who must give up his inclinations because his duty commands, who must live a life of self-sacrifice, is a greater hero than the one who in the enthusiasm of the moment sacrifices his life for another.

The boy who stood by his admiral and went down with the singing English man of war was a hero, who ought to have a tablet in Westminster Abbey, where England keeps a record of her greatest men, but he was in no respect greater than a boy we know, whose father has lately died, and he has given up his hope of a college career to go into business and help support his mother. The everyday patient, uncomplaining heroes are the truly great ones.

Where He Stood.

The married man was jumping the bachelor on the matrimonial question, having as his object a few bachelorian views.

"Well," he said after considerable discussion, "what do you think of matrimony, anyway?"

"I don't think of it at all," was the conclusive response. "I've given up all thoughts of it long ago."

Coloring Leather by Electricity.

In a new process for coloring leather by electrical action the hide is stretched upon a metallic table and covered, except at the edges, with the coloring liquid. A difference of potential is established between the liquid and the metallic table. The effect of the electric current is to cause the pores of the skin to open, whereby the coloring is enabled to penetrate deeply into its tissue.

The Oldest System of Telegraphy

Is that established between the brain and the nerves, which transmit instantaneously to the great organ of sensation and thought every shock they experience. These electric shocks are very vivid, painful and disturbing when the nerves are weak. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters strengthens, soothes, and renders the nerves tranquil. It induces sleep, sound digestion and appetite, and conquers biliousness, malaria, rheumatism and kidney trouble.

"One bed for one person" is the best rule for health and comfort.

Whole Family Helped

"My husband was troubled with Rheumatism so that he could hardly lift his hand to his head, and also had severe pains in his stomach after eating. Four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured him. Our son was all run down and Hood's Sarsaparilla built him up, and he gained 15 lbs. Our little boy Leon has also been given appetite, weight and strength by the medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me of Erysipelas, which I have had for 15 years and which is now entirely driven out of my system. Since taking Hood's I am better in every way." Mrs. H. K. BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

A CONDENSATION OF OUR MOST IMPORTANT DISPATCHES.

Short and Crisp Excerpts of General Interest to Our Readers.

Tuesday night four men robbed the postoffice and every store in the village of Watova, Ark., a station on the Kansas and Arkansas Valley railroad.

It is generally reported in Yokohama that the second Japanese army, numbering 25,000, have begun military operations for the capture of Port Arthur.

A dispatch to the London Times from Tien-Tsin, says that the Chinese officials report that a battle occurred near Yi-Chow Monday and that the Japanese were repulsed southward, with a loss of three thousand men on each side.

The Central Hotel a frame structure and one of the land marks of Raton, New Mexico, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. James Lepont, James McCool and A. L. Kennedy, railroad men who boarded at the hotel, perished in the flames.

V. W. Johnson, cashier and confidential man for Warren Springer, the Chicago millionaire, is missing, and with him $5,000 of Mr. Springer's cash. Johnson drew the money from the bank to meet the pay roll. He has left many creditors.

Stern & Company, of New York, wholesale men's furnishing goods, failed Wednesday and the sheriff closed them up on executions for $46,693. The liabilities are returned at $250,000; the assets are not known. They claim to have a large stock on hand.

The Cologne Gazette prints a dispatch from St. Petersburg, saying that, immediately upon the arrival of Princess Alix at Livadia, the final ceremonies of her reception into the orthodox church will take place, and her marriage to the czarowitz will then at once be quietly celebrated.

Hon. Thomas F. Bayard, the United States ambassador to Great Britain, addressed 1,200 of his fellow citizens at Dover, Del., Tuesday night upon the issue of the campaign. It was the first of the three political addresses—from a democratic standpoint, which Mr. Bayard will deliver in his native state.

The residence of Casimer Werk, in Westwood, O., seven miles from Cincinnati was burned Tuesday morning. Mr. Werk, deeming the house fireproof, shut the room up and waited for the fire to burn out, refusing to admit the firemen. Instead, the whole house was soon destroyed and nothing saved.

Inquiries made at the Chinese legation at London regarding the report from Tien-Tsin saying that negotiations for peace between China and Japan were in progress at Seoul, the capital of Corea, show that they do not believe it probable that such negotiations would be conducted at Seoul.

Ex-Police Judge Charles E. Morris, a prominent attorney of Springfield, Ohio, is a forger and defaulter to the extent of $20,000, and has left the country, it is supposed for Canada. The Citizens' Building and Loan Association, of which he was the attorney, and a number of estates that he represented, are the losers.

Switchmen from the principal cities of the United States met in Kansas City Tuesday to form a national switchmen's association to succeed the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, which disbanded during the recent American Railway Union strike. Representatives of the switchmen of Jersey City, New York, Buffalo, Omaha, St. Louis and other cities were in attendance.

A dispatch received from Peterhead, a seaport about twenty-five miles from Aberdeen, Scotland, announces that the Swedish schooner Alene, loaded with gunpowder, which was at anchor near Peterhead, has been blown up. It is added that within two minutes after the explosion nothing was to be seen on the surface of the water but splinters from the schooner. All her crew perished.

News was received at Fort Smith, Ark., by deputy United States marshals that the Cook gang of robbers who have been holding up trains and looting towns in the Indian Territory, raided Gibson station Wednesday. They looted all the shops, escaping with considerable booty. The band then raided the cotton fields in the vicinity and robbed the pickers at work. They are being hotly pursued by Indian police and a strong posse of deputy marshals.

President L. C. Weir, of the Adams Express company, was seen Wednesday and questioned regarding the recovery of the express pouch at Calverton, Va. He stated that the contents included some bills of lading for cotton and several thousand dollars worth of railroad receivers' certificates. The loss on these will be very small, but would cause considerable trouble to customers and the company in replacing them. Everything was recovered.

Charles J. Searcy, the Acquia Creek train robber, has made a confession which was taken down, put into typewriting and is now in the hands of the proper authorities. There were but two men concerned in the robbery, Morganfield and Searcy. They had known each other before and had talked of a scheme of that sort, but Searcy for some time refused to go into it. They finally met in Washington and there agreed to rob a train, but fixed on no particular one.

Deeds of violence which characterized the recent great railroad strike were repeated at Chicago Tuesday night at Grand Crossing and South Chicago by a gang of hoodlums. An Illinois Central suburban train was boarded by a crowd of toughs, who abused the crew, calling them "scabs." They were finally ejected. When the train reached Wildwood the depot was burning and while the trainmen devoted themselves to extinguishing the flames the miscreants set fire to a train of box cars on a side track.

Even it may seem a little paradoxical that instead of being paid for being good, you ought to be good for nothing.

THE LATEST BY WIRE

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

A Knoxville, Tenn., dispatch says: The Southern Railway Company has let the contract for five hundred hopper bottom coal cars. It was secured by the Southern Car works, of Lenoir City. The contract represents $250,000.

While the cruiser Arethuse was testing her engines at Brest, France, preparatory to sailing for the east, in order to reinforce the French squadron in Chinese waters, a boiler explosion took place on board, killing six men and badly scalding twenty others.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Central News Company says: "Several persons have been arrested here for discussing in public places a theory that the czar's malady is due to poison. A private meeting of students was surprised by the police Thursday while discussing the situation, and all present were arrested.

The trial of the Tillman liquor spies for murder commenced at Darlington, S. C., Thursday, and the court-room was crowded. Most of the state's witnesses were examined and the facts support the verdicts of the coroner's jury and the military court of inquiry rendered immediately after the murders were committed.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: Governor-elect Oates has gratified the friends of Captain Harvey Jones greatly by announcing that the gentleman would be the chief secretary in his office upon his inauguration. Captain Jones is one of the best known men in the state. He is at present recording secretary in Governor Jones' office.

General J. Whiting, of Mobile, Ala., has been re-appointed major general upon the governor's staff; his commission having expired on October 1st. General Whiting is an old soldier, having seen arduous service as colonel of the First Alabama. It will be remembered that he was the governor's mainstay in preserving order in Birmingham during the recent strike trouble.

The Hotel Normandie, at Montreal, Canada, was gutted by fire early Thursday morning. The fire, which started in the kitchen, spread with great rapidity and soon had all the avenues of escape cut off. There were a large number of guests in the hotel and nearly all had to be taken out through the windows by firemen on the ladders. The smoke was so dense that many were overcome by it and at least a score were rescued in an unconscious condition.

Jacob Schloss, a New York photographer, has begun suit in the United States circuit court against the W. D. Boyce Company, publishers of the Chicago Blade, for $275,000 damages. The Blade, in a recent issue, published April 7th, a portrait on which Schloss has a copyright, and the suit is for infringement. As the statutes allow the owner of a copyright $1 damages for each copy of the publication containing the infringement, and thus the amount of damage is put at $275,000.

At its late session the legislature of Louisiana made an appropriation for the purpose of making the positions held by the troops from that state during the terrible three days' battle at Gettysburg. Five veteran confederate soldiers have been selected from the Army of Northern Virginia and commanded by Governor Foster, of Louisiana, to visit the battlefield and cooperate with the official federal Gettysburg field command in the purpose of making history. A cordial invitation has been extended by Colonel John B. Bachelder, of the war department for the Louisiana committee to meet him at Gettysburg early in November for consultation and the location of positions of the confederate troops in the course of historic action.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has halted the Standard Oil Company in its process of absorbing the independent oil refineries in the country. A deal has been made to buy out the Producers and Refiners' Oil Company. John J. Carter, of Franklin, Pa., a stock-holder, objected and secured an injunction in the Venago county courts, by which the deal was stopped. Monday the supreme court, without discussing the question involved, made the injunction permanent.

A special from Princeton, Ill., says: The five defendants, including Mayor Lauer, who were given penitentiary sentences in the Spring Valley Pinkerton conspiracy case have been granted new trials by Judge Sharp. As a result a high state of excitement prevails and both the defendants and the action of the judge are openly denounced. It is considered that the judge unduly favored the defendants during the trial. It has been impossible to make a verdict stand in the court against any Spring Valley and Ladd conspirators, store looters and rioters.

A Chicago dispatch says: William Preston Harrison and his brother, Carter P. Harrison, who have been in control of the Times newspaper since the assassination of their father, have just learned much to their surprise and regret that the millionaire lawyer, Adolph Krans, who was corporation counsel under the last brief term of the late Mayor Harrison, had obtained control of a majority of the stock. The brothers will retire from the editorial and business management of the Times, but will retain considerable holding of the stock in the paper.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETE

For the Slugging Match Between Fitzsimmons and Corbett.

The articles of agreement to govern the coming heavy weight championship battle between James J. Corbett and Robert Fitzsimmons have been signed by both men, and the president of the Florida Athletic club, under whose auspices the contest will take place, will affix his signature to them at once.

There appears to be no obstacle now in the way of the battle taking place, and all those interested are, in consequence, thoroughly satisfied.

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

A Raleigh, N. C., dispatch says: Walter A Montgomery, the new nominee of the fusionists for associate justice has been notified that the republicans had agreed to his nomination, which the populists had so earnestly pressed.

Hector D. Lane, commissioner of agriculture of Alabama, has issued a call for a meeting of southern cotton growers, to convene at Montgomery, Ala., November 13th, to discuss the causes leading to the present depressed condition of the cotton market.

Captain Robert B. Pegram, formerly in the United States and Confederate navies, died at Norfolk Wednesday morning, aged 83. He was in the expedition to Japan in 1852 and in 1855 commanded American forces which united with the English in operating against pirates in Chinese waters.

The application for the appointment of a receiver for the Lookout Mountain properties at Chattanooga will probably be heard by Chancellor McConnell. It now seems that all parties will consent to the receivership plan, although it is expected that most of the indebtedness will be paid off within sixty days.

A wedding recently occurred near Murphy, N. C., that is puzzling a great many people. Last spring Mr. Steve Miller's wife died, leaving him with several small children. Last Sunday he married his mother in-law, which now makes him his own father-in-law and a grandfather to his own children.

The Capitol Fertilizer Company's building at Jackson, Miss., was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Insurance on building, $2,800. There was $9,000 worth of stock in the building, one-half of which was destroyed, the other half being non-combustible. There was no insurance on the stock. The company will at once rebuild.

The thirty-fourth annual state fair of North Carolina opened at Raleigh Tuesday under most auspicious circumstances with perfect weather and by far the largest and most meritorious exhibits ever made in North Carolina. Governor Carr formally opened the fair after an introduction by Julian S. Carr, president of the State Agricultural Society. Afterwards Dr. J. L. M. Curry delivered an able address.

The Rome railroad, of Georgia, known to the railroad world as the "Riverside route," has changed hands. It is now the property of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and after the 1st of November will be operated by this system under full control. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis has bought nearly every dollar of the stock of the road and comes into absolute control of the property, there being only seven shares out of the 2,500 that do not belong.

A sensation in political circles in Kentucky has been created by the democrats at Winchester, endorsing the democratic ticket in the eighth district of Kentucky and the county of Clark, drawing up resolutions calling upon the members of the next legislature from Elliott and Carter counties to vote for Breckinridge for United States senator. Captain B. A. Tracy, in introducing Breckinridge, presented him as the "next United States senator from Kentucky."

For several months negotiations have been pending at Meridian, Miss., looking to the location of a large iron manufacturing concern which embraces, consolidated, the Ivans Manufacturing Company, of New Orleans, and the Hudnut Iron Company, of Big Rapids, Mich., which will be known as the Interstate Iron Works Company, capitalized at $50,000. This new enterprise will manufacture compress pulleys, rope, lead, dredges, etc., and will give employment to a large force of skilled labor.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the south for the past week says: The output of pig iron continues on a large scale, and prices are fairly well maintained. While no large transactions are reported, the aggregate of medium and small orders is sufficient to prevent accumulation of stocks in the yards. The Southern coal operators are doing a satisfactory amount of business. The lumber market is slowing improving as to prices, and the good effects of associations of manufacturers are beginning to be seen. Low priced cotton is preventing an increase in the volume of mercantile business. Money is easy, but collections are somewhat slow.

Thirty-eight new industries were incorporated or established during the week, prominent among which are: The Roanoke Rapids Power Co., of North Carolina, capital $2,000 000; a $300,000 brewery at Jacksonville, Fla.; a 500 barrel flour mill; 500 barrel corn mill, elevator, etc., at Houston, Tex., and a $100 000 fertilizer factory at Spartanburg, S. C. Car works with $100,000 capital are reported at Fort Worth, Texas; a $50,000 medicine company at Hillsboro, Texas; a $35,000 lumber company at Stuttgart, Ark.; one with $20,000 capital at Taylor, Tex.; cotton mills at Carrollton, Ga., and Morganton, N. C., and a $10,000 tannery at Buford, Ga.

Brick works are to be established at Kinston, N. C., an electrical plant at Greenup, Ky., flour and grist mills at Heartland and Kettle Mills, Tenn., and foundries and machine shops at Elberton, Ga., Alexandria, La., and Huntington W. Va.; ice factories will be built at Jacksonville and Lakeland, Fla. and Patterson, La.; oil mills at Alexander City, Ala. and Morrilton, Ark., and woodworking plants at Glendon and Jemison, Ala., Tampa, Fla., Tallapoosa, Ga., High Point and Flat Rock, N. C., Hattiesburg, Miss., Jackson, Tenn., Taylor, Tex., and Moundsville, W. Va.

Waterworks are to be built at Abbeville, Augusta and Dawson, Ga., Lexington, Ky., and Brenham, Texas.

The new buildings for the week, as reported, include a $30,000 business house at Danville, Va.; one to cost $12,000 at Louisville, Ky., and others at Tampa, Fla., Winchester, Ky., and Huntington, W. Va.; a market house at Tallahassee, Fla.; residences at Louisville, Ky., and Asheville, N. C., and a warehouse at Louisville, Ky.—Trade report. (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

Carl Browne Again in Trouble.

Carl Browne, the Coxeyite, who tried to make a speech from the steps of the sub-treasury, is now in police headquarters at New York, a prisoner. Browne applied to the authorities for permission to lead a Coxey parade through Wall street. A permit was refused. He, however, attempted to carry out his program in spite of opposition, and was promptly arrested.

MACON'S EXPOSITION.

The Attractions of the Interstate Dixie Fair Will Be Par Excellence.

As usual when our Macon friends get right down to business, they are sure to make a success of the Dixie Interstate Fair. Advices received from the secretary's office say that the exhibits in all the departments and the special attractions will be better than have ever been known in the State of Georgia. The attendance of many thousands of people is the only thing that gives the managers any concern. The problem now seems to be to care for the people and the secretary has found it necessary to advertise in the local papers for all persons who are willing to take visitors during the fair, to send their names to his office. It would seem, therefore, that while every inducement is being offered to crowd the city with visitors, no effort will be spared to make them comfortable while there. To our farmers we would say that if they would like to see what their neighbors are doing in the way of producing from Georgia soil let them go to Macon any time between October 23d and November 8th and they will find enough to astonish them in that line. Many people in our own county are sending entries in the several departments, and this is a assurance that considerable interest is being taken in this section in the coming Dixie Interstate Fair. Besides field crops, in which the premiums are very liberal, the Georgia farmer is given an opportunity to see what he can do in the way of stock-raising. The premium offers in this department are exceedingly liberal. The following specimens taken at random from the premium list will show what is being done in that line.

Best Stallion, 3 years old and over, and three of his colts—first premium, $25.00; second premium, $15.00.

Best Brood Mare and Suckling Colt—first premium, $20.00; second premium, $10.00.

Best Mare, 3 years old and over—first premium, $15.00; second premium, $10.00.

The individual making the largest and best display of products grown or produced by him or her, or under his or her direction, $3 00.

The individual making the second best display as above, $150.

The individual making the third best display as above, $100.

Best Display of Garden Vegetables grown and exhibited by one person—first premium, $25.00; second premium, $15.00.

But while the farmer is being instructed he will also be entertained. The list of special attractions prepared for the Dixie Interstate Fair is a long one. We mention the celebrated Midway Plaisance which is in itself worth a trip to Macon. At the recent St. Louis Fair, which closed last week, the attendance on the Midway Plaisance in one day was 95,000 people. This gives some idea of the popularity of this great attraction and the wonderful hold it has on the people.

The enterprise shown by the managers of Dixie Interstate Fair in securing this great attraction is only in keeping with the entire management of this whole exposition. But not content with that, they have secured, at enormous expense, Pain's celebrated pyrotechnic and spectacular production known as the "Last Days of Pompeii." This production will be given for six nights during the fair and will afford our people the last opportunity they will probably have in some time to see it. In addition to the Fall of Pompeii and other brilliant fire-works there will be produced from time to time portraits in fire of many of the distinguished personages of the day. Close neighbors as we are to Macon, with the cheap railroad fares furnished, we can afford to look in on our Macon friends often during the continuance of the fair, and the time can be profitably and pleasantly spent. The hospitality of Macon is proverbial and she has never failed in this particular. Our people will give her an earnest support and we know that there will be a gathering there such as will make us glad to see.

The Duke of Wellington was called the Achilles of England, from the victory at Waterloo.

Charles I. was called the Man of Blood by the Puritans, and the Royal Martyr by the royalists.

William Hogarth was dubbed the Juvenal of Painters, from the satirical character of his works.

The imperial guard at Peking, which is drawn from the banner army, consists of eight regiments.

Thomas Moore was the young Catullus, Melodious Bard and the Pander of Nonus, from the character of his works.

Correggio was called the Ariel of the Italian Renaissance, because of the light, airy, cheerful character of his paintings.

Among the Turks the bodies of the dead are held in extreme reverence, though the cemeteries are used as picnic grounds.

Heavy deposits of black sand, of about the firmness of ordinary beach sand, are found at various points along the Pacific coast.

The mummification of human bodies was practiced by the Egyptians from prehistoric times until after the Sixth century of our era.

A piece of flagging on Grasswell road, London, weighing 217 pounds, was lifted out of place by the growth of toadstools beneath it.

The Egyptian embalmers preserve not only the human body, but also the bodies of cats, monkeys, sacred bulls and some other animals.

Sowter was the old name for a shoemaker hence Sowter, Sutor, Sutter, and from another name cobble, cobbler, cobber, cobbet and others.

Arizona has produced more than $800,000,000 of precious metals. The exports of silver have exceeded $5,000,000 a year and of copper $4,000,000.

An inquiry instituted among the London free libraries shows that Mrs. Henry Wood, Edna Lyall and Rider Haggard are the most popular writers.

Funeral orations are of the highest antiquity. Before written history began they were pronounced over the bodies of kings and heroes.

Waters, Watson, Watterson, Watkins, Watkinson and some others are sons of men called Water, because he lived on the bank of a stream.

The most ancient tombs in the world, so far as known, are those of the Theban kings of Egypt. They are believed to be more than four thousand years old.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

TO PUT ON needed flesh, no matter how you've lost it, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It works wonders. By restoring the normal action of the deranged organs and functions, it builds the flesh up to a safe and healthy standard—promptly, pleasantly and naturally. The weak, emaciated, thin, pale and puny are made strong, plump, round and rosy. Nothing so effective as a strength restorer and flesh maker is known to medical science; this puts on healthy flesh not the fat of cod liver oil and its filthy compounds. It rouses every organ of the body to activity, purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood so that the body feels refreshed and strengthened. If you are too thin, too weak, too nervous, it may be that the food assimilation is at fault. A certain amount of bile is necessary for the reception of the fat foods in the blood. Too often the liver holds back this element which would help digestion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery stimulates, tones up and invigorates the liver, nourishes the blood, and the muscles, stomach and nerves get the rich blood they require.

M. J. COLEMAN of 11 Sergeant St., Hamburg, Man., writes: "After suffering from dyspepsia and constipation with untold agony for at least 18 months, I am more than pleased to say that after using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets' for one month, I was entirely cured, and from that day to this I do not know, thank God, what even a slight headache is. I paid a doctor on Tremont St., Boston, in one day (for his advice only,) the sum of $10.00 with $3.50 for medicine, and derived no benefit. I got more relief in one hour from your medicines, as far as my stomach was concerned, than from all the other medicine I used.

The Best Thing in Milk Pails is Pearline. That's the solid truth. You get them cleaner, and with less work and fuss, than with anything else you can use. It saves you so much that it's cheaper than the commonest stuff can be. Proof—the largest dairies and dealers use Pearline.

Some women are afraid of Pearline. They think that where cleaning is made so easy, there must be some harm to the thing washed. But Pearline can't hurt milk pails, anyway. And it can't hurt the finest lace or the softest hands, any more than it hurts milk pails.

When the Wind Blows.

Oh, the dancing of the leaves,
When the wind blows!
And the rushing noise of trees,
Shouting, shrieking on the leas,
Like the sound of seething seas,
When the wind blows!

Oh, the bending of the boughs,
When the wind blows!
The moan and the quiver
Of reeds along the river—
That sink, and rise, and shiver—
When the wind blows!

Oh, the shifting of the clouds,
When the wind blows!
Sailing swiftly on between
The wide blue world and the green
Throwing shadows o'er the sheen,
When the wind blows!

Oh, the drifting of the snow,
When the wind blows!
Showing in the cold moonlight
Fallen trees hidden under white,
Like great ghosts in bed at night,
When the wind blows!

Oh, the comfort of the fire,
When the wind blows!
To hear the song and the chat
Of the kettle and the cat,
And the cricket on the mat,
When the wind blows!

TRACED BY A BUTTON.

When I was on the detective force—by the way, my name is Jack Hinds, son, at your service—I had a case on my hands that baffled me. I wanted to get on, for I was at that time engaged to Kitty Pease, and she had said that though she was very fond of me she did not mean to marry me until I had enough to marry on, which I should have as soon as I had found out the party who committed a certain murder.

Mrs. Jeffries, a rich, miserly sort of old lady, had been found dead in her bed, murdered by some one. No one knew who it was.

Everybody was under suspicion—a man servant who had been dismissed weeks before; a dissipated nephew who had quarrelled with her; a peddler; a man who had mended the roof. But it seemed likely that no one would be actually proved guilty. To be sure, the nephew would come in for her property, being her only relative, but though he had been to the door that evening he had been seen to go away again, and the servant had to call for help before the bedroom door could be broken in.

The only clue that I had was a bit of black cloth clutched tight in the dead woman's hand—a find bit of old black broadcloth torn in quite a singular shape. We hid the fact that this had been found from the newspaper men, and I was looking for the coat it had been pulled off of. That would be my chance.

The dismissed servant was a waiter, but I bribed myself into a chance of seeing his black coat off duty, and it had not been torn or patched. I hunted up the nephew's boarding-house and got into his room under pretense of having been sent from the telegraph office to see the wires, but his clothes were all of thick, coarse cloth. I talked these things all over to Kitty, and she set her wits to work to help me. She asked me to let her go to the old lady's house and show her the room she slept in, and she went out on the roof, as I had done many a time, and went along first in one direction and then in another, looking at all the scuttle doors, until I thought she would go off into the street, but she stopped at the last of the row and beckoned me. I hurried up.

Close to the scuttle door lay a little black button.

"This belongs to the garment the bit of cloth came from," she said. "There are blacks and blacks. This is a button that matches that black. Not a blue black, nor a brownish black, nor a rusty black, but a black that is almost invisible green. Do you know Mr. ——?"

"It's a very respectable first-class boarding house," said I.

"Will they take ladies?" she asked.

"If they are well introduced."

"I shall go there to board."

Next day I got a card from her—she hadn't been in the habit of having cards—with that address on it. I called. She came down to see me in her best black silk, with her bonnet and mantilla on.

There was an old lady in the room. She introduced me to her and then said she was ready. I took the hint. We went out together.

"Of course you know why I came here," she said. "I'm spending all my salary and wearing my best clothes, but I've found something out already. Mrs. Jeffries's nephew calls here sometimes. He calls on a young widow who has the upper front room. He has been engaged to her for some time."

She paused a long time and then said: "He was here the night of the murder."

"Well," I said, "has she let him out upon the roof?"

"I wish you wouldn't ask me any questions," said Kitty, "I shall know before long. When I send for you come at once. Will you let me have that bit of cloth?"

"It's more precious than diamonds," I said.

Her answer was:

"Yes, I know it." She put it into her pocketbook. "I have changed my room," she remarked. "I'm next to her. There is a locked door between us. That is all. And I have made a peephole."

"You are a born detective, but as this widow is respectable you can't watch young Jeffries that way."

"Yesterday," she said without answering me, "Jeffries called. I saw him coming in the street and hid behind a screen in the parlor. I should have pretended to be asleep in a chair there had I been seen, but no one found me out. She came to him, and he talked like an innocent man.

"'The poor old woman has done me a great injury by getting herself murdered,' he said. 'I believe I'm suspected, because I shall profit by her death. Why, what do they take me for? I wonder who killed her? They say nothing was gone.'

"'Whoever it was, you ought to be thankful that the crabbed creature is dead,' she said. 'Some common burglar of course. She'd scream and shriek if she saw one at her jewel-case and get herself killed.'

"'Well, poor old woman, I'd have been his death if I had been near,' Jeffries said. 'She wasn't half bad. She never made a will and left things away from me, as she might, after I told her I'd never cringe to her for her favor. Hang it, I wish I wasn't her heir! People will suspect me secretly perhaps. I can prove I wasn't inside the house that night, but you know how the papers talked. Poor Bitzner, the roofer, came to me and cried over what they said about him. Kill Aunt Jessy! Why, good Lord!'——

"'You used to call her Aunt Jezebel,' said the widow. 'Mrs. Mull is her name.'

"'Yes I'm sorry I did, but she had a temper,' said Mr. Jeffries. 'I've a mind not to take the money.'

"'Then I shan't take you,' said Mrs. Mull. 'Such an idiot! I should be ashamed of you.'

"She hoped" Kitty handed me an address on a piece of paper. It was Mrs. Preston Mull, at a certain number, Chestnut street. It is her mother-in-law. Can you send our Mrs. Mull—Eliza Mull—a telegram saying, 'Come at once to this address?'" she asked.

"I can," said I.

"Do it," said she. "No, don't ask me. I am helping you. I hate my thoughts. Now take me home."

I took her home and telegraphed to the widow, and I waited and watched. I saw her get into a carriage and go away. I followed and saw her take the train. If Kitty wanted her out of the way she was safe.

A few hours afterward I received a note:

"Disguise yourself as an old woman and come here at once. Come in a cab. Wear a thick black veil. Send up word that you are my Aunt Agnes. Lose no time."

I lost none. As I went slowly up the stairs with my black veil down I could hear my heart beat. Kitty opened the door, called out "Why, aunty, dear!" and shut it.

"I have opened the door between my room and Mrs. Mull's," she said. "I have found something. I can't appear in this matter. You must see for yourself."

She led me into the handsome room and went to a wardrobe. There, from beneath other dresses, she drew a plainly cut coat, or redingote, of thin black cloth, with many buttons down the front, and spread it on a chair. About the height of the knees a piece was torn away and a button gone.

"Hush!" she said. "We don't know who may be listening. "Make no sound."

Then she took the bit of cloth from her pocket, fitted it to the rent and laid the button on it.

"The piece of cloth found in dead Mrs. Jeffries's hand came from this garment," was her remark.

"Yes," I said, "she must have disguised him in it. But—why—"

"Goosey!" said Kitty. "Mr. Jeffries could not get into this. Mrs. Mull wore it herself. Mrs. Mull killed old Mrs. Jeffries. The nephew knows nothing about it—guesses nothing. This wicked woman wanted to marry him when he had inherited the estate. She has done it. I watched her through the peephole I had made. I saw her writhe in agony, and without speaking a word, wring her hands and tear her hair. It was an awful sight, but I knew it was a guilty conscience that moved her. There—you have it all in your own hands now. I'll go and tell Mrs. G—— that I have news which must take me away, pay her my board and go with you in the cab."

I left her at her own door. Mrs. Mull was arrested at the station on her return, and it was all as Kitty said. She made full confession. She had conceived the idea of murdering the old woman that her nephew might get the money, and she had hoped the poor roof-mender would be charged with the crime.

She was a fiend in female form, but the thought that I had driven a woman to the gallows haunted me and sickened me of the detective business, which I left very soon.

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS,

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

The strike situation in New Orleans has assumed a serious phase and a race war is threatened.

The fly-wheel of the engine at Hermitage plantation, near Donaldsonville, La., broke Saturday, killing two white laborers and injuring two others.

The carriage factory of J. Thompson & Bro., at New Orleans, was burned Tuesday morning. Loss, $25,000; insurance, $20,000. Other property was damaged.

A destructive fire occurred at Phenix City, Ala., Saturday afternoon, entailing a loss of over ten thousand dollars. The fire originated from a defective flue in a building occupied as postoffice, and the flames spread very rapidly.

Forest fires are raging in the vicinity of Corinth, Miss., and a dense smoke overhangs the town. Several cotton fields have been destroyed in the outlying districts, valuable timber ruined and the country laid waste. Hundreds of farmers are fighting the flames.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: Governor-elect Oates has gratified the friends of Captain Harvey Jones greatly by announcing that the gentleman would be the chief secretary in his office upon his inauguration. Captain Jones is one of the best known men in the state. He is at present recording secretary in Governor Jones' office.

General J. Whiting, of Mobile, Ala., has been re-appointed major general upon the governor's staff; his commission having expired on October 1st. General Whiting is an old soldier, having seen arduous service as colonel of the First Alabama. It will be remembered that he was the governor's mainstay in preserving order in Birmingham during the recent strike trouble.

The case against Dispensary Constable Cain, charged with murder in the Darlington riots, was nolle prossed Monday by the solicitor in Darlington, S. C., because he was satisfied from the McLendon trial that no spy would be convicted by the Tillmanites composing the jury. So ends the attempt to bring to justice the murderers of some of Darlington's best citizens.

All the union bricklayers in Jacksonville, Fla., struck Tuesday for $3 per day for nine hours' work. They have been working ten hours at private terms. Contractors on a number of prominent buildings are not disturbed in the least, being sanguine that they can fill the men's places with ease. There was no trouble in connection with the strike, and none is expected.

Governor Stone, of Mississippi, has addressed a letter to the governors of cotton and grain growing states asking them to appoint two delegates from each congressional district and five from the state at large to the anti-option convention to be held at Vicksburg on the 20th. The governors, senators and congressmen from the several states are also extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Lively interest is already being manifested in the proposed conference of southern cotton growers to be held at Montgomery, Ala., on November 13th. Some large planters in that locality who have thought over the matter are greatly impressed with its practicability and will assist in making the meeting the success it is intended to be. The conference will be in session during Montgomery's exposition.

The complainant in the litigation against the Lookout Mountain Consolidated Company applied to the chancery court at Chattanooga, Tuesday morning for a decree declaring the suit recently instituted a general creditor's bill, and for an order on all creditors to file their claims in the cause. They also moved for the appointment of a receiver by the court and presented an amended bill in which additional complainants asked to be allowed to become parties to the original bill.

A Columbia, S. C., special of Thursday says: The anti-Tillman papers have published a report that Governor Tillman had instructed the county chairmen to drive voters away from the polls next Tuesday, and if necessary in doing so, to call upon sheriffs and constables. It was further stated that in Darlington county especially, and other counties, that Tillmanite military companies would be available to assist in this scheme. Dr. Samps Pope, the independent candidate for governor, in reference to this report issued a stirring manifesto to the voters of the state.

A conference was held at Montgomery, Ala., Monday, between Governor-elect Oates and Messrs. Mitchell and Nicholas, of Gadsden, regarding a syndicate of northern capitalists interested in the establishment of a $600,000 cotton mill in Alabama. It is reported that the subject under discussion was the repeal of the eight-hour work law as relating to cotton factories, and also the law prohibiting children under fourteen from working in such establishments. It is stated that Alabama will certainly get the factory if these laws are repealed by the legislature.

A special from Bessemer, Ala., says: There is no yielding nor modifying of the purpose of the Bessemer Land and Improvement company to erect a large steel plant costing $1,000,000. President DeBardeleben agreed with the board of directors to commence on the 1st of November and take active and the detailed management of the company's affairs. He will then go to Boston to finally perfect the plans for beginning construction. He is expected to return in time to start a force at work on the foundation by the 15th of November.

The federal court at Memphis, Tenn., will be asked by Tate Bros., of that city, to enter upon an investigation of charges that have been made against the cotton seed oil owners of the south to the effect that they have nearly all entered into a gigantic conspiracy to control the market for cotton seed, and that the combine extends all over the southern cotton states. The specific allegations that are made in the public prints refer only to the Memphis mills, and there are eight, and these are the largest in the world and the same owners control mills in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Georgia and the Carolinas.

TRADE TOPICS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business for the Past Week.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for the past week says: "Engrossing political excitement in many of the states causes a natural slackening in some kinds of business. But, on the whole, business indications are rather more favorable than they were last week. Gold exports have ceased, while a number of mills have gone into operation, and the demand for products, if not equal to that of prosperous years, is better than it has been most of the time this year. The prices of farm products do not improve much, and there are still some strikes to resist reduction of wages, so that the purchasing power of the people cannot have materially increased, but there is a more hopeful spirit which prompts greater activity. On the other hand, the record of past transactions are somewhat less favorable of late. It is interesting that, in spite of the low price of the principal southern crop, manufacturers and wholesale dealers report rather more improvement in trade with the south than with any other section.

"In iron and steel the west shows weakness, while eastern markets show more encouragement. Nothing of consequence is doing in rails, the deliveries for the year to October 1st being only 510,000 tons, much below ordinary requirements for renewals. In structural works some moderate contracts are reported, but bar iron is extremely dull, and it is stated that the low prices reported last week—95 cents for iron and $1 for steel—have been shaded in some transactions. There is a decline in wire nails, $1.90 being quoted for galvanized barbed and $2.50 for wire rods. The best feature is that the heavy increase in the output of pig does not yet seem to overload the market, and there are rather less signs of pressure to sell them of late."

New Equal Rights.

The annual convention of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association convened at Lexington Wednesday morning with twenty-eight counties delegates present. Miss Laura Clay presided over the meeting.

THE LATEST BY WIRE

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

An asylum for the insane at Joenkoeping, Sweden, has been destroyed by fire. Fifteen of the inmates of the institution were burned to death.

Captain Dreyfus, an officer in the French army, has been arrested for treason, it being alleged that he has sold plans of frontier forts to the Italian war office.

Three persons were killed and a dozen were injured at Foster, Pa., on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad Wednesday. The accident was caused by an open switch.

The Weavers of Osborn mill No. 2, at Fall River, Mass., struck Wednesday against a reduction in wages and an attempt to have them run six and eight looms on wide and fine goods.

The steamer Tormes struck Crow Rock, near Milford Haven, Wednesday night. Twenty-one men, including the captain and officers, were drowned. Seven of the crew were saved.

A reduction of 20 per cent went into effect Thursday at the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company's shops at Weatherly, Pa. The men were given the alternative of accepting it or remaining idle.

The Brandt Furniture company of Memphis, Tenn., through L. D. Harris, made an assignment Wednesday. Liabilities about $40,000; stock and other assets $50,000. The creditors are mostly foreign.

The judges of the Seine assizes at Paris without a jury pronounced condemnation in default upon Henri Rochefort, sentencing him to three months' imprisonment for having published an article in The Intransigeant insulting the judiciary.

The statement is made at police headquarters at New York that the grand jury had found indictments against Police Captain Stephenson and Wardmen Glennon, Burns and Smith, upon evidence brought out before the Lexow committee. The specific charge, it is said, is blackmail.

Two dynamite bombs, filled with scrap iron, were exploded outside of two of the police stations in Milan Wednesday evening. The fronts of the buildings were wrecked, but fortunately, no one was hurt. It is supposed the outrages were committed in consequence of the recent suppression of revolutionary societies.

A dispatch to the Central News from Tien-Tsin says: The Peking Mercury learns that the emperor is intensely angry with the existing condition of things and determines to investigate affairs personally. Accordingly, he is summoning the viceroys, governors and other officials before him. It is asserted that he intends to learn why a small country like Japan cannot be exterminated.

Prince Cantacuzene, the Russian minister at Washington, received the following telegram Wednesday morning from the foreign office at St. Petersburg, concerning the condition of the czar. "Yesterday the expectoration with blood continued; chills; temperature 100; pulse 90; rather weak; breathing difficult; little appetite; great weakness; oedema considerably increased."

The charges publicly made by Department Commander Watrous, of the Grand Army of the Republic of Milwaukee, with reference to the conduct of Phil Kearney post, of Richmond, Va., in misdirecting the funds contributed by the veterans to defray the expenses of decorating graves of Union soldiers in the south, have resulted in an investigation being instituted by Commander in Chief Lawler, as directed by the national encampment.

Stolen Political Letters.

It has been discovered that during the past week, while Chairman McGraw, in charge of Mr. Wilson's canvass, was absent in Wheeling, the democratic headquarters at Charleston, W. Va., were broken into and a number of letters from political correspondents were stolen. One of these letters, containing confidential matters as to the state's democratic campaign, was published in a Wheeling paper.

DAY OF THANKS.

The President's Proclamation Names November 29th.

President Cleveland issued the following proclamation Wednesday:

"The American people should gratefully render thanksgiving and praise to the Supreme Ruler of the universe, who has watched over them with kindness and fostering care during the year that has passed; they should also with humility and faith supplicate the father of all mercies for continued blessings according to their needs, and they should, by deeds of charity, seek the favor of the giver of every good and perfect gift. Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November, instant, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer to be kept and observed by all the people of the land.

"On that day let our ordinary work and business be suspended and let us meet in our accustomed places of worship and give thanks to Almighty God for our preservation as a nation, for our immunity from disease and pestilence, for the harvests that have rewarded our husbandry, for a renewal of national prosperity and for every advance in virtue and intelligence that have marked our growth as a people.

"And with our thanksgiving let us pray that these blessings may be multiplied into us that our national conscience may be quickened to a better recognition of the power and goodness of God and that in our national life we may clearer see and closer follow the path of righteousness.

"And in our places of worship and praise, as well as in the happy reunions of kindred and friends on that day, let us invoke divine approval by generously remembering the poor and needy. Surely He who has given us comfort and plenty will look upon our relief of the destitute and our ministrations of charity as the work of hearts truly grateful and as proofs of the sincerity of our thanksgiving.

"Witness my hand and seal of the United States, which I have caused to be hereunto affixed.

"Done in the city of Washington on the 1st day of November, in the year of our Lord 1894, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and nineteenth.

(Signed) "GROVER CLEVELAND."

"By the President:

"W. Q. GRESHAM, Secretary of State."

CAPRIVI'S RESIGNATION.

Caused a Shock of Astonishment Throughout Europe.

A cable dispatch from Berlin says: Europe has not yet recovered from the shock of surprise at Chancellor Caprivi's resignation, which was entirely unexpected. Count Von Caprivi has been heard to say, "I am disgusted." Friday he had a very lively explanation with the Emperor, who, having heard at Liebenburg of the Cologne Gazette's attack on Count Eulenburg, had telegraphed inquiries made as to its source of inspiration, which was traced to Caprivi. The Kaiser thereupon ordered Caprivi to ask Eulenburg's pardon. On his refusing, the Emperor dismissed him abruptly.

A MILLIONAIRE LUNATIC

Dies in an Insane Asylum—A Fortune in Patent Medicine.

Henry T. Helmbold, the millionaire patent medicine man, died Friday in New Jersey lunatic asylum of an epileptic fit, and his body is now unclaimed in an undertaking establishment at Trenton. The relatives have not answered the dispatch inquiring what disposition is to be made of the body.

Helmbold died suddenly in a fit. He was between fifty and sixty years old, and has been in various asylums for the last thirteen years.

The Empress Suicided.

A special to the New York Herald from Shanghai says that the young empress of China committed suicide. She was rebuked by the emperor, who slapped her face, whereupon she took poison.

McLendon Acquitted.

A special from Darlington, S. C., says that at 11:30 Saturday night the jury brought in a verdict of acquittal of the dispensary constable, McLendon, of murder.

CLANTON ALA. NOV. 8th. 1894

RULE OF THE POPULISTS

The following is an extract sent to the Republican Congressional Committee at Washington and signed by the Committee of the Denver Business Men's League, consisting of 5,000 business men—partly Republicans, partly Democrats and partly recent Populists:

'Populists rule in Colorado has been like a devastating forest fire. By destroying our credit, which is the life of commerce, it has consumed for time being not less than $300,000,000 of values in this State. Colorado's credit was so high that the borrowing power of her property ranked in the late census next that of New York. This borrowing power, the main spring of our splendid progress, has been temporarily paralyzed by the accidental ascendancy of a party which stands for repudiation and fiatism, and is not a true friend to hard silver money.

The property of Denver was assessed for $100,000,000, and was worth three times the sum when the Populists came into power. Notwithstanding the city's inevitable brilliant future the average selling price of this property, pending the overthrow of Populism, has shrunk two-thirds.

Silver has declined only 25 per cent., or less than the average products of the other States, while the increased value and output of gold together with our bountiful crops have more than made up the shortage. Therefore, not over one-half of our shrinkage of values can be charged to panic and universal depreciation resulting from the gold standard. The other one-half of loss is due directly and wholy to the destruction of confidence by Populists misrule.

So withering has this been that at the present moment even a gold mine cnnot borrow $1 on $5 worth of gold ore and send it to the smelter. Leaders are anxious to reap the rich harvest offered, but hold aloof until the election in November decides whether we are to have anarchy or civilized government. Two hundred thousand farmers from drouth-stricken States to the east of us are anxious to come here and farm by irrigation but under Populist rule we can borrow no more money with which to build irrigating canals. Manufacturing is most profitable here, but capitol shuns Populism as a pestilence.

The people of Colorado are loyal to their contracts and they are lighting up the camp fires on every hill for a campaign regardless of party, which is to overthrow Populism and re establish the credit of the State.—Denver Times-Sun.

The following report on Temperance was written to be read at the last session of the Unity Association.

Your Committee would be delighted could it give a hopeful picture of the growth of Temperance in the Unity Association but as sad as it makes us feel to say it yet regard for the truth forces us to report that many churches retain in full fellowship men of known intemperate habits. In many communities the law against the manufacture and especially against the selling and giving away of intoxicants is flagrantly violated: and and yet there seems little effort on the part of otherwise good and law abiding citizens to check the great evils.

Believing that when once God's children are aroused to the enormity of any sin that they can crush it out, we therefore most earnestly recommend to at from every pulpit the people shall be urged to forsake the habit of drink and to aid in all laudable ways, in suppressing the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicants. We would also call upon parents and Sabbath-school teachers to be diligent in impressing upon the minds of the children the horrors of the drink habit and the peace of the homes where Temperance reigns.

Committee.

The Sword Upon the Land—Where are the Watchmen?—Will the Blood be Required at Their Hands?

There is a awful responsibility on the preachers of this country. They are watchmen on the walls. When they see the sword coming they must sound the alarm. The sword is coming. Where are the watchmen? The liquor power has the country by the throat. Political parties are in its grasp. Legislatures are under its control.

Many times the judge upon the bench and the solicitor for the state its servants; grand juries and sheriffs are often its faithful allies.

In many towns and cities the mayor and council with the police are its aiders and abettors. It dictates candidates and elects them.

It takes charge of the public schools in many places and raises its brazen face as the friend to education. It flaunts its bloody banner defiantly in the face of temperance worker and challenges them to do their worst. It is intrenched behind statutes which make it the part of the law on. With twenty names upon a petition it can set up its infamous business in the midst of a thousand opposers. An army with millions of money to back it it fights its battles in secret, using bribery and every corrupt means.

It helps with its money to support the government, and is allowed, in turn, to rob the poor and ignorant and debauch society. The country grows poorer and the liquor kings get richer. Where are the watchmen? What are they doing? Of one thing I am certain, they are not sounding the alarm.

I hear some preaching as I travel over the state. It is seldom I hear this fearful liquor crime referred to. Occasionally the sin of drunkenness is held up but never a word about the drunkard makers never a word about this state partnership with the still and saloon; never a word about the awful sin of educating our children on blood money, never a word to show how the hideous monster has entwined himself about the officers of the law and is sucking the very life-blood of the nation; never a word to show that the money paid for the privilege is more than lost by the cost of courts and officers and prisons to say nothing of property lost and character lost, and souls lost.

The drunkard, the liquor vender the man who rents his house for the bar and the men who sign the petition are retained in the membership of churches. Where are the watchmen? If from every pulpit in the state the alarm was sounded and every phase of this devilish business was exposed there would be such a stir created that the old monster would tremble on his throne. Let the tyrant fall!

Men of Israel help! We can bring him down. Will we do it? If we cannot, then the pulpit has lost its power and preachers are no longer reformers.

All of the Churches in the District are earnestly requested to be represented in this meeting. Visitors are cordially invited to be with us.

J. G. Lowery, Chairman.

The indications all along the lines point to large Republican gains in several states. Hill and Tammany are defeated in New York. Alabama elects eight congressmen. Howard the Populite defeated Deason in the 7th District.

There is great rejoicing among the populites because of the Republican gains and big claims of having the next house, in which event they are sure that Republicans will count in all their defeated Aldriches, Goodwins, Gardners and Longs. We hope next week to be able to tell our readers that the Democrats still hold a safe majority in congress. To every Democrat we say let us up and at them and keep at them until complete victory is ours.

The tax Collector will on his second round be at Mineral springs Nov. 19th at Elijah Busbee's 20th at Providence Church 21st at Hayneville and Spains 22nd at Strasburg 23rd at Jemison 24th at Benson 26th at Clanton Ford 27th at Fletchers Mill 28th at Kingsboro 29th at Clanton 30th at Mountain Creek Dec. 3rd at Verbena 4th Coopers 5th at Clanton 6th at Calloways Mill 7th R. One of the most amusing circumstances connected with the late campaign was to see how constantly the patent outsides gave pictures of how the Peoples Party were roasting the Democratic and Republican parties, and yet the editorial pages gave every evidence that already the Republians had swallowed the Pops. They had been swallowed, were not aware of the fact.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it is much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

One of the best citizens and most faithful christians that Clanton ever had was Mr. A. F. Lewis. For over 10 years he moved on in the even tenor of his way serving well in times of peace and war both God and his fellow men. His health grew bad nearly one year ago and on Wednesday evening Oct. 31st he passed away. A wife two sons and one daughter survive him.

We offer our sympathies to the bereaved.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. John Marcus, of Cane creek neighborhood. She had been sick with grippe for about two weeks. She leaves a husband and eight children. To these bereaved ones we extend our heartfelt sympathies.

Died on Thursday last, Mrs. Mary Forrell of Jumbo. For many years she had been bed ridden and death came as a sweet messenger. To the afflicted ones we tender sympathies.

The unearthly hideous sounds of some owl or some other bird, or something from the Spirit Land caused hair to rise and blood to chill in the veins of those returning from the Lodge Saturday. Two of our most prominent citizens in returning from the Lodge, at Bozeman Saturday night were startled at said sounds just opposite the newly made grave of the negro boy who was killed at Mt. Creek about two weeks ago. They stopped still. Oh! horrors what a noise, one of them called to the unseen to come on, and in its unearthly language seemed to say d-w-o-n-t d-o-i-t they say they were calm and serious but the dirt on the railroad did not show it next day.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope to day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have during our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

A WOMAN'S HEART.

ONE DISEASE THAT BAFFLES THE PHYSICIANS.

The Story of a Woman Who Suffered for Nine Years—How She Was Cured.

(From the Newark, N. J., Sunday News.)

On the outskirts of a pretty little knoll in the heart of the Village of Clifton, N. J., stands a handsome residence about which cluster the elements of what is regarded by the country people around about as little short of a miracle. The house is occupied by the family of Mr. Geo. Archer, a former attache of the police department of New York City, but who now holds a responsible position with the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Archer's family consists of his wife, a sprightly little woman, who presents a picture of perfect health, and a son, twenty-seven years of age. No one would suppose to look at Mrs. Archer now that she was for nearly nine years, and less than two months ago, an invalid so debilitated that life was a burden. Yet such was the case, according to the statements made by Mrs. Archer and her relatives to a reporter who visited her pretty home recently.

In 1885 she strained herself in running to catch a boat. Then started a long spell of illness, resulting from the tax upon her strength. Doctor after doctor was consulted and while all agreed that the patient was suffering from a valvular trouble of the heart, none could afford her the slightest relief.

"Oh, the agony I have suffered," said Mrs. Archer, in speaking of her illness. "I could not walk across the floor; neither could I go upstairs without stopping to let the pain in my chest and left arm cease. I felt an awful constriction about my arms and chest as though I were tied with ropes. Then there was a terrible noise at my right ear, like the labored breathing of some great animal. I have often turned expecting to see some creature at my side. The only relief I obtained was when I visited Florida and spent several months there. On my return, however, the pain came back with renewed force.

"Last July," continued Mrs. Archer, "I was at Springfield, Mass., visiting, and my mother showed me an account in the Springfield Examiner, telling of the wonderful cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. My mother urged me to try the pills, and on November 25th last I bought a box and began taking them, and I have taken them ever since, except for a short interval. The first box did not seem to benefit me, but I persevered, encouraged by the requests of my relatives. After beginning on the second box, to my wonder, the noise at my right ear ceased entirely. I kept right on and the distress that I used to feel in my chest and arm gradually disappeared. The blood has returned to my face, lips and ears, which were entirely devoid of color, and I feel well and strong again.

"My son, too, had been troubled with gastritis and I induced him to try the Pink Pills, with great benefit. I feel that everybody ought to know of my wonderful cure and I bless God that I have found something that has given me this great relief."

Mr. Archer confirmed his wife's statement and said that a year ago Mrs. Archer could not walk one hundred feet without sitting down to rest.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is usually understood, but are a scientific preparation successfully used in general practice for many years before being offered to the public generally. They contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale or sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams's Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred.

At the Circus.

The elephant hit the bars of the tiger's cage a whack with his trunk.

"What do you want?" growled the tiger.

"I wanted to know," replied the elephant mildly, "if you knew we had gone into winter quarters?"

"Of course, I do; what do you take me for?"

"Well," smiled the elephant, "I don't have to take you for anything, thank goodness; but if I did, I suppose I'd take you for medicine," and he blew a trunkful of dust into the tiger's cage.—Detroit Free Press.

The Sensitive Oyster.

Any man who leaps heavily upon the deck of an oyster boat is likely to make an enemy of his master. It is a belief of oyster-catchers that the oyster is peculiarly sensitive to such jars. The careful oysterman never shops wood on deck when he has a cargo on board, lest he kill the oysters, and he dreads a thunder storm for the same reason. —New York Sun.

Governor Flower, of New York, started out Monday upon his six days of political campaigning through the state.

Six tons of dynamite exploded in a magazine at Chippewa Falls, Wis., Sunday morning, causing $5,000 loss in property.

Governor Waite, of Colorado, spoke to a crowd of 10,000 people on the lake front, in Chicago, Sunday, in behalf of the populist candidates.

A special of Monday says: It has been snowing steadily at Red Cliff, Col., for twenty-four hours. At Gold Park Mining camp, two and a half feet of snow has fallen.

As a result of the crusade against the bucket shops inaugurated at Pittsburg, Pa., two of these concerns have already gone out of business and others are expected to follow.

A large Hungarian boarding house at Laurel Run, Pa., was blown to atoms by dynamite at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and three of the inmates killed outright, four fatally injured and a half dozen seriously hurt.

Six thousand dollars' worth of cedar logs, together with all the buildings of the Red Cedar Bucket Factory at Murfreesboro, Tenn., were destroyed by fire Sunday, entailing a total loss that will be very great, and throwing one hundred men out of employment.

At Greenwood, S. C., while a crowd of negroes were going home from church Sunday night they were fired into by parties concealed in a railroad cut. One man was killed, one woman shot in three places, and another man hit. An investigation is now going on.

Honore Mercier, ex-premier of Quebec, died at Montreal Tuesday morning. The end had been expected any time during the preceding twenty-four hours and all hope of recovery was given up weeks ago. Mr. Mercier had been suffering from a complication of diseases for years past, diabetes predominating.

The auditor has concluded the examination of the affairs of the Normal Park Loan Association at Sprinfield, Ill., of which the late F. W. Porter was secretary, Porter also having been the auditor of the Rock Island railroad. The examination developed the fact that Porter was a defaulter to the sum of $23,000.

A special from Iron Mountain, Mich., says: The work of rescuing the imprisoned miners at the Pewabic was accomplished between 6 and 7 o'clock Monday morning, and they were hoisted to the surface without a mark, after having been entombed for more than forty-three hours. There is great rejoicing in the community.

The superior court Tuesday took up a novel case at Raleigh, N. C., that of a girl against Raleigh for $10,000 damages for the loss of an eye. This was due to the fall of a skyrocket during the celebration of the city centennial two years ago. The girl was a spectator, and while sitting on the steps of a church, a rocket fell and struck her.

Mrs. Mary A. Woodbridge, corresponding secretary of the W. C. T. U., died at Chicago Monday. Mrs. Woodbridge was known as Miss Willard's right arm, and her death is the direct result of overwork. The disease from which she died is termed embolism. Her health was exceedingly good up to a few days ago, and she died before her friends realized that she was really sick.

United States Senator Gibson was made the victim of a decided snub at a democratic mass meeting at his home at Easton, Md. The meeting was completely captured by the anti-Gibsonites, and though the senator was present, he kept his seat in the audience, and was not even invited to the platform. To make the slight more pronounced, the meeting elected anti-Gibson officers.

The Spanish cabinet resigned Tuesday because the ministers could not agree as to several measures to be introduced in the coming session of the cortes, most notably the proposal to restore the tariff. Queen Regent Christiana accepted the resignations, but is understood to have requested Senor Sagasta to form a new cabinet. Should he consent, several of his late colleagues will join him.

The Head-line steamer Ramoorehead crossed St. Simon's bar at Brunswick, Ga., Monday morning on a mean high tide, drawing twenty-three feet of water under her. She is the largest steamer that has ever loaded between Norfolk and New Orleans. Her cargo was valued at over a quarter million dollars. Her going over so easily is evident that Brunswick has deep water through Colonel Goodyear's dynamite work.

Charles Morganfield, the alleged train robber, is making a fight at Cincinnati against the Adams Express Company to recover the money taken from him at the time he was arrested. It is claimed that the express company cannot identify the money as ever having belonged to them. Morganfield's attorneys say they are armed with abundant proof that their client was not engaged in the robbery.

William Reardon, in criminal court at Pittsburg, Pa., Tuesday, raised a point of law which amounts to a legal sensation. He was defending a man charged with perjury, for falsely swearing to the age of the woman he married, and Mr. Reardon moved to quash the indictment on the ground that there was no such offense under the law, as the marriage license act was not in force and no license was required to be taken out by parties who desired to be married.

J. J. Porter & Co., wholesale dealers in millinery and notions at Pittsburg, Pa., were entirely burned out Monday. The fire started shortly after 9 o'clock and it took the entire fire department at hard work to keep the flames confined to the Porter building. Porter & Co.'s loss on stock is $30,000. The building, which was owned by E. S. Jones, the iron manufacturer, and valued at $60,000, was almost entirely destroyed.

Lundberg's variety theater, at St. Louis, was destroyed by fire Monday morning. The flames spread to an adjoining boarding house, and this was also burned. In the boarding house several persons were rescued with difficulty. The body of Albert Shaw, a porter, was found in a rear room. He had been suffocated by smoke. Two women were found unconscious in another room, but were revived soon afterwards. The money loss was small.

Fire broke out late Sunday night in the freight warehouse of the Bridge and Terminal railway in East St. Louis. The fire spread to the mass of freight cars on both sides the warehouse and burned itself out for want of material. The warehouse was filled with hay, cotton and grain. Over 200 loaded and empty cars were burned. The estimates of the loss range from a half million to three-quarters of a million dollars.

A dispatch from Muskogee, I. T., says: Charles Beck, with twenty Indian deputy sheriffs, has captured five of the Cook gang of outlaws. The men under arrest are Joseph Johnson, Moses Price, Dick Reynolds, Jim Bates and Lon Perry. The capture was made midway between Wagoner and Muskogee. The rest of the gang are in hiding near Wagoner, and the Indian police, sheriffs and deputy United States marshals are scouring the swamps. It is believed the remaining outlaws will soon be under arrest.

A fast freight train on the Pennsylvania railroad Sunday evening crashed into the rear end of a work train at Corydon station, killing three men and injuring many more. The work train was bound for Bristol, and stopped at Corydon to take on more laborers. A large number of Italian employes were on the open cars. While the men were boarding the cars the fast freight, eastbound, dashed around the curve and crashed into the rear end of the workmen's train. Many of the men had no time to escape, and they were crushed to death beneath the awful wreck.

ROASTED TO DEATH.

Eighteen Charred Bodies in the Ruins of a Boarding House.

In a fire at Seattle, Wash., early Saturday morning in a West street house, at the corner of Columbia and West streets, sixteen persons lost their lives and several others were injured. The following is a list of the transient guests as shown by the register taken from the burning building:

A. Weston, F. Bollman, R. D. Simonson, C. D. Yohnson, M. McSorley, John Chesterman, G. Hicks, Mrs. J. W. Hussman, D. Fraser, Mrs. J. Smith and friend, J. F. Clark, Charles A. Peter, James Merme, W. P. Coffery, William Matheson, M. J. Lawson, D. McDonald, city; C. L. Gibb, George J. Moon, Redmond T. Schmitt, George Bothell, C. L. Bellman, John McGuire, D. Chase, William McNair, John Kingson, city; M. G. Dedrickson, Port Blakely. A. G. Buttler, a brother of the proprietor, is missing. A number were badly injured.

Immediately after the fire sixteen charred bodies were recovered. The saddest sight of all was found in the inside room off the passageway which led to West street. There, calmly lying in a charred and blackened bed was evidently a whole family. The father lay on one side, the wife next to him and a little burned and blackened arm, the flesh falling in shreds from it and the small fingers clutched, showed that a little child was among the victims.

Crouched in a corner of a small inside room two charred and naked skeletons met the gaze. The flesh was burned from each, and the first, that of a man with blackened stumps of arms, seemed to be fighting an impending danger. Immediately behind him, also bolt upright and clutching his waist, was the skeleton of a woman. The eyes were burned from the sockets of each, but even then one could easily imagine the look of horror, the deadly fear which clung to the ill-fated couple as they fought with an unseen foe.

There were about twenty transient guests registered, and Night Clerk Butler says the hotel had about twenty permanent guests. It is absolutely known that sixteen persons perished and the next few hours may add largely to the terrible death.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the South for the past week, says: Increasing demand and more firmness in prices is reported for Southern lumber, and especially for Louisiana cypress, which is now in very general use. Low priced cotton is retarding sales, as the planters are in better condition than ever before and can hold their crops. The steady demand for Southern iron, which prevents accumulation of stocks in the furnace yards, is attracting much attention. Money is easy and mercantile business fairly good.

Forty-one new industries were established or incorporated during the week. The most prominent among them is a $600,000 cotton mill at Rome, Ga.; one is also reported at Carrollton, Ga.; and one with $50,000 capital at Laredo, Tex. The Empire Lumber company, capital $100,000, has been chartered at Houston, Texas; a coal mining company with $100,000 capital at Montgomery, W. Va., and a $50,000 compress company at Galveston, Tex. The Admant Manufacturing Co., capital $50,000, has been chartered at Van Buren, Ark., and an engineering and construction company with the same capital at Macon, Ga. Gainesville, Texas, reports a harness manufactory with $30,000 capital; a $30,000 coal and coke company has been chartered at Mt. Hope, Va.; a $15,000 grain elevator is to be built at Mobile, Ala., and a $10,000 ice factory at Roanoke, Va.

A canning factory will be built at Dyersburg, Tenn.; car works are reported at Fort Worth, Texas, and flour and grist mills at Eufaula, Ala., Somerset and Winchester, Ky., Crawford, Tex., and Parkersburg, W. Va. There is also reported the opening of coal mines near Birmingham, Ala.; of lead and zinc mines at Broadway, Va., and of a marble quarry at Dadeville, Ala. A cordage factory is to be built at Charleston, S. C.; a paper pulp mill at Chattanooga, Tenn.; a soap factory at Ashland, Ky., and tobacco factories at Louisville, Ky., and Martinsburg, Va. The new woodworking plants of the week are at Mobile, Ala., Cordele, Ga., Manchester, Ky., Greenville, S. C., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Camden-on-Gauly, Central City and Hutings, W. Va.

Waterworks are reported at Bentonville and Monticello, Ark. Among the enlargements reported for the week are flouring mills at Paisley, Ky.; iron works at Wheeling, W. Va.; paint works at Columbia, S. C.; tobacco factories at Martinsburg, Va., and wood working plants at Jeanerette, La., and Fredericksburg, Va. Among new buildings are business houses at Tuskegee, Ala.; a $30,000 courthouse at Wharton, Tex.; a $25,000 hotel at Huntington, W. Va., and a $40,000 office building at Fort Worth, Tex.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEWSY ITEMS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Sayings and Doings of the Officials Heads of the Government.

Judge Cole has dismissed the petition for habeas corpus in the case of Smith, the stamp robber, and remanded him to jail for trial.

All of the inmates of the white house were vaccinated last Monday by Dr. O'Reilly, the president's physician, as a necessary precaution in view of the appearance of smallpox in the city.

Bids for the erection of the Rome, Ga., public building were opened at the treasury department Wednesday. E. F. Dodson, of Minneapolis, Minn., was the lowest bidder at $24,606.

James P. Willett was appointed postmaster of Washington Tuesday by President Cleveland. He is a member of a well known firm of hatters and a life-long resident of Washington. He has been one of the leaders of the district democracy.

The United States supreme court Monday reversed the decision of the circuit court in the case of John C. Eno, formerly president of the Second National bank, of New York, who was convicted of forgery in the New York state courts about ten years ago.

B. F. Remington, Inspector of public buildings has just completed an examination of the Chattanooga custom house, and in his report to the treasury department he will condemn the work of the contractors, being a New Orleans firm, in unmeasured terms.

The president, Wednesday, appointed William M. Campbell, of St. Paul, to be United States marshal for the district of Minnesota, to succeed J. Adam Bede, resigned. Mr. Campbell held the office during Mr. Cleveland's first administration. Mr. Bede is the man who resigned because he was unable to keep out of active politics.

The clerks in the interior department were at work Wednesday morning about as usual, with the exception of Judge Hall's force and a few divisions from the land office. No new cases of smallpox have developed. All the patients are rapidly improving at the hospital. Secretary Hoke Smith and many of his employes are suffering considerably from vaccination.

Another death and an additional case have resulted from the smallpox epidemic which began in the law division of the interior department, and the marine hospital service is investigating a report that still another death traceable to the same source has occurred. William Owens, a young man employed in the census office as a messenger, died Tuesday morning from the disease at the pest house.

The contract for dredging and improving the Harlem river, New York, will be awarded to Rittenhouse R. Moore, of Mobile, Ala., by the war department. When proposals for doing the work were opened, the bid of Mr. Moore was found to be considerably lower than those of his competitors, the next lowest being that of a New York firm. This is probably the first time that a firm so far south has succeeded in securing such a large contract in New York.

Secretary Herbert has ordered the cruiser Montgomery to report at Mobile November 8th. The secretary will leave Washington on the 16th, and represent the government on the vessel at Mobile when the city of Montgomery presents a silver service to the vessel. After the ceremony at Mobile the Montgomery will spend a month in the gulf testing the coal from southern mines. She will visit New Orleans, Galveston, Pensacola and Key West, making Mobile bay her headquarters.

Secretary Carlisle will not make any political speeches during the present campaign. The secretary had a conference with the president Monday morning in regard to the matter. The secretary told the president that he had received a very large number of invitations to speak in different sections of the country, and would very much like to accept as many of them as he could fill, but there were a number of important questions pending in his department that imperatively demanded his presence in Washington for some weeks to come.

Secretary Herbert spent an hour with the president Saturday morning endeavoring to settle a problem which has worried the naval authorities for several months and which must be disposed of promptly. Four important commands are to be filled—the superintendent of the naval academy and naval observatory, the commander in chief of the south Atlantic station, and the commandant of the New York navy yard, the latter becoming vacant November 10th by the retirement of Admiral Gherardi. Ordinarily these details would not cause so much concern, but at present they involve most of the higher officers of the navy and numerous changes are likely to result.

Snow Falling in Nebraska.

A heavy snow began falling at Hay Springs, Neb., Sunday morning, and continued with little interruption during the day. The weather is much colder. Stock on the range, especially on that part devastated last week by prairie fires, will suffer to some extent.

Fall River Strike Ended.

Secretary Whitehead, of the Weavers' Association at Fall River, says that the strike will be declared off at once. The weavers, at a special meeting held in the Academy of Music Monday morning, voted almost unanimously to declare the strike off.

Last Year's Cotton.

For several months the statistician of the United States department of agriculture has been conducting an investigation regarding the acreage and product of cotton for the year 1893. His estimates are as follows: Acres planted in 1893, 19,535; number of bales harvested, 7,423,000.

The saddest kind of an April fool is to open a letter in which you expect to find money, and find an over-due bill.

Mysteriously Planned.

An artist who was sketching on a Japanese island found himself able to perpetrate a mysterious joke in a very simple manner. He was at work on the beach, overlooked by a crowd of villagers. He says:

I noticed then what extraordinary effects colors produce on those whose eyes are unaccustomed to them. A man in the crowd would get excited, open his eyes wide and show his teeth every time I happened to touch with my brush the cobalt blue on my palette. Other colors had not the same effect. His eyes were continually fixed on the blue, anxiously waiting for the brush to dip into it, and this would send him into fits of merriment.

I squeezed some blue paint from a tube on the palm of his hand, and he nearly went off his head with delight. He jumped about and yelled and then ran some distance and squatted on the sand, still in admiration of the blue daub on his hand, and still grinning at intervals with irrepressible enjoyment. Where the point of the joke was no one but himself ever knew.—Youth's Companion.

It is a cast iron rule that when the head of the Astor family arrives at a certain age his photograph is taken and inserted in a frame which contains also those of his predecessors. These framed photographs stand in the head office, where the business of handling the vast estate is carried on, and every day a bunch of flowers is placed in a vase in front of them.

Held by the Enemy.

If you are held captive by the enemy, rheumatism, bound hand and foot in the shackles of rheumatic gout, you have yourself to blame, because you did not check their approach in the outset, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Tackle them at once with this pain soothing, nerve quieting, blood depurating specific, and you will experience speedy relief. Biliousness, malarial, dyspeptic, liver and neuralgic complaints yield to it.

Monarch of Telescopes.

A San Francisco, Cal., special says: Ex-Senator James G. Fair is interested in a telescope building project which may result in the construction of the greatest star magnifier the world has ever seen.

The instrument will not only bring distant planets nearer than the great equatorial at Lick observatory, but it will permit as many as fifty persons to use it at the same time. The instrument has been perfected by Professor George, formerly director of the astronomical station at Melbourne, but now in the Paris observatory. There he has worked on his new telescope, which will have no tube. It will be a reflector with a mirror twenty feet in diameter. The cost will not be more than $100,000, yet it will have ten times the light-giving power of the Lick Observatory glass. Mr. McGeorge, when he had perfected his plans, began hunting for a millionaire patron. He wrote to an old friend in this city, Dr. McLean, and gave him an outline of his plans, McLean saw ex-Senator Fair and the California capitalist was so much struck with the idea that he offered to advance money to build the telescope and mount it in the Lick Observatory. The plans is to perfect the glass here and then take it to the Paris exposition, where it would soon pay for itself.

A Beautiful Thing.

The lady in her elegant victoria drove up to the great dry goods store, and, stepping daintily out, she walked into the busy place. Approaching a weary-looking girl at one of the counters, she said:

"What time do you get off duty?"

"Usually at 6, madam," replied the astonished girl, "but today at 5."

"Don't you get very tired, working so long?"

"Yes, madam; but I must work or starve."

"Well, will you let me take you for a drive of an hour, after you are through today? I am sure it will do you good."

The girl knowing the wealth and social position of the lady, blushed with pleasure and she was only too glad to accept the invitation so politely and kindly extended, and the lady, with a cherry smile and bow, walked out.

Then the man who dreamed this woke up and wondered how the mischief people could dream such improbable and ridiculous things.—Exchange

He Never Painted Feet.

Bassano said it was impossible to paint the feet of a human being so as to make them look well in a picture, so he never painted the feet of his figures. In outdoor scenes, drapery, glass, flowers and the like were utilized to conceal them; in interiors pots, pans, tables and other objects were employed for the same purpose.—Exchange.

He Was Fixed.

The young man essayed to win the daughter's hand from her father, inasmuch as he had already won her heart from her, but the old man was obdurate, and had made up his mind not to be persuaded. However, the young man went at him.

"So," stormed the old man, "you want my daughter, do you?"

"That's what," responded the youth in a dreadfully fresh fashion.

"Don't be impertinent, sir," sternly commanded the father.

"That's all right," responded the youth. "What objection have you to me as a son-in-law?"

"You don't work."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"A good deal. You can't support her, can you?"

"Of course not."

"Well, you don't expect me to, do you?" raved the old gentleman.

"No, but I've something that can."

"What's that—your father?"

"No, it's $250,000 in 6 per cent bonds, and it beats anybody's father all to pieces, and I don't do a lick of work. I even hire a clerk to cut off the coupons for me."

"Um-er-er," hesitated the old gentleman, and he took a reef in his temper until he could investigate.—Detroit Free Press.

MOTHERS

and those about to become mothers, should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription robs childbirth of its torture, terrors and dangers to both mother and child, by aiding Nature in preparing the system for parturition. Thereby "labor" and also the period of confinement are greatly shortened. It also promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child. During pregnancy, it prevents "morning sickness" and those distressing nervous symptoms from which so many suffer.

A LANDSLIDE

THE REPUBLICANS CARRY EVERYTHING.

The Solid South is Solid No Longer.

David B. Hill and Congressman Wilson Both Snowed Under.

Democracy Suffers Disastrous Defeat at Nearly All Points.

Details of the Elections in the Various States of the Union.

The election of 1894 has passed into history and the solid south is no more.

Following a phenomenal victory, in which the people were buoyant and hopeful, the disaster of defeat is fully as crushing.

Out of the wreck of the battle the salient points in view indicate the centers of popular displeasure.

Not only was Mr. Wilson, of West Virginia, defeated by his people, but his state, one that has been democratic from its birth, has elected a solid republican delegation. Nor is this all, for the next senatorship from that state will be in republican hands.

Then there is Delaware, which remained democratic under all circumstances until its senior senator accepted a place in President Cleveland's cabinet. Then it sent republicans to both branches of congress, and now that the ex-secretary, who is minister to England, has returned home to canvass the state, it finishes up the task of becoming wholly republican.

Crossing over to Tennessee, where democratic majorities have ranged as high as 40,000, the latest dispatches show Governor Turney is hanging on to an election by the skin of his teeth, with Candidate Evans claiming that he has carried the state for governor.

From the southern point of Louisiana there is a story of disaster bound to be heard from in the future, and in Virginia and North Carolina the neck and neck character of the voting was decidedly uncomfortable. Alabama is solidly democratic, as are Florida and Mississippi, while two districts in Texas await the official count.

South Carolina has been enjoying a quarrel of her own, resulting in the continued triumph of Governor Tillman, but the ugly threat is made by Dr. Pope that he is intent upon a contest, both state and federal, which is bound to invite the investigation of republican south haters, now once more in power. This is briefly the story of Tuesday's election in the southern states.

McKinley's State.

The Ohio election was simply an overwhelming republican victory, such a one as the state hasn't known since Vallandingham was buried under an avalanche of votes when he ran off to Canada. The McKinley majority of 30,000 simply isn't in it. Governor McKinley was naturally the center of attraction Tuesday night, as his friends believe this victory, which is so closely drawn on tariff lines, foreshadows his nomination to the presidency. Latest advices indicate that the majority may reach 100,000 or more.

The West Strongly Republican.

The republican cyclone swept through the west, and with results just as fatal to the democratic candidates as in New York and Pennsylvania. It is all one way through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and, up in the northwest, where democratic managers have fondly counted on building up the party, the results were just as disastrous. From the far west—the Pacific slope—the returns are necessarily very much delayed on account of the difference of time, but the early advices all point to republican gains and republican victories all along the line.

In the New England States.

In the New England and eastern states the republicans have swept things. Morton carries New York for governor by about 100,000 plurality over Hill; Strong is elected mayor of New York city over Grant and the republicans have won in two-thirds of the congressional districts. It was a genuine landslide in New York. Everything democratic went to pieces.

In the New England states everything is republican. Massachusetts sends a solid republican delegation of thirteen to the house. Connecticut sends a solid republican delegation. New Jersey goes overwhelmingly republican, electing only three democrats out of eight congressmen, and electing a republican legislature which chooses a successor to Senator McPherson, democrat. This will probably mean a republican senate as well as a republican house of representatives. Indeed the republicans gain in every eastern state. But the greatest democratic slump of all is in New York, where everything goes against the party.

The House Republican.

Latest advices from Washington state that the next house will stand: Democrats, 140; republicans, 211; populists, 4. Total, 356. This means a large working majority for the republicans. It means that Tom Reed will again be speaker. Such democratic leaders as William L. Wilson, of West Virginia; William M. Springer, of Illinois; John Tarsney, of Missouri; William D. Bynum, of Indiana; Joseph H. Oathwaite, of Ohio; John D. Alderson, of West Virginia; A. B. Montgomery, of Kentucky, and others have been defeated by republicans.

It looks like the republicans made a fight all along the line against the democratic members of the ways and means committee. Of the eleven democrats on that committee, only two will be returned to the next house. Five failed of renomination either voluntarily or involuntarily, and four were defeated in Tuesday's election. Benton McMillin, of Tennessee, and Henry G. Turner, of Georgia, are the only two democrats of this committee who go back to congress. The democratic ranks are broken all along the line.

Details of the Slump.

The election in New York city was remarkable for the general quietude that prevailed despite the intense party feeling that ran with great fierceness in every district from the battery to Spuyten Duyvil. With the exception of a few ordinary encounters there was no happening that could be called riotous in any section. There was actual disfranchisement in hundreds of cases in various parts of the city. Unfortunate fellows who, because of their illiteracy and who were allowed no guide posts behind the screens, were unable to make ballot ends meet legally and had to give up the job finally, were very many. The cause of it all was unquestionably the lack of booths. Extra booths were quickly put in place the night before election day; but all that did not alter the fact that hundreds of men in the city stood in line and had finally to see the polls closed in their faces before they could reach the ballot boxes. All the election districts in New York give Morton 124,373; Hill 127,177; Wheeler 8,749. 2,162 districts outside of New York and Brooklyn give Morton 309,567; Hill 212,514; Wheeler 4,425. The same districts in 1891 gave Fassett 236,772; Flower 219,674. Both Senator Hill and Governor Flower concede that the democratic party is beaten in the state.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Returns from West Virginia indicate republican gains throughout the state. A dispatch to the republican committee from J. W. Poe, Charleston, W. Va., says Congressman Wilson, democrat, loses heavily; Dayton, republican, is elected almost certainly, while the republican state committee claims that Wilson is defeated for congress by 1,000. Another special says that Dayton, republican, has been elected to congress from the Charleston district, defeating W. L. Wilson. Miller has also defeated Harvey in the fourth district, and the republican committee claims all four congressmen. The indications are that a republican legislature has been elected. This will give the republicans a United States senator in place of Camden, democrat.

TENNESSEE.

A Nashville special says: There is now no doubt that Henry Clay Evans is to be the next governor of Tennessee. Chairman Carroll, of the democratic state committee, reluctantly admits that the returns indicate Evans' election, while Gen. John M. Taylor and other prominent democrats say he is elected beyond question. Chairman Howell Sanders, of the state executive committee, claims Evans' election by at least 12,000. In all the big democratic counties there are heavy losses in pluralities, 4,100 in Shelby, 1,200 in Davidson, 300 in Bedford, 400 in Moore and so on throughout middle and western Tennessee, while there are republican gains in the republican counties. In middle and west Tennessee the democratic losses are due to apathy alone, as the vote was very light. Mimms, the populist, will poll less than 30,000. The republicans here were as much surprised at the result as the democrats were. The legislature will be democratic by a reduced majority on joint ballot, and a democrat will be returned to the United States senate.

MISSISSIPPI.

A special from Jackson, Miss., states that seven democrats are elected to congress from Mississippi. The vote is reported light, but no figures are obtainable.

ALABAMA.

The congressional election in Alabama passed very quietly, very little over half a vote being polled. Meager reports from the precincts show a majority of about 300 in favor of Wheeler, democrat, over Randall, populist. Conservative estimates place Wheeler's majority in Jackson county at 700. The latest returns indicate the election of all the democratic nominees. The republicans were very active in the fourth and ninth districts, but Robbins and Underwood have good majorities. In the fifth, Cobb defeats Goodwyn, leader of the populists.

TEXAS.

A Galveston special says: The weather throughout the state is fine and a heavy vote has been polled. The Galveston News predicts the usual democratic majority for state officers and the legislature, and also the election of democratic congressmen in all the districts, with the possible exception of the ninth and tenth districts. Nothing definite is yet known.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Chairman Pou, of the North Carolina democratic state committee, has advices of democratic majorities of 1,000 in Wilson county, 600 in Wayne, 400 in Buncombe and 800 in Alamance. The democrats are gaining in Franklin, where the negroes are voting solidly for that ticket. The democratic state and judicial tickets are, no doubt, elected by reduced majorities. The legislature will be democratic by a good majority. The democrats will carry seven districts certain—probably nine. The democratic vote was cut down everywhere.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The election in South Carolina was the most exciting in years. In addition to the congressional contests there has been a hot fight between the regular democratic candidate for governor, John Gary Evans, of Aiken, and Dr. Sampson Pope, of Newberry, independent candidate, supported by white men who have left the democratic party because of their bitter feeling toward the present state administration, backed by the negroes of the cities and towns. In addition to all this the state has been agitated over the question of holding a constitutional convention, which, if held, would disfranchise the negro and eliminate him from politics. This aroused the negroes, and on this question they have been supported by the independents, who wish to use the negro in the future.

In about half the counties independent tickets for the legislature were run in the hope of getting a sufficient number of members in the legislature to re-elect Senator Butler over Governor Tillman, the democratic choice for the senate. The indications are now that these tickets will fail of election in nearly every county. It was the last chance of Senator Butler.

LOUISIANA.

A New Orleans special says: Six democratic congressmen are elected from Louisiana. The vote was generally light throughout the state, only a small proportion of the negroes voting, and in some of the parishes none at all.

VIRGINIA.

When the roll of the next house of representatives is called eight, and perhaps ten, democratic congressmen will respond to their names. This, in brief, is the result of the election in Virginia Tuesday as shown from the latest returns.

The Walton election law, passed by the last general assembly, which grafts the Australian ballot on the Andrews-McCormick system, and adds the special constable feature, which all the opposition parties have raised such vigorous objections to, was given its first general trial. So far as the democrats are concerned, it worked most satisfactorily, though there is no doubt that it kept many who feared the constable or shrunk from exposing their illiteracy to refrain from voting. The republicans and populists are loud in their denunciation of the system. The vote was small as a general thing, but democratic majorities in most districts are large, the tariff having been the one issue on which the canvass was made. The result is construed as an emphatic endorsement of the legislation of the last session of congress in the matter of reform.

FLORIDA.

The vote was light all over Florida, although the weather was fine. Sparkman, democrat, had a walkover in the first district and may run ahead of the vote for Mallory, democrat, in 1892. In the second, Cooper, democrat, is opposed by Atkinson, populist. No republican nomination.

ARKANSAS.

Returns from all portions of Arkansas show that all the six democratic congressmen are elected—McCulloch first, Little second, McCrae third, Terry fourth, Dinsmore fifth and Neill sixth.

KENTUCKY.

Reports from all over the Ashland district indicate a heavy vote. The Breckinridge and exconfederate element is voting largely with the republicans for Judge Denny for congress. Owen's friends are discouraged over the outward indications at all points, but do not concede his defeat. The contest for governor is so close now that an estimate cannot as yet be made with any degree of accuracy.

IN MINNESOTA.

The returns from none of the congressional districts of Minnesota are in complete, but the few at hand indicate the election of republican candidates.

NEBRASKA.

An Omaha special says: Indications are that Holcomb, democrat and populist candidate for governor, is elected by 2,500 plurality over Thomas Majors. The legislature is in doubt, but indications point to a majority for the democrats and populists, which insures Bryan's election to the senate.

WISCONSIN BY 80,000.

The republicans have carried Wisconsin by at least 80,000, electing Upham governor over Peck, the present incumbent. The republicans also elected ten to the democrats' one congressmen, and carried the state legislature almost entire. No United States senator will be elected in Wisconsin this year.

IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

Returns from all portions of South Dakota though meager, indicate that the republican ticket, including two congressmen at large, is elected by not less than 12,000 plurality. Returns from legislative districts are not in except from cities and towns, but these fairly indicate that the legislature will be two-thirds republican. Pierre, the capital, has rolled up the largest republican majority ever known.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Meager dispatches only have been received from the election in North Dakota. Seven fusionist congressmen are reported as elected. The chairman of the democratic state committee claims the state for Budd, democrat, for governor, by 10,000.

MARYLAND.

Maryland joined the republican procession and will, for the first time in the history of the state, send more republicans than democrats to represent her in the halls of congress. Four of the six congressmen elected Tuesday are republicans, a net gain of four. Unprecedented gains were also made by the republicans in other directions and the first branch of the Baltimore city council will, for the first time, be controlled by the republicans.

IDAHO.

Returns from Idaho favor the republican state ticket and the republican congressman from Boise City district. The election of the entire republican ticket is claimed.

WYOMING.

The Australian ballot system was used in Wyoming and thus the returns are coming in very slowly. The republicans claim the state. The populists claim that they will win when the northern counties, 300 miles from a telegraph office, come in. [illegible] congressmen and the legislature by about [illegible] majority.

IN WASHINGTON.

There was a light vote cast in the state of Washington on account of bad weather. The indications are that the republican state ticket is elected by 5,000. The republicans claim 14 majority in the legislature, and there is no doubt of the election of two republican congressmen.

UTAH.

The excitement is intense all over Utah and an enormous vote was polled for delegates to congress and members of the convention to frame the constitution for the new state. It is the first state election ever held in Utah in which the lines were clearly drawn on national issues.

GEORGIA.

Georgia is to be represented in the national congress by a solid democratic delegation. The ninth, seventh, fourth and tenth districts were the ones that were regarded as the weakest democratic districts in the state, and if there was any fear at all among the party leaders it was hinged upon these districts. But they all went democratic. Congressman Tate succeeds himself in the ninth by about 3,500 majority. In the fourth Congressman Moses defeated Mr. Thornton, the populist nominee, by something more than 3,000 majority. The Seventh district went for democracy and Congressman Maddox by 1,602, according to the most reliable reports from all the counties in the district. Dr. Felton, who was the populist nominee in the district, carried five out of the thirteen counties in the district. His majorities in the district were as follows: Gordon, 150; Bartow, 500; Haralson, 260; Polk, 400, and Paulding, 375; total, 1,685. The result in the tenth was interesting, and the vote in Richmond was surprising, as many as 15,053 votes having been reported from the county alone. Of this number Congressman Black received an overwhelming majority in the county. Hancock was the only other county in the district, however, that went for Black, the majority there being about 1,000. The counties carried by Mr. Watson, the populist nominee, gave him a total majority of 4,778. The overwhelming vote reported from Richmond and the 1,000 majority for Black in Hancock offsets this total majority for the populists and gives the district to Black by something more than 5,000 majority. Speaker Crisp had but one county in his district to leave him this time and that was Taylor. His majorities in all the other counties were large, and he claims the district by at least six thousand majority, which is perhaps the largest of all the districts. Taylor county gave Mr. White, the populist candidate, only two hundred majority. Congressman Lawson succeeds himself in the eighth district by about 2,800. In the first district Congressman Lester is re-elected without any trouble at all. His majority is handsome, and the remarkable thing is that only fifty-seven populist votes were cast in the city of Savannah out of the total of more than 6,000. The second district has given Congressman Ben Russell a strikingly large majority, and this is a most complimentary endorsement of his work. Hon. Charles Bartlett carries the sixth by more than 5,000. Colonel Livingston will succeed himself in the fifth by 2,519 majority. In the eleventh Congressman Turner goes back to congress with a majority of more than 3,000.

The Total Vote in New York.

The total corrected vote for governor in New York state, Sullivan county out, stands as follows: Hill, 514,078; Morton, 667,419; Wheeler, 27,108; total, 1,208,600; Morton's plurality, 153,346; Morton's majority, 126,238.

The adoption of the constitutional amendments, of which there is little question, establishes the following principles: Laws authorizing pool selling and all forms of gambling are prohibited; election and registration boards throughout the state must be bi-partisan; no public money shall be granted to sectarian schools; the legislature is forbidden to enact laws limiting damages for injuries resulting in death; personal registration is not to be required in towns of fewer than 5,000 inhabitants; public officers shall not accept passes on railroads or franks from telegraph and telephone companies. Returns for the vote in New York city and Brooklyn on the "Greater New York" scheme indicate that a majority of the votes have been cast in favor of consolidation.

Late returns show that five republican [illegible] congressmen and the legislature by a majority [illegible]

Cook county goes republican by majorities ranging from 25,000 to 40,000. The new legislature will be republican in both branches by a majority of from 25 to 40 on joint ballot. This practically insures the re-election of Cullom to the United States senate.

The republicans have carried Indiana by upwards of 40,000, capturing both branches of the legislature. They carry every one of the thirteen congressional districts by pluralities ranging from 400, the figures by which Holman is defeated, to 12,000.

The returns now show that the republican plurality in Ohio is about 135,000. The republicans have elected nineteen of the twenty-one congressmen, beyond a doubt, and possibly one other.

A special from Columbia, S. C., says: Out of 50,000 votes reported, Pope gets 16,631, Evans 29,367. The total vote will aggregate about 65,000, and the Evans majority will approach 25,000. So far the returns show the constitutional convention—affirmative, 21,471; negative, 22,332. It is probable that the affirmative will win by a few thousand majority, but this is mere conjecture. The legislature will contain 127 Tillmanites, 30 anti-Tillmanites and 8 republicans.

A TUMBLE IN TEXAS.

Staid Old North Carolina in the Republican Column.

Special dispatches from Dallas, Tex., says: Even the rock-ribbed democratic state of Texas has parted from the faith, and partially gone over to the enemy. She was caught in the slide, not of republicans, but of populists. The democrats certainly lost two and possibly four congressmen. Nugent, populist, for governor, is running like a scared hound, and the populists are actually claiming his election. While many leading democrats are dumfounded at the cyclone which has well nigh swept the party out of existence, others are not at all astonished. They say that Cleveland and congress have utterly failed to carry out the wishes of the people, and have betrayed every trust and all confidence put in them. There is loud talk of forming a new national party with a new name, upon the best planks of the democratic-populist and old line whig platforms. The time-worn plurality of 180,000 for democracy is a thing of the past. Every return throughout the state Thursday showed phenomenal populist gains, and may possibly indicate the election of Nugent, the populists' nominee for governor. The state is claimed by both parties. The populists claim a plurality of 80,000 for Nugent, while the democrats only claim the state for Culberson by 30,000.

North Carolina, Too?

A Raleigh, N. C., special of Thursday night says: Semi-official returns from nearly every county in the state indicate that the fusion ticket, state, judicial and legislative, put out by the republicans and populists, is elected by some 20,000 majority. This gives them the state treasurer, chief justice and two associate justices of the supreme court, and five judges of the superior court. Chairman Butler, of the populists, claims the state by 30,000, and says that the fusionists will have a majority of 30 on joint ballot. This latter estimate is believed to be correct. They will have the senate by ten majority. It is not yet possible to estimate their strength in the house. Only three democratic congressmen have been elected—Woodward in the second, Shaw in the third, and Lockhart in the sixth district. Crawford is defeated by Pearson in the ninth by a very small majority.

Wedding of the Future.

Here's a sample of a wedding notice ten years hence, as foreseen by the Atchison Globe: "The bride looked very well in a traveling dress, but all eyes were centered on the groom. He wore a dark suit that fitted perfectly his manly form, a large bouquet decorated his coat lapel and in his daintily gloved hand he carried a bouquet of American beauties. His hair was cut close and a delicate odor of barbers' oil floated down the aisle as he passed. The young people will miss him now that he is married. He is loved by all for his many accomplishments, his tender graces and his winning ways. The bride contemplates a grand cruise as a honeymooner in the Klondyke and the groom will take some of the Rockefeller money with him to help pay the expenses of the journey."

TRADE TOPICS.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's weekly review of business says:

"General trade continues on conservative lines, there being little far reaching improvement in business circles as compared with a week ago, aside from the settlement of the strike at Fall river, one of the effects of which is expected to be the steadying of prices of cotton fabrics and an inducement to cloth printers to order for future delivery.

"Cotton has gone off another 1-16c. This result is a reduction in the number of orders sent from interior points to the southern centers, a closer scrutiny of credits throughout the south, and restriction in the volume of trade there.

"Alone among southern cities Chattanooga reports a relative improvement and that sales and collections for October have been better than expected. There is no change in the situation at Charleston, where the low price of cotton continues to have an effect, or at Atlanta or at Jacksonville, where travel is heavy and the prospect encouraging; or at Birmingham, Ala., which continues to report business quiet. The outlook at Memphis is less favorable and the same is true of Nashville, where payments from cotton districts are falling off. There is a decrease in the volume of trade and slower collections are reported from Augusta and fewer goods moving at Savannah. The volume of orders is smaller than expected at New Orleans and at Galveston trade is quiet and dull, although collections are fairly prompt."

FOR SEBASTOPOL.

Removal of the Remains of the Czar from Livadia.

A St. Petersburg cable dispatch says: The most solemn of religious services was held at noon Thursday in the church at Livadia, to which the body of Alexander III was removed the previous night. Masses were said in the presence of the body. The services were attended by Emperor Nicholas II, the czarina, and the prince and princess of Wales, the representatives of the various foreign powers and many others. The czar was deeply affected.

At the conclusion of the services and after the royal visitors present and the troops had viewed the body, the populace were formed in line and filed past the coffin to take a farewell look at their dead ruler. Many of those who looked upon the face of the dead czar were visibly affected and expressions of sorrow were heard on all sides. The coffin was then placed on board the cruiser Pamiat Markooria, and the journey to Sebastopol was begun.

LATEST FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

Evans Too Far Ahead for Pope to Trouble His Claim.

A Columbia special says: Latest returns confirm the opinion that South Carolina will be represented in the next congress by a solid democratic delegation. J. W. Stokes has been elected beyond all doubt in the seventh district, and each successive report from the first district increases the majority of William Elliott, democrat, over the negro republican, Murray. The defeated republican candidates in the first, seventh and fourth districts will contest the elections. Complete returns from twenty-three counties and partial returns for the other twelve, give Evans 66,197, and Pope 17,371. The counties yet to be heard from will likely increase Evans' majority. The vote on the constitutional convention on the same reports are 24,464 yes, and 25,587 no. The majority will likely be favorable to the convention when all the reports come in.

Longest Balloon Voyage.

The longest balloon voyage so far as we know was one undertaken in 1888, in which the distance traveled saw more than twelve hundred miles. Three voyagers on that occasion made an ascent in France, with the intention of crossing the Mediterranean and landing in Algeria. The wind, proving unfavorable, carried them toward Corsica. When they were near that island the balloon descended toward the water, and for a time their lives were in great jeopardy. By throwing out all their superfluous they succeeded in [illegible] The balloon [illegible] Italy [illegible] Rome [illegible]

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

Republicanism gets out its receptacles—symbolising in its untold wealth of the Democratic bird how it steals from the Democracy every thing of good it temporarily possesses—and toots its horn over the election returns. But what flattering unction can it lay to its soul?

True, it obtains some State offices and a Congress. Such success is empty except of salaries and small raids on small treasuries. There is a man in the White House who will hold for more than two years an effective check on the legislation of Republicans. It is beyond their power to enact a force bill, to rehabilitate the McKinley law, to debase the Currency or to disturb the revenues in substantial ways. They may look but they mustn't touch, and that restraint in the sight of plunder and power will chafe them sore.

There is just as much bone and sinew in the Democracy as ever. Just as much good sound blood is circulating in its veins. It will recover as quickly as after the defeat of 1840 or after that of 1888. The Democratic party has not only conquered ghut subdued more vigorous foes than the senile Republican party. One of the chapters of American history which will soon be written is that upon the disentergration and disappearance of the monarchist party which was formed, by war and not by argument addressed to the intelligence of the people; which has existed by sectionalism first and by a conspiracy of selfish interests next.

The Republican party is merely the beneficiary of an accumulation of troubles which it was the chief instrument in producing, and which yet bore against a party which succeeded it in responsibility at the moment when the burden fell upon the nation.

It has conducted a cowardly impotent campaign. Unable to defend their record and barren of healing ideas, its orators have moved about monotonously repeating the falsehood that the Democratic party had caused the financial troubles. Their one feat was that of the boy who has broken a window and lays the blame on the other who has tried to dissuade him.

If the defeat of Democracy had depended on Republican merrit, Republican talents or Republican logic, we would caraied Vermont and Pennsylvania. A feebler canvass was never witnessed. The Democray has its principles and its believers yet. The principles are truth, and the believers a host.

Before the year opens the stay-at-homes will repent their of judgment, and the Democratic potency of victory will be restored and increased. This is not a time for recrimination. All Democrats are political friends, all are opponents of Reedism and McKinleyism.

For the future, New York Democrats must purge themselves of municipal corruption and personal dissension. That is enough for them to do, and they will be well occupied in doing it. We of the West and South give them our best wishes. The rest of the country, while New York is thus usefully employed, will formulate a platform and train a candidate for 1896

The platform will be Democratic in every plank and the candidate will be: A Western man or bust.—St. Louis Republic [Dem.]

The Atlanta Constitution having done its utmost for more than two years to make the people dissatisfied with Democratic leaders, now seeing how well its teachings have been followed attempts to reason with the populist. It cant see what the populist have gained by the recent Republican victory except the pleasure of cutting off once nose to spite his face. To our thinking the Constitution can enjoy that pleasure. War on the Democratic leaders by influential men and news papers always means injury to the party. Democrats must learn the lesson of unity if future successes are to be ours.

We take pleasure in adding the Evergreen Star to our exchange list. Mr. W. C. Crumpton has recently become the editor and from the first issue puts new life into his old paper.

Raising Stock.

What has been said by the Southern Agriculturist in the following can be said by almost any of our Southern States:

"In Alabama, cattle will thrive on one-half the feed in winter that is required in the North and West. The Southern farmer has advantages in climate and cheapness of living for his stock and himself possessed by no others in the United States, provided he will improve his opportunities. He has almost exclusive culture of cotton, while he has also one of the best grass producing sections in the

W. A. McGuire a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. After having la grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and McNeill and Smith, Jemison, Ala.

The Nicaragua Canal.

The New York Tribune states that the Nicaragua Canal Company has secured enough capital to go on with the work of constructing the canal. Unfortunately however, the capital has been secured in London by Smith B. Wood and J. R. Bartlett, who went there last summer on that mission. These gentlemen have been severely criticised for going abroad after to sign capital. It is thought by many that they should have waited until the money they needed was raised in this country. The friends of Wood and Bartlett justify their action. They say that congress has given no indication of its willingness to aid the enterprise and American capitalists have held back.

So they have gone right ahead and raised the money in England, and in so doing they have made it certain that the canal will be under British control for a time at least.

If it is possible, it is to be hoped that congress will yet be able to help the enterprise and prevent England from absolutely dominating a waterway which will so materially affect our commercial interests. The south especially needs this short route from her ports to the Pacific coasts of the two Americas, and Japan and China.

We cannot afford to give up such an important highway to England, and if we submit for a time the necessity of the case will force us some day to forcibly seize the canal if we cannot purchase it.

If the company is not already bound by a contract with the British capitalists, congress should lose no time when it convenes in aiding the construction of the canal in a way that will place it under the protection of the federal government. Ex.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

We understand that there are some families in Talladega and adjoining counties who are making arrangements to move to Texas within the next few weeks. To those who contemplate making such a change we advise to consider the matter well. Times are no better in Texas than they are Alabama. Cotton is as cheap in Texas as it is in Alabama, and as a general rule the farmers in Texas are no better off than there in Alabama and we have it from reliable information that provisions are higher in many points in Texas than they are right here in Talladega.

We do not believe that any farmer can better his condition by moving away from Alabama, and certainly those who own lands and have comfortable homes will make a mistake by going to Texas with a view of bettering their condition.

Remain in Alabama, the greatest State in the Union. Home.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

Revolg.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours, with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Walking Into a Complexion.

Mrs. Lantry always asserted and stoutly maintained that she owed the firmness of her skin and the brilliancy of her complexion to the fact walk which she took daily. When she was at Long Branch one summer she walked along the coast drive half way to Asbury Park and back nearly every day, while her companions drove slowly along in their pony carriages.

Many American women walk, but they are slow walkers. And the complexion specialists say that a slow walk is no better than none at all, except that it obliges the walker to breathe fresh, open air, which is always good. To get the full beneficial effects of a walk for the complexion there must be rapid movement for the blood, quick breathing for the color in the cheeks, muscular exertion for the development of the whole body, including the chest and neck and chin, and finally the general exercise for calling to life the sluggish organs of the body. That is the general explanation. Practiced, it works wonders.

To walk a great deal and rapidly is one of the things now taught a debutante. It is argued that if she learns this art early in life—and many women never learn it at all—she will be likely to continue her daily exercise in walking always, and so will keep herself in blooming health and at the same time check herself from growing stout.—New York Herald.

A Trifling Oversight.

Dr. Griffin—I must say that the world is very ungrateful toward our profession. How seldom one sees a public memorial erected to a doctor.

Mrs. Golightly—How seldom? Oh, doctor, think of our cemeteries!—Pearson's Weekly.

A Disastrous Failure.

Not a financial one, but a failure of physical energy—of vital stamina. How can this be repaired? By a persistent course of the blood fertiliser and invigorant, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures perfect digestion and assimilation, and a consequent gain in strength and flesh. It also remedies liver and malarial disorder, rheumatism, nervousness and constipation.

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS,

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

Two hundred Italian laborers arrived in Brunswick, Ga., from New York Tuesday, and located in the suburbs of the city. They will be placed at work on the sewerage system.

The United States court of claims has entered up judgments for extra pay under the eight-hour law for thirty-three letter carriers in Richmond, six in Petersburg, Va., and five in Roanoke, Va.

The Southern Seating and Cabinet Company, at Jackson, Tenn., burned Wednesday night. It was one of the largest plants in the south. The loss is probably $25,000; $15,000 insurance. The fire is believed to have been incendiary.

William Cruse was shot and killed in an election riot in South Amreica, Ky., by Tom Jones. Will Jones and Tom Buchanan were killed by the Somers brothers in an election riot in Wise county, Virginia. The murderers escaped.

A fire broke out in the Foreigners' hotel at Evergreen, Ala., Tuesday afternoon, which soon spread to the entire block. A high wind prevailed and carried the flames across the street and before the fire was stopped property to the value of 40,000 was destroyed. The insurance was light.

General Gordon, commanding United Confederate Veterans, has appointed General S. D. Lee, of Mississippi, to the command of the department east of the Mississippi. General Gordon, owing to disagreements, has decided to withhold the official promulgation of the constitution adopted at Birmingham, and the old constitution is still in force.

S. M. Inman & Co's big cotton platform at Toccoa, Ga., was burned Tuesday afternoon. Seventeen hundred bales of cotton were entirely consumed; loss, $50,000, fully covered by insurance. The residence of G. W. Swilling was also burned. The cotton compress and Southern railroad cotton platform were saved by hard work.

A disastrous collision between a passenger and freight train, resulting in the loss of six lives, occurred at Rosensteel siding, 103 miles east of Pittsburg, Pa., on the Baltimore and Ohio road at 5:40 o'clock Wednesday evening. The killed are as follows: Engineer Henry Bush, of the passenger train; his fireman, McCarthy; Engineer Browning, of the freight train; Brakeman Manning, of the freight train; two mail clerks, names unknown.

The whaleback steamship Joseph L. Colley, which put in at Savannah Tuesday to coal, attracted large crowds especially on account of her cargo. She is a vessel of 914 tons, and her decks are almost bare with the exception of a cabin and a small pilot house near the stern. She is from Tampico, Mexico, for New York, with ten tons of silver bullion for the United States government, beside a ot of hides and other stuff.

A special from Dallas says: The cotton situation continues to favor the biggest crop ever raised in Texas. Bottom, middle and top crops are full. Many farmers speak of abandoning what is left. They say it will scarcely pay the expense of picking, packing, ties and ginning and marketing. They scarcely know what else to do unless the price is considerably raised. It is certain thousands of bales raised will never be taken from the stalks. Just about now everybody is swearing he will not plant a seed of cotton next year.

A party of ten Spaniards dug up a large iron chest, supposed to be filled with treasures, on the old Christeval Brova property, at St. Augustine, Fla., before daylight Tuesday morning. Mrs. Reddick, who occupies the premises, not knowing what the men were doing, appeared with a shotgun and drove them off, but not until they had loaded the chest, requiring several men to carry it, into a vehicle. No trace of the men can be found. Nothing but a hole, some old pottery and an iron hook and one silver coin were left by them.

The cotton exchange of Savannah, at a called meeting Wednesday, considered a resolution appropriating $500 to the work of detecting those who set fire to the cotton ships on Monday night. This resolution will be passed at the annual meeting of the exchange. The board of trade will hold a meeting to urge the city to offer larger rewards than $500 for the capture of each of the criminals. This reward offered by the city is considered too small. There are no new developments in the situation, and the men are working on the ships, loading those from which the burned cotton is not being removed.

THE NEW SECURITIES

Of the Southern Which are Being Made by Drexel, Morgan & Co.

The delivery of the new securities of the Southern railway in exchange for Richmond Terminal reorganization certificates has begun. The exchange is being made at the office of Drexel, Morgan & Co. The stock will be issued in the form of voting trust certificates. Of the bonds there are $4,500,000 East Tennessee reorganization mortgage bonds bearing 4 per cent interest from March 1, 1895, and 5 per cent after March 1, 1896, and an authorized issue of $120,000,000 first consolidated 5 per cent bonds of the Southern Railway Company of which about $8,000,000 bear interest from July 1, 1894; $4,000,000 from January 1, 1895; $3,000,000 from July 1 1895, and $7,911,000 from January 1, 1896.

Tennessee's Republican Governor.

A Nashville special of Thursday says: Official and unofficial returns have now been received from eighty-one of the ninety-six counties. Estimates on the remaining counties make Evans's (republican) plurality over Turney (democrat) 9,500. The legislature will certainly be democratic.

THE LATEST BY WIRE

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

In clearing away the wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio road at Rosensteel siding, two miles east of Rockwood, Pa., the body of G. W. Misner, brakeman on the freight train, was found Thursday morning in the debris. This makes a total of six killed.

The Central News Company has this dispatch of Thursday from Shanghai: "The panic in New Chwang and throughout Manchuria continues. Numerous country people are arriving at New Chwang and two-thirds of the stores have been closed.

Now that it is and assured fact that the anti-gambling amendment to the constitution has been carried in New York the turfmen have began to lose heart. At first they did not regard the amendment which prohibits betting, pool selling or gambling of any kind seriously.

A service in memory of the late czar of Russia was held at New York Thursday morning in the Greek church. The little church was draped in white and black and the Russian, Greek and American colors hung in the forepart of the edifice. The church was crowded with distinguished people, most of whom wore uniforms and medals.

Special Agent Burns, of the United States secret service, and local bank officials of Jackson, Miss., were summoned before the federal court in that city Thursday, which is investigating the special state warrant cases, to give testimony as to the similarity of the warrants and United States currency and national bank bills.

The trial of Detective Richardson and Ed Smith, two of the alleged lynchers of the six negro prisoners near Kerrville, on August 21st, was begun in the criminal court at Memphis, Tenn., Thursday. Four jurors were secured out of 100 men examined. It is not probable that the remainder of the jury will be secured this week.

On account of the labor troubles at New Orleans brought about by the white laborers in an effort to get rid of the colored laborer as a competitor an evangelical alliance meeting was held Thursday at the Wesley chapel of the Methodist church attended by fifty ministers and 1,500 people, and prayers were offered for guidance, blessings and protection.

The First National bank of San Bernardino, Cal., closed its doors Thursday morning. A quiet run was organized that went on all day Wednesday. Nothing was thought of it, but on opening Thursday morning the rush commenced and Cashier Kohl closed the doors and posted the notice to protect all depositors. The bank was doing the largest business in the city.

At Waco, Texas, Thursday, Governor Hogg delivered an address to thousands who witnessed the opening of the Texas cotton palace. Fully 50,000 strangers were in the city and the management anticipated success in this, the first year of the exposition. Jerome E. Hill, of St. Louis, also made an address, after which the building was thrown open to the visitors. The exposition closes December 6th.

The Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, the New Yorkpreacher and reformer, has been elected an honorary member of the Union League Club at the regular monthly meeting of the club. Until Dr. Parkhurst's name was added to the number there were just a dozen of such members, including General Harrison, General O. O. Howard and Governor-elect Morton. Dr. Parkhurst makes the only clergyman to be thus honored.

Among the sporting men of Jacksonville, Fla., there is much surprise and more indignation at the action of the city council in repealing the municipal ordinance permitting contests with five-ounce gloves. This ordinance was passed in December last, was vetoed by the mayor and then passed over his veto. Its object was to allow the Corbett-Mitchell fight to come off at Jacksonville and thus to thwart Governor Mitchell in his determination to stop it.

Governor Waite is going to leave Colorado. "He is tired of the state and disgusted with his defeat," said a well known populist. He also said that the governor is considering a proposition made to him to take up his residence in Illinois. The story is that the populists in Illinois have taken such a liking to the governor that they want him not only to reside among them, but also to lead them to victory as their candidate for governor in 1896.

CHINA A SUPPLIANT.

She Asks the Powers to Intervene and Stop the War.

A dispatch to the London Times from Tien-Tsin says that the representatives of all the powers were assembled on Saturday last by the Tsung Li Yamen to hear the Chinese government's statement respecting the critical situation of affairs.

Price Kung, president of the Tsung Li Yamen, the dispatch adds, calmly avowed the impotence of China to withstand the Japanese attack and appealed to the powers to intervene, saying that China was willing to abandon her sovereignty over Corea and to pay a war indemnity. The ministers applauded the frankness of this confession and promised to report China's appeal to their respective governments with a view to the restoration of peace in order to avert the dangers threatening all interests. The French minister believed in taking a leading part in the proposed intervention.

GOLDSMITHS "save" their floors and gilders their rags with surprising resultant economies. One important firm of jewelers in New York requires its factory employes to leave their working clothes at the factory. The work benches and floors are carefully swept nightly, but once in every few years floors, benches and clothes are burned. After one of these burnings the crucibles contain as a residuum thousands of dollars' worth of precious metal.

Emmet Richmond, a prominent young man, a relative of ex-Congressman J. B. Richmond, was shot and instantly killed by one Laxton at Bristol, Tenn., on election day. Richmond was accused of making Laxton's employe so drunk he could not get to the election, and when he heard of it he went to Laxton's home with a drawn pistol, and demanded a retraction. The latter filled his body with buckshot before he could speak or open fire.

There is a good deal of excitement at Chauncey, Ga., caused by the blowing and robbing of the safes of O. W. Bush, the Southern Railway Company and the Southern Express Company. The losses amounted to about $2,500. Two negroes have been arrested and bound over to the superior court, charged with having committed the crime, but it is believed that they were assisted by others, and the probability is that some white men are in some way connected with the burglaries.

It is expected that Port Arthur and the Chinese fleet will fall into the hands of the enemy.

Mrs. James D. Scott, wife of the proprietor of the Capital turf exchange, at Denver, Col., vanquished three burglars who broke into her house after a desperate fight, in which she was seriously injured. One of the men was armed with a revolver, another with a slingshot, and the third with a billy. With these weapons they rained blow after blow upon her head, arms and body, but she fought so energetically and raised such an outcry that they beat a retreat without taking any of the jewelry or other valuables lying about.

Judge J. C. Cobwebs in Medicine.

The "cobweb cure" for asthma has occasioned a great deal of comment throughout the country. The family in Wooster, Ohio, who effected the cure of a daughter by this peculiar remedy thought they owed it to the public to make the case known, never expecting that the publication of the matter would cause them to be deluged with letters inquiring about the alleged cure.

At first the family undertook to answer inquiries, but when the letters reached hundreds daily the head of the household, who is engaged in other business, found it would require the entire time of himself and family to attend to the large correspondence. So he had circulars printed in which he gave particulars of the method, and for these he charges a fee in order to limit in some measure the number of inquiries. He charges $1 for three "cobweb pills," and in speaking of the matter said:

"I have to crawl around garrets and all sorts of dirty places to get the webs. I then have to clean them. All this takes time, and I feel if it is not worth $1 it is not worth a cent. Then there is the matter of discerning the difference between spiders' webs and cobwebs. I have heard from a number of people who undertook to cure themselves that they were made very sick through the poison of spiders' webs, which they thought the same as cobwebs."—Washington News.

Why Are Women Always Busy.

Men rarely complain of want of time out of business hours, but women do so perpetually. No matter where they are they are always busy, and of the hundred things which they planned to do in the morning something always remains undone at night. Of course, women have far more to do than men, and, of course, their work is never finished; but would it not be the same if the days were forty-eight hours long? I believe it would, and that those women who always feel they have no time never will have any.

Now, why is this? Chiefly because they are without method; secondly, because they don't make the most of odd moments; and, thirdly, because they are always trying to be polite. The fact that men act differently may account for their having time at their disposal.

Though women's time is subject to frequent interruptions, and they have no regular hours like men have, might they not have some system in their work? Generally they know beforehand pretty well what the day's work will be, and they should apportion different times to different duties, and adhere as closely as possible to their arrangement.

In theory they often do so, but in practice they generally follow the impulse of the moment, forgetting that such interruption involves much more loss of time than the mere interruption costs.

Their duties become confused, and their minds upset, and when the day closes they find many things undone, which they had fully intended doing. They will make up for lost time tomorrow, they think hopefully; but the same sort of things happen again, and there is always the same result day after day, week after week.

Nothing is more disheartening than a series of failures in doing what we had purposed; and after bravely fighting on for some time, attempting far more than they have strength for, and all the time under a despairing consciousness of inability to accomplish this task, they become nervous, weak of will, and incapable of struggling further.

A dialect beyond our ken,
The accents of an unknown tongue,
Life speaks,—this world of passing men
That is incomparably old
And sad with sinning manifold,
Yet, with each morning, sweet and young.

Yea, sweet and young it is, and plain
Its meaning,—for a girl's light breath
Outwits the wisdom that has lain
Long centuries stored in reverend books.
They doubt and dream; she, by her looks,
Laughs down the lie of churlish death.
—RICHARD BURTON, in Harper's.

A Passing Acquaintance.

BY M. L. B. BRANCH.

In a mountain hotel a gay group of boarders were seated about in hall and parlor, engaged in fancywork, reading or light games, while a cheery fire burned brightly on the hearth, for it was late in the season.

"We are just a nice party now," said one young lady, looking up from her lapful of shaded silks; I hope nobody else will come!"

"Except to fill vacancies as we drop off," said a gentleman, as he laid aside his letters. "You will see two vacant chairs at the table tomorrow."

"Very well," was the reply. "If you must go, we will spread ourselves and keep the table full. If we can't have Mrs. Bruce and you we don't want any one."

The next morning the home-bound travelers left on the early stage, and at the last moment another guest decided to accompany them.

The party remaining went out, some to ramble in the pine woods, some to the concert in the casino. Returning toward dinner time, they found that a telegram had been received from Miss Milicent Paul, bespeaking a room. There was a shout of delight on reading the telegram. Milicent Paul was known to some of the party, and two of them had been her schoolmates at a fashionable seminary three years before.

"Milicent will be the roseleaf on our cup of happiness," said one; "and how fortunate that there is room for her at our table."

The dinner bell rang, and the merry group betook themselves to the dining room. Two chairs were turned down at the table.

"Who has come?" the guests inquired of one another.

As they took their seats, a man and his wife entered, in a hesitating manner, and were given the two chairs. Swift glances were directed at them, and side looks exchanged. They were evidently plain, hard-working people, entirely unaccustomed to traveling and to hotel life. In an instant the original party became a clique. They hardly concealed their dislike of the newcomers, who had brought among them a personality that jarred on all their sense of what was stylish, conventional and agreeable. The two strangers ate heartily, helped themselves to what they wanted, finished their meal and left the table, before the rest of the company had reached their nuts and raisins.

"Did you ever?" "I call it an outrage, forcing such people on us." "The plowman had better stay at home and plow." "His hands took away my appetite." "I hope they are not going to stay over night."

The offending couple spent the afternoon walking about to see the views, and then sat out in the piazza till supper time. After supper, the criticism recommenced.

"They're going to stay. Their trunk has gone up to No. 14." "What will Milicent Paul say? She will have to sit next to them." "She'll freeze them with one glance when she sees that hand reaching in front of her for the butter."

"Oh, come now!" said the brother of the last speaker; "you know they needed the butter, and you should have passed it, seeing the waiter was not on hand."

"Hush! I'm too provoked for anything. We were such a nice party till those folks pushed in. And when Milicent is coming too! It just spoils the table."

Next day, while the newcomers were out, Milicent Paul arrived, amid the welcoming exclamations of her friends. She was a tall, slender girl with an animated countenance, fashionably dressed, carrying gold eyeglasses, and holding her head aloft in a way peculiarly her own. She had plenty to say, said it well, and was at once the centre of everything.

At dinner time she took the vacant seat, and was just receiving her plate of soup, when the much-criticised couple came in. The guests were all consciously watchful, but Miss Paul seemed to notice nothing. She was giving a vivid description of her journey. Suddenly she paused an instant.

"I beg your pardon!" she said, pleasantly, as her embarrassed neighbor attempted, rather awkwardly, to reach the salt, and, placing it conveniently near, she resumed her description.

"May I trouble you for the pepper?" she asked him a little later; "not black, I prefer white. Thank you." And she spoke in exactly the same tone as when she asked handsome young Mr. Waring across the table if he knew when the mail went out. He admired her none the less for it.

"She has a broader outlook than the rest of us," he thought to himself.

A trip to the Notch was planned for the next day, to go in the morning and return at night. There were enough to fill two mountain wagons. No, not quite enough. Those who counted found there would be room for two more.

"Don't mention it, or Mr. Wilbur and his wife may offer to go," said one lady, with a touch of irritation in her voice.

"Oh! we can't have them," said one of the girls who had been Miss Paul's schoolmate, "can we Milicent?"

"Why not?" asked Miss Paul.

"Oh! why, because—you know—no doubt they are excellent people, but how they would look along with us!"

"My dear Hetty," said Miss Paul, "why be narrow? Why voluntarily live in a groove? I have found the most interesting people in the most unexpected places. Don't turn your back upon your fellow-creatures."

Mr. Waring stepped into the hall where the Wilburs stood diffidently examining a last year's register.

"Would you like to take the trip to the Notch tomorrow, with the rest of the party?" he asked, cordially.

"We would like it very much," said the man.

"Very much indeed!" echoed his wife.

"The expense is three dollars for each seat."

"That's all right," said the man.

"And now which of us will have to sit next them?" murmured the girls in the parlor.

But when the teams were ready the next morning, it was Miss Paul who gracefully and unconcernedly climbed over the wheel and sat by the Wilburs. It was not that she preferred the seat, except as she felt instinctively that they were at a little disadvantage with the others, and it was, perhaps, one secret of her perfect bearing in social circles that her private rule of politeness was the little old-fashioned couplet:

"Politeness is to do and say
The kindest thing in the kindest way."

The party was a merry one; they sang songs and waved the hotel colors as they drove along, each wagon drawn by four splendid white horses. They stopped at the lake to enjoy boating and to hear the echos. While they floated on the water Miss Paul sang two or three Venetian boat songs, to the great delight of the party.

A party of Southerners, driving up in a surrey, espied Milicent Paul, and hailed her enthusiastically. She brought them to her own party under the trees, and said, as she presented them:

"These travelers are from Georgia. We met in Washington last winter and became friends."

Mr. Wilbur experienced a slight mental shock. His father had lost both legs in the War, and he himself had never thought of a Southerner except as a foe at heart. Yet here were these people bowing to him with the rest, in cordial, pleasant fashion.

Language had not been given to Mr. Wilbur for the purpose of concealing his thought. He looked earnestly at the stranger nearest him.

"I never expected to meet a Southern man," he said, in blunt tones; "my father was made a cripple in the War."

"And mine lost his life," replied the Southern man, gently. "But it is all over now. You and I have one country."

"So we have—so we have!" said Mr. Wilbur, and the two shook hands silently. This scene escaped the notice of the rest of the company, who had at once engaged in lively conversation; but to both men it was one of those little strokes that help to chisel character.

"Oh, what a beautiful, beautiful day among the mountains this has been!" said Milicent Paul, when they were homeward bound. "I hope you have enjoyed it too, Mrs. Wilbur."

"I have very much. I shall never forget it," said the quiet little woman, her face glowing.

"Are you going to correspond with them, Milicent?" asked her schoolmate, teasingly.

"Hetty, dear," said Milicent, "you really must open your eyes wider and see the world you live in; you will find it repay you. The Wilburs are only passing acquaintances, like many others; we may never meet them again. But in conversing, I found out one or two things which may interest you. When Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur were married, ten years ago, his mother had just died, and there were brothers and sisters besides the crippled father to be cared for. Mrs. Wilbur and her husband put their shoulders cheerfully to the wheel and worked together. It was farm life and farm work. The father died a year ago, and the brothers and sisters now take care of themselves. So this year, when haying and canning were over, the Wilburs decided to take a little holiday and see the mountains. Neither of them ever saw a mountain before. It has been the great event of their lives. I cannot tell you how glad I am that they went with us yesterday."

"So am I," said Hetty.

"Another little thing came out, too. I found out where they live. They told me it was close by the Shore Line railroad, a mile from the smallest Rhode Island station, a small red farmhouse with two apple trees and a garden in front. 'With a box border,' I exclaimed, 'two rows of pinks, the bluest larkspurs in the world, and the reddest poppies!' Yes, that was it, she said. Why, girls, I always look at that house and garden when I travel by that road, and have often wondered who lived there. Now I know!"

"Girls!" said Hetty, after Milicent left the room to get the pillow cover she had promised to show them, "I feel like a grub! Shall I ever be a butterfly? And do you wonder that everybody loves Milicent Paul."—The Independent.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

A band of schoolboys dug a cave on a vacant lot in St. Louis and seven of them were buried by the roof caving in. Henry Raedeer, eight years old, was killed, and Herman Walkenford, aged twelve, was badly injured. The others were unhurt.

A Memphis, Tenn., special says: After a week's delay in securing a jury the trial of W. S. Richardson and E. N. Smith, charged with being parties to the Kerrville lynching where six negroes were murdered, was begun Thursday. It looks as if the trial will last thirty days.

A London cablegram states that the British ship Culmer, Captain Read, last reported at Hamburg, Oct. 1, from Iquiqui, foundered in a gale off Spurn Head, Yorkshire. Twenty-two persons were drowned, including the captain and his wife. Eight bodies were washed ashore at Worthing.

At 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon a fierce wind and dust storm struck Denver, Col., from the north, filling the air so that it was impossible to see across the street for a long time. Many plate glass windows and awnings were destroyed. The temperature fell 20 degrees in 30 minutes.

The sensation at Memphis Thursday, in the murder trial of Smith and Richardson, charged with the sextuple lynching, was the appearance on the witness stand, one after another, of the six widows of the murdered men. They told the circumstances of the arrest of their husbands by Detective Richardson.

One of the most bloody battles fought at Van Buren, Ark., since the war, occurred Thursday between the LaRues and Johns, and as a result John Johns is dead and Ben LaRue has a Winchester ball through him and cannot recover. The Johns are armed to the teeth and are pursuing the LaRues.

The committee on membership of the aristocratic Woman's Club, of Chicago, after a stormy session, refused to admit to membership the colored lecturer, Fanny Barrier Williams. The application for membership had been considered at several secret sessions and a quarrel of the first magnitude developed by the discussions.

Adjutant General Tarsney has refused to comply with a request from Governor Waite for his resignation, saying he will resign when the governor, whose retirement has been decided by a majority of 20,000, does the same. It is understood that the governor will now remove the adjutant general. Mr. Tarsney was opposed to the renomination of Waite for governor.

The complete official returns of Mississippi's election arrived at the office of the secretary of state at Jackson, Thursday, from the seventy-five counties in Mississippi show the following aggregate vote at the congressional election in the seven districts on November 6th: Democratic, 26,501; populist, 12,096; prohibition, 451; republican, 1,900. This was less than half a vote.

The striking weavers at Lorraine Mills, at Pawtucket, R. I., who have been out since October 2, have at last voted to return to their looms. A settlement was accomplished through the intercession of Mayor Tiepke. It is claimed by the management that the employes will by the introduction of improved loom heads on the machinery, be able to earn more than before the wages were cut.

After debating the question for sometime the members of the republican state central committee of Nebraska have announced that they would contest the election of Judge Holcomb to the governorship. Secretary Sedgewick said the grounds for the contest on behalf of Majors, the defeated candidate, would be charges of fraud in several voting precincts in Omaha, incompetency of election judges and consequent irregularities in the count.

A courier has arrived at Muskogee, I. T., from the Arkansas bottoms and reported that he, by chance, ran into the Cook gang in their quarters. They received him without fear of their whereabouts being reported to the officers. A number of farmers who live near the rendezvous of the gang have arrived and reported to United States Attorney Jackson the situation, and have asked that they be commissioned and be permitted to lead twenty deputies against the outlaws.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEWSY ITEMS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Sayings and Doings of the Official Heads of the Government.

The president, Thursday, appointed Edward K. Lowry, of Ohio, second secretary of the United States legation at Pekin.

The democratic congressional brethren who were buried in the recent political snow storm, are beginning to put in a resurrected appearance in Washington.

Major W. M. Stanton and Captain F. V. Abbott, corps of engineers, have been appointed as a board to investigate and report upon the channel through the outer bar of Brunswick, Ga.

Twenty-nine clerks of the census office were dismissed Thursday. This will be followed in a few days by the dismissal of 200 more. The cause is the completion of the work of the eleventh census.

The smallpox scare at Washington has resulted in an order from the health office for the closing for a time of the Central High school, the Business High school and two of the grammar schools in the city.

Co-incident with the issue of the circular inviting bids for gold United States bonds the treasury department is beginning to lose gold. On November 13th it lost $6,000 in gold and on Wednesday $130,000 in exchange for United States notes and treasury notes. The gold was withdrawn from the subtreasury, and further withdrals are expected.

The report of the United States strike commission upon the controversies which arose between the Illinois Central Railroad Company and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company and their employes in June last is a pamphlet of forty-three pages, and contains suggestions of more than usual interest.

The treasury sustained a further loss Thursday in its gold reserve, $275,000 being withdrawn from the various sub-treasuries in exchange for United States notes and treasury notes of 1890. This brings the aggregate loss from this cause within two days to $400,000. The gold is being principally taken out in Boston, and is evidently intended for bond purchasers.

The attention of the president was called Wedesday to the statement contained in certain newspapers to the effect that there had been a disagreement between him and Mr. Carlisle in regard to the issue of bonds and other matters, and intimating that such disagreement might result in the secretary's retirement from the cabinet. The president emphatically denied the entire "batch of silly misstatements," and said: "Never since our association together has there been the slightest unpleasantness concerning the affairs of the treasury department or any other matter."

THE PALMETTO STATE FAIR.

The Exhibits Unusually Fine, Especially the Horticultural Display.

The twenty-sixth annual state fair of South Carolina opened at Columbia Tuesday. The town was full of visitors and there are fakirs and sports galore. The exhibits are unusually fine, the poultry show being probably the finest ever seen in the section. The horticultural exhibit is particularly noticeable.

Devastating Floods in England.

Cable dispatches from London state that floods in various parts of England are still raging. In Buckingham the houses in the lower portion of the town are flooded and the roads are blocked. The Aven has overflowed its banks at Bath and thousands of persons are consequently imprisoned in the upper stories of factories and dwellings.

Greater New York commissioners met Tuesday and prepared outlines of necessary initial legislation on the subject of consolidation.

A boarding house in Elderfield, Rhenish Prussia, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night and seven occupants were burned to death. Several others are missing.

Governor-elect Levi P. Morton, of New York, has passed to be filed with the secretary of state his statement of election expenses. He gives the total at $19,700, of which $16,000 went to the state committee.

The British steamer Brookfield, Captain Ferguson, from Galveston and Norfolk, which arrived at Havre, France, November 9, after partially discharging her cargo, was found to be on fire in her forehold Wednesday morning. The fire was extinguished with slight damage.

Advices from Rome state that several Catholic bishops in the United States have renewed their request to the Pope that he condemn certain societies of workingmen as associations that cannot be countenanced by the church, but the vatican does not regard it as a duty to interfere in the matter.

The official vote of last Tuesday's election in Indiana has been received, and by congressional districts the republicans have a majority of 55,674. For the head of the state ticket, with one county (Sullivan) out, the republican plurality is 47,649. The populist candidate for secretary of state received 29,591 votes, showing a populist gain over 1892 of 7,504.

A sensation has been created at Denver, Col., by the announcement of Coroner Martin that a prominent business man is under strong suspicion of having committed the horrible murder of strangling the three women who have met death by this method in that city during the past few weeks. The identity of the man suspected is withheld by the coroner.

Meyer Hirsch, for a number of years grand treasurer of the Ancient Order United Workmen, was arrested at Baltimore, Wednesday night charged with embezzling funds of the order. An alleged shortage of $10,547 was found in his accounts. Hirsch's bondsmen refused to make good this shortage and the order turned the matter over to the grand jury.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania has rendered an opinion in the Gaults, in the school case, affirming the decision of the lower court. The court refuses to restrain by injunction the members of the order of St. Joseph (Catholic sisters) from teaching in public schools in the garb of their order or the school directors from employing or permitting them to act in that capacity.

Mary Neilsen, twenty-five years old, of Philadelphia, while dining with a party of friends at Norwich, Conn., Tuesday afternoon, in response to a toast, laughingly drank a glass of carbolic acid with suicidal intent and died soon afterwards. Not one of the party suspected that the liquid was poison until its fatal result was seen. Grief at the death of her husband led to the act.

Wednesday the governing committee of the New York stock exchange listed $110,000,000 of Southern Railway Company common stock, $50,000,000 5 per cent, non-cumulative, preferred stock; $31,913,000 first mortgage, 5 per cent gold bonds and the various securities of the lines comprising the company, to-wit: The Columbia and Greenville, Georgia Pacific, Western North Carolina, Richmond and Danville, Virginia Midland and East Tennessee companies, which have assented to the reorganization.

A New York special of Wednesday says: The White Star line steamship Adriatic took in her steerage a party of twenty colored people bound for Liberia. This is a flying column from the army of 4,000 negroes that is said to be gathered in southern airports awaiting means for deportation. This organization is under the management of Jere McMillan, a white man living in Birmingham, Ala., and under the patronage of Bishop Turner, of the African Methodist Episcopal church.

TRADE TOPICS.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's review of business for the past week says:

"Interest in the elections this week naturally tended to restrict the volume of trade, particularly south, where it interfered with mercantile collections. But within a few days the influence of more reasonable weather west and northwest, together with the emphasis with which political questions have been settled, have increased the confidence of many merchants and manufacturers in a prospect for an increased rate of improvement in general trade in the near future.

"Philadelphia and Pittsburg markets continue as last reported, movements of merchandise being moderate in volume; collections not satisfactory, but prospects fairly bright. Demand for lumber and leather forms an exception; being more active. Baltimore reports a less satisfactory trade, political excitement there having interrupted business more than at large eastern cities. The distribution of shoes appears as active as that of any other staple, business in other lines, except holiday goods, being quiet.

"Charleston lumbermen report a fair business, but in other lines there is no change. Similar conditions prevail at Memphis, but at Nashville there is more activity in general lines, notably in receipts of California canned goods. The only material effect of the election excitement on business is delayed collections. There is a seasonable activity in general lines at Atlanta. At Chattanooga and Birmingham rather more activity is observed in business circles, while collections were fairly satisfactory. Wholesale and retail houses at Jacksonville report trade fairly satisfactory for the season, but at Savannah there is no special change, except that collections are satisfactory. Augusta's report is similar, except as to collections, which are slow. At New Orleans rather more of a check to business is noted, due to interest in the elections, but increased activity is expected soon. At Galveston trade is dull in all lines."

COTTON ESTIMATES.

The Exchanges Furnish Figures Regarding the Output.

The estimate of the cotton crop made by prominent operators on the exchange at Savannah vary from 8,750,000 to 9,463,000 bales, the majority putting it at about 9,250,000. It is estimated generally that the crop of Georgia will be 5 per cent increased on last year or 1,200,000 bales.

AUGUSTA'S REPORT.

Averaging the opinions of prominent cotton men, the estimate of the trade in Augusta is that the cotton crop for this year will be between 9,250,000 and 9,500,000 bales.

ESTIMATE OF GEORGIA'S CROP.

A Columbus dispatch says: The general estimate of the entire cotton crop of Georgia is not over 900,000 bales. It has been rapidly marketed, and in the territory tributary to Columbus the receipts have been heavy, but the total receipts will show a falling off, as considerable cotton has been left in the fields. It is estimated now that the total receipts for Columbus will approximate only 58,000 bales.

FROM WILMINGTON, N. C.

The produce exchange at Wilmington, N. C., makes no official estimate of the cotton crop, but individual estimates of the cotton men vary from 9,250,000 to 9,500,000 bales. It is also estimated that about two-thirds of the cotton in that territory has been marketed. Receipts to date are 191,238 bales, which is about 14,000 bales ahead of last year.

THE SAFE WAS EMPTY

And the Brooklyn Authorities Were Greatly Disappointed.

The safe of John T. McKane, the ex-boss of Gravesend, now in Sing Sing was opened in the municipal building, Brooklyn, N. Y., Tuesday morning, by the board of assessors, and to the great surprise and consternation of all it was empty. The Brooklyn authorities have been at work for three months trying to get possession of the safe and the books and papers, supposing them to be locked in the safe, and expecting to show conclusively whether McKane is behind in his accounts with the town.

STOP AND THINK.

The time is far distant when the Democratic party will not control the destiny of Alabama. It is composed of the best thought, purpose and element of the people of this State, while the Republican party is a conglomeration of the other elements. Those white voters who have temporarily alienated themselves from the Democratic party will soon return, are even now returning to their former allegiance There is no other permanent political organization to which they can attach themselves without severing lifelong ties and forfeiting their own self-respect and the respect of the best people of the State. We say this because it is a fact beyond controversy that organized opposition to Democracy is rapidly disintegrating. This opposition reached its greatest strength in 1892, in August 1894 it is greatly weakened, and the result of last Tuesday's election discloses still greater infirmity. Its chief leaders have lead their followers as far away from the Democratic party and faith as they will permit themselves to go. They have revolted at the idea of becoming allies of the radical party and cat's paws of republican leaders and office seekers, and are returning to the political house of their fathers and will give their earnest support to Democratic candidates Tuesday because they realize that in the principles and administration of that party is the only political safety to themselves and welfare to the country from the oppressions, fanaticisms and hate of the Republican party and its leaders. Before another State election the irritations and disappointments of the recent past will have been soothed and forgotten, and the Democracy of Alabama will, be what it was before the recent unhappy differences—a united, harmonious and unconquerable host of true white men, determined upon one great purpose of promoting the peace, and prosperity and happiness of this great commonwealth and its people.

To the few men who have no to present given their adhesion to the Democratic party, but are now contemplating desertion from its ranks and enlistment with the forces of the enemy, we say: Pause and reflect upon the consequences of the step you are about to take. You know what radicalism is in the south; you know the character of its leaders; you know the elements of which it is composed you know its history, and you know the regard in which men are held who attach themselves to and become a part of it.

Stop and think before you become a part and parcel of that political party in the south, whose record and history justifies the universal opion held of it that it is the enemy of law and order, the fomenter of strife between race and race and the malignant antagonist of Anglo-Saxon supremacy and white man's government.

These suggestions may invite other reflection that will be health ful and profitable to those having aspirations to future preferment, which can be granted only at this ballot box.—Eufaula Times

THE MORAL OF IT.

Mr. Breckinridge is beaten.

He went before the people of his district upon the proposition that no matter what moral atrocities he may commit in private life, no matter how depraved and indecent his private character may be, these things in no degree impair his fitness for public service or public honor.

His plea has been rejected with emphasis, and the result will not only make for decency and morality in the Ashland district it will exercise a wholesome influence throughout the country.

Once such a proposition was accepted as true. Now it is rejected with scorn by a people who have advanced to higher levels of civilization and enlightenment.

The moral of this defeat is clear. The american people recognize personal character as essential to representative place. They hold the conduct of a man to be a truer measure of fitness than intellectual force, oratorical eloquence attractiveness of manner, distinguished family connection, or all of these combined.

The man who aspires to win the favor of the people must live in cleanliness and walk uprightly. It is a great gain for decency that Breckenridge's brazen folly has emphasized this great truth

With the tremendous odds against it which Democracy had on Tuesday, the combined powers of tariff enriched monopolies, trusts and incorporations, the free use of an unlimited corruption fund to purchase boodlers and corrupt the ballot, the hard times for which Republican legislation and administration is responsible, but with which the Democrat party is unjustly charged, with dissensions in the party where should have been harmony and united courage, with foes without and foes within, any other political organization that ever existed would have been hammered to final destruction. But notwithstanding all adverse conditions, the Democratic party still exists and is today than it was before the election. Its ranks may be temporarily shattered and disorganized, but its principals are eternal and must and will paevail Let no Democrat be discouraged. Only cravens and cowards lower their crest in the presence of the foe, and Democracy is neither craven nor cowaad. Let them at once close ranks touch elbows, and in 1896 the party welded together and strengthened by the ordeal of fire through which it has passed will present an invincible front to its old adversary, the enemy of the people. the Republican party, and under the banner under which it fought and won in 1892 it will achieve as signal a victory for the masses as it sustained disastrous defeat in defense of their rights in 1894. -Ex

The Winning Policy.

Atlanta Constitution,

Yesterday we reproduced from The Rome Tribune a paragraph which stated that a man in Dalton presented two checks at a bank.

One was for a bale of cotton and amounted to $25, the other was for two small hogs and called for $26.

With such an object lesson that farmer should go in for less cotton and more hogs. He will find that it is comparatively easy to raise hogs and market them at a good profit while his five cent cotton simply plunges him deeper in debt

Twenty-five dollars for bale of cotton and 26 for two small hogs!

There is a whole volume of economies in this brief announcement and the lesson is so plain that it requires no comment, King Cotton is not in it any longer and it looks very much like King Hog.

Yet there is a way to restore cotton's kingship. Georgia's present crop will bring $25,000,000. Now suppose we manufactured all this cotton? It would bring us 105 000 000 dollars! Think of what this means. If the South sells the raw material of her great staple it will yield her less than one-forth of what it will bring if it all is manufactured here at home.

This, then is the winning policy Let us diversify our crops and raise hogs enough for home use and for outside markets. Then let us manufacture every bale of cotton right here in this region.

When we get on this line there will not be another period of hard times in the South for a century to come. More factories and more hogs—these are what we need!

Kolb has issued a proclamation to his friends to go to Montgomery and see that on Dec. 1st he is inaugurated Governor of Alabama.

Gov. Jones has the following to say: "Wm C. Oates has been elected Governor and has been so declared by the General Assembly.

It is my duty to see that he is properly installed and by the grace of God he will be."

Croup is a terror to young mothers. To post them concerning the first symptoms, and treatment is the object of this item. The first indication of croup is hoarseness. In a child who is subject to croup it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar, rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the rough cough has appeared it will prevent the attack. It has never been known to fail. Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Now that the election is over let all our people drop politics for a season and go to work preparing a compost, ploughing, repairing, fences, etc. Let the coming crop be a diversified one. Raise your bread and meat at home, with some of both for market. Sow wheat and oats, plant plenty of Irish and sweet potatoes; don't forget millet, sorghum, turnips and vegetables of all kinds. For your own and humanity's sake take good care of the stock and other domestic animals during the winter. On your premises can be made many needed improvements with very little outlay that is if the owner is industrious and thrifty. In any view of the matter that may or can be taken, King Cotton is dethroned, and it is prudent to let it servorly alone.

It is sheer demagoguery and puerile nonsense to ascribe the low price of cotton to this or any other Administration. There is such a thing as raising too much cotton and "That's what's the matter with Hannah!" The price of cotton is regulated by parties in Liverpool and New York which is based on the estimated crop and when 6,000,000 bales of cotton fully supplies the demand you cannot expect remunerative prices for cotton when you raise a crop estimated to be somewhere between 9,000,000 and 10,000 000 bales. The prices of all farm products depends upon their abundance or scarcity. Remember this fact and govern yourself accordingly. News.

W. A. McGuire, a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or coup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always keeps a bottle of it in the house. After having had la grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and McNeill and Smith, Jemison, Ala.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Mrs. Potts and Miss. Emma are away on a visit.

Mrs. Gallahorn, had been in feeble health for some time, was taken suddenly worse last Tuesday evening and died about midnight. Her ill health prevented her from mingling much with her neighbors, but she had scores of friends who join with her loved ones in mourning her departure.

Uncle Henry Maddox died Monday morning at 8 O'clock and was buried at Pleasant Grove Church Tuesday. He was an upright citizen and surrounded by hosts of friends, to whom we extend sympathy.

The Alabama Legislature is in session and bills are litteraly hailing down upon the Clerk's table. The bill to punish by death any one setting fire to a cotton press, gin house, corn crib or stable is hitting in the right direction.

If the weather is not too cold the doors of the View office will be wide open to all who shall attend Circuit Court, and if it is cold then a warm room will welcome all who will turn the knob and come in.

Be sure and bring the View some money, corn, hay, fodder, molasses, meat or meal or what owe you on subscription.

Let the Grand Jury probe to the bottom and see if it is not possible to indict those parties who have been selling liquor in Chilton county.

The Clanton Lodge of Masons is composed of many of our best citizens, but they do not all take as much interest in their order as they should.

On the run.

Sunday night the editor was the guest of Mr. T. U. Crumpton and wife of Maplesville. More hospitable entertainment could scarcely be given than that bestowed by them. Mr. Crumpton is a wide awake business man and a staunch Democrat. Bright and early we were on the road to Shoults Store, a handshake with Mr. Shoults and a couple of his neighbors and them beyond for a few miles we went and then back to Dixie and Stanton.

Chilton county has vast acres of as level and valuable land as can be found in the state. Every year witnesses its increase in value. The farmers are getting ready for next year by saving manure and putting in small grain.

Fattening hogs were seen on every farm and in the main every white farmer reported more cotton gathered than he expected and plenty of corn for the next year. And best of all the general motto seems to be to double the corn, pea, grober, potato, oat, hay and hog crops and halve the cotton crop.

This systematicly done, and in a few years the sons of toil in this county will be out of debt.

The town is full of tramps. They visit our homes in droves. Unless the sheriff can find something for them to do we may be compelled to appoint a vigilant committee to see that they pass on. Already thefts have been reported to us and two of our citizens believe that only prudence prevented sand-bagging.

Judge Honeycutt has pension warrants for Confederate soldiers.

The editor had a most delightful stay of four days last week, in Prattville.

Circuit Court was in session with Judge Carmichael, that splendid christian statesman, presiding, and our gentle yet faithful solicitor L. S. Brewer in charge of the Grand Jury. We were placed under obligations to the officers of the court and to the entire bar.

Autauga has a splendid citizenship most of whom are intelligent Democrats. Mr. Duster editor of the Progress gives his people a good paper and they in turn give him liberal support.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours, with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Clanton Drug Store, and McNeill and Smith Clanton, and Jemison, Ala.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

The Mischievous Handglass.

The seemingly helpful handglass has done more harm to beauty than any article belonging to the toilet table. The young girl knows nothing about freckles until somebody makes her a present of a hand mirror. One blemish reveals another, ignorance magnifies the defects, and then unhappiness begins. Quack medicines are resorted to and alleged remedies that are usually expensive and either worthless or dangerous. The vain little woman goes on studying her glass and losing contentment. Gray hairs and wrinkles come long before their time, her temper loses its sweetness, she gets round shouldered from constantly scrutinizing herself, and at the very time that she should be sweet and amiable and serene she is a screwed up, squint eyed, sour old woman. A toilet mirror is the very worst present that a plain girl could receive.—Chicago Times.

Cheap Horse Flesh.

Two gentlemen were talking in Washington yesterday about the cheapness of horse flesh, when an innocent German, standing near, was asked his opinion as to the reason. Here is his reply: "I vill tell you vy horses are cheap, if you want to know," said the German, emphatically. "It's because dere is so many infernal shackasses in Vashington."—Richmond Star.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Secretary Carlisle Asks for Proposals for a New Issue

FOR FIFTY MILLION TEN-YEAR FIVE PER CENTS.

Congress May Inquire Into the Reasons for This Issue.

A Washington special says: Inasmuch as the fact has leaked out that the president has made up his mind to again take advantage of the resumption act and issue another series of bonds, he concluded Tuesday to take time by the forelock and direct the issue before public opinion should have the opportunity to crystalize in opposition thereto. Mr. Cleveland thoroughly understood that a very strong public sentiment existed in opposition to any further increase of the public debt. This was made manifest in a most pronounced manner at the late session when the democratic majority in both branches of congress took open ground, not only against any further bond issue, but questioned the authority of Secretary Carlisle to issue the $50,000,000 loan of last spring.

Carlisle's Circular.

The following circular was issued at 3:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon:

"Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., November 13, 1894—By virtue of the authority contained in the act of congress entitled 'An Act to Provide for the resumption of specie payments,' approved January 14, 1875, the secretary of the treasury hereby gives public notice that sealed proposals will be received at the treasury department, office of the secretary, until 12 o'clock noon on the 24th day of November, 1894, for United States 5 per cent bonds, in either registered or coupon form, dated February 1, 1894, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the government, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest payable quarterly, in coin, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

"Bidders whose proposals are accepted will be required to pay 20 per cent in gold coin, or gold certificates, upon the amounts of their bids as soon as they received notice of the acceptance of such bids, and to pay in like coin or certificates an additional 20 per cent at the expiration of each ten days thereafter, until the whole is paid; but they may, at their option, pay the entire amount of their bids, when notified of their acceptance, or at any time when an installment is payable. The first payment, however, of not less than 20 per cent must be made when the bidder receives notice of the acceptance of his proposal.

"The denominations of the bonds will be $50 and upwards, and bidders will, in their proposals, state the denominations desired, whether registered or coupon, the price which the bidder proposes to pay, the place where it is desired that the bonds shall be delivered, and the office, whether that of the treasurer of the United States, or an assistant treasurer of the United States, where it will be most convenient for the bidder to deposit the amounts of his payments.

"The bonds will be dated February 1, 1894, in order to make the proposed issue uniform as to date with the existing issue; but interest thereon will begin November 1, 1894, and bidders will be required to pay accrued interest at the rate of 5 per cent on the face value of their bonds from November 1st to the date or dates of payment. The total issue of bonds, in pursuance of this notice, will not exceed the sum of $50,000,000.

"The secretary of the treasurey hereby expressly reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

"All proposals should be addressed to the secretary of the treasury, Washington, D. C., and should be distinctly marked: 'Proposals for the purchase of 5 per cent bonds.'

"Blank forms for proposals may be had on application to the secretary of the treasury. J. G. CARLISLE,

"Secretary of the Treasury."

Anxious for Them.

A New York special says: The success of the new government issue is already assured. It can be stated on the highest authority that Drexel, Morgan Co., and Speyer & Co., and John A. Stewart, president of the United States Trust Company, and his following stand ready to take the whole issue. Drexel, Morgan & Co. have sounded the feeling in London regarding the new issue and have found it very favorable. They will, accordingly, put in bids for large amounts of the bonds, and if the public subscriptions come in slowly, will together take the bulk of the new issue.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

San Francisco Business Men Discuss the Project.

A representative body of San Francisco business men met Thursday to discuss the Nicaragua canal subject. A memorial to congress will be sent as follows: "We recall the fact that both great political parties have demanded favorable action on the Nicaragua canal in their national platform, that all presidential candidates have approved thereof, while most of our state legislatures have adopted joint resolutions of the same tenor. The American people urgently requst the necessary legislation at the ensuing session of congress."

Hill's Election Expenses.

Senator David B. Hill has filed a statement of his election expenses as the democratic candidate for governor as follows: Paid to democratic state committee for the general expenses of the campaign $2,500, paid for transportation $150, paid for use of typewriter machines $10, paid for personal expenses, myself and secretary, on trips throughout the state, $395; postage and telegrams, $45.

COTTON GROWERS MEET

And Discuss the Depressed Financial Condition of the Farmers.

The cotton growers' convention, called by the commissioner of agriculture for Alabama, Hector D. Lane, met at Montgomery Tuesday morning, 100 delegates being present, representing Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and North Carolina. The object of the convention was to devise means for imptoving the present condition of southern farmers.

Commissioner Lane was chosen president and J. Norwood, secretary. Committees were appointed on order of business and resolutions. The order of business reported was discussions as follows: Commercial fertilizer, with a view to the reduction of the use and cost of planting; proper handling of cotton, the picking, packing and ginning of cotton.

Reduction of acreage, improvement of staple, marketing of cotton, immigration. A number of resolutions bearing on these subjects was introduced and referred to the committee.

A resolution from the Southeastern Alabama district grange, declaring that over-production and financial stringency was the cause of the depressed condition of the cotton business and asking the co-operation of southern planters in agreement and practice of raising less cotton was taken up by the convention, and discussed for an hour or more.

Considerable divergence of opinion was manifested regarding the cause of the low price of cotton. Letters were read from the assistant secretary of agriculture and the chief of the government weather bureau detailing the methods adopted and shortly to be introduced by the bureau in making the accurate record of the cotton crop. The thanks of the convention were returned to these officers.

At the afternoon session the resolutions of the district grange were again discussed and finally referred to the committee on resolutions.

Governor-elect Oates being present, was called upon to address the convention, which he did in direct terms, setting forth his views upon the situation and why the price of cotton cannot be affected by monetary conditions in America, so long as cotton is sold to foreigners and the price of cotton is fixed in Liverpool.

A resolution was adopted that the convention urge upon congress the advisability of the United States building the Nicaragua canal, as that canal will give shorter water route for southern cotton to the mills of China and Japan.

A resolution was adopted that, as the manufacture of raw cotton into yarns doubles its value, and turning yarns into sheetings quadruples the value, and the south is without its many factories that should be established.

Southern legislatures are urgently requested to encourage the establishment of such factories by exempting them from taxation for a period of ten years.

Second Day's Session.

The cotton growers' convention reassembled Wednesday and organized an association national in its scope for the better protection of planters' interests. The committee on statistics was instructed to obtain and arrange for the use of the convention official statistics of cotton, the prices, etc., for the past ten years. The president of the convention, Commissioner Lane, of Alabama, read a statement showing by the census returns that resolutions on the part of planters to restrict acreage have been followed by a decreased output of cotton.

Resolutions of the committee and special resolutions subsequently offered and adopted by the convention, cover the following subjects:

1. Reduction of cotton acreage and increased attention to production of cereals.

2. Greater attention to stock and cattle raising.

3. Encouragement of manufacturing in the south by exempting manufactories from taxation for a period of ten years.

4. Encouraging immigration, resolutions advising that large plantations be divided into small farms and the latter be sold to bona fide home seekers.

5. Recommendation that cotton be withheld for sale by farmers who are not in debt to their factors, and that it be held for a rise—"which may reasonably be expected if the present heavy receipts are appreciably reduced."

6. The organization of the Cotton Planters' Association of the United States of America to meet at least twice a year and to consist of four delegates from each congressional district in the cotton growing states and three delegates at large from each state appointed by governors of such states, irrespective of party preference. Said association is to hold its first meeting in Jackson, Miss., the second Wednesday in January, 1895.

7. Cotton seed trusts condemned.

8. Congress petitioned to pass the anti-option bill.

9. Congress to be requested to refund the cotton tax collected in 1866-1867.

The convention then organized the new association by electing officers to serve until the January meeting as follows: Governor James Stone, of Mississippi, president; Hon. J. O. Waddell, of Georgia, and commissioner of agriculture for the cotton growing states, vice president; Robert E. Eckeberger, of Alabama, secretary, and Professor James Smith, of Georgia, treasurer.

The chairman of the convention was requested to issue an address to all business interests asking co-operation in obtaining the objects of the association.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That the honest conviction of this convention as practical cotton growers is that the estimates that are being sent out by the cotton exchanges in reference to the crop are excessive, and it is the belief of this convention, based upon practical observation and best statistical information, that the present crop will not exceed 8,500,000."

It is easy enough to command success in any vocation. The difficulty is in making success obey you.

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity.

At Keller, La., Tuesday while Abram Smith and his wife were in the field picking cotton, their cabin burned, cremating their three little children.

The convention of the Southern Surgical and Gynæcological Association, now in session at Charleston, S. C., has an attendance of about one hundred members.

Some fifty odd enlisted men of the garrison at Fortress Monroe, Va., of foreign birth, went to Norfolk to obtain naturalization papers Tuesday, which is now required by a recent act of congress.

Blue, red and green and every other kind of fire burned in Chattanooga Tuesday night when 5,000 republicans of the county and surrounding towns united with as many more in the city to celebrate Evans' election.

H. P. Schmidt, banker and general dealer, in Bremond, Robertson county, Texas, has filed a deed of trust to secure creditors in the sum of $75,000. Schmidt's assets are from $100,000 to $125,000.

The house of Louis Williams, nine miles below Natchez, Miss., burned at an early hour Tuesday morning and two young children were cremated in the blaze. Williams himself and an older child were badly burned.

The estimate of the cotton crop made on the exchange at Charleston, S. C., varies from 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 bales. It is expected that Charleston's receipts this year will be fully 400,000 bales, of which 188,782 bales have been so far received.

News reached Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday of the burning of four negro houses by forest fires near Millington, Tenn., and of the fatal burning of Fannie Woods and the child of a negro named Pitt Rhea. About fifty negroes are now homeless in that vicinity.

So far the grand jury at Jackson, Miss., has made no report to the court relative to the special warrant case, and may not do so, but it may be considered as a certainty that its refusal to indict was a finality, so far, at least, as this court is concerned. It is understood that all the witnesses in the case have been paid off and discharged.

W. H. Gibbs, republican postmaster at Jackson, Miss., under Harrison, ex-auditor of Mississippi under the republican regime, recently indicted for embezzlement as postmaster, of $3,970.82, was fined the amount of his embezzlement by Judge Miles, in the federal court Wednesday and sentenced to three years in the Brooklyn, N. Y., prison.

Forty-five persons were poisoned by ice cream at Wake Forest college, Raleigh, N. C. The cream was served at a golden wedding there. Among the sick were five of the faculty. Miss Simmons, a daughter of the late Professor William G. Simmons, and Miss Dunn are not expected to live. The others are out of danger. There were ptomaines in the cream.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says: The feature of Wednesday's assembly proceedings was the presentation of the governor's message and the formal election of the officers named by Tuesday's democratic caucuses. In both houses the populists had tickets for every office voted on. In the house the vote, in almost every case, stood about 68 for the democrats and 34 for the opposition nominees. In the senate the vote stood about 24 to 7 in favor of the democratic nominees.

The Alabama Sheriff's Association met at Montgomery in annual session Tuesday. Officers were elected and the usual business routine was gone through with. The recommendation of the state auditor in his report to the legislature that sheriffs be allowed 20 instead of 30 cents per day for feeding prisoners was discussed. The sheriffs argue that they will not suffer by the reduction so much as the prisoners will and a committee was appointed to look after the matter in the legislature.

ALABAMA'S LEGISLATURE

Convenes in Montgomery and Is Organized by the Democrats.

The general assembly of Alabama convened at Montgomery Tuesday at noon. Both houses were opened with prayer, after which the members presented their certificates and were sworn in by Chief Justice Brickie, in the senate.

The two houses adjourned about 1 o'clock to meet at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The democratic members of the senate met in the senate chamber after adjournment and nominated the officers of that body as follows: President, F. L. Pettus, of Dallas; secretary, William L. Clay, of Madison; assistant secretary, Elmore Garrett, of Calhoun; enrolling and engrossing clerk, Mrs. Emma Scott, of Birmingham; doorkeeper, Bryant James, of Barbour.

The caucus of the democrats in the lower house was held at night, and resulted as follows: Speaker, Thomas H. Clark, of Montgomery; clerk, Massey Wilson, of Clark; assistant clerk, J. F. Proctor, of Jackson; enrolling clerk, W. P. Howell, of Cleburne; engrossing clerk, Nat Taylor, of Marengo; doorkeeper, Robert Hanson, of Etowah; assistant doorkeeper, Thomas Fain, of Dale.

TURNEY STILL HOPES

Though the Face of Returns Indicate His Defeat.

Notwithstanding the fact that the face of the returns is against him, Governor Turney, of Tennessee, is still confident and declares that he does not believe he is defeated. "I shall wait," he said, "until the official returns are canvassed and the vote investigated and wherever there is any unfairness charged, I believe the official returns will elect me." Secretary of State Morgan has announced his intention to withhold the official returns from the public until every county has been heard from.

Mexico's Unlucky Day.

Tuesday is the unlucky day in Mexico. If you were born on a Tuesday, never admit it. You probably have been a disaster all your life, but people will firmly believe that you are an unlucky dog and have the evil eye into the bargain if they find that a Tuesday was honored with your birth. I know a man who started on a Tuesday with money to pay off the hands in a factory near the city and went instead to Acapulco, where he took the Panama steamer. The board of directors of the manufacturing company passed a resolution affirming their undying faith in his honesty and attributed his error to having started to the mill on Tuesday.—Boston Herald.

Useful Recipes.

ORANGE PIE.—The juice and part of the rind of one orange, two tablespoonfuls cornstarch, one cupful hot water with one-fourth box gelatine dissolved in it.

CRACKER DESSERT.—Lay whole soda crackers separately on a plate; soak in a little boiling water, cover with sweetened cream and lay a small piece of jelly on each.

CAKE RECIPE.—A labor-saving way of making cake is to measure out the flour, the sugar and the baking powder that the recipe calls for, and sift it all together several times. Beat the required number of eggs, soften the butter, but do not melt it, add the milk and flavoring and stir in the above mixture and beat five minutes. Place the loaf in a well-heated oven and bake until done, and when cut you will find a fine grained, light, delicious cake, with half the usual labor.

SURPRISE CAKE.—Measure out one and a half cupfuls of flour, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of cream tartar and half a teaspoonful of pulverized soda; sift all together half a dozen times. Beat two eggs, soften three level teaspoonfuls of butter, add half a cupful of sweet milk, stir in the above mixture and bake in a quick oven.

STEAMED SUET PUDDING.—One cupful of stoned and chopped raisins, the same of chopped suet, one cupful of brown sugar, the same of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, and flour enough to make a stiff batter, and steam three hours. Add spices to the taste.

BAKED INDIAN PUDDING.—One quart of sweet milk, four tablespoonfuls of corn meal, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt, the same of cinnamon, a tablespoonful of butter; scald all together and when cool add two beaten eggs, and bake one hour.

VINEGAR PIE.—Roll out dough as for fruit pie, and put it in your pan, then put in a layer of sugar, and then a layer of sifted flour, a layer of sugar on that, take one-half teacup of good vinegar, sprinkle over the sugar and flour, and spice to suit the taste, bake with a top crust, a good substitute, when fruit is scarce.

TO PREVENT RUST.—Iron or steel immersed for a few minutes in a solution of carbonate of potash or soda will not rust for years, even when exposed to a damp atmosphere. To preserve polished iron work from rust mix some copal varnish with as much olive oil as will make it greasy, to which add nearly as much spirits of turpentine and apply. To clean rust off iron or brass (when the latter is not gilt or lacquered), mix tripoli with half its quantity of sulphur and lay it on with a piece of leather; or emery and oil will answer the same purpose. If steel be rusty oil it and let it remain two or three days, then wipe it dry with clean rags and polish with flour-emery, pomice stone, powdered or unslacked lime.—Ex.

"JACK, dear," said Mrs. Bellefield to her husband, "I think it will be cheaper for me to have a dressmaker in the house for a week or two than to get my gown made at a modiste's. Have you any objection?"

"Not if you get a real pretty one," replied Mr. Bellefield.

When He Is Gone.

When he is gone, how dark the night
Nor does the day seem very bright,
When he is gone.
The birds do not pause on the wing
And 'round the old porch doorway cling,
Their sweetest songs of joy to sing,
When he is gone.

The roses do not seem as sweet,
Somehow, as when we used to meet,
But he is gone.
At evening as I sit and gaze
Into the heavens with stars ablaze,
I only think of other days,
Now he is gone.

The world at large seems far less gay,
The kitten, even, will not play,
When he is gone.
Within my heart there is no song,
But saddest thoughts the hours prolong,
Which seem to me as cent'ries long,
When he is gone.

I wonder if he thinks of me
Today, wherever he may be,
For he is gone.
I wonder shall I ope my eyes
Some morning, and with glad surprise
Tell him how soon my poor heart dies,
When he is gone?

Canon of the White Horse.

BY P. L. KETCHUM.

"This canon ought to have a history, Pablo," I said to the guide, as supper finished, I leaned back on my blankets and dreamily gazed at the scene before us.

It was a summer night—a night in the Southwest where nights are perfect. The moon was at the full, and not a cloud was in the sky to obscure her radiance on the light of the myriad stars which bore her company. The air was cool and bracing, yet balmy, and there was just enough breeze to lull one's spirits and cause him to forget the world and indulge in fanciful reveries, such as only Southern breezes inspire.

We had pitched our camp on one of the sloping hills on the south side of the canon, where a little stream of clear, sweet water rippled from a spring in a ravine down into the canon below. Above us was the sighing, odorous forest of juniper and pinon; below was a little stretch of velvety grass, extending clear to the floor of the canon, on both sides of the little stream. Right and left stretched the canon itself, its walls, precipitous for the most part, rising grandly, hundreds of feet high on each side.

"It is beautiful, Pablo," I continued. "It must have a history of some kind; one story—no?"

"Si, Senor, that it has—ay, that it has," muttered the Mexican, lighting a fresh cigarette and puffing at it reflectively a moment. "Would the Senor hear it?"

"By all means, Pablo; go ahead."

And here is Pablo's story, as nearly as I can translate it, (for he spoke in Spanish):

"Does the Senor see the cliff on the other side, how high it is? That is the Cliff of the White Horse—it is many hundred feet high, and straight up and down. And at the top, when the moon is a little higher, the Senor will see the White Horse. It is a great white rock on the edge of the cliff, and by clear moonlight it looks like a white horse. Many times I have been there, and then, they say, on the anniversaries of certain days, the ghost of old Don Fernando comes and rides it along the edge of the canon.

"Don Fernando? Oh, ay. May the blessed saints have mercy upon him!" ejaculated Pablo, crossing himself.

"Many years ago Don Fernando Cortez—he was a grandson of, something, of the great Cortez—lived over above, beyond the canon, several miles. Don Fernando was rich, and lived in a grand house, and had many servants and slaves. He was a great entertainer, was Don Fernando, and people used to come many miles—hundreds, thousands, yes—to his grand dinners and balls.

"He was not a good man. No. He was a cruel master, and hard with all his people, and made them all hate him. He was kind to only two living creatures; one of these was his beautiful daughter, the Lady Ysabel—the other was his great white stallion, the largest and fleetest horse in all the country. These two the old Don loved as his two eyes, and well he might—yes. The Lady Ysabel was not only beautiful, but she was kind and good, and all the people loved her as much as they hated the Don, which was a great deal. She had golden hair, and eyes like the sky, and it is said the birds listened when she sang. And the horse—ay, he was wonderful. He was as big as three ordinary horses, and his tread shook the ground. He had a long, white mane, and eyes that flashed fire, and was almost as much feared as the old Don, who alone dared go near him.

"The Lady Ysabel had many suitors. The wealthiest and most aristocratic men in all the country came to sue for her hand, many of them from far-off California, and some, it is said, came even from Spain. But the Lady Ysabel would have none of them. She loved her pony, and her dogs and birds, and her people; but a man, no. One after another came, but she turned them all away. So, after a few years the old Don became tired of what he called her 'foolishness,' and swore she should marry, and at once, a man whom he had selected for her.

"This grieved the Lady Ysabel very much; for not only did she not love any of those who had offered themselves to her, but her heart was already given—given to one of her father's peons, a young man named Jose, whom she had helped nurse through a terrible illness. Him she used to meet by stealth, nearly every night, unbeknown to any but themselves. But, one night, when the Lady Ysabel's wedding day was near at hand, she and her lover were seen together, and the story came to the ears of the old Don.

"He started to find them, swearing to kill them both; but they had been warned, and had taken two of the fleetest horses in the stables and fled. With mad haste the Don saddled his white stallion and pursued them. They had taken their way over the hills, blindly, but some instinct led the Don to follow the direction they had taken, and in a short time he had them in sight, riding over the plateau beyond the canon there.

When the lovers saw they were pursued, they put their jaded horses to their highest speed, hoping to escape; but soon they found it was too late, and as the old Don, with terrible curses, pressed them closely, they leaped to the ground, ran to the edge of the cliff, and, clasped in each other's arms, sprang into eternity together!

"And the Don? For days he raved like a madman, and seemed to know no one. Then he became quieter, and they thought he would be himself again. But, one moonlight night, they missed him, and several set out to seek him. He was riding up and down the edge of the cliff, yonder, raving and blaspheming terribly, and none of those who had come to find him dared approach. For hours he raved; then, just as the moon came from behind a cloud, they saw him ride back from the cliff a little distance. Then he wheeled sharply, and, shouting, 'Now, my friend, both together!' he rode full speed at the precipice. But at the edge the white stallion halted suddenly, and the Don went over alone. In mid-air he shook his fist and hurled a curse at the friend who had deserted him at the last minute, and then and there the great white stallion turned to stone! There he stands, Senor—you can see him plainly, now—still looking over the precipice. It is from him that the cliff and the canon get their name.

"And it is said by the superstitious, Senor," continued Pablo, drawing closer to the fire, and shuddering slightly, "that on the anniversary of old Don Fernando's death, and on Lady Ysabel's saint's day, the ghosts of Lady Ysabel and Jose ride forth on the plateau, and that of the old Don pursues them, riding the white stallion, which leaves its station at such times. And—oh, Senor, for the love of God, look!"

Startled, I looked across the canon. The rock which appeared so very like a white horse seemed to vanish, as though in mist. Then there were a series of blood-curdling shrieks and curses, and, flying along the edge of the cliff, rode three persons on horseback—and one, behind the others, rode a great white horse!

It was only a moment, and then the drunken cow-boys passed out of sight, and the tiny fleck of vapor which had, for those few seconds, kept the moonlight from the white-horse rock, moved on, leaving the rock standing out in the clear light, just as before. Still shivering with the sudden fright I had had, I turned to Pablo. He had fallen in a fit, and was lying rigid, with flecks of foam on his lips. I brought him round soon, and he sat up, his eyes staring wildly.

"Well, Pablo," I said, in as steady a voice as I could command, "you must have had quite a dream. You've been plunging around and yelling for a full five minutes."

"What, Senor, I? A dream? Then it was not——"

"I think it was the bread, Pablo. You ate a big supper, and that hot sour bread would kill an Indian."

Pablo concluded not to run away, as he might have done if I hadn't been able to convince him that it was only a dream.—Romance.

Night in a Great Hospital.

At night the ward is strangely picturesque. After nearly fourteen years of familiarity with hospital scenes I never enter one after the lights have been lowered without a vague thought that there is something uncanny about the place. The big room seems bigger, and the row of beds upon either side seem longer than by daylight. The lowered gas flame over the medicine chest in the center of a dense-walled hollow sphere of darkness. Around the beds of those who need close watching, screens covered with white muslin are placed, and within them are candles, whose flickering light makes ghostly shadows here and there. The faint noises made by the restless sleepers as they turn uneasily in their beds; the occasional muttering or loud talking of the delirious; the subdued sounds produced by the attendants moving cautiously about their duties—all serve to make the silence audible. The place seems surrounded by a sea of darkness and silence, whose waves are beating fiercely against the walls.—Scribner.

Long Distance Photographs.

Photography over a hundred miles or more or distance is literally a new thing under the sun, yet they are doing it. From the hill at Boland last week Photographer Seaver, of Newton, Mass., an expert with the Camera, obtained a fine view of Mount Washington. The lens used was an imported novelty bought by the Bickers for this express purpose. It is a telescope lens, and will take a recognizable picture of a person on the hotel veranda at the distance of half a mile. The view of Mount Washington was perfect.—Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

The general assembly of the Knights of Labor, in session at New Orleans disposed of the vexatious question of admitting lawyers and wage-earning barkeepers to the order. The question had been favorably reported by the committee, but was voted down. The vote was reconsidered and the matter was finally disposed of, only to come up in a division with a number of amendments attached. The admission of lawyers was then voted on and defeated. The question anent the barkeepers met the same fate.

An Omaha special says: The republican fight for the United States senatorship has become very fierce and bitter. Senator Manderson has no following for re-election. The leading candidate is John M. Thurston, of Omaha, general solicitor of the Union Pacific. The other candidates are Governor Crounse, ex-Senator Paddock, Church Howe, Tom Majors, just defeated for governor; G. M. Lambertson, of Lincoln, ex-assistant secretary of the treasury, and John L. Webster, of Omaha.

CONSIGNED TO EARTH.

Burial of the Czar's Body at St. Petersburg.

The burial of the czar occurred at St. Petersburg Monday. The morning opened cold and foggy. There was no rain but a thick mist overhung the streets and the emblems of mourning everywhere displayed were dripping from moisture therefrom. The populace were astir before daylight and all the morning lines of people converged upon the fortress of the cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, where the booming of cannon announced the beginning of the funeral services. The troops which had been tolled off for duty at daybreak, took their positions promptly, but the thoroughfares were soon lined with infantry, cavalry and artillery.

From 8 o'clock until the hour of the funeral there was a continuous flow of state carriages conveying the high officials who were making haste to take possession of the places in the cathedral allotted to them. Heralds stood at the entrance to the cathedral, and a group of clergymen, headed by the Metropolitan of St. Peterburg, stood around the main door awaiting the arrival of the Emperor Nicholas II and the imperial family, who, when they did arrive, were escorted by the Metropolitan and his attendants to places at the foot of the coffin, which was slightly raised at the head with the foot towards the altar. Close to the altar was a platform wide enough to accommodate most of the principal mourners. The whole dais was covered with a canopy.

MAGNIFICENT AND SUBLIME.

The religious services over the body of the dead emperor was probably the most magnificent of modern times, in its external aspect far exceeding in beauty and grandeur the memorable burial services of Alexander II. The music and the performance of the liturgy were sublime in the extreme. The surroundings were subdued in color but they were of a quiet character which greatly enhanced the splendor of the whole scene.

The cream of loyalty and nobility of the empire assisted at the service and the princes of the blood, prelates of the orthodox church, noblemen, representatives of foreign sovereigns and princes, foreign diplomats and other distinguished personages joined in the devotions and pleadings to heaven for the repose of the soul of the dead.

THE CZAR KISSES THE COLD LIPS.

At the conclusion of the religious ceremonies, the czar stepped forward to the coffin, kissed the lips of the dead emperor, the other members of the imperial family and those bound by ties of blood or marriage following, the czar standing by the side of the coffin till all the farewells were over.

When the coffin closed the grand dukes lifted it to their shoulders, bore it to the entrance of the imperial vault which had been opened in the pavement and a moment later the mortal remains of Alexander III. were lowered into the resting place of his imperial ancestors.

Short and Crisp Morsels of General Interest to Our Readers.

Anton Gregor Rubenstein, the famous Russian pianist and composer, died at Peterhoff Tuesday morning of heart disease.

A fire in B. F. Wild & Co.'s coal packets at Charlestown, Mass., spread to Cheney's pump factory and other buildings. The loss was $125,000; partially insured.

Nelson Morris, the Chicago meat packer, under indictment for violating the interstate commerce law, gave bail in the sum of $10,000 in the United States Court Monday.

Governor White, of Colorado, has decided to go upon the lecture platform. He will make a short tour in the west before his term expires, delivering his first lecture at St. Louis November 19th and 20th, going from there to Chicago. After his term expires he will lecture in the east.

The employes of the steel end of Shoenberger's mill at Pittsburg, Pa., have been individually notified of a wage reduction ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, in the different grades of work. There was little or no prospect of this. Unequal conditions of competition under the old scale are the reasons given for the reduction.

A big six-story brick storehouse at Benson and Leonard streets, New York, occupied by E. S. Jaffray & Co., burned to the ground Tuesday. Several valuable buildings surrounding it were also in imminent danger of destruction. Only the strenuous efforts of the firemen averted a terrible conflagration. Jaffray & Co.'s loss is $400,000; partially insured.

A New York special says: Professor Charles A. Briggs has issued his latest book, "The Messiah of the Gospel." It has been ready for publication since 1887, but he delayed giving it to the public, owing to the heresy trials through which he has passed in the past few years. The book will attract greater attention than any he has written, and for a time will set all orthodox Christians almost wild.

In diplomatic circles at Shanghai, the success of mediation between China and Japan is regarded as hopeless. It is said that Japan's minimum demands are the surrender of the Chinese fleets and the payment of an indemnity of £25,000,000, Japan to occupy Port-Arthur, Wei-hai-Wei and the Formosan ports until the indemnity has been paid. There is no prospect of China's assenting to such terms.

The German government is in receipt of information that the Germans in east Africa, on October 30th, stormed and took possession of the town of Kuirenga, the capital of the Wabehe territory. In the fight hundreds of natives were killed. The Germans lost one officer and eight soldiers. The victors found in the town a large quantity of ivory, many rifles, large herds of cattle, and a great quantity of ammunition, etc. They also liberated fifteen hundred male and female slaves.

The national convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union elected officers at Cleveland, O., Tuesday. On an informal ballot Miss Frances E. Willard was re-elected president by a vote of 386 out of a total of 390. The election was then made formal and unanimous. Representatives of the town of Churchville and county of Monroe, New York, came forward at this juncture and presented Miss Willard with two silver-bound gavels made from the home where she had been born.

Congressman William J. Bryan addressed a crowded house at Omaha, Neb., Tuesday night under the auspices of the chautauqua college. His address was on "Bimetallism." In the course of his address Mr. Bryan declared that the gold bond issue was a gross outrage. If the people, Mr. Bryan said, who have been conspiring to force the government to issue bonds by drawing gold out of the treasury had been poor people they would have been sent to the penitentiary and be called felons.

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, Col., says that a syndicate is endeavoring to obtain control of the silver market and discuss the price of the metal to all silver-using countries. A conference was held in Denver the past week, it is said, at which were present Daniel Guggenheim, of New York; Messrs. Barlow and Nash, of Omaha; Mr. Hanauer, of Salt Lake, and Mr. Allen, of the Philadelphia Smelting and Refining Company, at Pueblo, and representatives of the local smelters and the leading silver-producing mines.

NEW STATES IN THE SENATE.

Utah, New Mexico and Arizona Leave Its Complexion in Doubt.

A point that has been overlooked in computing the complexion of the next senate is the admission of Utah with two United States senators. The act of the last session of congress admitting Utah, provides that in March, 1895, the constitutional convention shall be held. On the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of that year the constitution is to be submitted to the people, and if ratified and found by the president to be in accordance with the act, he will issue a proclamation admitting Utah as a state. The act also provides that a representative to the 54th congress shall be elected at the same time the vote is taken upon the constitution; and that state officers and a legislature shall be chosen, and that if the constitution is ratified the legislature shall immediately meet and elect two United States senators.

As there is about a month from the time the election is held until the 54th congress there will be ample time to have all the formalities complied with and Utah proclaimed a state in time for its senators and representatives to participate in the organization of the next congress. This would make in all ninety senators. As the next senate now stands the politics of the Utah senators would cut an important figure. Another probability which arises is the admission of both New Mexico and Arizona, which may be accomplished in time, so that four more senators would participate in the organization of the next senate.

It is, therefore, quite likely that the battle for the control of the senate will yet be fought out in Utah, New Mexico and Arizona next year.

TRADE TOPICS.

Bradstreet's Report of Business for the Past Week.

Bradstreet's review of business for the past week says:

"Perhaps the most conspicuous favorable feature of the general trade situation is found in numerous reports from merchants and manufacturers throughout the country of a disposition to regard the business outlook more encouragingly and with increased confidence in an early improvement in trade. Even in many portions of the south and southwest advices from the interior are that the country merchant is doing an increased volume of business, based on favorable weather and large crops. This is the more striking in view of the continued reports of the unfavorable effect on trade south, of the low price of cotton. From Georgia it is learned that fertilizer manufacturers have arranged to curtail their output next season, in some instances as much as 40 per cent.

"Among larger eastern cities, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Buffalo report a moderate improvement in some commercial and manufacturing lines.

"Among southern cities, New Orleans reports relatively the greatest gain in volume of business, notably in groceries, shoes and dry goods, and improvement is noted at Memphis and a good volume at Jacksonville also. The least favorable southern report is from Galveston, with collections quite unsatisfactory and some interior merchants asking for extensions. Chattanooga, too, reports trade duller and collections slower, due to cotton being withheld from market. There is a fair movement of merchandise at Atlanta and Savannah, but at Augusta jobbing is dull. Business in most lines is reported very quiet at Birmingham and Charleston, and, except for holiday goods, at Nashville."

Dissolved the Injunction.

In the United States circuit court at Charleston, S. C., Wednesday Judge Simonton dissolved the injunction recently filed restraining the Louisville and Nashville, Georgia Central, East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, and South Carolina and Georgia railroads from collecting an excessive proportion of through freight rates from Louisville and points beyond.

THE HOPE OF OUR REPUBLIC.

From the lips and heart of the lamented Henry W. Grady came the following inspiring sketch.

"I went to Washington the other day and I stood on the capitol hill, and my heart beat quick as I looked at the towering marble of my country's capitol, and a mist gathered in my eyes as I thought of its tremendous significance, of the armies and the treasury, and the judges and the President, and the Congress and the courts, and all that was gathered there and I felt that the sun in all its course could not look down on a better right than that majestic home of a republic that had taught the world its best lessons of liberty.

And I felt that if honor and wisdom and justice abided therein, the world would at last owe that great house in which the ark of the covenent of my country is lodged, its uplifting and its regeneration.

"But a few days afterwards I visited a friend in the country, a modest man; with a quiet country home. It was just a simple unpretentious house, set about with great trees and encircled in a meadow and a field rich with the promise of harvest; the fragrance of the pink and the holly hock in the front yard was mingled with the aroma of the orchard and the garden, and the resonant clucking of poultry and the hum of bees. Inside was quiet, cleanliness, thrift and comfort. Outside there stood my friend the master—a simple independant, upright man, with no mortgage on his roof, no lien on the growing crops—master of his land and master of himself. There was his old father an aged and trembling man, but happy in the heart and home of his son. And as he started to enter his home the hand of the old man went down on the young man's shoulder, laying there the unspeakable blessing of an honored and honorable father and ennobling it with the knighthood of the fifth commandment.

As we approached the door the mother came a happy smile lighting up her face, while with rich music of her heart she her husband and son welcome to their home. Beyond was the housewife busy with her domestic affairs, the the loving helpmate of her husband. Down the lane came the children after the cows, singing sweetly, as like birds they sought the quiet of their nest. So the night came down, falling gently as the wing of an unseen dove.

And the old man, while a startled bird called from the forest and the trees thrilled with the cricket's cry and the stars were falling from the sky, called the family around him and took the Bible from the table and called them to their knees. The little baby hid in the folds of its mother's dress while he closed the record of that day by calling down God's blessing on that simple home. While I passed the vision of the marble capitol faded: forgotten were its treasuries and its majesty, and I said: 'Surely here in the homes of the people lodge at last the strength and responsibilities of this government, the hope and promise of this Republic.'"

HOLD ON TO YOUR CORN

The indications point to a considerable demand for corn long before another crop can be gathered.

In many potions of the West and Northwest the crop was practically a failure. Those localities instead of sending it out will have to bring in corn within the next few months.

The following from the New York Shipping List of a recent date, gives a striking picture of the situation;

It is conceded by all authorities that Indian corn is the most important of American farms. This conclusion has been arrived at from the fact that its transportation affords a large source of revenue to railroads and transportation companies. It is an important factor in the manufacture of spirits, glucose, starch, and beer. It is also of great value as a feeding product, constituting about three eighths of the grain thus consumed.

It will be seen at a glance that any material diminution of the product of corn affects industrial and commercial interest more seriously than does a similar reduction in either the wheat or the cotton crop. The October report of the Department of Agriculture indicates that the corn crop is less than 1,200 000 000 bushels while the out crop not exceed 660 000 000. An expert of Cincinnati claims that indications point to a yield of 1 497 000 000 bushels of corn.

This estimate is based on later returns than those given above.

Upon the assumption that the export business both as to grain and meal will not consume more than 10 000 000 bushels and, that 50 000 000 bushels of wheat will be used as animal food before October 1895, the total supply of feeding grains for the coming twelve months, including the residue from last season will be less than 1 900 000 000 or a monthly consumption of about 158 000 000 bushels or 26 3 bushels per capita per annum.

During the preceding twelve years the per capita consumption per annum was 39 3 bushels.

To provide for the population of the United States with a per capita supply equaling that of 1892 and 1893 the corn crop should have been 1 800 000 000 bushels and the oat crop 700 000 000 bushels; hence with a supply of less than 1 900 000 000 bushels to corn and oats and wheat available it is shown that the production falls short of ordinary requirements at least 600 000 000 bushels. After farm necessities have been provided for there will be little left for export; and this implies a reduction of railroad earnings and an increase in the cost of all animal products as well as the products of maize.'

Advocate.

What Will They Do?

The more astute among the Republican leaders begin to see that their party has drawn a white elephant in securing the next House of Representatives by so large a majority. What will they do with it? They must do something.

They cannot go to sleep and wait for 1896. They must show their hand. It might be a good idea from a political point of view for President Cleveland to call the new Congress together on the 4th of March next. Let the country see what the Republican "team of wild horses" will do.

It is right and democratic that the mandate of the people shall be executed without long delay. By the way who knows just what the mandate of Nov. 6 was?

Will the republicans try to restore the McKinley law? Will they pass another force bill? Will they add another $60 000 000 to the pensions? Will they resume silver purchases or increase silver coinage? What will they do?

The country has a right to know before the next elections, which will be the skirmish line of the great battle of 1896. Ex.--

Croup is a terror to young mothers. To post them concerning the first symptoms, and treatment is the object of this item. The first indication of croup is hoarseness. In a child who is subject to croup it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar, rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the rough cough has appeared it will prevent the attack. It has never been known to fail. W. A. McGuire, a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good for children troubled with colds or coughs as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always keeps a bottle in the house. After having an attack of grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies with out benefit and then concluded to try this medicine, and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and McNeill and Smith, Jemison, Ala.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that noone else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Mrs. Pettis and Miss. Emma are again at home.

Mrs. Bailey since her mother's death has removed to Montgomery.

Mr. Holt spent a few days with his family this week.

Among the local lights with us are Col. D. T. Blakey, of Montgomery, Col. Collier and Capt. Ward, of Birmingham, R. S. Lyman and W. R. Oliver of Shelby, Col. Sheppard of Bibb Mesrs. Alex Pitts and S. D. Bowie, of Selma.

Our grand and petit Juries are composed of good and true men of the county and we are sure they will all do their duty. Faithful and fearless grand Juries and just petit Juries are the salvation of our country.

Mr. Jordan one of Elmore's best citizens was with us Monday.

The weather is delightful and the attendants on the court are in a good humor.

Clanton was favored with a visit and two sermons from Rev. J. W. Stewart, manager of the Baptist Orphan's Home. He is a Godly man and has a great work on his hands. Clanton Baptist Church gave him a most cordial welcome.

Thanks giving day. Surely we all have much to be thankful for. Plenteous harvests, peace in the land and no epidemic. Looking over the past with its evidences of a kind Providence surely we can turn our faces to the future with fresh courage and brighter hopes.

Judge Denson and solicitor Brewer are among us. The charge of Judge Denson to the Grand Jury was good.

Wanted, to rent a two horse farm. Address at once,
Chas. W. Hare.

Prof. Moore has as his motto "More schools and better schools for Chilton county". This should be the watch word of all good citizens.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours, with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Clanton Drug Store, and McNeill and Smith Clanton, and Jemison, Ala.

ELECTROPOISE

SPECIAL OFFER!

The success of the Electropoise in curing disease of almost every form, and many patients apparently beyond recovery, caused a wide and growing demand for this "little doctor." Tumors, abcesses, scrofula, cancer, paralysis, chronic and acute rheumatism and neuralgia, many cases of female troubles, some cases total and partial blindness, and deafness, Bright's disease, kidney and bladder ailments have been cured in such a short while as to border on the miraculous. The treatment is simple and effective.

Write for terms of rental and sale and special reasons why you should get one this month; also letters from well-known people, testifying to its curative merit.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

SOUTHERN FLASHES.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS.

And Presenting an Epitome of the South's Progress and Prosperity

South Carolina's vote for governor is as follows: John Gary Evans, 29,586; Sampson Pope, 17,967; constitutional convention, yes, 31,484, no, 20,180.

Paul Conrad, the president of the old Louisiana State Lottery Company and head of that concern since it moved away from New Orleans, died Tuesday morning.

Suit has been brought in the circuit court at Chattanooga by the Jellico Manufacturing Company against Judge Louis Shepherd for $250,000 damages for alleged sharp practice while acting as their counsel.

A barge loaded with 6,500 barrels of flour, all consigned by Schauff, Bernheimer & Co., of St. Louis and towed by the steamer Polar Wave, sank about forty miles above Greenville, Miss., and it is likely that the cargo is entirely ruined.

Receiver Eugene E. Jones, of the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus Railroad Company, says that the reorganization of the Georgia Central will take place in a short time, and if the present plans are carried out, the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus road will be a part of the system.

A heartrending accident happened at Spartanburg, S. C., Tuesday. On the outskirts of the city a negro woman left her three children locked in the house. They played with fire and were all three burned to death. The mother reached the scene just as the roof fell in upon her babes.

Advices from Key West, Fla., say the British steamship Hajean, New Orleans to Liverpool, cotton laden, has arrived there with fire in the forward hatch. The British steamship Royal Welsh, New Orleans to Liverpool, cotton laden, is ashore on the southwest keys and is reported to be on fire.

Drs. W. Rodwich and R. Richards, "the Boston Doctors," were arrested at Meridian, Miss., Tuesday afternoon, on a charge of practicing medicine without license. They were arraigned before Justice Spinks, who granted them bond until their trial. The affidavit was sworn out against them by a local physician, who claims that the traveling doctors are frauds.

Governor Turney, of Tennessee, Tuesday, appointed Col. Thomas H. Malone, of Nashville, chancellor of the seventh chancery district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Chancellor Allison, who was shot and killed a week ago by George K. Whitworth, clerk and master. Col. Malone has for many years been a prominent attorney and is well known in the south.

That the constitutional amendment prohibiting betting on horse racing in the state of New York has seriously affected the prices of thoroughbreds in Kentucky was noticeable at Lexington Monday morning. William Easton offered for sale thirty-nine head and found buyers for but twenty-three head. The total receipts amounted to $3,525, an average of $153 per head.

For several months grave robberies have been frequent in the potters' field at Chattanooga, but it was not until Monday that sufficient evidence was obtained to justify the arrest of any one. William Hurst, formerly assistant sexton, was arrested on the charge of body snatching. One of Chattanooga's prominent physicians is implicated and may be arrested any moment.

An order of designation was received by the clerk of the United States circuit judge at Huntsville, Ala., Monday, authorizing a special term of the United States court to dispose of the civil docket. The order announces that Judge Alexander Boardman will preside, and that court will convene on the second Monday in December. This was necessitated by the large criminal docket of the past two terms.

The State Agricultural and Mechanical Society of South Carolina, under whose auspices the state fairs are held annually, has decided to raise a capital stock of $50,000 in order to perpetuate the society and place it on a first-class financial footing. The funds of the society have always been meager, and it is believed that with this capital stock a great many taking features can be added to the fair.

Owen J. H. Summers, United States district attorney for the southern district of Florida, was found dead in his bed at Jacksonville early Tuesday morning. His death resulted from heart failure. Mr. Summers was also United States attorney of the United States court of appeals at New Orleans, for the prosecution of all United States cases arising in Florida. He was past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Florida.

The Lexington, Ky., passenger and belt railroad was sold Saturday to President M. E. Ingalls for the Chesapeak and Ohio Railroad Company for $175,000. The road is four and a half miles long and gives the Vanderbilts a connection between the Chesapeake and Ohio and Louisville and Nashville stations and relieves them of heavy transfer charges by the Louisville and Nashville, which heretofore handled their cars through Lexington.

In the city court at Birmingham, Ala., Tuesday a hearing was had in the case of John Greenough, Calvin S. Brice and Samuel Thomas, representing minority stockholders in the Alabama Great Southern railroad, who contend that Henry and John A. Taylor, Eugene Zimmerman, M. D. Woodford, Alfred Sully and A. A. Shoemaker illegally elected themselves a board of directors in Birmingham last month. They claim themselves to be legal directors, holding over from the election at October, 1886.

On the Verge of Starvation.

After a careful canvass a committee at Denver, Col., has reported that 318 families of American Railway Union men are on the verge of starvation, and 400 unmarried men destitute owing to the blacklist being enforced by the railroads against the men who struck last summer.

A NOVEL UNDERTAKING.

A Great Company Furnishes Its Employes Free Medical Attendance.

William L. Douglas, President of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., has always had a great personal interest in the army of men and women who inhabit the great factory at Montello, Mass. He is a great believer in the idea that manufacturers should have this personal interest in the condition of their employes, and feels that if the idea is carried out to the extent that is possible, that it will result ultimately in the breaking down of the barriers which have been built up between employers and those whom they employ.

Mr. Douglas is satisfied that a scheme he has originated is a good one, and he has now put it to practical test. A few days ago he handed to every person in his employ—and they form a small army—a card, which entitled the bearer "to full and free medical attendance while employed by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company. A competent and skilful physician will be at the private office of the company at 12 m., daily, except Sundays and holidays. It said employe should be detained at home by sickness, the physician will give full and free medical attendance there."

Blank spaces are left in the card for the name and residence of the employe, and it is signed by Mr. Douglas, as President of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company. The conditions printed on the card are as follows: "The physician will not make visits outside the city limits. This ticket is not transferable, and does not apply to the family of the employe, and must be returned as soon as the term of employment ceases. This privilege is a free gift of the company and is no part of the contract for wages, and may be made void by the company, at its own option, without notice."

A doctor has been engaged to attend sick employes, and everything that medical skill can accomplish will be done for them during illness.

This is a practical illustration of the plan. It will doubtless be appreciated by the hundreds who receive the cards. Mr. Douglas believes there are hundreds of workingmen and workingwomen who find a doctor's bill a great burden after a period of enforced idleness, and that if this is lifted from them they must feel that their employer is interested in them in some other way than simply to get all the work he can for just as little money as he can. Mr. Douglas says also that there are men and women who keep at work when it would be better for their health if they laid off a day or two and received medical attendance. Then again they will now feel free to consult the doctor for slight troubles, which heretofore they would not do because of the cost.

Speaking of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co., it may be said further that in their factory the principle of arbitration is recognized. Mr. Douglas is a firm believer in the principle and has been since the establishment of the State Board of Arbitration. The firm obliges every employe to sign an agreement to submit any disagreement that may arise, and which cannot be settled by the interested parties, to the State Board of Arbitration, the decision of that Board to be final.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE ENDORSED.

The W. C. T. U. Comes Out for Woman's Rights.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union convention was brought to a close at Cleveland, O., with a meeting in music hall under the auspices of the Federated Unions of the city. The convention has been the most successful in the history of the union. Next year's convention will probably be held in Baltimore. Among the resolutions adopted were the following:

"Resolved that we look with alarm at the increasing desecration of the Sabbath and the demands of the liquor traffic for the open Sunday saloon and call upon the executives of the law and others in authority, as well as upon moral and religious people, to unite in the enforcement of such laws as do not exist and to prevent further encroachment on this day of rest.

"We resolve in favor of combined and persistent efforts for securing the enfranchisement of women.

"Resolved, That the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union endorses with pride the heroic action of the Kentucky women in their determined overthrow of impurity in high political places, and in their demands for the annihilation of sex in moral standards.

"We deprecate the social amusements of card-playing, theater-going and promiscuous dancing.

"We disapprove of such exercises or such games of football as require the presence of a physician, as being injurious to physical well-being and brutalizing in their moral tendencies.

"We protest against the custom of inter-collegiate work of college life.

"While friendly to all institutions having for their object the restoration of the drunkard, we do not recognize in them a cure for the saloon evil.

"We do not encourage local unions to adopt this work as any solution of the temperance problem so long as the licensed saloon exists.

"We declare that the employer and the employe should unitedly decide what is best for the enterprises which can succeed only by their united efforts, but we strongly urge that on these boards women should be represented.

"Resolved, That in order to hasten the complete overthrow of the monster iniquity of the age, the liquor system, we rejoice in the near approach of the time when we shall be able to reinforce our prayer and moral support by our ballots, and hereby pledge them to the home protection party, by whatsoever name called. That as women, we propose to stand by women, to defend their good name and seek the advancement of their interest."

BURIED TREASURE

Creates Great Excitement in Union County, Tennessee.

Great excitement prevails in Union county, Tenn., about twenty-five miles from Knoxville, over the discovery in an Indian mound of about $45,000 worth of gold bars and nuggets.

About a week ago, a Cherokee woman named Anna McDonald, granddaughter of Chief McIntosh, one of the famous chieftains of her tribe, appeared in the neighborhood with a map showing the purported location of a large amount of hidden treasure. She claimed that a half million dollars had been buried there by her grandfather.

People were disposed to treat her as a crank at first, but finally the owner of the farm on which the treasure was located agreed to open the mound for half of the treasure if any was found.

Three days ago, workmen commenced excavating and early Wednesday morning found $16 worth of dust and nuggets in a jar. Later they unearthed an iron box containing $30,000 worth of precious metal. She claims there is a great deal more to be unearthed.

Two thousand people gathered in the neighborhood of the mound, and fifty men armed with Winchesters are guarding the treasure spot.

It is learned that the Japanese government has sent its reply to United States Minister Dunn asking whether a tender by the president of the United States of his good offices in the interest of restoring peace in the east would be agreeable to Japan. Before reaching a conclusion the ministry gave the matter consideration for several days and finally stated to Mr. Dunn that although the friendly sentiments which prompted the government and people of the United States were deeply appreciated, the success of the Japanese army had been such that China should approach Japan directly on the subject.

As far as the treasury department is informed no gold was withdrawn from the New York sub-treasury Wednesday. The gold reserve stands at $57,854,000. Less than $900 in gold has so far been paid this month at New York for custom duties, which duties for twenty days have amounted to $4,701,000, $500 in excess of the corresponding period last year. A mistake was made by Treasurer Jordan Tuesday in transmitting by telegraph the gold withdrawn from the New York subtreasury. An item of $400,000 was repeated. The gold withdrawn was $1,200,000, not $1,600,000, as stated.

The indications are that the present government loan of $50,000,000 will not only all be taken, but that the aggregate of the bids will be far in excess of the amount of the bonds to be sold. As fast as received the bids are immediately placed, unopened, in the treasury vaults, so that it is impossible to know in advance of the general opening the names of the bidders, the amounts bid for, or the prices offered. The number of envelopes bearing the legend "proposals for the purchase of 5 per cent. bonds" which is being received at the treasury department is far in excess of the number received for the February issue, and the number of requests for blank forms of bids is far beyond expectations.

Notwithstanding Mr. Cleveland's financial message and his effort to sidetrack silver, it has already become apparent that the silver men of both the house and senate intend to make a great effort to put through a free coinage bill at this session of congress and send the same to the white house for Mr. Cleveland's approval or veto. Mr. Bland has written to Washington that he expects to push the silver bill with all his power. Judge Holman, of Indiana, has been interviewed on the question, and he says free silver will be the chief issue in the campaign of 1896. "The democratic party," said he, "dare not do otherwise than declare for the unlimited coinage of the people's money at the present ratio. With that issue only can we win."

Why Leverett was Called Down.

The president Friday appointed John D. Harrell, of Georgia, to be United States marshal for the southern district of Georgia. This is the place to which Hon. Frank Leverett was appointed soon after the beginning of Mr. Cleveland's present term, and which he has since filled. The causes that led to Mr. Leverett's retirement are as follows: The responsibility for the lack of funds with with which to serve government papers in criminal cases in the southern district did not rest with the government, but with Marshal Leverett. When a marshal qualifies he files a bond for $20,000 and the government advances him money with which to pay the expenses of court proceedings with which he has to deal. The government will advance, through the department of justice, an amount equal to the amount of the bond given by the marshal. It seems Marshal Leverett had been advanced more for the expenses of this district than was on his bond. His credit with the government had, therefore, expired. This credit can be re-established by promptly returning to the department vouchers for the amounts expended duly approved by the judge of the court. Marshal Leverett had neglected to do this, and his credit with the department had expired. It seems to have been more of a case of neglect that was made out in the report upon the affairs of his office than anything else. The reason there was no money on hand was because these vouchers had been neglected and the marshal's credit had expired.

BLACK TO WATSON.

Reply to a Proposition to Purge the Ballot of the Tenth District.

Major J. C. C. Black, democratic congressman-elect from the tenth district, has written a reply to Hon. Tom Watson's proposition that something be done to purge the ballot box in the district. Mr. Watson proposed that a commission be appointed, two by himself, two by Major Black, these to select a fifth. Mr. Watson suggested that these gentlemen examine the ballots cast on Nov. 6th and decide upon who was elected. Mr. Watson said that he was willing to abide by the result and if it was found that he was not elected he would never again be a candidate for congress in this district. Major Black replied saying that he wished to consult with some friends before giving a final answer. Now he publishes his answer. In it he deplores the frauds committed in the district by both parties, and says he is willing to resign and run again.

The Value of Politeness.

The cheese man was dilating on the value of politeness everywhere, but especially in stores, and remarked that he would discharge a clerk for impoliteness or inattention quicker than he would for petty theft.

An old resident of Roxbury overheard the remark and, as an illustration of the importance of politeness on the part of salesmen, said:

"A good many years ago I went to New York in company with my friend B. One snowy day we strolled into A. T. Stewart's store. Neither of us intended to make a purchase. We merely went there as a matter of curiosity.

"At the door we were met by a polite gentleman, who insisted that he should take our overcoats and umbrellas to relieve us of the burden of carrying them about the store. We told him we were not intending to purchase anything, but that made no difference in his attentions. Another equally polite gentleman insisted on escorting us through the building. The fact that we did not intend to purchase goods did not lessen his courtesy.

"Finally to entertain us the courteous clerks showed us a large invoice of shawls which had just been received. The clerk unfolded one after the other, and by and by my friend said he would take a $1,500 India shawl which pleased him, and a little later I purchased a valuable carpet. When we entered the store neither of us had the slightest intention of making a purchase of anything, but the politeness of that clerk put more than $2,000 into the till of A. T. Stewart which would not have been there otherwise.

"You are quite right in emphasizing the value of politeness. It is the most valuable commodity a man or woman can carry about. It may sometimes be misplaced, but in the long run it pays."—Boston Journal.

Good Men Profitably Employed.

"Yes, sir, we have a number of grand, good men working for us, and they are making money, too, doing better for themselves than they could in any other line." That is about the way Mr. S. F. Johnson of the firm B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., stated the case in referring to their advertisement for representatives to devote all or part of their time in the interest of their business.

One morning a prominent restaurant keeper with spectacles on his nose had just entered his store when he heard a rattle at the door. He opened it and let in a man with a very anxious countenance. "Can I get something to eat at once?" he said excitedly.

"As soon as it possibly can be got," said the proprietor. "What will you have?"

"Eggs boiled," said the man absently. "Quickest thing."

"No, for it takes eggs three minutes to boil, and if they are not good they must be done over. Best have them fried."

"Quickest way? I'm in an awful hurry."

The breakfast was eaten in short order, really bolted down. The man jumped up, hurried to the counter, and paid the bill. As he did so he looked up at the clock and then pulled out his watch. "Good heavens," he said, "is that clock right?"

He was informed that it was and looked sheepish.

"Do you know what I've done?" he said. "I got up, made a mistake of an hour in the time, abused my wife, swore at the girl, flung out of the house and got my breakfast here. Now I've got to loaf around an hour. I'm an infernal donkey!"

Seeking a Separation.

"Do you give gas here?" asked a wild-looking man, who rushed into a dentist's office on Clark street, yesterday morning.

"We do," replied the dentist.

"Does it put a fellow to sleep?"

"It does."

"Sound asleep, so you can't wake him up?"

"Yes."

"You could break his jaw or gouge out his eye and he wouldn't feel it?"

"He would know nothing of it."

"How long does it make him stay asleep?"

"The physical insensibility produced by inhaling the gas lasts a minute or probably a little less."

"I guess that's long enough. Got it all ready for a fellow to take?"

"Yes. Take a seat in the chair and show me your tooth."

"Tooth nothing!" said the excited caller, beginning rapidly to remove his coat and vest. "I want you to pull a porous plaster off my back."—Chicago Tribune.

False Modesty.

Never teach false modesty. How exquisitely absurd to teach a girl that beauty is no value, dress of no use! Beauty is of value; her whole prospects and happiness in life may often depend upon a new gown or a becoming bonnet; if she has five grains of common sense, she will find this out. The great thing is to teach her their proper value.—Sidney Smith.

of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, be cured. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like palliatives.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses, in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and bleeding maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 160 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

And can entertain you finely.

That my heart she's fairly captured
And I lay it down enraptured,

After the Inquest.

BY W. W. JACOBS.

It was a still, fair evening in J summer in the parish of Wappi The hands had long since left, the night watchman having ab doned his trust in favor of a nei boring bar, the wharf was deserted

An elderly seaman came to the g and paused irresolute, then seeing was quiet, stole cautiously on to jetty, and stood for some time gaz curiously down on the deck of bilyboy Mary Ann lying alongsi With the exception of the ma who, since the lamented disappe ance of its master and owner, acting as captain, the deck was deserted as the wharf. He was smo ing an evening pipe in all the pr of a first command, his eye rov fondly over the blunt bows and t tidy deck of his craft to the clum stern, when a slight cough from t man above attracted his attention.

"How do, George," said the m on the jetty, somewhat sheepish as the other looked up.

The mate opened his mouth, the pipe fell from it and smashed pieces unnoticed.

"Got mush stuff in her this trip continued the man with an obvi attempt to appear at ease.

The mate, still looking up, back slowly to the other side of the de but made no reply.

"What's the matter, man?" the other testily; "you don't se over and above pleased to see m

He leaned over as he spoke, laying hold of the rigging, descend to the deck, while the mate took breath in short gasps.

"Here, I am George," said intruder; "turned up like penny, an' glad to see your handso face again, I can tell you."

In response to this flattering mark, George gurgled.

"Why," said the other, with uneasy laugh, "did you think I dead, George? Ha, ha! Fool that

He watched the horrified ma thumb in the back which stop even his gurgles.

"That feel like a dead man asked the smiter, raising his h again. "Feel"——

The mate moved back hastily.

"That'll do," said he, quie "Ghost or no ghost, don't you me like that again."

THE GIRL OF 1894.

She can sing a ballad sweetly,
And can fascinate completely,
With a look.
She can dance the waltz divinely
And can entertain you finely.
Can she cook?

She can write a poem esthetic,
And write it so pathetic,
That you weep
To the woman suffrage question
She has given deep reflection.
Can she sweep?

But in spite of her endeavor
To become a maiden clever,
She's so sweet
That my heart she's fairly captured,
And I lay it down enraptured,
At her feet.

After the Inquest.

BY W. W. JACOB.

It was a still, fair evening in late summer in the parish of Wapping. The inmds had long since left, and the night watchman having abandoned his trust in favor of a neighboring bar, the wharf was deserted.

An elderly seaman came to the gate and paused irresolute, then seeing all was quiet, stole cautiously on to the jetty, and stood for some time gazing curiously down on the deck of the billyboy Mary Ann lying alongside. With the exception of the mate, who, since the lamented disappearance of its master and owner, was acting as captain, the deck was as deserted as the wharf. He was smoking an evening pipe in all the pride of a first command, his eye roving fondly over the blunt bows and untidy deck of his craft to the clumsy stern, when a slight cough from the man above attracted his attention.

"How do, George," said the man on the jetty, somewhat sheepishly, as the other looked up.

The mate opened his mouth, and the pipe fell from it and smashed to pieces unnoticed.

"Got much stuff in her this trip?" continued the man with an obvious attempt to appear at ease.

The mate, still looking up, backed slowly to the other side of the deck, but made no reply.

"What's the matter, man?" said the other testily; "you don't seem over and above pleased to see me."

He leaned over as he spoke, and laying hold of the rigging, descended to the deck, while the mate took his breath in short gasps.

"Here, I am George," said the intruder; "turned up like a bad penny, an' glad to see your handsome face agin, I can tell you."

In response to this flattering remark, George gurgled.

"Why," said the other, with an uneasy laugh, "did you think I was dead, George? Ha, ha! Feel that!"

He fetched the horrified man a thump in the back which stopped even his gurgles.

"That feel like a dead man?" asked the smiter, raising his hand again. "Feel——"

The mate moved back hastily.

"That'll do," said he, sulkily. "Ghost or no ghost, don't you hit me like that again."

"A' right, George," said the other as he meditatively felt the stiff gray whiskers which framed his red face. "What's the news?"

"The news," said George, who was of slow habits and speech, "is that you was found last Tuesday week off St. Catherine's stairs, you was sat on last Friday week at the town o' Ramsgate public house, and buried on Monday afternoon at Lowestoff."

"Buried!" gasped the other. "Sat on! You've been drinking, George."

"An' a pretty penny your funeral cost, I can tell you," continued the mate. "There's a headstone being made now, 'Lived, lamented and died respected,' I think it is, with 'Not lost, but gone before,' at the bottom."

"'Lived, respected and died lamented,' you mean," growled the old man. "Well, a nice muddle you've made of it between you. Things always go wrong when I'm not here to look after them."

"You ain't dead, then?" said the mate, taking no notice of this unreasonable remark. "Where've you been all this long time?"

"No more than you're master o' this 'ere ship," replied Mr. Harbolt, grimly; "I've been a bit queer in the stomach, an' took a little drink to correct it. Foolish like, I took the wrong drink and it must have got into my head."

"That's the worst of not being used to it," said the mate without moving a muscle.

The skipper eyed him solemnly, but the mate stood firm.

"After that," continued the skipper, still watching him suspiciously, "I remember no more distinctly until this morning, when I found myself sitting on a step down Poplar way and shiverin' with the morning newspapor and a crowd around me."

"Morning newspaper!" repeated the mystified mate. "What was that for?"

"Decency. I was wrapped up in it," replied the skipper. "Where I came from or how I got there I don't know no more than Adam. I s'pose I must have been ill. I seem to remember taking something out of a bottle pretty often. Some old gentleman in the crowd took me into a shop and bought me these clothes, an' here I am. My own clo's and the £80 o' freight money I had in my pocket is all gone."

"Well, I'm hearty glad to see you back," said the mate. "It's quite a home coming for you. Your missis is down aft."

"My missis? What is she aboard for?" growled the skipper, successfully controlling his natural gratification at the news.

"She's been with us these last two trips," replied the mate. "She's had business to settle in London, and she's been going through your lockers to clean up like."

"My lockers!" groaned the skipper. "Good heavens! there's things in them lockers I wouldn't have her see for the world; women are so fussy an' so fond o' making something out o' nothing. There's a pore female touched a bit on the upper story what's been writing love letters to me, George."

"Three pore females!" said the precise mate; "the missis has got all the letters tied up with blue ribbons. Very fat gone they was, too."

"George," said the skipper, in a broken voice, "I'm a ruined man. I'll never hear the end o' this. I guess I'll go an' sleep for'ard this voyage and lie low. Be keerful you don't let on I'm aboard, an' after she's got home I'll take the ship again and let the thing leak out gradually, come to life bit by bit, so to speak. It won't do to scare her, George, an' in the mean time, I'll try an' think o' some explanation to tell her. You might be thinking, too."

"I'll do what I can," said the mate.

"Crack me up to the old girl all you can; tell her that I used to write to all sorts o' people when I got a drap a drink in me; say how thoughtful I always was of her. You might tell her about that gold locket I bought for her and got robbed of."

"Gold locket!" said the mate, in tones of great surprise. "What gold locket? First I've heard of it."

"Any gold locket," said the skipper irritably; "anything you can think of; you needn't be pertikler. After that you can drop little hints about people being buried in mistakes for others so as to prepare her a bit—I don't want to scare her."

"Leave it to me," said the mate.

"I'll go and turn in now, I'm dead tired," said the skipper. "I 'spose Joe and the boy's asleep."

George watched and meditatively watched the other as he pushed back the forescuttle and drew it after him as he descended. Then a thought struck him and he ran hastily forward and threw his weight on the scuttle just in time to frustrate the efforts of Joe and the boy, who were coming on deck for a little yelling space. The confusion below was frightful, the skipper's cry of "It's only me, Joe!" not possessing the soothing effect which he intended. They calmed down at length after their visitor had convinced them that he really was flesh and blood and fists, and the boy's attention being directed to a small rug in the corner of the foc'sle, the skipper took his bunk and was soon fast asleep.

He slept so soundly that the noise of the vessel getting under way failed to arouse him and she was well out in the open river when he awoke, and after cautiously protruding his head through the scuttle, ventured on deck. For some time he stood eagerly sniffing the cool, sweet air, and then after a look around gingerly approached the mate, who was at the helm. "Give me a hold on her," said he.

"You'd better get below a'gin if you don't want the missis to see you," said the mate. "She's gettin' up—nasty temper she's in, too."

The skipper went forward grumbling. "Send me down a good breakfast, George," said he.

To his great discomfort the mate suddenly gave a low whistle and regarded him with a look of blank dismay.

"Good gracious!" he cried, "I forgot all about it. Here's a pretty kettle of fish. Well, well."

"Forgot about what?" asked the skipper uneasily.

"The crew take their meals in the cabin, now," replied the mate, "'cos the missis says it's more cheerful for 'em, and she's larning 'em to eat their wittles properly."

The skipper looked at him aghast. "You'll have to smuggle me up some grub," he said at length. "I'm not going to starve for nobody."

"Easier said than done," said the mate; "the missis has got eyes like needles. Still, I'll do the best I can for you. Look out, here she comes!"

The skipper fled hastily and, safe down below, explained to the crew how they were to secrete portions of their breakfast for his benefit. The amount of explanation required for so simple a matter was remarkable, the crew manifesting a denseness which irritated him almost beyond endurance. They promised, however, to do the best they could for him and returned in triumph after a hearty meal and presented their enraged commander with a few greasy crumbs and the tail of a bloater.

For the next two days the wind was against them, and they made but little progress. Mrs. Harbolt spent most of her time on deck, thereby confining her husband to his evil smelling quarters below. Matters were not improved for him by his treatment of the crew who, resenting the rough treatment of them, were doing their best to starve him into civility. Most of the time he kept in his bunk—or, rather, he kept in Jemmy's bunk—a prey to despondency and hunger of an acute type, venturing on deck only at night to prowl uneasily about and bemoan his condition.

On the third night Mrs. Harbolt was later in retiring than usual, and it was nearly midnight before the skipper, who had been indignantly waiting for her to go, was able to get on deck and hold counsel with the mate.

"I've done what I could for you," said the latter, fishing a crust from his pocket, which Harbolt took thankfully. "I've told her all the yarns I could think of about people turning up after they was buried and the like."

"What'd she say?" queried the skipper, eagerly, between his bites.

"Told me not to talk like that," said the mate; "said it showed a want o' trust in Providence to hint at such things. Then I told her what you asked me about the locket, only I made it a bracelet worth £10."

"That pleased her," suggested the other, hopefully.

The mate shook his head. "She said I was a born fool to believe you'd been robbed o' it," he replied. "She said what you'd done was to give it to one o' them pore females. She's been going on frightful about it all the arternoon; won't talk o' nothing else."

"I don't know what's to be done," groaned the skipper despondently. "I shall be dead afore we get to port if this wind holds. Go down and get me something to eat, George; I'm starving."

"Everything's locked up, as I told you afore," said the mate.

"As the master of the ship," said the skipper, drawing himself up, "I order you to go down and get me something to eat. You can tell the missis it's for me, if she says anything."

"I'm hanged if I will," said the mate, sturdily. "Why don't you go down and have it out with her like a man. She can't eat you."

"I'm not going to," said the other, shortly. "I'm a determined man, and when I say a thing I mean it. It's going to be broke to her gradual, as I said. I don't want her to be scared, pore thing."

"I know who'd be scared the most," murmured the mate.

The skipper looked on him fiercely, and then sat down wearily on the hatches with his hands between his knees, rising after a time to get the dipper and drink copiously from the water cask, then replacing it with a sigh, he bade the mate a surly good-night and went below.

To his dismay, he found when he awoke in the morning that what little wind there was had dropped in the night, and the billy boy was just rising and falling lazily on the water, in a fashion most objectionable to an empty stomach. It was the last straw, and he made things so uncomfortable below that the crew was glad to escape on deck, where they squatted down in the bows and proceeded to review a situation which was rapidly becoming unbearable.

"I've 'ad enough of it, Joe," grumbled the boy. "I'm sore all over with sleeping on the floor, and the old man's temper gets wuss. I'm going to be ill."

"Whaffor?" queried Joe, dully.

"You tell the missis I'm down below ill. Say you think I am dying," responded the infant Machiavelli, "then you'll see something if you keep your eyes open."

He went below again, not without a little nervousness, and, clambering into Joe's bunk, rolled on his back and gave a deep groan.

"What's the matter with you?" growled the skipper, who was lying in the other bunk, staving off the pangs of hunger with a pipe.

"I'm very ill—dying," said Jem, with another groan.

"You'd better stay in bed and have your breakfast brought down here, then," said the skipper, kindly.

"I don't want no breakfast," said Jem faintly.

"That's no reason why you shouldn't have it sent down, you unfeeling little brute," said the skipper indignantly. "You tell Joe to bring you down a great plate of cold meat and pickles an' some coffee—that's what you want."

"All right, sir," said Jemmy, "I hope they won't let the missis come down here in case it's something catching. Better close the scuttle, sir."

"Eh?" said the skipper in alarm. "Certainly not. Here you go up and die on the deck—hurry up with you."

"I can't, I'm too weak," said Jemmy.

"You can go up on deck at once, d'ye hear me?" hissed the skipper in alarm.

"If you don't go I'll take you," said the skipper," and he was about to rise to put his threat into execution when a shadow fell across the opening, and a voice which thrilled him to the core said softly, "Jemmy."

"Yes'm, said Jemmy, languidly, as the skipper flattened himself in his bunk and drew the clothes over him.

"How do you feel?" inquired Mrs. Harbolt.

"Bad all over," said Jemmy. "Oh don't come down, mum, please don't."

"Rubbish," said Mrs. Harbolt, tartly, as she came slowly and carefully down backward, "what a dark hole this is, Jemmy. No wonder you're ill. Put your tongue out."

Jemmy complied.

"I can't see properly here," replied the lady, "but it looks very large. S'pose you go into the other bunk, Jemmy. It's a good bit higher than this and you'd get more air and be more comfortable altogether."

"Joe wouldn't like it, mum," said the boy anxiously. The last glimpse he had of the skipper's face did not make him yearn to share his bed with him.

"Stuff and nonsense," said Mrs. Harbolt hotly. "Who's Joe, I'd like to know? But you come."

"I can't move, mum," said Jem firmly.

"Nonsense," said the lady. "I'll just put it straight for you first, then in it you go."

"No, don't mum!" shouted Jem, now thoroughly alarmed at the success of the plot. "There's—there's a gentleman in that bunk. A gentleman we brought from London for a change of sea air."

"My goodness gracious!" ejaculated the surprised Mr. Harbolt. "I never did—why, what's he had to eat?"

"He, he didn't want nothing to eat," said Jemmy, with a wotful disregard for facts.

"What's the matter with him?" inquired Mrs. Harbolt, eying the bunk curiously, "what's his name? Who is he?"

"He's been lost a long time," said Jemmy, "and he's forgotten who he is. He's a oldish man with a red face an' a little white whiskers all around it—a very nice looking man, I mean," he interposed hurriedly. "I don't think he's quite right in his mind, cos he says he ought to have been buried instead of some one else. Oh!"

The last word was almost a scream, for Mrs. Harbolt, staggering back, pinched him convulsively.

"Jemmy," she gasped in a trembling voice, as she suddenly remembered certain mysterious hints thrown out by the mate, "Who is it?"

"The Captain," said Jemmy, and, breaking from her clasp, slipped from his bed and darted hastily on deck just as the pallid face of his commander broke through the blankets and beamed anxiously on his wife.

Five minutes later, as the crew, gathered aft, were curiously eying the foc'sle, Mrs. Harbolt and the skipper came on deck. To the astonishment of the mate the eyes of the redoubtable woman were slightly wet, and she clung fondly to her husband as they walked slowly to the cabin, regardless of the presence of the men. Ere they went below, however, she called the grinning Jemmy to her, and, to his indignant grief and shame, tucked his head under her arm and publicly kissed him.

TRAPPERS' EVIL GENIUS.

The Wolverine is a Cunning Villain and Great Thief.

The Wolverine, Carcajou, or glutton is better known as being the trappers' Evil Genius than for the value or beauty of his own fur. He is the greatest thief and the most cunning villain in our whole mammalian fauna, and mountains of hard words have been heaped upon his ugly head.

In fighting-weight he is about the size of a setter-dog, but in form he may best be described as a cross between a badger and a bear. He has the head, legs, feet, and tail of a badger, and a bear-like body. In Wyoming he is called the Skunk Bear, not a bad name; but the Indians of northern Washington go a little farther and call him the Mountain Devil.

I never saw but one live Wolverine, and that was a fine specimen caught in the Yellowstone Park and now in the National Zoological Park at Washington. He is very badger-like in temper and disposition, sullen and vicious, always crouching in the farthest corner of his cage, growling away down in his throat, and showing a formidable set of teeth whenever looked at.

The length of his head and body is about thirty inches, and tail about twelve inches. I may say "about," because he asked to be excused from being measured, and I excused him! In general appearance the Wolverine is a very stoutly built, long-haired, and dark-colored animal, with his colors in about four values, as an artist would express it. His head and shoulders are chestnut-brown, the back is almost black, while the legs and feet are jet-black, and the claws white. A very curious conspicuous light marking is the yellow coloring of the thigh. The fur of this animal is not very fine, and is chiefly desirable for use in robes and rugs. Although it is comparatively abundant in the fur market there is no special demand for it.

The most interesting thing about the Wolverine is the total depravity of his character; we cannot say moral character, for apparently he never had any. Wherever found he is the king of thieves. He delights in following up a line of marten-traps several miles long, and not only stealing the bait, which his satanic ingenuity nearly always enables him to do without getting caught, but also devouring every marten that he finds already trapped. He makes a specialty of finding and breaking open the caches of meat trappers store up in the fall for winter use; and what he can neither eat on the spot, nor carry away and bury under the snow, he paws over and soils so effectually that even the hungriest man cannot eat it.

In stealing, his industry is boundless. He often enters a settler's cabin when the owner is away, eats everything eatable, and destroys a good share, and then carries away everything portable, hiding his booty in the snow or in the earth. He even takes articles that he cannot possibly use, such as tin pans, clothing, belts, and steel traps; and more than once he has been known to strip a cabin of almost everything it contained. As an agreeable neighbor in the forest he is a complete failure. Fortunately he belongs more to the northern portion of the continent than elsewhere, and is now rarely taken in the United States.—[St. Nicholas.

RALLYING THE DEMOCRATS.

A Hint to the President to Take the Initiative.

Washington Special to Charleston News and Courier.

During the coming session of Congress an attempt will be made to call a conference of leading Democrats, representing all of the contending factions, for the purpose of promoting party harmony and organizing the line of battle for 1896.

Conservative Democrats declare that it is impossible for the party to expect success to attend their efforts under the present conditions and nothing but an honest effort to adjust personal and party differences will save the Democracy from another crushing defeat in the approaching Presidential struggle.

It is suggested that the President might render his party an everlasting service if he would take the lead in such a movement. He might call a conference of the leading members of the party, without regard to past disagreements, and join with them in mapping out a program for the coming campaign.

He cannot accomplish the same amount of good single-handed or with the support of that faction in the party known as "Administration men." A great deal of the discord in the Democratic Party is due to personal jealousies and a feeling among certain men prominent in the party councils, that they have been and are being persistently ignored. Whether such is the case or not cuts but little figure in this connection. The fact remains that the Democratic Party is not in a healthy condition, owing to the numerous disorders within its own immediate households.

A distinguished Northern Democrat, who is known throughout the land for his devotion to the Democratic Party, who is by no means an office-seeker, is one of the prime movers in the proposed "family gathering of the Democratic Party managers." He outlines his plans to me yesterday and he added that he had discussed the subject with several prominent Democrats now in Washington.

He proposes that the President invite a number of the recognized leaders of the party to meet with him for the purpose of talking over the party affairs and agreeing upon a plan for future action. He is as much interested in the success of the Democratic Party as any one man in the United States and it would not be beneath the dignity of his office to participate in such a council of war.

Samuel J. Tilden who was the recognized leader of 1884, held a similar council at Albany. He invited all of the recognized leaders of the party to meet him in Albany. They came from all parts of the country, and each man was permitted to state his views on the political situation. Mr. Tilden announced in the beginning that the Republicans were apparently split in twain over Blaine and Arthur.

He advised prudence and party harmony in place of personal ambition, and the result was the determination to nominate Grover Cleveland. There were present at this conference strong advocates of Senator Bayard who was then a conspicuous leader in the Senate.

Some of the sentimental representatives of the West insisted upon advocating Allen G. Thurman. After listening to all of the views submitted Mr. Tilden commended many of the gentlemen named, and then proceeded to say that the time was ripe for the Democrats to nominate and elect a President and personal ambitions must be sent to the rear to give place to party expediency. He then went on to say that he believed the then Governor of New York, Grover Cleveland, was the logical candidate.

Said he: We can nominate him and I am confident we can elect him but I cannot promise what we will do with him when we get him in the White House.

A BOY'S AMBITION.

Of course he means to do something with it by and by, but he does not propose to soil his fingers with work. He is going to be a clerk, or a doctor or a lawyer.

No, cheerful young man, are you sure you know what you are talking about? What do clerks earn?

How much does a young doctor receive? Ohl but you don't mean to be a poor clerk. You intend to be a great lawyer with ten thousand a year, or a doctor with a carriage. Charmed to hear it. It is a noble resolve but are you sure you will get there? Really now how can a young man tell, how can he be sure he will succeed? In this way. A man succeeds who falls in love with his work. He thinks about it day and night, he studies it, he reads all he can find on the subject. He tries and tries till he can do it well. Then it is he succeeds.

You do not care much about medicine; you have no burning desire to study this magnificent machine the human body. You don't care very much for dreadful work in hospitals and yet you mean to be a doctor. You would secretly much prefer to have a kit of carver's tools out of course you would never be a carver by trade? Let us stop here.

This is the summing up of a vast deal of homely wisdom. Do you love any work? Is there anything that, if you were independent you would do before anything else? If there is—do that. That is your success; that may lies all the money the rewards, the respect of others, and all the real honest happiness you will ever find. Boys make a mistake in thinking that only lawyers, doctors, and merchants succeed. It is a terrible blunder to leave a trade in which you may make a first-class workman and have a chance to win a home, comfort and indepence, to go into a profession you do not love. There is one end of that road—a life of ill-paid drudgery and failure after all.

—Alabama Baptist.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by his friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and Smith and McNeill, Jemison.

The inauguration of Gov. Wm. C Oates last Saturday was attended by not a ripple of unpleasantness. His speech acknowledging the honor and the obligations of his position was sensible throughout. Chief Justice Brickell administered the oath.

Kolb and three of his defeated associates went before a Justice of the peace of Montgomery last Saturday and took oaths promising to support the Constitution and etc. Gov. Jones would not allow him to speak in the capitol grounds so he got up in a mule wagon in the street and harranged the crowd which gathered about him. One of his followers wanted volunteers to join him in backing up Kolb's government. This is perhaps the closing chapter in Kolb's career as Governor. He who supported him in the past have enough of him and so have the northern Republicans who have been putting up the cash.

The second term of Hon. Thomas G. Jones as Governor of Alabama expired last Saturday at noon.

For four years he did his duty as a man fearing God, who reverenced law and loved human kind.

He met discouragement and opposition from those who should have been his friends, yet he moved forward trying to know and "to do" what duty dictated and he leaves to his family and to his country as bright a record as ever official made. The coming historian will gladly write that "Governor Thomas G. Jones held office during time of great trial and peril, yet he was equal to every emergency."

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate agent of San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for several years as occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says: "I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this Remedy at home or on a trip away from home." For sale by Clanton Drug Store Clanton and McNeill and Smith, Jemison Alabama.

We welcome as the new Governor of Alabama Hon. Wm. J. Oates, a man who has risen from the humble sphere of a country boy, through the halls of the National Legislature and now to the highest office in the State—the gift of his fellow citizens. He brings to the Governor's chair that ripe business experience and knowledge of men and affairs which will enable him to successfully steer the ship of state through all dangerous waters and land her, four years hence into the haven of peace and prosperity.

Some causes of defeat.

It took the United States Senate three months to pass a bill repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman law. All that time the country was in the throes of a financial panic which would have ended with a prompt response to the action of the House. Again it took the Senate from the 28th of January until some time in August, 1894 to make up its mind whether or not it would end the business uncertainty by enactment of a tariff law.

During all that delay factories were stopping, men and women were thrown out of employment, business establishments closing down and hard times generally pressing out hope and energy.

Is it any wonder the Democrats suffered defeat on the 6th of November when all this trouble was charged to them? True, it was Republican legislation which strated it, but it was Democratic folly and delay which kept it at a most critical period. There remain just three months of lagislative life to the present Congress. If that is frittered away by sore-headed Congressmen and vanity-stricken Senators in a warfare upon Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Carlisle, the grave of the Democratic Party will have to be dug deeper than the late election left it.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that noone else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

The Chilton Circuit Court has ended During all the trial of the civil cases only one or two cases were decided by the Jury. The docket was almost cleared. On Friday Mr. William Melton was tried for murdering George Gholston. About midnight the Jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. The negroes indicted for Burglary and Larceny all plead guilty and were sent to the penitentiary. The grand Jury seemed to be very active, but only returned eleven indictments. Be it said to the credit of our Juries and witnesses very few were noticed to be under the influence of liquor. The Judge put the witnesses jurors and lawyers on notice about drinking and warned them that they must take the consequences.

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Kind Hearts Beat Pretty Faces.

Beauty is a recognized factor in the general regard. It is said that one of Leigh Hunt's schoolmates wasso handsome that, having one day run against an old woman's fruit stall and kicked it over, his good looks thus turned her abuse to admiration.

"Where are you driving to?" she cried. "You great, hulking, good for nothing—beautiful fellow. God bless you."

But those who have the uncomfortable art of winning favor, we know not why, are not necessarily beautiful.

Who cannot name some plain featured woman of his acquaintance who is adored by her family and sought by friends and acquaintances, but who would make a very insignificant appearance in a gorgeous assembly or in after dinner conversation?

It cost Mr. Morton $19,790 to be elected governor of New York.

You Can't Eat Wrought Iron Nails,

Of course, and expect to digest them, but you can eat ordinary food that is wholesome and digest it, too, after your stomach, if enfeebled, has been strengthened by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Your kidneys, liver and bowels will be rendered active and vigorous by the great tonic, and your system fortified against malaria and rheumatism. Use it, also, if you are nervous and sleepless.

Chimneys were first put on houses of more than one story in Italy in 1347.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

If you would live for yourself, live for others.

True merit always wins. In the cause of business education the managers of Forter's Business College have won a victory at the Dixie Interstate Fair just closed at Macon, Ga., that brings this popular institution still more prominently before the public. Over all competitors they won the diploma and blue ribbon for "best business college display and method work." Their exhibit consisted of a representation of an office doing business in the regular way, which represented in strong object lessons, that, to take a business education is to have business training in business methods by doing actual work. Those who wish a thorough course in Bookkeeping, Shorthand or Typewriting, should address J. E. CZAR NICHOLAS II AND PRINCESS ALIX WED.

The Ceremony a Swell Affair, Lasting Nearly Two Hours.

A St. Petersburg cable dispatch says: The imperial wedding day broke cloudy and cheerless.

Troops headed by bands of music were on the march from all directions at a very early hour and occupied all the avenues of access to the winter palace, massing in strong force in Alexander platz and on the palace quay in front of the palace where the marriage of the Czar Nicholas II and Princess Alix, of Hesse-Darmstadt, was to take place.

PRINCESS ALIX.

Long before dawn the people began flocking to the palace quay which was soon densely packed. By 8 o'clock the streets were thronged with the populace in gala attire.

A salute of twenty guns announced that the groom had started from Anitchoff palace, and some dozen closed carriages whirled swiftly along the route to the winter palace amid the incessant cheering of the populace. The Czar and his attendants arrived there at ten.

In St. George's hall were assembled the council of the empire, the foreign ambassadors and imperial ministers and their wives. In the concert hall were the grand mistress of the court and the ladies of honor. The ladies of honor assisted Paincess Alix in completing her toilet before finally assembling in the concert hall.

CZAR NICHOLAS.

At 11:30 Prince Dologorouki, the grand master of ceremonies and Count Verontzoff, the minister of the perial court, announced to the Emperor Nicholas that all was ready.

THE BRIDE APPEARS.

Then the Princess Alix, her train borne by four court dignitaries, entered the hall. She wore a jeweled crown and a robe of white brocaded silk with a mantel of strawberry colored velvet, trimmed with a double row of ermine.

As the procession to the cathedral was being formed, fifty-one guns were fired from the fortress.

The spectacle was one of the utmost brilliancy, as the procession defiled from the gorgeous Malachite hall and traveled the concert, Nicholas, Field Marshal and Annoria halls, through the entire length and breadth of the palace.

When the procession reached the cathedral it was met at the entrance by the metropolitan of St. Petersburg, the holy synod and the court clergy, bearing the crosses, the holy water and the sacred books.

AT THE ALTAR.

The metropolitan conducted the czar to a position upon the dais in the center of the chancel. As the emperor took his place the czarina led the Princess Alix to him and placed her at his left hand. The czarina took her place at the right of the dais and the marriage service in use in the orthodox church was begun.

The ceremony was of the most impressive character and lasted nearly two hours.

FORT ARTHUR CAPTURED.

The Japanese Take Possession After a Hot Conflict.

The Central News correspondent at Shanghai says that the fall of Port Arthur has created great excitement in the native quarter of Shanghai. The news of the capture of Port Arthur by the Japanese was brought from Chee-Foo Saturday by a British steamer.

The Star publishes a dispatch saying that the Japanese torpedo boats engaged the attention of the forts while the troops closed around the forts at the rear. Then the torpedo boats made a sudden concerted dash and succeeded in getting inside the harbor. The Japanese artillery in the rear kept up a continuous fire upon these Chinese forts and the infantry made a succession of attacks upon the outer defenses which they captured. After the fire onslaught by the Japanese, the resistance of the Chinese is said to have been feeble. Finally the Chinese troops became panic stricken and fled.

HIS LAST MESSAGE.

GOV. TILLMAN TO THE SOUTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.

Affairs of South Carolina Reviewed—An Apology to Bellinger.

A Columbia special says: Governor Tillman's farewell message was officially presented in both houses of the general assembly Wednesday. While not so vigorous and sensational a document as were his previous executive deliverances, it is; nevertheless, interesting and Tillmanesque. The governor's political opponents call it a very "cheeky" production.

There has been some unfavorable criticism of his reference in the message to Solicitor G. Duncan Bellinger, of Barnwell, in which the governor declares that Bellinger would not press a dispensary case, and intimates that this is a bad example for an officer to set before the people. Mr. Bellinger is one of the brainiest and most solid young reformers, but is no partisan. He is a candidate before the legislature for the attorney generalship, and his friends consider that Governor Tillman has gone out of his way to hurt him in the race.

The governor reviews what has been accomplished by the reform party since his induction into office four years ago, enumerating the chief measures as follows: The erection and endowment of Clemson college, the overthrow of the Coosa phosphate monopoly, the just and equitable assessment of taxes on railroads and other corporations and the victory in the courts compelling them to pay; the passage of the dispensary law and the destruction of the barrooms; refunding of the state debt, which saves $78,000 a year in interest; the establishment of the Winthrop Normal and Industrial college for women; election of the railroad commissioners by the people and allowing them to fix passenger and freight rates; the inauguration of the primary system of party nominations for all offices in the gift of the people.

THERE TO STAY.

Speaking of the dispensary, he says: "I speak advisedly when I say that no new and untried experiment in the legislation has ever gained so many friends in so short a time and taken such deep root in the old popular heart. The law has come to stay.

"Some of the newspapers began early in January to educate the public mind to resistance to the searching of private dwellings; and men were taught to believe that this was an invasion of their liberties to which they should not submit. It is needless to show the fallacy of this contention, because it is readily seen that if a man may turn his private dwelling into a den from which he can sell liquor, or a depot from which to supply it, without the right to search and seize it under warrant, the law would be a nullity."

He recommends state control of police in those cities and towns where there is the most difficulty in enforcing the law, and thinks the governor should have power to suspend sheriffs and solicitors who fail to zealously enforce the law.

AS TO LYNCH LAW.

Of lynch law, he says: "The law's delay has been a theme for the animadversions and anathemas of men from time immemorial, and it appears to me that we have in South Carolina the best system of laws and rules of court to enable men to shirk the gallows that can possibly exist anywhere. The consequence is the people have lost all patience and almost all faith in the administration of justice. This lamentable and disgraceful condition is the direct and almost sole cause for the prevalence of lynch law in our midst."

In closing his message the governor says that he has charity for the many enemies known and unknown whom he has and who hate him; with love and gratitude he returns the commission entrusted to him by the people, proud that they are still his stanch supporters.

An Apology to Bellinger.

Governor Tillman, Wednesday night, made the following written statement:

"In my message to the general assembly today, I find that I have done Solicitor Bellinger an injustice. When I learned of the United States deputy marshal having acted in the outrageous manner that he did, I asked the attorney general to notify the solicitor that I would expect him to prosecute the case with vigor against both Furman and the sheriff. Later on I sent Mr. Bellinger a verbal message urging action and on Saturday last I wired to know what he had done. He replied: 'I have been too busy. Will write.' Up to last night I had not received any communication and could but feel that he had acted in a disrespectful and strange manner. Hence I said what I did in the message. I now learn that the grand jury had been dismissed when the solicitor got the attorney general's letter and there was no chance to prosecute the case at this court. Mr. Bellinger was absorbed in the Brown murder trial and did not attach the importance to the case that I did and neglected to explain. I now feel that he has not neglected his duty or intended any disrespect to me and I cheerfully make this explanation as justly his due."

BANKS TO FURNISH GOLD

Wherewith the New Issue of Bonds Will Be Purchased.

It is stated on excellent authority that the gold for the new issue of bonds will be furnished by all the national banks in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and San Francisco, and that Haisey, Fish & Sons, Drexel, Morgan & Co., and the First National Bank of New York, representing the bond syndicate, will be the only sellers of the bonds, which will be offered at 110, subject to change.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEWSY ITEMS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Sayings and Doings of the Official Heads of the Government.

Surgeon General Wyman has received information that cholera prevails in the states of Rio Janeiro and San Paulo, Brazil.

It is understood that Wednesday's dispatches from Ambassador Bayard show that behind Great Britain's refusal to approve the new Nicaraguan local government at Bluefields, the banishment of the British vice consul, E. D. Hatch, plays a somewhat prominent part.

In many respects the annual report of Hon. J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, secretary of agriculture, differs widely from many of his predecessors. The secretary discusses the financial policy of the government, the silver question and many other matters of broad and general interest, not usually treated in an agricultural report, and demands "prime" currency in return for "prime" beef or pork.

The annual report of Judge L. Thomas, assistant attorney-general for the postoffice department, treats at some length of the enormous increase for the fiscal year ended June 30th in the number of companies engaged in conducting lotteries and fraudulent schemes. Against the concerns 228 "fraud" orders were issued by the postmaster-general, prohibiting the delivery of registered packages and the payment of money orders to certain companies and parties named.

Over twenty-five members of congress, it is said, have written letters to the sergeant-at-arms of the house asking that their mileage for this session be forwarded to them, as they do not wish to come to Washington this winter. Replies have been sent that no mileage can be paid to members except to those who actually attend the session of congress. In nearly every instance the request has been preferred by a defeated member, and it indicates a small attendance of that class at the short session this winter.

President Cleveland was not physically able to drive in from his country home Tuesday to attend the cabinet meeting. In consequence there was no cabinet meeting. Mr. Cleveland's health is said to be very bad, and among his closest friends there is much anxiety. Not that he is in any immediate danger, nor that his present condition evidences any alarming symptoms, but his health is far from good and a serious turn is not improbable any day. Just at present he has a very bad case of gout and is compelled to spend his time and do his work in some sort of a new-fangled couch which has been sent him. In this case he is doing the work of putting the finishing touches on his financial reform message, which will be sent to congress next Monday. Almost the entire message will be devoted to financial and foreign affairs.

Stewart's Bond Bid Accepted.

The secretary of the treasury has accepted the proposal of John A. Stewart, president of the United States Trust Company, and his associates to purchase the entire issue of five per cent. bonds amounting to fifty million dollars at $117,077 with accrued interest from November 1. The proceeds of the bonds under this bid will be $49,517.62 greater than it would be if the other highest bids were accepted. A very important advantage to the government in accepting this bid is the fact that all the gold will be furnished outside, and none drawn from the treasury. Also, it is more convenient and less expensive to the department to deal with one party rather than with many.

BAKER SUICIDED.

It Was Alleged That He Was Seley's Accomplice.

The New York Sun says in its issue of Tuesday morning: "Frederick B. Baker, the lawyer of No. 206 Broadway and 25 West Seventieth street, who was drowned at Sand Point about 11 o'clock on Saturday forenoon, would have been arrested that night but for his death, on a charge of plundering the Shoe and Leather bank of more than $354,000, with the connivance of Samuel C. Seley, the runaway bookkeeper. While this is true, his sons insist that the bank officials made a horrible mistake and swore out a warrant for the wrong man. They say that their father had not had an account at the Shoe and Leather bank for five years; there is nothing among his papers showing any transactions with the bank, that he died a rich man, and that if Seley had an accomplice named Baker, it must have been another Baker.

"Against the dead men's sons' assertion that their father had had no account in the Shoe and Leather bank for five years is the identification of the body by Paying Teller Gilbert Sayers, of the bank, who asserts that he has paid checks to Baker personally at least three times a week for eight years past. Baker's account is still open with a balance to his credit of several hundred dollars.

BOGUS LOTTERY TICKETS.

A Nephew of Paul Conrad in the Counterfeiting Business.

A gigantic scheme for unloading bogus lottery tickets on the public has been brought to light at Chicago by the arrest of Gaston Cassenretti, a nephew of Paul Conrad, late president of the Louisiana Lottery Company. There were found on his person thirty-eight mail orders for lottery tickets and twenty telegraph orders for the same goods.

While the counterfeiting scheme is only in its infancy, fifty-two agencies have already been established in as many cities in the United States. The agents are not informed as to the fraud and believe they are handling genuine tickets. As soon as can be learned, the bogus tickets already sold brought in the sum of $6,000, but if the swindle had not been dipped in the bud it would have become a gigantic one.

THE LATEST BY WIRE

GIVING THE NEWS UP TO THE HOUR OF GOING TO PRESS.

Brief Mention of Daily Happenings Throughout the World.

A dispatch of Thursday from Asheville, N. C., says: Miss Stevenson continues to improve and both the vice president and her physicians feel much encouraged.

Eight lives have been lost and property amounting to $1,000,000 has been destroyed by the forest fires in the bottoms of the Tennessee. The fires are still raging with destructive fury.

The plant of the Anniston, Ala., Cordage Company is now running from 6 o'clock in the morning until 11 at night, and orders are on the books now sufficient to keep it going this way until April 1st.

At an early hour Thursday morning, fire was discovered in Roubaix's Candle Factory, in Antwerp, Belgium, and depite all efforts the building was burned to the ground. The loss will reach 80,000 pounds ($400,000).

Shortly after midnight Wednesday night masked men held up a South Pacific passenger train at Elm Station, Texas. The train was stopped and two of the robbers attempted to uncouple the engine and express car, leaving the balance of the train, but they were outwitted by the crew. The robbers escaped.

About 8:20 o'clock Thursday night fire broke out in the cotton compress of S. M. Inman, at Birmingham, Ala., and partially consumed 1,500 bales of cotton, the warehouse and all the machinery. The fire broke out in the boiler room, and the entire building was aflame before the fire was discovered. The approximate loss is about $75,000.

McKnight & Chidester's sash factory and moulding mill at Jersey City, N. J., was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. The loss on the machinery and stock is estimated at $30,000. The fire spread to Jones' saltpetre works. There were several explosions, and Charles Ryan and John Bergman were taken out in an unconscious condition. The loss on the saltpetre works will reach $20,000.

The Malagasy government, in its reply to the French ultimatum, agrees that the French residents on the island shall become the mediary between Madagascar and the powers, and also agrees that France shall effect such public works on the island as the Malagasy authorities shall deem necessary. The reply also proposes that the Hova-French disputes shall be tried by a mixed court, and that the boundaries of the French territory around Diego Suarics shall be definitely settled. The government retains to itself the right to import arms and munitions of war.

CAROLINA'S LEGISLATURE

Assembles in Columbia and Proceeds to Business.

The South Carolina legislature met Tuesday and organized by the re-election of Speaker Jones in the house. Dr. Sampson Pope, late independent candidate for governor, who was also clerk of the senate, was succeeded by ex-Senator Hemphill.

Representative Earle, of Greenville, has drafted a bill which he will introduce, imposing a fine of $50 upon telegraph companies for failure to deliver any message within a reasonable time. The fine when imposed will go to the recipient of the delayed message. This bill is not intended to prevent the recipient from entering suit for damages also.

The session will be an important one. A United States senator is to be chosen to succeed Senator Butler; provision will have to be made for holding a constitutional convention, and a lively fight will be made on it, and two circuit judges will be chosen.

Dr. Sampson Pope, who ran against John Gary Evans in the recent election, is making a contest in the legislature. He presented to the senate a petition and protest, which was referred to the committee on privileges and elections. Dr. Pope's petition sets forth that the election for governor was not a legal one, and not held under, and in accordance with the constitution of South Carolina, but was an illegal one, held under the provision of the act of 1882.

PRESS ASSOCIATIONS AT OUTS

The Southern Association Severs Connection with the Western.

The New York dailies in their issue of Tuesday printed the following:

"The Southern Associated Press severed at midnight last night all relations with the Associated Press of Illinois. It has assumed relations with the United Press, which will go into effect today. It will enter the field as an aggressive ally of the United Press and an uncompromising enemy of the western organization. Bad faith and a broken contract furnish the cause for this determination of the southern newspaper men."

These few sentences summarize the events of the past three days in this city, and the conditions which must be confronted by the Chicago managers of the Western Associated Press when they meet here on December 5th.

The following letter is a formal notice of the repudiation of all relations between the south and west:

"New York, November 26, 1894.—To Victor F. Lawson, President of the Associated Press of Illinois—Dear Sir: The Associated Press of Illinois, having deliberately violated its contract with the Southern Associated Press this is to give you official notice that from this date we will hold no relations of any kind whatsoever with your organization.

"Yours respectfully,

"J. H. ESTILL,

"Vice Pres. the Associated Press."

RANDOM NOTES.

William P. Gilleaud of Middletown, O., has papered his room with canceled postage stamps, the job requiring 32,000 of them.

It is no wonder that the good old lady, Queen Victoria, feels rather tired. She rules over 11,475,054 square miles of territory and 378,725,857 people.

A New York paper says that Don Cameron is the "summer girl of the senate," probably because he is so effusive in his cordiality and so glad to renew acquaintances.

Lady John Scott, who composed the air of "Annie Laurie," and the words as now sung, is still living. The original song was in praise of a daughter of the first baronet of Maxwelton.

It is said that Zimmerman, the American cyclist, has won some $25,000 in his races in Europe during the past season. Wheeler and Banker, two other cyclists from this country, also cleared from $4,000 to $5,000 each.

IN Society women often feel the effect of too much gayety—balls, theatres, and teas in rapid succession find them worn out, or "run-down" by the end of the season. They suffer from nervousness, sleeplessness and irregularities. The smile and good spirits take flight. It is time to accept the help offered in Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine which was discovered and used by a prominent physician for many years in all cases of "female complaint" and the nervous disorders which arise from it. The "Prescription" is a powerful uterine tonic and nervine, especially adapted to woman's delicate wants for it regulates and promotes all the natural functions, builds up, invigorates and cures.

Many women suffer from nervous prostration, or exhaustion, owing to congestion or to disorder of the special functions. The waste products should be quickly got rid of, the local source of irritation relieved and the system invigorated with the "Prescription." Do not take the so-called celery compounds, and nervines which only put the nerves to sleep, but get a lasting cure with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"FEMALE WEAKNESS."

MRS. WILLIAM HOOVER, of Bellville, Richland Co., Ohio, writes: "I had been a great sufferer from female weakness; I tried three doctors; they did me no good; I thought I was an invalid forever. But I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and then I wrote to him and he told me just how to take it. I took eight bottles. I now feel entirely well. I could stand on my feet only a short time, and now I do all my work for my family of five."

The President Makes Suggestions to the Congress

Recommending Such Legislation as Seems Necessary and Expedient.

The message of President Cleveland has been read in congress.

This report contains the main features of the paper. Only the reference to the report of cabinet officers, that have been printed and matters of less importance have been eleminated.

Message to Congress of the United States:

The assemblage within the nations legislative halls of those charged with the duty of making laws for the benefit of a generous and free people impressively suggests the exacting obligation and inexorable responsibility involved in their task at the threshold of such labor now to be undertaken by the congress of the United States, and in the discharge of an executive duty enjoined by the constitution, I submits this communication containing a brief statement of the condition of our national affairs and recommending such legislation as seems to me necessary and expedient.

The history of our recent dealings with other nations and our peaceful relations with them at this time additionally demonstrate the advantages of consistently adhering to a firm but fair foreign policy free, from envious or ambitious national schemes and characterised by entire honesty and sincerity.

During the past year, pursuant to a law of congress, commissioners were appointed to the Antwerp Industrial exposition. Though the participation of American exhibitors fell far short of completely illustrating or national ingenuity and industrial achievements yet it was quite creditable in view of the brief time allowed for preparation.

I have endeavored to impress upon the Belgium government the needlessness and positive harmfulness of the restrictions upon the importation of certain of our food products, and have strongly urged that the rigid supervision and inspection under our laws are amply sufficient to prevent the exportation from this country of diseased cattle and unwholesome meats.

The termination of the civil war in Brazil has been followed by a general prevalence of peace and order. It appearing at an early stage of the insurrection that its course would sell for unusual watchfulness on the part of this government, our naval force in the harbor of Rio Janerio was strengthened. This precaution I am satisfied tended to restrict the issue to a simple trial of strength between the Brazilian government and the insurgents and to avert complications, which at times seemed imminent. Our firm attitude of neutrality was maintained to the end. The insurgents received no encouragement of eventual asylum from our commanders, and such opposition as they encountered was for the protection of our commerce and was clearly justified by public law.

A serious tension of relations having arisen as the close of the war between Brazil and Portugal by reason of the escape of the insurgent Admiral DeGama and his followers. The friendly offices of our representatives to those countries were exerted for the protection of the subjects of either within the territory of the other, although the government of Brazil was early notified that the commercial arrangement existing between the United States and that country based on the third section of the Tariff law of 1890, was abrogated on August 28, 1894, by the taking effect of the tariff law in force that government subsequently notified us of its intention to terminate such obligation on the first day of January, 1895. In the exercise of the right reserved in the arrangement between the two countries. Attention to the correspondence between the secretary of state and the Brazilian minister on this subject.

The commission organized under the convention which we had entered into with Chili for the settlement of the outstanding claims of each government against the other adjourned at the end of the period stipulated for its continuance, leaving undetermined a number of American cases which had been duly presented. These claims are not barred and negotiations are in progress for the submission to a new tribunal.

On the fifth of March last a new treaty with China in fourth regulation of emigration was signed at Washington, and on August 13th it received the sanction of the senate. Ratification on the part of China and formal exchange are awaited to give effect to this mutually beneficial convention.

A gratifying recognition of the uniform friendship of this country towards all foreign powers was manifested by the co-incident presence of the Chinese and Japanese governments on the square of the United States should, unfortunately, their fleets afford protection to the subjects of the other during the suspension of diplomatic relations due to a state of war. This defiance offers was accepted, and a misapprehension which gave rise to the belief that in affording this kindly unofficial protection our navy would answer the same.

Diplomatic relations with the withdrawn ministers of the belligerents had suspended was promptly restored, although the war between China and Japan continues to jeopardize the United States. It deserves the gratification of the people of the United States that the disturbance of our growing commercial intercourse in the two countries and the interruption of communications which only result to our disadvantage in the transportation of our mails, have been considerably relieved by the conclusion of postal conventions with Japan and China. The first mentioned of these conventions has been put in operation, and the other will be shortly. I felt constrained to withhold my approval of legislation proposing the abrogation of the treaty between the United States and Corea, lest such action might be construed as indicating a disposition on the part of the United States to look with indifference upon the revival of unfriendly relations between Corea and Japan, which followed the recent rupture of the treaty of peace between those countries.

The history of our recent dealings with other nations and our peaceful relations with them at this time additionally demonstrate the advantage of consistently adhering to a firm but just foreign policy free, from envious or ambitious national schemes and characterised by entire honesty and sincerity.

During the past year, pursuant to a law of congress, commissioners were appointed to the Antwerp Industrial exposition. Though the participation of American exhibitors fell far short of completely illustrating or national ingenuity and industrial achievements yet it was quite creditable in view of the brief time allowed for preparation.

I have endeavored to impress upon the Belgium government the needlessness and positive harmfulness of its restrictions upon the importation of certain of our food products, and have strongly urged that the rigid supervision and inspection under our laws are amply sufficient to prevent the exportation from this country of diseased cattle and unwholesome meats.

The termination of the civil war in Brazil has been followed by a general prevalence of peace and order. It appearing at an early stage of the insurrection that its course would call for unusual watchfulness on the part of this government, our naval forces in the harbor of Rio Janerio was strengthened. This precaution I am satisfied tended to restrict the issue to a simple trial of strength between the Brazilian government and the insurgents and to avert complications, which at times seemed imminent. Our firm attitude of neutrality was maintained to the end. Attention to the correspondence between the secretary of state and the Brazilian minister on this subject

The commission organized under the convention which we had entered into with Chili for the settlement of the outstanding claims of each government against the other adjourned at the end of the period stipulated for its continuance, leaving undetermined a number of American cases which had been duly presented. These claims are not barred and negotiations are in progress for the submission to a new tribunal.

On the 17th of March last a new treaty with China in fourth regulation of emigration was signed at Washington, and on August 18th it received the sanction of the senate. Ratification on the part of China and formal exchange are awaited to give effect to this mutually beneficial convention.

A gratifying recognition of the uniform impartiality of this country towards all foreign states was manifested by the co-incident request of the Chinese and Japanese governments that the agents of the United States should, within proper limits afford protection to the subjects of the other during the suspension of diplomatic relations due to a state of war. [illegible] office was designated and [illegible] which [illegible] to the belief that [illegible] this friendly unofficial [illegible] agents would exercise the cause.

Authority which the withdrawn agents of the belligerents had exercised was promptly conferred, although the war between China and Japan endangers no policy of the United States, it deserves our greatest consideration by reason of its disturbance of our growing commercial interests in the two countries and the increased dangers which may result to our citizens domiciled or sojourning in the interior of China acting under a stipulation in our treaty with Korea. (The first concluded with a western power.) I felt constrained at the beginning of the controversy to tender our good offices to induce an amicable arrangement of the initial difficulty growing out of the Japanese demands for an administrative reform in Korea but the unhappy precipitation of actual hostilities defeated this kindly purpose. Deploring the destructive war between the two most powerful of the eastern nations and earnest that our commercial interests may be preserved and that the safety of our citizens there shall not be jeopardized, I would not hesitate to head any intimation that our friendly aid for the honorable termination of hostilities would be acceptable to both belligerents.

A convention has been finally concluded for the settlement by arbitration of the prolonged dispute with Ecuador growa out of the proceedings against Emilio Santos, a naturalized citizen of the United States,

Our relations with the republic of France continue to be such as should exist between nations so long bound together by friendly sympathy and similarity in their form of government.

The recent cruel assassination of the president of this sister republic called forth such universal expression of sorrow and condolence from our people and government as to leave no doubt of the depth and sincerity of our attachment.

The resolutions passed by the senate and house of representatives on the occasion have been communicated to the widow of President Carnot.

Acting upon the reported discovery of Texas fever in cargoes of American cattle, the German prohibition against importations of live stock and fresh meats from this country has been received. It is hoped that Germany will soon become convinced that the inhibition is needless as it is harmful to mutual intereats.

The German government has protested against that provision of the customs tariff act which imposes a discriminating duty of one tenth of one cent a pound on sugar coming from countries paying an export bounty thereon, claiming that the exaction of such duty, is in contravention of articles 5 and 9 of the treaty of 1828 with Prussia. In the interests of the commerce of both countries and to avoid even the accusation of treaty violation I recommend the repeal of so much of the statute as imposes that duty, and I invite attention to the accompanying report of the secretary of state containing a discussion of the questions raised by the protests. Early in the present year an agreement was reached with Great Britain concerning instructions to be given to the naval commanders of the two governments in Bering sea and the contiguous north Pacific ocean for their guidance in the execution of the award of the Paris tribunal arbitration and the enforcement of the regulations therein prescribed for the protection of seal life in the waters mentioned. An understanding has also been reached for the payment by the United States of $425 000 in full satisfaction of all claims which may be made by Great Britain for damages growing out of the controversy as to fur seals in Behring Sea or the seizure of British vessels engaged in taking seal in those waters. The award and findings of the Paris tribunal to a great extent determined the facts and principles upon which these claims should be adjusted and they have been subjected by both governments to a thorough examination upon the principles as well as the facts which they involve. I am convinced that a settlement upon the terms mentioned would be an equitable and advantageous one and I recommend that provision be made for the prompt payment of the stated sum.

Thus far, only France and Portugal have signified their willingness to adhere to the regulation established under the award of the Paris tribunal of arbitration.

Preliminary surveys of the Alaskain boundary and a preparatory examination of the question of protection of the food fish in the contiguous waters of the United States and the Dominion of Canada are in progress.

The boundry of British Guinea still remains in dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela. Believing that its early settlement on some just basis alike honorable to both parties, is in the line of our established policy to remove from this hemisphere all causes of differences with powers beyond the sea, I shall renew the efforts heretofore made to bring about a restoration of diplomatic relations between the disputants and induce recourse to arbitration which Great Britain so conspicuously favors in principal and respects in practice and which is earnestly sought by her weaker adversary.

Since communicating the voluminous correspondence in regard to Hawaii and the action taken by the senate and house of representatives on certain questions submitted to the judgment and wider discretion of congress the organization of a government in place of the provisional arrangement which followed the deposition of the Queen has been announced with evidence of its effective operation. The recognition usual in such cases has been accorded the new government under our present treaties of extradition with Italy miscarriages of justice have occurred owing to the refusal of the government to surrender its own subjects. Thus far our efforts to negotiate an amended convention obviating this difficulty has been unavailing.

Apart from the war in which the island empire is engaged Japan evinces increasing attention in this country for evidens desire to cultivate more liberal intercourse with us and to seek our kindly aid in the furtherance of her laudable desire for complete autonomy in her domestic affairs and full equality in the family of nations. The Japanese empire of today is no longer the Japan of the past, and our relations with this progressive nation should not be less broad and liberal than those with other powers. Good will fostered by many interests in common has marked our relations with our nearest southern neighbor.

Peace being restored along her northern frontier, Mexico has asked the punishment of the late disturbers of her tranquility. There ought to be a new treaty of commerce and navigation with that country to take the place of the one which terminated thirteen years ago. The friendliness of the intercourse between the two countries is attested by the fact that during this long period the commerce of each has steadily increased under the role of mutual consideration, being neither stimulated by conventional arrangements nor retarded by jealous rivalries or selfish distrust.

An indemnity tendered by Mexico as a gracious act for the murder in 1887 of Leon Baldwin an American citizen by a band of marauders in Durango has been accepted and is being paid in installments. The problem of the storage and use of the waters of the Rio Grande for irrigation should be solved by appropriate concurrent action of the two interested countries. Rising in the Colorado Height the stream flows intermittenatly yielding little water during the dry months to the irrigating channels already constructed along its course.

In its course through level sands often raise embarrassing questions of territorial jurisdiction. Prominent among the questions of the year was the Bluefields incident, in what is known as the Mosquito Indian strip bordering on the Atlantic Ocean and within the jurisdiction of Nicaragua. By the treaty of 1860 between Great Britain and Nicaragua the former government expressly recognized the sovereignty of the latter over the strip and a limited form of self-government was guaranteed to the Mosquito Indians to be exercised according to their customs, for themselves and other Indians within the limits.

The so-called native government, which grew to be largely made up of aliens for many years disputed the sovereignty of Nicaragua over the strip and claimed the right to maintain therein a practically independent municipal government. Early in the past year efforts of Nicaragua to maintain sovereignty over the Mosquito territory led to serious disturbances culminating in the suppression of the native government and the attempted substitution of an impracticable composite administration in which Nicaragua and alien residents were to participate. Failure was followed by an insurrection which for a time subverted Nicaraguan rule, expelling her officers and restoring the old organization. This, in turn, gave place to the existing local government established and upheld by Nicaragua.

Although the alien interests arrayed against Nicaragua in these transactions have been largely American and the commerce of that region has been for some time and still is chiefly controlled by our citizens, we cannot for that reason challenge the rightful sovereignty of Nicaragua over this important part of her domain. For some months one, and part of the time two, of our naval ships have been stationed at Bluefields for the protection of all legitimate interests of our citizens. In September last the government at Nicaragua expelled from its territory twelve or more foreigners including two Americans for alleged participation in the seditious or revolutionary movements against the republic at Bluefields already mentioned, but by the earnest remonstrances of this government, the two Americans have been permitted to return to the peaceful management of their business. Our naval commanders at the scene of these disturbances by their constant exhibition of firmness and good judgment contributed largely to the prevention of more serious consequences and to the restoration of quiet and order.

I regret that in the midst of these occurrences there happened a most grave and irritating failure of Nicaragaum justice. An American citizen named Wilson residing at Rama, in the mosquito territory, was murdered by one Angilio, the acting governor of the town. After some delay the murderer was arrested but so insecurely confined or guarded that he escaped and notwithstanding our repeated demands. It is claimed his recapture has been impossible by reason of his flight beyond Nicaraguan jurisdiction.

The Nicaraguan authorities having given notice of forfeiture of their concession to the canal company on grounds purely technical and not embraced in the contract, have receded from that position.

Peru, I regret to say, shows symptoms of domestic disturbances due probably to the slowness of her recuperation from the distresses of the war of 1881. Weakened in resources, her difficulties in facing international obligations invite our kindly sympathy and justify our forbearance in pressing long pending claims. I have felt constrained to testify this sympathy in connection with certain demands urgently preferred by other powers. The recent death of the Czar of Russia called forth appropriate expressions of sorrow and sympathy on the part of our government with his bereaved family and the Russian people.

As a further demonstration of respect and friendship our minister at St. Petersburg was directed to represent our government at the funeral ceremonies. The sealing interests of Russia in Behring sea are second only to our own. A modus divendi has therefore been concluded with the imperial government restrictive of poaching on the Russian rookeries and of sealing in waters which were not comprehended in the protected areas defined in the Paris award. Occasion has been found to urge upon the Russian government equality of treatment for our great life insurance companies whose operations have been extended throughout Europe.

Admitting as we do foreign operation to transact business in the United States, we naturally expected no less tolerance for our own in the ample fields of competition abroad.

But few cases of interference with naturalized citizens returning to Russia have been reported during the current year. One Kreminski, was arrested last summer in a Polish province on a reported charge of unpermitted renunciatation of Russian allegiance but it transpired that the proceedings originated in alleged malefeasance committed by Kreminski while an imperial official a number of years ago. Efforts for his release, which promised to be successful, were in progress when his death was reported.

The government of Salvador being overthrown by an abrupt popular outbreak, certain of its military and civil officers, while hotly pursued by infuriated insurgents, sought refuge on board of the United States warship Bennington, then lying in a Salvadorn port. Although the practice of asylum is not favored by this government, yet in view of the imminent peril which threatened the fugitives, and solely from consideration of humanity, they were afforded shelter by our naval commander and then afterwards demanded under our treaty of extradition with Salvador for trial on charges of murder, arson and robbery. I directed that such of them as had not voluntarily left the ship be conveyed to one of our nearest ports where a hearing could be had before a judiciary officer in compliance with the terms of the treaty. On their arrival at San Francisco such a proceeding was promptly instituted before the United district judge, who held that the acts constituting the alleged offenses were political and discharged all the accused except Cienfuegoes, who was held for attempt to murder. Thereupon I was constrained to direct his release for the reason that an attempt to murder was not one of the crimes charged against him and upon which his surrender to the Salvadorean authorities had been demanded.

Unreasonable and unjust fines imposed by Spain on the vessels and commerce of the United States, have demanded from time to time, during the last twenty years, earnest remonstrance on the part of our government. In the immediate past exorbitant penalties have been imposed upon our vessels and goods by customs authorities of Cuba and Porto Rico for clerical errors of the most trivial character in the manifests or bills of lading. In some cases fines amounting to thousands of dollars have been levied upon cargoes or the carrying vessels when the goods in question were entitled to free entry.

Fines have been exacted even when the error had been detected and the Spanish authorities notified before the arrival of the goods in port. This conduct lain strange contrast with the considerate and liberal treatment extended to Spanish vessels and cargoes in our ports in like cases. No satisfactory settlement of these vexations questions has yet been reached. The Mora case, referred to in my last annual message, remains unsettled. From the diplomatic correspondence on this subject, which has been laid before the people, it will be seen that the government has offered to conclude a convention with Spain for disposal by arbitration of outstanding claims between the two countries, except the Mora claim, which having been long ago adjusted now only wants payment as stipulated and of course it could not be included in the proposed convention. It was hoped this offer would remove parliamentary obstacles encountered by the Spanish government in providing payment of the Mora indemnity. I regret to say that no definite reply to this offer has yet been made and all efforts to secure payment of this settled claim have been unavailing.

In my last annual message I adverted to the claim on the part of Turkey of the right to expell, as persons undesirable and and dangerous, Americans naturalized in the United States and returning to Turkish jurisdiction. Numerous questions in this relation have arisen.

While this government acquiesces in the asserted right of expulsion it will not consent that Americans may be imprisoned or otherwise punished for no other reason than having acquired without imperial consent American citizenship. Three of the assailants of Miss Melton, an American teacher in Mosul, have been convicted by the Ottoman courts, and I am advised that an appeal against the acquital of the remaining five has been taken by the Turkish prosecuting officers. A convention has been concluded with Venezuela for the arbitration of a long disputed claim growing out of the seizure of certain vessels, the property of citizens of the United States.

Although signed, the treaty of extradition with Venezuela is not yet in force, owing to the insistence of that government that, when surrendered, its citizens shall in no case be liable to capital punishment.

The rules for the prevention of collisions at sea which were framed by the maritime conference held in this city in 1889 having been concurrently incorporated in the statues of the United States and Great Britain, have been announced to take effect March 1, 1895, and invitations have been extended to all maritime nations to adhere to them. Favorable responses have thus far been received from Austria, France, Portugal Spain and Sweden.

In my last annual message I referred briefly to the unsatisfactory state of affairs in Samoa under the operation of the Berlin treaty as signally illustrating the impolicy of entangling alliances with foreign powers, and on May 9, 1894, in response to a resolution of the senate I sent a special message and document to that body on the same subject, which emphasized my previously expressed opinions. Later occurrences, the correspondence in regard to which will be laid before congress further demonstrates that the government which was devised by the three powers and forced upon the Samoans against their inveterate hostility can be maintained only by the continued presence of foreign military force and at no small sacrifice of life and treasure. The suppression of the Mataafa insurrection by the powers, and the subsequent banishment of the leader and eleven other chiefs, as recited in my last message, did not bring lasting peace to the islands. Formidable uprisings continued and finally a rebellion broke out in the capitol island.

The king again appealed to the powers for help and the combined British and German naval forces reduced the Atuans to apparent subjection but however without considerable loss to the natives. A few days later Yamasese and his adherents, fearing the ships and the marines, professed submission. Reports received from our agents at Apia do not justify the belief that the peace thus brought about will be of long duration. It is their conviction that the natives are at heart hostile to the present government; that such of them as profess loyalty to it do so from fear of the powers and that it would speedily go to pieces if the warships were withdrawn. In reporting to his government on the unsatisfactory situation since the suppression of the late revolt, by foreign armed forces, the German consul at Apia stated that peace will be lasting is hardly to be presented. The lesson given by firing on Atua was not sufficiently sharp and incisive to leave a lasting impression on the forgetful Samoan temperament. In fact conditions are existing which show that peace will not last and it is not seriously intended. Listen, the king, and his chief are convinced that the departure of the warships will be a signal for a renewal of war. The circumstances that the representatives of the villages of all the districts which were opposed to the government have already withdrawn to Atua to hold meetings and that both Atua and Aana have forbidden inhabitants of those districts which fought on the side of the government to return to their villages and have already partly burned down the latter indicates a real conciliation of the parties is still far off." And in a note of the 16th Ula inclosing a copy of that report for the information of this government, the German ambassador said: "The contents of the report awakened the imperial governments apprehension that under existing circumstances the peace concluded with the rebels will afford no assurance of the lasting restoration of tranquility in the islands.

The present government has utterly failed to correct, if indeed it has not aggrevated, the very evils it was intended to prevent. It has not stimulated our commerce with the the islands. Our participation in its establishment against the wishes of the natives was in plain defiance of the conservative teachings and warnings of the wise and patriotic men who laid the foundations of our free institutions, and I invite an expression of the judgment of congress in the propriety of steps being taken by this government looking to the withdrawal from its engagements with the other powers on some reasonable terms not prejudicial to any of our existing rights.

The secretary of the treasury reports that the receipts of the government from all sources of revenue during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, amounted to $372,832,436.29 and its expenditures to $442,604,758, leaving a deficit of $69,808,340.55. There was a decrease of $15,902,074.66 in the ordinary expenses of the government as compared with the fiscal year 1893. There was collected from customs $131,818,520 and from internal revenue $147,168,449.76. The balance of the income for the year amounting to $93,815,817.97 was derived from the sales of lands and other sources.

The balance of our total dutiable imports amounts to $676,709,098, being $155,457,029 less than during the preceding year and the importations free of duty amounted to $319,765,-930, being $94,745,675 less than during the preceding year. The receipts from customs were $72,397,435.11 less and from internal revenue $13,836,539.97 less than in 1893. The total tax collected from distilled spirits was $90,253,132.08 on manufactured tobacco $65,617,292.62 and on fermented liquors $27,414,778.91. Our exports of merchandise domestic and foreign, amounted during the year to $892,140,892, being an increase over the preceding year of $44,665,870.

The report of the attorney general notes the gratifying progress made by the supreme court in overcoming the arrears of its business and in reaching a condition in which it will be able to dispose of cases as they arise without any unreasonable delay. This result is of course very largely due to the successful working of the plan of inaugurating circuit courts of appeals. In respect to these tribunals the suggestion is made in quarters entitled to the highest consideration that an additional district judge for each circuit would greatly strengthen these courts and the confidence reposed in their adjudications. And that such an addition would not create a greater force of judges than the increasing business of such courts requires. I commend the suggestion to the careful consideration of the congress. Other important topics are adverted to in the report, accompanied by recommendations, many of which have been treated at large in previous messages, and at this time therefore need only be named. I refer to the abolition of the fee system as a measure of compensation to federal officers. The enlargement of the powers of the United States commissioners at least in the territories, the allowance of writs of error in criminal cases on behalf of the United States, and the establishment of degrees in the crime of murder. A topic dealt with by the attorney general of much importance is the condition of the administration of justice in the Indian Territory. The permanent solution of what is called the Indian problem is probably not to be expected at once, but meanwhile such ameliorations of present conditions as the existing system will admit of ought not to be neglected. I am satisfied there should be a federal court established for the territory with sufficient judges, and that this court should sit within the territory and have the same jurisdiction as to territorial affairs as is now vested in the federal courts sitting in Arkansas and Texas.

Free Through the Mails.

The postoffice master general believes that in the near future all legitimate newspapers and periodical magazines might be properly transmitted through the mails to their subscribers free of cost.

I invite your prompt consideration of this subject, and fully indorse the views of the postmaster general.

The total number of postoffices in the United States on the 30th of June 1894 was 69,805 an increase of 493 over the preceding year. Of these 34,8 were presidential, an increase in that class of 69 over the preceding year.

Six hundred and ten cities and towns are provided with free delivery. Ninety-three other cities and towns entitled to this service under the law have not been accorded in on account of insufficient funds. The expense of free delivery for the current fiscal year will be more than $12,500,000 and under existing legislation this item of expenditures is subject to constant increase. The estimated cost of rural free delivery, generally is so very large that it ought not to be considered in the present condition of affairs.

During the year 830 additional domestic money order offices were established. The total number of these offices at the close of the year was 13,264. There were 14,309,041 money orders issued during the year, being an increase over the preceding year of 994,306. The value of these orders amounted to $138,796,579.43, an increase of $11,217,145.84. There were also issued during the year postal notes amounting to $12,849,091.55. During the year 213 international money order offices were added to these already established, making a total of 2,625 such offices in operation June 30th, 1894. The number of international money orders issued during the year was 917,801, a decrease in number of 135,-176 and their value was 13,792,455.81, a decrease in amount of $2,549,263.55. The number of orders paid was 861,150, an increase over the preceding year of 60,222 and their value was $6,528,459.76, an increase of $1,295,118.63.

From the foregoing statement it appears that the total issue of money orders and postal notes for the year mounted to $165,295,239.76.

The number of letters and packages mailed during the year for special delivery was 3,436,-970. The special delivery stamps used upon these letters and packages amounted to $343,-797. The messengers fees paid for their delivery amounted to $261,303.70, leaving a balance in favor of the government of $82,487.30. The report shows most gratifying results in the way of economies worked out without affecting the efficiency of the postal service.

These consist in the abrogation of steamship subsidy contracts, re-letting of mail contracts, and in the cost and amount of supplies used in the service amounting to $16,049,047.42.

This report also contains a valuable contribution to the history of the Universal Postal union, an arrangement which amounted practically to the establishment of one postal system for the entire civilized world. Special attention is directed to this subject at this time, in view of the fact that the next congress of the union will meet in Washington in 1897 and it is hoped that timely action will be taken in the direction of perfecting preparations for that event.

The postmaster general renews the suggestion made in a previous report that the department organization be increased to the extent of creating a direct supervision of all postal affairs, and in this suggestion I fully concur.

There are now connected with the postoffice establishment 38,061 employes who are in the classified service. This includes many who have been classified upon the suggestion of the postmaster general. He states that another year's experience at the head of the department serves only to strengthen the conviction as to the excellent working of the civil service law in this branch of the public service.

Attention is called to the report of the secretary of the navy which shows very gratifying progress in the construction of ships for our new navy. All the vessels now building, including the three torpedo boats authorized at the last session of congress excepting the first-class battleship Iowa, will probably be completed during the coming fiscal year.

The estimates for the increase of the navy for the year ending June 30, 1895, are large, but they include practically the entire sum necessary to complete and equip all the new ships, not now in commission so that unless new ships are authorized the appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, should fall below the estimates for the coming year by at least $12,000,000.

The secretary presents with much earnestness a plea for the authorization of three additional battle ships and ten or twelve torpedo boats. While the unarmored vessels heretofore authorized, including these now nearing completion, will constitute a fleet, which it is believed is sufficient for ordinary cruising purposes in time of peace, we have now completed and in process of construction but four first-class battle ships and but forty torpedo boats. If we are to have a navy for warlike purposes offensive and defensive, we certainly ought to increase both the number of battle ships and torpedo boats.

I recommend that provision be made for the construction of additional battleship and torpedo boats. The secretary recommended the manufacture not only of a reserve supply of ordnance and ordnance material for ships of the navy but also a supply for the auxiliary field. Guns and their appurtenances should be provided and kept on hand for both these purposes. We have not today a single gun that could be put upon the ships Paris or New York of the international navigation company or any other ship of our reserved navy. The manufacturer of guns at the Washington navy yards is proceeding satisfactorily, and none of our new ships will be required to wait for their guns or ordnance equipments. An important order has been issued by the secretary of the navy, co-ordinating the duties of the several bureaus concerned in the construction of ships. This order is believed will secure to a greater extent than has heretofore been possible the harmonious action of these several bureaus and make the attainment of the best results more certain. During the past fiscal year there has been an unusual and pressing demand in many quarters of the world for vessels to guard American interests. In January last during the Brazilian insurrection a large fleet was concentrated in the harbor of the Rio de Janeiro. The vigorous action of Rear Admiral Benham in protecting the personal and commercial rights of our citizens during the disturbed conditions afforded results which will, it is believed, have a far reaching and wholesome influence wherever in like circumstances it may become necessary for our naval commanders to interfere in behalf of our people in foreign ports.

The war now in progress between China and Japan has rendered it necessary or expedient to dispatch eight vessels to those waters.

The report of the secretary of the interior exhibits the situation of the numerous and interesting branches of the public service connected with his department. I commend this report and the valuable recommendations of the secretary to the careful attention of the congress.

The public land disposed of during the year amounted to 10,401,005.77 acres, including 28,-576.06 of Indian lands. It is estimated that the public domain still remaining amounts to a little more than 600,000,000 acres, including, however, about 360,000,000 acres in Alaska as well as military reservations and railroad and other selections of land as yet unadjudicated. The total cash receipts from the sale of lands amounted to $2,674,286.96, including $91,881.08 received from Indian lands. Thirty-five thousand patents were issued for agricultural lands and thirty-one hundred patents were issued to Indians on allotments of their holdings in severalty. The land not allotted being inalienable by the Indians for a period of twenty-five years after patent.

There were certified and patented on account of railroad and wagon grants during the year 895,856.45 acres of land, and at the close of the year twenty-nine acres are embraced in the lists of selections made by railroad men and wagon road companies and awaited settlement. The selections of swamp lands, and that taken as indemnity therefrom since the passage of the act providing for the same in 1849, amount to or nearly or quite eighty million acres, of which fifty-eight million have been patented to states. About 128,000 acres were patented during the last year. Nearly 320,000 acres of school and education grants were approved during the year, and at its close 1,250,998.81 acres remained unadjusted.

It appears that the appropriation for the current year, on account of special service for the protection of the public lands and the timber thereon, is much less than those for previous years and inadequate for an efficient performance of the work. A larger sum of money than has been appropriated during a number of years past on this account has been returned to the government as a result of the labors of those employed in the particular service mentioned, and I hope it will not be crippled by an insufficient appropriation. I fully endorse the recommendation of the secretary that adequate protection be provided for our forest reserves and that a comprehensive forestry system be inaugurated.

At the close of the last fiscal year, on the 30th day of June, 1894, there were 969,544 persons on our pension rolls, being a net increase of 2,888 over the number reported at the end of the previous year.

These pensions may be classified as follows: Soldiers and sailors, survivors of all wars, 753,978; widows and relatives of deceased soldiers, 215,189; army nurses in the war of the rebellion 414. Of these pensioners 22,089 are surviving soldiers of Indian and other wars prior to the late civil war and the widows or relative of such soldiers. The remainder, numbering 937,505 are receiving pensions on account of the war of the rebellion and of these 459,340 are on the rolls under the authority of the act of June 27, 1890, sometimes called the dependent pension law.

The total amount expended for pensions during the year was $139,801,461, leaving an unexpended balance from the sum appropriated of $4,205,712.

The amount necessary to meet pension expenditures for the year ending June 30, 1896, is estimated at $140,000,000.

The commissioner of pensions is of the opinion that the year 1805, being the thirtieth after the close of the war of the rebellion, must according to all sensible human calculation see the highest limit of the pension roll and that after that year it must begin to decline.

The claims pending in the bureau have decreased more than 90,000 during the year. A large proportion of the new claims filed are for increase of pension by those now on the rolls. The number of certificates issued was 89,213.

The names dropped from the rolls for all causes during the year numbered 37,951.

Among our pensioners are nine widows and three daughters of the revolution and forty-five survivers of the war of 1812.

The bare-faced and extensive pension frauds exposed under the direction of the courageous and generous veteran soldier now at the head of the bureau leave no room for the claim that no purgation of our pension rolls was needed or that continued vigilance and prompt action are not necessary to the same, and the accusation that an effort to detect pension frauds is evidence of unfriendliness towards our worthy veterans and a denial of their claims to the generosity of the government, suggests an unfortunate indifference to the commission of any offence which has for its motive the issuing of a pension, and indication of a willingness to be lifted to the commission of mean and treacherous crimes which play upon downright fears and brave regret of the patriotic impulses of a grateful people. The completion of the surveys remains now in charge of the commissioner of [illegible] the work for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1894, amounted $10,285,675.81, at the close of the year the number persons employed in the census office was 670, at present there are about 400. The whole number of volumes necessary to comprehend the 11th census will be twenty-five and they will contain 21,270 printed pages. The assurance is confidently made that before the close of the present calendar year the material still incomplete will be practically in hand and the census can certainly be closed by the 4th of March, 1895. After that the revision and proof reading necessary to bring out the volumes will still be required.

The text of the census volumes has been limited as far as possible to the analysis of the statistics presented. This method which is in accordance with law has caused more or less friction and in some instances individual disappointment for when the commissioner of labor took charge of the work he found much matter on hand which according to this rule he was compelled to discard,

The tariff act passed at the last session of congress needs important amendments if it is to be executed effectively and with certainty. In addition to such necessary amendments as will not change rates of duty, I am still very decidedly in favor of putting coal and iron on the free list.

So far as the sugar schedule is concerned, I would be glad, under existing aggravations, to see every particle of differential duty in favor of refining sugar stricken out of our tariff law. If with all the favor now accorded the sugar refining interests in our tariff laws it still languishes to the extent of closed refineries and thousands of discharged workmen, it would seem to present a hopeless case for reasonable legislative aid.

During the last month the gold reserved in the treasury for the purpose of redeeming the notes of the government circulating as money in the hands of the people became so reduced and its further depletion in the near future seemed so certain that in the exercise of proper care for the public welfare it became necessary to replenish this reserve and thus [illegible] popular [illegible] the ability [illegible] termination of the government to meet, as agreed, its pecuniary obligations. It would have been well if in this emergency authority had existed, to issue the bonds of the government bearing a low date of interest and maturing within a short period, but the congress having failed to confer such authority, resort was necessarily had to the resumption act of 1875, and pursuant to its provisions bonds were issued drawing interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum and maturing ten years after their issue, that being the shortest time authorized by the act. I am glad to say, however, that on the sale of these bonds the premium received operated to reduce the rate of interest to be paid by the government to less than 3 per cent. Nothing could be worse or further removed from sensible finance that the relations existing between the currency. The government has issued the gold bonds for its redemption and the means which must be resorted to for the purpose of replenishing such redemption fund when inspired. Even if the claims upon this fund were confined to the obligations originally intended and if the redemption of these obligations meant their cancellation the fund would be very small.

But these obligations when read and redeemed in gold are not canceled but are reissued and may do duty several times by way of drawing gold from the treasury thus we have an endless chain of operation constantly depleting the treasury's gold and never near a final rest as if this was not bad enought we have by a statutory declaration that it is the policy of the government To maintain the parity between gold and silver, added the force and momentum of this exhausting process, and added largely to the currency obligations claiming this peculiar gold redemption our small gold reserve is the subject to drain from every side.

The demands that increase our danger also increase the necessity of protecting this reserve against depletion and it is most unsatisfactory to know that the protection afforded is only a temporary palliation. It is perfectly and palpably plain that the only way under present conditions by which this reserve when dangerously depleted can be replenished is through the issue and sale of the bonds of the government gold, and yet congress has not only thus far declined to authorize the issue of bonds best suited to such a purpose, but there seems a disposition in some quarters to deny both the necessity and power for the issue of bonds at all. I cannot for a moment believe that any of our citizens are deliberately willing that their government should default in its pecuniary obligations or that its financial operations should be reduced to a silver basis. At any gate I should not feel that my duty was done if I omitted any effort I could make to avert such calamity. As long therefore as no provision is made for the scheme modifying present banking laws and providing for the issue of circulating notes by state banks free from taxation under certain limitations.

It is proposed to repeal all laws providing for the deposit of United States bonds as security for circulation, to permit national banks to issue circulating notes not exceeding in amount seventy-five per cent. of their paid-up and impaired capital, provided they deposit with the government as a guarantee fund in United States legal tender notes, including treasury notes of 1890, a sum equal in amount to thirty per cent. of the notes they desire to issue this deposit to be maintained at all times, but when any bank retires any part of its circulation a proportionate part of its guarantee fund shall be returned to issue, to permit the secretary of the treasury to prepare and keep on hand ready for issue in case an increase in circulation is desired blank national notes for each bank having circulation and to repeal the provisions of the present law imposing limitations and restrictions upon banks desiring to reduce or increase their circulation —thus permitting such increase or reduction within the limit of seventy-five per cent. of capital to be quickly made an emergencies arise. In addition to the guarantee fund required it is proposed to provide a safety fund for the immediate redemption of the circulating notes of failed banks by imposing a small tax, say one-half of one per cent. upon the average circulation of each bank until the funds amounts to five per cent. of the total circulation outstanding.

Each national bank, except in case of a failed bank shall redeem or retire its notes to the extent of ten per cent. of its circulation to be maintained on account of deposits.

Another very important feature of this will be the assumption of notes taken from circulation by the United States in excess of 80 per cent. of the authorized issue of the country and redistributed to the extremity of the country and [illegible]

PRESIDENT'S FINANCIAL POLICY.

The greatest interest felt in the President's message was in regard to the financial feature. His recommendationns in this respect are gladly received by all those who desire a safe and sound currency and any apprehension that may have been felt has been entirely relieved.

The President's idea is virtually the Baltimore plan, with one or two amendments in favor of the increased stability of the currency.

It has been urged against the plan submitted by the bankers assembled at Baltimore that it did not secure the currency sufficiently to guarantee the full faith of the people in its stability—in other words it was contended that the Baltimore plan put the National Banks behind the currency instead of the government. It is a well recognized fact that the people prefer the government indorsemen of the currency to any other indorsement whatever. The faith of the people in the government will stand when faith in all else fails.

The plan submitted by the President does not relieve the government of responsibility and yet provides an elastic currency and one that will answere any demands upon it. He also suggests a method by which the treasury notes can be utilized. Under the existing law these notes are taken to the treasury and exchanged for gold. If the government could cancel these notes all would be well, but unfortunately the law requires them to be reissued, to be again put in circulation, and again they are brought up to the treasury and gold demanded in exchange. As the President says, "this forms an endless chain."

He recommends that these notes be used as a part of the reserve fund of the National banks, to be deposited by them with the United States Treasurer and thus they will be retired from circulation and their place supplied by National bank notes. The President also recommends the removal of the 10 per cent tax on State banks and that State banks be allowed to issue notes under proper governmental supervision. This will give additional increase to the circulating medium of the country.

In fact the financiers who can find fault with the President's financial plan must be hard to please.

He favors an increase in the circulation, and thus answers the demand for more money. He clearly contends for a staple currency and this removes the fear of a debased circulating medium.

Age-Herald

The first message of Gov. Oates was in many points a very able document. The State Revenues, the exhibition of our resources, the marking of the Battlefields, care for the disabled confederate soldiers, the convict system, our Judicial system, carrying concealed weapons, elections, a contest law, election law a banking law, etc were all ably discussed and suggestions of much needed changes made to the legislators all of which meets with our hearty support, but we do not appreciate the blow he strikes the prohipition cause.

While we do not for a moment question his honesty yet we do question greatly his judgement.

The people of Alabama in overwhelming numbers believe in prohibition and those whose territory is covered by prohibition laws would not exchange their present condition, as bad as blind tigers are, for the days of open saloons. All we need is that other wise good citizens would do their duty in bringing to justice the violators of law. We do not believe the history of a single wine producing and wine drinking country will bear Governor Oates out in his opinions that wine making and wine drinking would reduce drunkenness. We regret that the Governor put himself on record in such a way.

"It is a pleasure to tell Chamberlain Cough Remedy" says Stickney & Doolittle, druggists, Republic, Ohio, "Because a customer after once using it, is almost certain to call for it when again in need of such a medicine. We sell more of it than of any other cough medicine we handle, and it always gives satisfaction." For coughs, colds and croup it is without an equal. FOR FAIR ELECTIONS.

Not only do the conservative men in the ranks of the Democratic party in the state of Alabama want fair elections but they demand that the present legislature so amend our present election law as to put an end to the prostitution of the ballot in this state.

The present law with certain amends can be made such a law as will be absolutely to enforce absolutely fair elections as any other bill that can be enacted.

The most important amendments are those suggested by Governor Jones in his message to the general assembly. He says "elections should not only be fair but should be believed to be fair. This can be accomplished by legislation securing the appointment of inspectors clerks and fixers at each polling place, nominated by the proper authorities of each of the parties having candidates to be voted for at the election, he recommended such legislation." Ex.

With the amendments suggested by Governor Jones a fair election can be had at every voting place in the State. Let all parties be represented by an inspector a clerk and a fixer of the ballot.

This is fair and proper and there should be no objection to it.

Not only have each of the parties having candidates represented in the management of the election but represented by men of their own selection. Let the law be so amended that the county executive committee of each party having candidates shall have the right to name their inspectors, and clerks and fixers. With this and a few other amendments we will have an election law satisfactory to all parties and we will hereafter have no friction in the management of our elections. Republican

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by his friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and Smith and McNeill, Jemison.

The Annual meeting of the North Alabama Conference held at Athens was largely attended by the ministers and officials of the Methodist Church. Despite the hard times good reports were made. Nearly every preacher reported that his salary lacked something of being paid. The preachers have the brunt to bear when times of stringency are upon us. We pay the merchant and the doctor, but too often neglect to divide with the faithful man of God.

The Selma Times has been under its present management for two years. Noting that fact the editors have many good words to say for Selma and her people. We endorse fully all the sentiments expressed and also say that we are sure Selma never had cleaner, truer, braver or more patriotic newspaper men than the present proprietors and editors of the Times.

The Constitution is so much pleased with the financial plan outlined by President Cleveland that it actually hopes Congress will act on his suggestions and enact laws along that line. The Constitution will yet be compelled to say America never had a greater or truer man for President than Grover Cleveland.

Col. Kolb advises his friends to pay no taxes for awhile. He also advises the Tax Collectors not to send money into the State Treasury. He is now begining to tread on dangerous ground and we hope no man will for a moment heed his advice. The tax collectors who do will soon find their places filled by other men.

If our Congressmen and Senators will get down to busines and work in union good financial laws can be passed in a very short while. State Banks will most probably be placed in position to serve the people.

Birmingham had a municipal fight strictly on business lines. The News championed the Business Reform ticket and the machine was smashed. We believe firmly in having more eye to business than to politics in our municipal affairs. Indeed it would be wisdom if the entire country would drop so much partisanship and select candidates for office on the ground of their qualifications. In our mad zeal to sustain party we often select exceedingly ineffective men, whose incapacity brings confusion, and distrust on our common interests.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The friends of Mrs. M. A. Hare will be glad to learn that she is enjoying fine health amid the orange groves of Florida.

Mrs. W. L. Nolen, of Chattanooga spent last Sunday with Mrs. T. A. Phillips.

Dr. E. A. Mathews has so far improved as to be brought home.

The Revenue men under direction of Marshal J. A. Dudley captured and destroyed a big still near Strasburg. From indications plenty of the stuff could be destroyed out east of Clanton.

Parties bring liquor into Clanton and sell it and give it away.

The Sunday School of the Baptist church has bought enough coal for the winter and no one need remain from the service of the Church and Sunday School for fear of not being comfortable.

Messrs. J. Rice, of Strasburg and Fayette Langston of Jemison were visitors here Monday.

The Baptist Sunday School appointed a committee last Sunday to confer with the Methodist Sunday School relative to a Christmas tree. Lets give the little ones a joyous time.

Rev. T. B. Haney, who is especially popular among his congregation, and who stands well with all our people, will serve the Congregational Church at this place another year.

The patrons of Harmony school deserve credit for the erection of a neat and comfortable school house.

Our enterprising young townsman J. P. Gore, has purchased a home and farm in the edge of Clanton.

Large numbers of our farmers are sowing wheat.

Wild cat stills have abounded in Chilton and red liquor has been sold freely and almost openly in our towns and country communities, but Marshal Dudley says he will henceforth do his best to break up the business.

Hon. H. H. Brown has been appointed as a member of the board of convict managers vice S. W. Johns resigned.

Mr. G. F. Martin, of Dixie visited our town this week.

Mrs. Lowery and son, who have spent some weeks with Rev. J. C. Lowery's family, leave today for their future home, Verbena.

Rev. P. E. Fragin preached his last sermon for this Conference year in Clanton Sunday. It was a tragic blast for truth and women. The world, and even Clanton, needs men and women who realize that God has called them into being, for the express purpose of rendering service to Him and to man.

Bro. Fragin has served this Church three years. He has never feared to raise his voice against sin even though the blow must strike the very high of his own membership. He and his have been faithful citizens and loving to the sick and distressed, and so far as we know they close their work here claiming the hearts of the entire citizenship. While Chilton View would gladly welcome the brother to this work again yet it hopes they may be given a more remunerative field.

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.
"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.
"Castoria is so well adapted to child-ren that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the best interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

NOBLE FIGHT.

SEVENTY SOUTHERN LAWYERS AND CONFLICT WITH DISEASE.

Seventy-five Years of Prosperity, Adversity and Sufferies—The Great Victory Won by Science Over a Southern Disease.

(From the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution.)

Foremost among the best known lawyers and farmers of North Carolina stands Col. Isaac H. Sugg, of Greenville, Pitt Co., a man who has been on the edge of eternity and whose life had been measured by minutes.

"It has been twenty-two years since I became a resident of this town," said Col. Sugg in telling his story to a reporter, "even then the first symptoms of Gravel were asserting themselves but were slight. Gradually, however, my disease developed, and light it as I would it seemed to gain a stronger foothold day by day until my misery was complete. For sixteen years I never knew what it was to be free from pain, not pain as an ordinary man thinks of it, but agonizing, excruciating, unendurable pain. Tortured from head to foot, at times thrown into spasms when it would require the united strength of four men to hold me until I was stupified with stimulants and opiates. I could not sit, lie or stand in any one position but the shortest time. Sleep was out of the question unless brought about by the strongest stimulants or opiates. Oh, how many, many times have I thought of putting an end to that life of suffering. But then my mind would revert to my wife, my children, my home, and I would restrain my hand with the hope that some other means of escape would be offered. I searched the archives of medicine for relief. Doctors were consulted, lithia waters, mineral waters, drugs, opiates and stimulants of all sorts were tried without avail. Why, I sent clear to the West Indies for medicine and yet the result was the same.

"I kept at my work as long as I could but nature gave way at last and I succumbed to the inevitable. My entire nervous system had been shattered by the stimulants and opiates I had taken, my blood had actually turned to water, my weight had dropped from 173 pounds to 123, and it seemed to everybody that the end was in sight. Why, I could not bear the gentle hand of my wife to bathe my limbs with tepid water. I was simply living from hour to hour. I had made my will, settled my business and I waited for the last strand of life to snap.

"It was at this time that a somewhat similar case as my own was brought to my notice. This man had suffered very much as I had, his life had been despaired of as mine had and yet he had been cured. Think what that little word meant to me—CURED. The report stated that the work had been accomplished by a medicine known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I investigated the report thoroughly and found that it was true in detail. Then I procured some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began taking them and began to get better. I began to sleep like a healthful child, sound, calm and peaceful. My appetite came back and my nerves were soothed and restored to their normal condition and I felt like a new man. But the greatest blessing was the mental improvement. I began to read and digest, to formulate new plans, to take interest in my law practice, which began to come back to me as soon as my clients realized that I was again myself. After a lapse of 10 years I rode horseback every day without fatigue.

"That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life is beyond doubt, and I am spreading their praise far and wide."

Inquiry about the town of Greenville substantiated the above facts of Col. Sugg's case, and that many others are being benefited by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are considered an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excess of whatever nature. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, (50 cents a box or 6 boxes for $2 50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Vermont's State Flower.

The Vermont legislature has passed a bill designating the "red clover" as the state flower. The vote taken throughout the state resulted as follows: Whole vote cast, 17,611; red clover received 9,572; daisy, 2,567; butter-cup, 945; scattering, 4,525. The clover was selected on the grounds that it is indigenous, fragrant and most useful.

CARLISLE'S PLAN.

The Secretary of the Treasury Makes His Report to Congress.

By far the most interesting part of the report of the secretary of the treasury, which was sent to congress Tuesday, is the exhaustive attention paid by that official to the condition of the treasury and currency reforms. In the opening the secretary mentions that the excess of expenditure over receipt during the last fiscal year was $69,803,260, and during the first five months of the present fiscal year $21,787,367.

"It is not believed, however," he writes, "that this difference between the receipts and expenditures will continue in the same proportion until the close of the year," and, accordingly, he estimates a deficiency of $20,000,000 at that time, while he further expresses the opinion that present laws will yield ample return for the fiscal year 1896, as all their provisions will then be operative, and the prospective improvement in the business of the country, if realized, will greatly increase the sources from which taxes are collected, and accordingly a surplus of $28,614,920 is estimated for that year.

THE SECRETARY'S PLAN.

The secretary presents a plan which would relieve the government from some of its burden and secure safe and elastic national and state bank currency, and result ultimately in a permanent retirement of United States legal tender notes of both classes. The features of this plan include the repeal of all laws authorizing a deposit of United States bonds as security for circulation; permission to national banks, under certain requirements, to issue notes to an amount not exceeding 75 percentum of the paid-up capital; requiring each National Banking Association to redeem its notes at its own offices; providing a safety fund for the immediate redemption of the circulating notes of failed banks; a repeal of laws imposing restrictions upon a reduction and an increase of national bank circulation and of laws requiring banks to keep a reserve on account of deposits; exempting from taxation, under certain provisions, circulating notes issued by banking corporations which transact no other than banking business; together with other measures which the secretary explains.

He gives at length his reasons for the repeal, as his plan proposes, of all provisions of existing laws which require National banks to hold a fixed reserve against deposits. "Every prudently managed bank, if left free to conduct its deposit and discount business in a manner most advantageous to its own interests and the interests of its patrons, will undoubtedly keep on hand a reasonable reserve to meet not only all the ordinary demands upon it, but to provide for such emergencies as are liable to occur in the community where it is located. But it ought not to be prohibited by law from using such reserve for the only purpose it was designed to accomplish."

Among other provisions in the secretary's plan, is that no notes be of less denomination than ten dollars.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Situation as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the South for the past week shows that the interest in phosphate mining is increasing, two large corporations for that purpose having been formed during the week. Textile mills are also increasing in number, and the iron producers are working on full time and to the full capacity of their plants. Coal mining is fairly active but, as in other lines of business, prices are very low. Lumber men report that trade with them is slowly growing better. Immigration to the South is increasing. Several companies have recently been formed to promote immigration, others will be formed, and the railroads are doing much in the same direction.

Twenty-nine new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with nine enlargements of manufactories, and nine important new buildings. Among the new industries of the week are: The Penoo River Phosphate Co., of Savannah, Ga., capital $1,250,000; and the Associated Phosphate Co., of Ocala, Fla., capital $250,000; the Golden Valley Colonization Co., of Little Rock, Ark., with $1,000,000 capital; the Le Port Land Co., of La Port, Texas, capital $600,000, and the Suburban Light & Water Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., with $500,000 capital. A $100,000 sugar refinery is to be built at St. Martinsville, La., and one is reported as to be built at Tallahassee, Fla.; the Ulger Wire per Co., with $50,000 capital has been chartered at Wheeling, W. Va.; the O. P. & B. E. Willingham Woodworking Co., capital $25,000 at Macon, Ga.; the Louisville Malting Co., with the same capital, at Louisville, Ky., and the Chatham Electric Light and Power Co., capital $25,000, at Savannah, Ga.

There is also reported agricultural implement works at Troy, Ala., and Wheeling, W. Va.; canning factories at Paducah, Ky., Holly Springs, Miss., Abbeville, S. C., and Galveston, Tex., and cotton mills at Salem and Winston, N. C., and Columbia, S. C. Ice factories are to be built at Georgetown, S. C., and Winchester, Va.; a starch factory at Charleston, S. C.; a tannery at Piedmont, Ala., and woodworking plants at Summerville, Ga., Carpenter, and Asheville, N. C.

Water works costing $100,000 are to be built at Selma, Ala. The enlargements for the week include an electrical plant at Gadsden, Ala.; ice factories at Valdosta, Ga., and Biltmore, N. C.; cotton mills at Graham, N. C., Rock Hill, S. C., and Lynchburg, Va.; tin plate works at Wheeling, W. Va., and saw and planing mills at Norfolk, Va. Among the new buildings are a $20,000 asylum at Houston, Tex.; business houses at Tampa, Fla., Knoxville, Tenn., and Wheeling, W. Va.; a $30,000 court house at Alexandria, Va., and large tobacco factories at Salem, N. C.—Tradesman (Chattanooga, Tenn.)

PLEAD GUILTY

And Turned State's Evidence in Order to Save Themselves.

In the United States court in session at Columbia, S. C., the big Barrett postmaster conspiracy case was called for trial Thursday. There were fourteen defendants, nearly all of them postmasters whom Barrett had gotten the government to appoint at country places alleged to be towns, bearing their respective names. At the outset a sensation was caused by some four or five of them pleading guilty and then turning state's evidence to save themselves.

BLOW TO FEMALE SUFFRAGE.

An Effort in Ohio to Debar Women From Voting.

A dispatch from Columbus, O., says: Application has been made to the state department of election by ex-Secretary of State Daniel Ryan to strike all names of females from the voters registered. If the mandamus is refused, proceedings in the supreme court will be instituted. The action is taken to test the new law giving women the right to vote in school elections. They will vote under it for the first time next spring, but many have already registered.

A special from Rio de Janeiro says: President Morae's message to congress was read in secret session, and shows that suppressing the revolution cost $300,000,000 in gold. It says that in the present state it would be useless for the government to try to ficat a loan unless congress devises some means to restore the country's credit.

Five men were killed and a score of people injured by an explosion of dynamite in Hull, Quebec, Tuesday morning. The accident occurred on the Hull waterworks extension. Two boxes, containing forty pounds of dynamite each, did the damage. The dynamite was used for blasting purposes, and was stored in a 12-foot square frame cabin, erected in the street.

An order was issued by the High Court of Justice at London Wednesday directing a compulsory winding up of the affairs of Dalziel's News Agency of America, (Limited), and also of the French Agencie Dalzel. The claim of the petitioner, at whose instance the order was issued, was based upon a judgment for $88,000 against the former concern, and one for $15,000 against the latter.

Jere Matthews, of Lincoln, Ill., defeated candidate for county clerk, was found in an unconscious condition, resulting from morphine poisoning. Physicians revived him, and, pressing him for an explanation, he reluctantly told them to look into one of his pockets where they would find his last official report. The report disclosed, according to his figures, that he was $1,924 short.

The striking flint glass workers, at Pittsburg, Pa., associated with Southside business men, propose to erect or purchase table ware glass plants, which will be operated against the United States Glass Company. A capital stock of from $200,000 to $250,000 is being subscribed, of which amount $50,000 will be taken from the treasury of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union. The factories will be operated on the co-operative plan.

The Lobster's Lullaby.

The young lobster leaves its parents and spends its first thirty or forty-five days in deep water. During this period its shell is changed four times, the salutary organs are lost, and only after attaining nearly full size does it come back to the shore. The young lobster loses and remakes its crusty shell about ten times during the first year, five to seven times in the second year, three to four in the third, two to three in the fourth. After the fifth the change is annual.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

An All Iron Railroad.

One of the curiosities of railroad building is the construction of a road running from Ismid, a harbor about sixty miles from Constantinople, to Angora, about 300 miles. The bridges, sleepers, stringpieces and telegraph poles, as well as the rails, are of iron, nine-tenths of which are of German manufacture. The bridges average about four to the mile, there being 120 of them, the longest having a stretch of 590 feet. In addition to these there are sixteen tunnels, the longest measuring 1,480 feet. This is the only railroad which penetrates the interior of Asiatic Turkey, the Smyrna lines being near the coast.

The Bridge of the Future.

Bridges made of steel beams imbedded in concrete promise to be the bridge of the future, being cheap, strong and graceful. Near Ulm, Germany, is a bridge of this sort—invented at Paris in 1876 by Jean Monier, which has a span of 150 feet and yet is less than seven inches thick at the apex or crown. The iron or steel in such a bridge strengthens it against tension, while the concrete gives rigidity and withstands crushing.

PROGRESS.

People who get the greatest degree of comfort and real enjoyment out of life, are those who make the most out of their opportunities. Quick perception and good judgment, lead such promptly to adopt and make use of those refined and improved products of modern inventive genius which best serve the needs of their physical being. Accordingly, the most intelligent and progressive people are found to employ the most refined and perfect laxative to regulate and tone up the stomach, liver, and bowels, when in need of such an agent—hence the great popularity of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are made from the purest, most refined and concentrated vegetable extracts, and from forty-two to forty-four are contained in each vial, which is sold at the same price as the cheaper made and more ordinary pills found in the market. In curative virtues, there is no comparison to be made between them and the ordinary pills, as any one may easily learn by sending for a free sample, (four to seven doses) of the Pellets, which will be sent on receipt of name and address on a postal card.

ONCE USED THEY ARE ALWAYS IN FAVOR.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in glass vials, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic. As a "dinner pill," to promote digestion, take one each day after dinner. To relieve distress from over-eating, they are unequaled. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules; any child will readily take them.

Accept no substitute that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help. Address for free sample, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A FORGETFUL LOVER.

BY LAURA LU SCHERER.

James Allen, attorney-at-law, was a busy man; yet, as he stood before a mirror in his apartments at the Altemus Hotel, he waited before descending to an impatient client in order that he might arrange, with practised precision, the careless, poetic wave of his hair.

He was thinking how her dark hair would look beside his, in a picture like the daguerreotype of his father and mother, taken on their bridal tour. With the modest dejection of the old-fashioned lover, he sometimes tried to fancy that she had not given him much ground for hope. Yet the more he thought about it, and he thought about it a great deal, the more certain did he become that, whenever he chose to propose to her, she would accept him.

He considered this serious cause for dissatisfaction with an otherwise admirable young woman. He did not want to win the race without having put forth his best strokes, and he felt that, as yet, he had done nothing commensurate with his capacities in the line of wooing.

The client to whom he presently descended was concerned in the case of Hoover versus Kohn. Allen felt grateful to all the participants in this affair, which had done much toward establishing his professional reputation. Yet, he now disposed of his client with a brusque brevity foreign to the usual courtesy of his legal manner. As his mind settled back to its reverie, he had a moment of vague self-reproach in the consciousness that he was returning with undisguised eagerness to the most absorbing line of thought now possible to him.

There had been a time when he was feverish with anxiety about the Hoover-Kohn case. His despair at not being able to trace the witness who "knew more than any other feller in the State about Tim Kohn," had not been less intense than his anxiety about her answer to the question he was just going to ask when the neat maid servant had entered with a telegram, announcing the discovery of Kohn's man, and demanding his immediate presence. He was now inclined to regard the telegram as the instrument of a merciful providence.

Yet, allowing for the influence of the romantic surroundings in which he had met her, it could not be denied that she was a very attractive girl. How radiant she had looked on that misty morning, when her wonderful grace had made the ferrying her across mud puddles idyllic. Ah, had she but kept the stately dryness that had so charmed him during the first few months of their acquaintance. He searched in vain for the cause of the unwelcome change in her demeanor, which his confidential friend, Watson, ascribed to the fact that his brilliant legal success had heightened his value as a matrimonial prize.

Watson was in the habit of replying to Allen's confidences by chanting, in a thin baritone, a song which he professed to have learned from his grandmother, missing with the refrain,

Fruit that will fall without shaking
Is rather too mellow for me.

"What charmed me about her at first," Allen said, "was her—er—unapproachableness."

"I see," said Watson. "It's not that you object to being angled for, but you don't want to see the hook."

"No," said Allen. "You don't understand. Now when I go down to see her tomorrow—"

"Oh, you are going?" interpolated Watson.

"Yes, I'm going," returned Allen shortly, as he turned away, alarmed at the discovery that his heart beat faster at the thought of gathering wild flowers with her, and fastening them upon dainty gowns—gowns with irresistible charm of the costume, every bow of which is looped, every fold of which is draped, while the heart of the wearer is filled with the thought of one person's preferences.

On the morrow, during his journey, he was dimly conscious that two schoolgirls were mimicking his pose, as, with hands clasped behind his neck, he sat dreaming. The long drive over a winding country road aroused in him a sensitiveness to external objects, and, as he stood at the door, he saw and resented the twinkle in the eye of the neat maid servant, who replied to his inquiry with an effect of jocose sympathy:

"Yes, sir; she's to home; she'll be down directly."

Ah, she is coming. Her eyes are shining; her hands are outstretched in welcome. Are her perfect lips raised in shy appeal as he dumbly stares? Perish the thought; and yet—as he sat in the quiet parlor on the old haircloth sofa, he had the uncomfortable sensation of a man who is not doing all that is expected of him. Through his brain flashed a wild project of remonstrating with her about the defects in her behavior, with an eloquence far finer than that evoked by the impassive faces of twelve gentlemen of the jury. "Six months ago I was in love with you," he fancied himself saying by way of introduction, when he was startled by the sudden cessation of her voice in a rising inflection.

"Would you like to look at our harpsichord?" she was saying. "It is back from the Fair, and you have not seen it—not since—not since—"

What was this glory of light that shone in her face as she hesitated over the words "not since?" His craven heart leaped into sudden courage. How could he ever have doubted that he loved her!

As he entered the library for the second time, it had the strange familiarity of a scene which a moment of strong excitement impresses unconsciously, and yet indelibly, on the memory. She seated herself at the harpsichord; he stood leaning upon it, while his eyes rested on an old German Bible, open at a ludicrous woodcut of Herod. He had an intense consciousness of having stood before it in such an attitude, idly noting the Herod on the page, which adorned Noah's ancestor.

Dreamily, as one repeating a phrase, which memory supplies word by word, he said,

"I love you, I love you. Will you give me something to hope for?"

As he looked into her dyes, his treacherous memory, all too tardy, flashed the truth into his brain. Six months before, standing by the harpsichord, he had spoken these same words, which Kohn's telegram hastily interrupted. Had he valued Kohn's paltry fee, or the cheap applause of the "mutable, rank-scented many," above her answer? What a fool he had been! How Watson would laugh and say,

"Proposed to a girl and forgot it. Good-bye, George!"

And she? Did she understand? The slight tremor of her breath which presaged speech made him lift his eyes. Her own were downcast. "And if I say yes again?" she murmured.

As he clasped her in his arms he wondered if she would ever know that he had forgotten. Even then, with her cheek pressed against his own—such is the infirmity of the truly absent-minded man—he recalled Aristotle's law of association, and wondered if he would have remembered, if he had never again stood by the harpsichord.

"Perhaps," he thought as he stroked her hair, "in the perfectly confidential relation of a marriage such as ours will be, I shall some day tell her all, and assure her that now, at last, her love is the event, all else, the episodes of my life."—The Pathfinder.

Effect of Perfumes.

It is a curious and interesting fact that perfumes have a peculiar and sometimes extremely unpleasant effect on many persons. When a room has been closed up with some varieties of flowers in it, there are persons who will faint upon sitting down for any time in the apartment.

The tuberose, although a most beautiful flower, is steadily going out of fashion because of its odor. It is so oppressive that it makes some people ill, and is unwelcome to all but a very small number of individuals. Almost every one likes the perfume of roses and, when judiciously used, this is one of the best of standard scents. Those who have put away rose petals during the summer months will find the following an excellent way to make the rose-jars that most women like to keep in their apartments:

Take one ounce of cloves, two ounces of lavender flowers, two ounces of cinnamon and one and one-half ounces of mace and two ounces of allspice, all ground to a very fine powder. Then put into a rose-jar holding a quart a layer of the dried rose petals and a sprinkling of the powder, then another layer of the petals and powder, filling the jar up with alternate layers. A couple of drops of sandal oil and a sprinkling of orange-flower water may be added; then the jar should be tightly covered and set away for a few days, when it is ready for use.

It is a good plan to paste a paper over the mouth of the jar before the cover is put on, and turn the jar bottom upward in some safe corner.—New York Ledger.

Benign Cruelty of the Knife.

Attention has lately been drawn in France to the possibility that cancer is a disease that can be caught, from the history of successive occupants of certain houses, who had no family history of the disease and were not related to each other, giving ground for belief in family likeness of predisposition. There is a certain small valley in Western Massachusetts, around which, in twelve years, no less than seven heads of families perished of this disease. But even here the torch of hope has been lighted, as one can learn, by reading the statistics presented by Dr. William T. Bull to the Massachusetts Medical Association in June. He gave instance after instance where people had been enabled "to breathe this sweet air of life" from one to ten years after the benign cruelty of the knife had cut away the life-destroyer. His persistent moral is, operate early.—New York Advertiser.

A burglar broke into a man's house in New York the other night and found himself in a room full of serpents, pets of the owner of the house. The reptiles got after the burglar, who fled in affright, leaving all his tools behind him.

THE CONGRESS.

THE NATIONS' LAW-MAKERS RESUME OPERATIONS.

The Proceedings of Both Houses Briefly Epitomized.

THE SENATE.

After the approval of the journal, in the senate, Tuesday, the president pro tem, Mr. Harris, democrat, of Tennessee, laid before the body a communication from the acting secretary of the treasury, transmitting the report of the superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey; also one from the secretary of war, transmitting a report showing the number of aliens and naturalized citizens in the army. Mr. Dolph, republican, of Oregon, presented a memorial from the citizens of Phoenix, Ariz., asking for relief in the matter of Indian depredation claims. Mr. Berry, democrat, of Arkansas, presented a few remarks regarding the passage of the bill introduced by him last week, to establish the territory of Indianola out of the Indian Territory. Mr. Morrill, republican, of Vermont, in accordance with the notice he had given, then addressed the senate.

The senate Wednesday signified unmistakably its intention not to be led into any tariff legislation at this session. A motion to take up the house bill of last session making sugar free of duty, with the finance committee amendment to it imposing a flat duty of 40 per cent. on sugar and abolishing the differentials, was defeated, the vote being—yeas, 23; nays, 27. The attempt to get up Mr. Vest's cloture resolution was also defeated—yeas, 24; nays, 21. The Nicaragua canal bill was taken up and discussed for a couple of hours, and Mr. Morgan, who is in charge of it, signified his purpose to ask the senate to fix another time for voting upon it. Bills were passed giving pensions of $100 a month to the widows of General Banks, Crittenden and McClelland. Mr. Pugh presented the credentials of Mr. Morgan as senator-elect from Alabama for the term beginning March 4th next, which were read. The resolution offered recently by Mr. Higgins calling on the president for copies of the correspondence relative to peace negotiations between China and Japan was passed. After a short executive session the senate, at 5:10 o'clock p. m., adjourned until Thursday.

Senator Bate, chairman of the board of visitors to West Point Military academy, presented the report of the board to the senate Thursday. The report takes a strong ground in favor of the change of the law which will increase the number of cadets to 469, or one cadet to each senator and representative, and twenty for the president, instead of the present number, which is about 250. It is admitted that this increase would probably result in a larger number of graduates than could find officers' places in the army, but it is suggested that as the additional cost would be very slight, the country could well afford to increase the number for the benefit to be derived in a purely educational way. Discussing the wisdom of the change the board says that a part of the number graduated every year could be retired to private life, remaining, however, subject to the command of the country. The board suggests that these West Point cadets would make excellent military officers. While the board has nothing but praises for the theoretical instruction in the academy in most respects, it finds fault with the halting English, the lack of facility of expression on the part of many cadets, which is "painfully apparent." Mr. Cockran's motion to recommit the urgent deficiency bill, with instructions to strike out the appropriation for the income tax, was defeated—yeas, 49; nays, 168.

THE HOUSE.

At the opening of the session of the house Tuesday Mr. Breckinridge, democrat, of Kentucky, from the committee on appropriations, reported the urgent deficiency bill. Mr. Dingley, republican, of Maine, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for information, first, as to whether the seizure of the Behring sea tribunal had resulted last season in saving the fur seal herds from that destruction they were intended to prevent; second, information as to the number and sex of seals killed by pelagic sealers; third, the protection of fur seal herds on the Pribyloff Islands, and, fourth, the revenue derived by the government from the seals during the past year and the expenditure of the government for their protection during the same period. In the morning hour Mr. Mallory again called up the bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service which provoked Mr. Champ Clark's remarks on Saturday. The Missourian again took the floor in pursuance of his avowed intention of talking the bill to death. Mr. Clark then took off his cuffs and for forty-five minutes kept the house in a roar.

As soon as the routine business of the house Wednesday was disposed of the urgent deficiency bill was taken up in committee of the whole. Mr. Bartlett, democrat, of New York, addressed himself to the item appropriating $245,095 to execute the law for the collection of the income tax. He discussed at some length the legal features of the question, with a view to demonstrating the unconstitutionality and invalidity of the income tax. Mr. McMillan, the author of the income tax feature of the tariff bill, replied to Mr. Bartlett, discussing the latter's assertion that the income tax was unjust. In the course of his speech Mr. McMillan became engaged in a colloquy with Mr. Cockran, democrat, of New York, regarding the effect upon the government revenues of a reduction of tariff rates, which concluded with the admission by Mr. McMillan that he did not believe that the Wilson bill, as framed, would have the effect to raise the revenues necessary to carry on the government without the income tax measure. The debate was closed by Mr. Breckinridge, who prophesied the return to power of the democratic party, that it might fulfill the pledges it had made to the people, and upon which they had been charged with the responsibility of government. When the bill was read under the five-minute rule Mr. Bartlett moved to strike out the item appropriating $235,095 for the collection of the income tax. A vote was taken by tellers and resulted: Yeas, 54, nays, 127. When the item of $250,000 for special pension agents was reached Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, moved that the amount be reduced to $125,000. Pending action on this amendment the committee rose and the house adjourned until Thursday.

Everything was quiet about the senate Thursday, and but little interest seemed to be taken in the proceedings either by the senators or by the spectators. Mr. Hunton, of Virginia, moved to take up the bill for the establishment of a University of the United States at Washington, D. C. Mr. Hale, of Maine, objected to the consideration of the bill at this time, but suggested that it be referred to the calendar under the rule of the senate where it could be debated in some way.

TILLMAN A SENATOR

SOUTH CAROLINA'S REPRESENTATIVES ELECT HIM.

The "Reform" Hero Gets a Lucrative Job for Six Years.

A Columbia special says: Benjamin R. Tillman, who ceased being governor a week ago, became United States senator from the state of South Carolina, at noon Tuesday, to succeed General M. C. Butler, who has held that position for the past eighteen years.

He went in on a landslide, just as he has ridden into the office of governor twice. Indeed, the election was simply pro forma. The galleries were about half filled when the election took place. On the announcement of the result there was some applause.

The conservative members alone voted for General Butler. The roll call was: Tillman, 131; Butler, 24; George W. Murray, 2; W. D. Crum, 1.

Tillman is elected for six years, with a term beginning on December 4th.

The ceremonies attending the inauguration of Governor Tillman and the other state officers elected at the last election will occur at noon on December 4th.

The wedding of Miss Mary Sheppard Sherman, the only daughter of the senior senator from Ohio, and James Ivers McCullum, was solemnized at Washington Thursday.

The Secretary of the Treasury Talks of Its Regulations.

The secretary of the treasury Thursday approved the income tax regulations. Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and every person residing or doing business in the United States who has an annual income of more than $3,500 is required to make return, under oath, before the first Monday in March of each year. The return is to include all incomes received in the year 1894, from January 1st to December 31st. Guardians, trustees and all corporations acting in any fiduciary capacity are required to make similar returns for minors, wards or beneficiaries. Persons having less than $3,500 annual income are not required to make returns. All incomes of $4,000 and over are taxable 2 per cent.

The person making the return is required to make affidavit that he has included in such return all gains, profits and income from every source whatever received by him, or to which he is justly entitled for that year and that he is honestly and truly entitled to make all the deductions entered on his return, and that he has truly answered the interrogatories set forth on a blank form.

The gross gains, profits and income returned by persons are to include gross profits of any trade or business wherever carried on, rents received or accrued during the year, profits from sales of real estate purchased within two years, farming operations and proceeds, money and value of all personal property acquired by gift or inheritance, premiums on bonds, stocks, notes and coupons; income from trade or profession not by stated salary and not heretofore enumerated; from salary or compensation other than that received from the United States; from salary or compensation paid by the United States; undivided gains and profits of any partnerships; interest received or accrued from all notes, bonds or other securities; interest on bonds or coupons paid by any corporation; dividends from corporations; income of wife or minor children or child; all other sources of income not above enumerated.

Deductions Allowed.

The deductions allowed on the returns are: Four thousand dollars exempt by law; interest due and paid within the year; national, state, county, school and municipal taxes paid, not including assessments for local benefits; amount expended in purchase and production of live stock or produce sold within the year; necessary expenses specified by items actually incurred in carrying on any business or trade; losses actually sustained during the year, specified; actual losses on sales of real estate purchased within two years; debts contracted and ascertained in the year; salary or compensation over $4,000 from which the tax of 2 per centum has been withheld by the disbursing officers of the United States government; dividends included in the estimates of gross profits from corporations on which the 2 per cent tax has been paid by such corporations.

If any person fails to make return or makes false return, the collector is to make return for him from evidence obtained by summoning the person and examining his books, and from all other evidence obtainable, and shall add 50 per cent to the tax found due as a penalty for neglect and 100 per cent for a fraudulent return.

All corporations, companies and associations, both resident and foreign, doing business in the United States are required to make annual return of net profits on a separate blank to cover the calendar year 1894.

The exemption of $4,000 allowed to persons is not extended to corporations, but the return must cover all net profits without exemption. The annual returns of corporations must include:

The gross profits from all kinds of business, the expenses, exclusive of interest, annuities or dividends; the net profits, without allowance for interest, annuities or dividends; the amount paid on account of interest, annuities and dividends; the amount paid in salaries of $4,000 or less to each employe.

QUESTION OF SILVER

GERMANY THINKS A CHANGE IN POLICY IS NECESSARY.

And a Silver Conference Is Suggested in the Reichstag.

A Berlin cable dispatch says: In the reichstag Wednesday Herr von Kardoff, free conservative, declared that it was imperative that the present system of universal suffrage should be modified if there was any truth in the radical assertion that the level of the members of the reichstag had been lowered. He continued by saying that the deepest misery prevailed throughout the country, for which the only remedy was a silver currency. Germany, he said, would earn the gratitude of the world if she would call a silver conference in Berlin.

He warned Chancellor Hohenlohe that the government must not attempt to interfere with the rights of the reichstag. The prosecution of members upon such charges as were made, he declared, was useless. The only efficacious remedy was popular government.

Herr Singer, socialist, who was appointed chairman of the committee of the reichstag to which was referred the question of prosecuting socialist members who refused last Thursday to rise to their feet and respond to the call for cheers for the kaiser, addressed the chamber. Herr Singer was himself the leader of the offenders. He declared there was no doubt in his mind that the reichstag would reject a proposal to prosecute the offending members.

THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION.

Architect Bruce is to Supervise the Government Building.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., announces that A. C. Bruce, of Atlanta, has been appointed supervising architect of the government building at the exposition. He is a member of a prominent firm—Bruce and Morgan—and is one of those who submitted plans for the exposition buildings.

The Business Men's League, of Charleston, S. C., will make an exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition. Advices have also been received to the effect that the city of Chicago will have an exhibit. The directors of the exposition are invited to go to Chicago to meet the World's fair board for a conference with a view to extending the work for the exposition into the northwest.

TO REDUCE THE SCALE.

Notices Served by Operators in the Pittsburg District.

Many of the railroad coal operators of the Pittsburg, Pa., district will reduce wages within the next ten days. The initiative has already been made by Henry Flershein, the owner of the Germania and Nottingham mines at Finleyville, in the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Wednesday morning notices were posted at his mines that on and after next Monday the rate for mining will be 55 cents per ton. The officials of the miners' organization refuse to talk on the situation, and would not anticipate what action the miners will take.

A JUDGE THREATENED.

Lively Scene in a Kentucky Court Room.

News comes from Hazard, Ky., that Judge Hall was warned that if he did not release on bail Jesse Fields and Joe Atkins, charged with shooting ex-County Judge Coombs from ambush, there would be trouble. Fields' brothers, the county judge, was in court, and when Judge Hall refused to allow bail, Fields drew a pistol and fired at Hall. Court officers caught Fields, but his friends released him.

A Royal Wedding.

A London special says: The marriage of Prince Adolphus of York, brother of the duchess of York, to Lady Margaret Grosvenor, daughter of the duke of Westminster, the richest peer in the United Kingdom, took place in the chapel of Eaton hall, Chester, one of the seats of the duke of Westminster, Wednesday.

Boasting Children.

Considering the number of children being brought up in our country, and the varied experiences, it is a matter of astonishment that there are so many failures. Subordination or obedience to constitutional authority, is the first and most important ingredient in the make up of good citizenship—much more so in the successful rearing of children for lives of usefulness and happiness. Some parents seem to have gotten the idea into their brain that obedience is a degradation and a reflection upon the intelligence of the child. And strange to say no parent has a bad boy.

All pertness, impudence and disrespect, in many cases, is put to the credit of smartness. God said of Abraham; "I know him that he will command his children." One point of failure is the beginning too late to teach obedience. It must be in the very first lesson in life and held to the end of the day the boy remains under the parental roof. There must be perfect agreement with father and mother, for should one take the side of the child as against the other all respect for the authority of the opposed one is forever gone and the ruin of the child is there begun.

For example: Let the mother refuse the demand of the boy for something at the table, which she thinks he should not have and the father says: "O let the little man have anything he wants," and proceed to give it to him, that father then and there teaches the boy to have no respect for his mother and the chances are that he never will regard her as as more than a servant to wait upon his demands.

The young king of Spain at five years of age became indignant that his mother should meddle with some of his toys and rising in his majesty thirty-two inches high said: "Madam I will have you to understand that I am the king of Spain." "I am aware of that, your Royal Highness" said the mother "but I inform you that I am the mother of the king of Spain," and with a jeweled slipper spanked the young man a few times and sent him to the nursery. He never disobeyed her again. O, for more slippers. I know of a fight between a mother and a not three years old, in the long ago, which resulted in victory for the mother. The battle was severe, but short, and ended with the boy's head in the mother's lap, he sobbing, when a big boy he loved to obey that mother.

And it was one of the proudest days of his life, after an absence of nearly two years from his native land, on returning, to give that faithful mother then infirm, his arm and support her to a seat in church. And even now, when an occasional visit is made, he stands uncovered at the mound beneath which rests the sacred dust of that true mother, and with moistened eye, and grateful heart, he thanks God for that mother's love that taught him obedience.

It is the exception to the rule that when parents do their duty, in precept and example, with obedience, that the boy turns out badly. Alas, that many must reproach themselves for the early fall of the boy, while others, in rebellion declare it a hard dealing of providence, when in fact, it was their own reaping what had been sown.

Parents who cannot answer the question: "Where is your boy?" need not be surprised if evil befalls him. Solomon said: "Train the child," etc. Obedience without hesitation or murmur must be the begining of all successful training.

With true and faithful parents children will be better.

"It is a pleasure to sell Chamberlains Cough Remedy" says Stickney & Dentlen, druggist, Republic, Ohio, "Because a customer after once using it, is almost certain to call for it when again in need of such a medicine. We sell more of it than of any other cough medicine we handle, and it always gives satisfaction." For coughs, colds and croup it is without an equal. For sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and Smith and McNeill, Jemison, Ala.

We want every man who reads the View to give earnest heed to the following words from Rev. J. M. Eaglin, of Hamilton, Texas.

"Your kind note in this week's issue, about the brother from North Alabama should set more of our readers to thinking. If a man can possibly make a living in Alabama no matter how hard let him stay there until he knows positively that he can do better elsewhere.

Of course agents of railroads and land companies will continue to paint things in glowing colors. It is true also that many poor people will in coming here, only to have a bitter experience. Yes, we have hard times in Texas. Men with families are glad to get work at any price, and tramps come to our doors at all hours of the day willing to saw wood for a meal to eat.

We have enough of destitution and suffering already without inviting more. No man especially one with a family should come to Texas unless he is assured of work or has money enough for a years support. Preachers are also included in the foregoing sentence.

Wait for better times and they will come to you in Alabama as surely as in Texas."

Jere Haralson the negro who once represented Alabama in Congress has been found guilty of forgery and sent to the penitentiary.

Topics of the Turn Around

The leading social event of the season was the marriage at 11;30 A M. last Sunday in the Baptist Church by Rev. V. H. Vickers.

The high contracting parties being Mr. Leve G. Alexander of Montgomery and Miss Algie L. Pyron of this place. Under the deft management of Mrs. Pyron the church had been superbly decorated with flowers evergreens and ribbons some of them converging beautifully in a canopy under which the bride and groom stood to plight their troth and vow a union of their hopes and destinies

Many friends from near and far filled the comfortable building.

The bride's venerable rector Rev. Mr. Vickers entered from the vestry and took his position under the canopy and awaited the already approaching party which like a glorious, swaying dream, entered, parted, moved and united at the altar.

The waiters, bride and groom, entered the church in the following manner; Mr. Frank B. Alexander and Miss Ella F. Pyron came marching up the left hand aisle and took their position on right of altar, followed by Mr. William E. Gardner and Miss Lillie Gore who took their position on left of altar. Next came the fair bride and groom who took their stand under the altar. United in accordance with the beautiful Episcopal ceremony, the bride and groom preceeded the party out in reverse order. A large number of friends assembled at the residence of the bride's mother to tender congratulations and partake of a royal banquet The presents were many, handsome and beatifully displayed. The union of these hearts was an event long to be remembered by the people of the Turn A round. We bespeak the sentiments of all their friends in wishing the noble hearted groom and winsome young bride best wishes for a long life, happiness and prosperity.

There was a most delightful entertainment given by Mr. Walter Kendricks and sister Miss Daisy Friday evening. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there were six couples present. Dancing, social plays and games were the order of the evening.

Hustler

Mr. W. H. Martin, general Manager of the International Homestead Company was a visitor last week to Chilton county. He is engaged in securing homes for thrifty white people from the Northwest and while in Clanton took options on 10,000 acres of land.

He seeks to bring no man who has less than $1,000. The parties whom he thinks of locating in our county will engage in raising berries, grapes and small fruit for shipment. All parties who have lands for sale should at once communicate with the editor of the View.

Mr. Ira P. Wetmore, a prominent real estate agent of San Angelo, Texas, has used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in his family for several years as occasion required, and always with perfect success. He says I find it a perfect cure for our baby when troubled with colic or dysentery. I now feel that my outfit is not complete without a bottle of this Remedy at home or on a trip away from home. Any one who has an idea will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield N. J.

His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by his friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and Smith and McNeill, Jemison.

Mr. Mosley, formerly one of the editors and proprietors of the Birmingham Times (Republican) has sold out his interest in that paper

His remarks to us impressed us that he sees no fun in running a Campaign paper after the Campaign and boodle is over.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The Birmingham Tribune, Republican, says "The Republican party can lead better than it can follow. Twice it has been the tail to the kite and failed both times Now why not step to the front with some smart young leaders of brains and undaunted spirit and take the lead in the coming campaign." The trouble, doctor, is that you cant fool the whites of this state into helping the Republican party unless you make them believe they are leading and the Republicans just helping them.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be bad. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that no one else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The View wishes its readers a merry Christmas.

Mrs. C. B. McNeil of the capitol city was in Clanton Monday.

A. C. Smith Esq. and family are off for a visit to relations in Coosa county.

See the change in the advertisement of Ellis & Gay. This is one of the best firms in the south and we cheerfully commend them to our readers

Mr. Jack Williams who was accidently shot in Selma two weeks ago has had to submit to having his leg amputated.

Thos. A. Curry Esq. has just returned from a visit to his relatives in Miss.

Mr. Eugene Sartor after a stay of some months in Montgomery is again among his Clanton friends.

Mrs Croswell and baby were in our midst this week.

Rev. P. M. Guthrie will be the new pastor for the Clanton Circuit. The View and the community will give him a hearty welcome.

Rev. J. M. McCann will remain as the pastor of the Methodist Church at Verbena.

We are sorry to learn that our colored friend preacher Dozier was badly hurt in the late storm which passed through the county. His right hip was fractured and he is still suffering much pain,

Mrs. Weathers has been on a visit to Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Miss Nora Claughton, of Verbena spent last Saturday and Sunday with Miss Belle Lowery.

Our understanding is that the Christmas tree though being under the direction of a committee from the Methodist and Baptist Sunday Schools, will be a general neighborhood tree, free for the use of any one who wishes to put a present on for a friend or relative.

The time and place will be announced next Sunday.

Two parties were arrested here last Saturday night, by Mr. Dudley and Detective Barnes, suspected of being Counterfeiters. Our readers must look out for bad money.

The preachers of the town and others interested in hearing preaching are being fearfully annoyed, and disturbed by parties who are so thoughtless as to whistle during services. Of course those who do such things would be indignant if it was hinted that they lacked home training, we do not believe that, but attribute it solely to thoughtlessness.

Our town was taken very much by surprise last Wednesday night when it h came known that Rev. T. B Hasey was to be married to Miss Luia Aldridge, daughter of our townsman P. G. Aldridge. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Barnett. After the marriage the bridal party were sumtuously feasted by the parents of the bride. We join with the other friends of this couple in wishing them much happiness and usefulness in life.

We regret greatly to learn that Mrs. Jno. Milford is still very low in health We trust that she may fully recover

Rev. B. E Fendin will serve the Whistler Station for another year.

That we understand is a very much better position financially than Clanton. We certainly wish a great measure of success for that worthy brother.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves Teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT FIRE.

Where a fire burns upon the hearth the Germans say that lightning never strikes.

In Cambridgeshire there is a curious belief to the effect that a fire started by a lightning stroke can only be quenched with milk.

In Devonshire if a fire burns blue and dead it is thought to be a forerunner of death or disaster in that house.

In Wales and in Cornwall miners bark their hats upon the birth of a male child; if a girl be born his neighbors burn it for him.

The Sicilians say that fire will not burn a man born on St. Paul's Day (January 25), but that if a woman be burned on that day the sore will never heal, and will eventually cause her death, according to the St. Louis Republic.

When a Russian family moves from one house to another they always rake all the fire from the hearth of the old domicile, and carry it in a closed pot to their new residence.

In Greece, when one peasant borrows fire from another's hearth to kindle his own, the owner of the fire must accompany the borrower to his home "to see the fire blaze," otherwise the one making the loan will have his house and goods destroyed by the devouring element.

The Real Thing.

In the meatshops of the towns in New Mexico and Arizona the visitor from the east is apt to notice that the dressed carcasses of sheep have a tuft of wool still attached to the head and the tail. This is left by the butcher to assure the customer that it is mutton, and not goat flesh, that he is buying, for in these territories many flocks of goats are reared and pastured by the small Mexican ranchmen to be killed for food for the poorer natives. Roast or stewed kid, with Chile pepper sauce, is an esteemed dinner dish at the table of many well to do American and Spanish-American citizens.—Philadelphia Record.

Weak as a Cat

Is a bad simile, for the cat is a very muscular animal for its size. But to be as weak as a convalescent after a wasted and protracted disease is to be weak indeed. Nothing in the way of a tonic promotes convalescence, hastens a gain in strength, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It increases appetite, helps digestion and induces sleep. Nervous invalids derive from it unspeakable benefit. It cures malaria, rheumatism, constipation.

It does not make prayers any less effective if they are delivered while holding to a plow.

A Child Rejoys

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wounded in the War

"I enlisted with Co. D, Third West Virginia Infantry Volunteers. August 20, 1862, I was wounded in the knee, and Sept. 16th my limb was amputated. For thirty years I have suffered from the remaining part of the limb, which has never healed, but continued to discharge. My health was greatly shattered, yet I kept moving about until December, 1891, when I was struck down by the grip, and again, a year later suffered a relapse. I had a smothered feeling so that I could scarcely

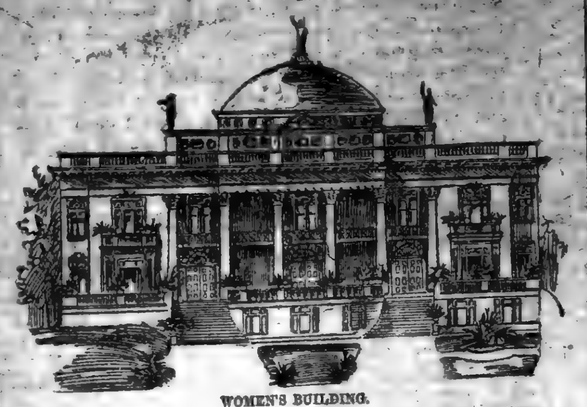
GREAT SOUTHERN DISPLAY AT ATLANTA IN 1895.

Foreign Nations Will Take Part—Gates Will Open September 15 and Be Closed December 31—Twelve Exhibition Buildings and a Midway Plaisance.

The New York Times has a newly illustrated account of the great Exposition of Southern products and progress which will be held at Atlanta, Ga., in the latter part of 1895. Through the courtesy of the Times we republish its illustrations and make the following extracts from its interesting article:

Varied and wonderful as were the exhibits at the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago, which closed a little over a year ago,



WOMEN'S BUILDING.

To Contain the Exhibits of Handiwork by Women at the Atlanta Exposition.

it was, and still is, a matter of regret on the part of the management of that great enterprise, and of every visitor there, but more particularly on the part of the people of the South, that there was not a larger display of the products of that very resourceful part of the country. The reason for this incomplete display at the Chicago Exposition was because of the peculiar provisions in the Constitutions of most of the Southern States, which prevented the appropriation of any of the public money for such purposes.

To make up for the loss of the display which should have been had at Chicago, it has been decided to hold an exposition at Atlanta in 1895, beginning September 15 and closing December 31. This exposition will take the place of the Cotton Exposition which is usually held in the South. It will be called the Cotton States and International Exposition. It is not intended that it shall be a merely local or provincial affair, as the Cotton States Exposition has usually been, but it will be an exhibition of all the products of the South, as well as of interesting material from all American countries and from as many foreign countries as can be interested in the project so soon after the closing of the World's Fair at Chicago.

In view of the fact that American countries are to be particularly interested in this exposition, it was at first proposed to call it the Pan-American Exposition, but the favor with which the idea was received by some foreign countries seemed to give it an international character. The exposition has been indorsed by the United States Government, by the Governors of all the Southern States, and by all commercial bodies interested in the development of the South. It is expected that the Southern States will be fully represented in the exhibits and that there will be many displays from Northern States, while the amount of material that is pledged from South American countries is large enough to assure an interesting, if not complete, exhibit of the resources and products of these countries.

The particular object of this Atlanta Exposition is the fostering of trade relations between the Southern States and between the Southern States and Pan-American countries. It is felt by all Southern people that there is a large field of business enterprise south of the Gulf of Mexico, and, with the same spirit which has made Yankees famous, the Southerners are taking steps to make the most of it. Four Commissioners have been sent into Mexico, Central and South America, and through them nearly all these countries have returned favorable replies to the invitations to participate in the exposition.

Although the exposition was at first outlined something after the plan of the usual cotton exhibitions, it grew so steadily that it has now become universal in plan. It was in last February that a mass meeting of the citizens of Atlanta was held to take steps to inaugurate the plans of the exposition. Following so closely upon the World's Exposition, and the close of the Pacific Coast Exposition, at San Francisco, it was felt that many large exhibits could be obtained for Atlanta with very little trouble and at comparatively small cost. The fact that the South was be little represented at the World's Fair, and that the bulk of the visitors there came from the North, because the Southern people were unable to attend, owing to the business depression, seemed to make it almost imperative that there should be a well-organized movement to provide for the attractive display of the wonderful products of the South.

Atlanta, which is the capital of Georgia, is situated on high rolling land, bordering the Alleghany range, and is 1100 feet above the sea. It has many fine sites for an exposition like the one contemplated. Of these, Piedmont Park, which is situated two miles from the center of the city, was finally adopted. Its beautiful landscape features made it the most suitable of the numerous sites which were suggested by the enterprising citizens. The grounds slope from the hills on one side to the line of the railroad on the lower border, and were possible of development in a very artistic manner.

A part of this park was dug out so that an inland lake, twenty acres in area, was provided, and around this lake, as around the lagoons at the World's Fair, it was proposed to group the principal buildings. The laying out of the grounds and the arrangement of the buildings and their location was done by Grant Wilkins, of Atlanta, who was made Chief of Construction. Mr. Wilkins is well known to the South as a railroad and bridge constructor, and has been very successful in laying out the grounds for the Atlanta Exposition.

Piedmont Park is historic ground. When Sherman was on his march to the sea Atlanta fell before him, General Hood being in command in defending it. The ground to be occupied by the exposition of the products of the South since the war, was in the middle of the battle ground at the time Hood shelled Atlanta, when the city was set on fire and almost completely destroyed. Along that part of the park where the Midway Plaisance of the exposition will be, even at this remote day, may be seen the trenches behind which the soldiers fought.

Although it was at first proposed to have only one building, which was to be large enough to contain all the exhibits which it was thought it would be possible to obtain, so much interest in the exposition was developed in the South and in other countries that the projectors of the enterprise eventually decided that it was highly necessary to provide ten buildings for the different classes. There will also be the Government building, to be paid for by the Government, in which will live Government exhibits, and also the Government has accepted the invitation to assist in the exposition by exhibits. In addition to these ten buildings there will be a number of other buildings will be built of Georgia pine covered with shingles. Some idea of the extent of the principal buildings can be obtained from the dimensions:

The Government Building is of Romanesque architecture and has a floor area of about 50,000 square feet. A turreted tower surmounts the structure, having at its apex a platform for the exposure of the instruments of the Weather Bureau. The Navy Department will operate a time ball and electric search light on the roof of this building. Ample provision is made for the requisite offices, toilet rooms, staircases, etc., which are situated in the projecting pavilions at the entrances, thus leaving the floor space available for the exhibits. In the act appropriating the money for the exposition, the Government included a clause providing for the admission of foreign exhibits free of duty.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has announced his intention to make an exhibit of the resources of that country. There will be also exhibits from Venezuela, Colombia, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Liberia, Cuba, and it is expected, also, from the Congo Free State, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Salvador, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Chile, Peru, the Argentine Republic and Brazil.

The architectural idea of Machinery Hall is that which prevails throughout most of the buildings—the Romanesque. The building is designed to give a great deal of space inside, but little room being taken up by stairways and offices. It is sixty-five feet high. In the Agricultural Building the architecture is pyramidal in character.

The Electricity Building will be brilliantly illuminated. It is situated at the foot of the lake, where its towers and arches, outlined in rows of light, will be particularly noticeable. The building designed for forestry and minerals is to be erected of natural wood, something after the style of the Forestry Building at the World's Fair. In the interior it will be festooned with Southern moss and greens. The spaces between the posts and braces, which are of natural trees, will be covered with bark. A roof promenade garden, with an area of 25,000 square feet, will be one of the features of this building. Its sides will be formed of palms and palmettos.

In the Woman's Building there will be exhibits of books written by women, musical compositions, patents and inventions and artistic work. Special attempts will be made to secure a large collection of oil paintings, etchings and water colors, architectural designs, sculptures, and models in clay, wood carving, embroideries, plain sewing, ceramics and china painting. There will also be a cooking school and kindergarten.

The Fine Arts Building is of the Italian Renaissance, with a tendency to the Florentine school. It is proposed to make the educational exhibit better in every way, if possible, than the one at the World's Fair. It has not yet been decided to have a separate building for this exhibit, but as the space accorded to it at Chicago was inadequate, it is probable that a building will have to be provided. It is proposed to have a sample of the work of every pupil of every school in the South.

The most unique thing about the exposition is the fact that the work of the negro in the South will be acknowledged and have a place. A special building has been provided for the negro exhibit. It is 100 by 300 feet, and it is intended that the best work of the negro in every department of labor, showing the progress made in education and in industrial pursuits since his emancipation, shall find a place there. Representative colored men have become greatly interested in this proposed exhibit. Several of them are now traveling through the South arranging for exhibits. The Virginia and Mississippi committees are particularly active. It is expected that this showing of the negro's progress will be of mutual benefit to the blacks and the whites of the South.

A special effort has also been made to secure a better display of tobacco than was ever had before. The cultivation, curing, marketing and manufacturing of tobacco and of tobacco products will be shown in all forms and stages. Provision has also been made for music and lecture halls, and for the exhibition of live stock and dairy products.

Mr. Fielder, Chief Assistant to Director-General Collier, called particular attention to the amusement features. He said that while the Midway Plaisance of the exposition had been called the Tyrolean, it was expected that the more popular term would be used by the visitors.

Mr. Wyndall refuses to accept the appointment of any but first-class musicians. There will be a Mexican village, including a street scene in Mexico, with its cathedral, theatre and bazaar, and the grounds will be ornamented with Mexican plants. A theosophical exhibit will provide quarters for this village. Ample private capital is back of this enterprise, and its performances have been of such a character as to bring material. There will also be a fine organ exhibit. Gutterson, of the Gutterson Organ Company, of which well known Boston pianist and organ builder is the head, will have charge of the organ exhibit. He will have a number of fine organs on exhibition, and will give daily concerts.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEWSY ITEMS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

Sayings and Doings of the Official Heads of the Government.

In compliance with the Hoar resolution the president sent to the senate Tuesday a letter from Secretary Gresham relative to the American outrages.

The Hurst multi-charge gun, as anticipated by naval ordnance officers, has proven a failure, and no further experiments with divided charges in big guns will be made.

Representative Sickels, of New York, has introduced in the house a bill for a pension of $12 per month to Mary Palmer Banks, widow of Major General Nathaniel P. Banks.

There was some important work done in both the senate and house Wednesday. The senate, by a vote of 27 to 24, refused to take up the sugar bill. Then, by a vote of 34 to 24, it killed the Vest cloture resolution. The house, by a large majority, voted the appropriation to collect the income tax.

Gold continues to be withdrawn from the treasury in exchange for legal tender notes, over $2,500,000 having been taken Monday and Tuesday. The gold reserve at the close of business Tuesday had declined to $106,821,428. The general balance, which includes the gold reserve, stood at $155,453,900.

Civil Service Commissioner Proctor says by the time Mr. Cleveland goes out of office nearly all government employes will be under the civil service rules, and then it will be useless for congressmen to chase about the departments for offices. Then, he says, congressmen may devote their attention to matters of legislation.

Can the house pass Carlisle's currency plan before the Christmas holidays? is a question which is agitating the democratic house leaders. Representative Montgomery, of Kentucky, said that he not only believed it could, but would. Chairman Springer, of the banking and currency committee, was approached on the subject and expressed himself as heartily in favor of it.

General John C. Black, of Illinois, a representative in the present congress, but defeated for the next, has been provided for by the president. Mr. Cleveland has appointed him United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois. General Black was commissioner of pensions during Mr. Cleveland's first term and he is the first of the unfortunates of congress who are provided for.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

In an interview, James Corbett says positively that he has determined to train at Hot Springs for his contest with Fitzsimmons.

The president sent to the senate Thursday the nomination of Jervis Spencer, of Maryland, to be consul of the United States at Curacoa, West Indies.

A special from Lima, Peru, says that ministers from Columbia, Ecuador and Peru have signed a proctocol submitting the boundary dispute to Spain as arbitrator.

Byron Myers and George Wheeler have been arrested at Caldwell, Idaho, for counterfeiting. Wheeler is thought to be the head of a gang operating extensively. Myers is a farmer.

In a published letter, C. S. Thomas, Colorado, member of the democratic national committee, predicts that the gold power will utilize the war between China and Japan as a measure for the destruction of silver in the orient, and enormously increase the value of gold.

The African Methodist Episcopal conference in session at Charleston, S. C., Thursday, adopted the resolution protesting against the passage by the legislature of the "jim crow" car railroad bill and appointed a committee to go to Columbia and lay resolutions before the senate.

Jeremiah Olney, of Hartford, school fund commissioner of the state of Connecticut, charged with misappropriating the income of the state school fund and with receiving money resulting from the investment of the fund, in addition to his salary of $3,000 as commissioner.

In the South Carolina house of representatives Mr. Thomas, of Richland, exploded a bombshell by offering a resolution asking why the state treasurer had paid out $31,000 for state printing to the Columbia Register, Governor Tillman's organ, when only $20,000 had been appropriated.

A KICK FROM WEAVER.

He Assails the Baltimore Currency Scheme.

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, publishes a letter from General Weaver, in which he says:

"The Baltimore currency scheme is a bold and barefaced proposition to apply the methods of the stock exchange, the trust and the board of trade combined to the entire business of the country—to authorize the money shorks to altersate the bull and bear, to gather to themselves all the profits of industry. It is an attempt to transfer, as a gratuity to speculators the highest attribute of sovereignty—that of issuing the currency of a great nation and controlling its volume. A congress which has its walking papers in just the kind of a body the money power delights to toy with."

Shifting Pressure to Their Visitors.

A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai says the Chinese at Port Arthur are making presents to the Japanese who recently captured that place, and are giving dramatic performances for the entertainment of their visitors. The same dispatch says more Chinese merchants have migrated to the shipping business, transferring their vessels to the protection of foreign flags.

Red Rust in Cotton.

A farmer in Eastern North Carolina sent us last summer some cotton leaves affected, as he said, by the red rust. A brief examination showed that there was no rust at all, that is, none of the usual fungous growths commonly called rusts. The leaves were badly infested with the so-called "red spider" (Tetranychus telarius), one of the mites. The brilliant red color and almost microscopic size of the insects, together with their multitude, gave the leaves, particularly on the under side, a red color. The unhealthy condition of the leaves was due to the attacks of the insects. When they become numerous under the influence of hot and dry weather, they destroy the vitality of the foliage completely, and as a healthy foliage is essential to growth and productiveness in any plant, it is evident that they must give a serious check to the plants they infest. Close observers of plant life have often noticed that plants with weakened vitality soonest become the prey of insects. While we cannot control the weather or the temperature, we can put our plants from the start in such a vigorous condition by fertilization and by good culture as to enable them to resist better the attacks of insects and fungous diseases. This has caused some to assert that red rust is caused by a deficiency of potash in the soil. While this in one sense is true, it is not the whole truth. Had there been an abundance of potash and other elements of plant food in the soil the vigorous vitality of the plants would have enabled them to resist the influence of the insects until a change in the weather conditions would have checked their operations. Cotton well supplied with kainit and acid phosphate will undoubtedly suffer less from this red rust, not because potash drives the mites, but because a fully nourished plant can better overcome untoward circumstances than a weak one can. Therefore the best we can do is to so encourage the growth of the plants as to make them resistant to their attacks. In nearly all of the cotton lands of the South Atlantic Coast the soil is naturally deficient in potash. Hence the wisdom of using kainit and other forms of potash fertilizers, with a good addition of phosphoric acid in the readily accessible form of acid phosphate, to give that vigorous growth which the unaided soil in most places cannot supply. Some of our best growers are of the opinion that red clover on a sandy soil causes rust in cotton. This will account for the fact that on our red clay soils, which are well adapted to clover, and where in most seasons it resists the red spider, no such influence has been observed on the cotton. The weakened condition of the clover on these sandy lands renders it an easy prey to the attacks of the mites, and from their profusion on the clover they may well be charged with infecting the cotton. The remedy is evident as in the case of the cotton itself—invigorate the clover on these lands in the same way. Clover is a greedy consumer of potash and lime, and if these sandy lands are limed, and well supplied with potassic fertilizers, clover would find better conditions, grow more vigorously and be less infected with insects and hence not liable to damage the cotton any more than on the clay lands.—W. F. Massey, of N. C. Experiment Station.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Condition as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the South for the past week says: There continues to be a steady increase in the number of new cotton mills, and in addition to plants now in operation. More attention is being given to the making of the finer grades of cotton goods. Several additional furnaces are to go into blast in the Birmingham district, where the demand for iron is fairly well maintained. The production of lumber grows larger each week. General business is not very active.

Thirty-four new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with seven enlargements of manufactories and eight important new buildings. Prominent among the new industries are two projected new cotton mills at New Orleans, La., and a 30,000 spindle cotton mill at Clifton, S. C.; the Minerals Lumber Co., capital $100,000, of Minneola, Ga., and the Shreveport Fertilizer Co., of Shreveport, La., capital $50,000. The Paducah Electric Co., capital $40,000, has been chartered at Paducah, Ky.; the Hot Springs Steam Laundry Co., capital $20,000, at Hot Springs, Ark., the Buckley High Speed Elevator Co., at New Orleans, La., and the I. W. Tobacco and Cigar Co., at Mobile, Ala., capital $30,000.

A barrel factory with $16,000 capital has been organized at Norfolk, Va.; a $10,000 construction company at Galveston, Tex., and a lumber company with the same capital at Thomas, W. Va. Brick and tile works are to be built at Augusta, Ga., canning factories at Rockwood, Tenn., and Evanston, Tex., and planing mills at Batesville, Ark., Orland, Lumberton and Mother, Texas, Broadway and Hamlin, Va., and Red Eye, W. Va. A foundry and machine shop is reported at Pine Bluff, Ark., an ice factory at Georgetown, S. C.; tire factories at Russellville, Ark., and Hammond, La., and woodworking plants at Tampa, Fla. Whitesville, La., Connelly's Springs, N. C., and Dresden, Tenn.—Tradesman, Chattanooga.

According to the figures in the "Blue Book" recently issued, there were, at the end of 1893, in the United Kingdom, 19,015 miles of railway open for traffic, and the companies that own them reported capital of £1,000,000,000, almost twice the gross amount of the national debt and the assessed value of the private property of the people is not very much more than £10,000,000,000. The gross receipts of the railways were £78,000,000, which was 39 per cent. of the working expenses, leaving £47,000,000 net profit. The number of passengers carried was 1,000,000,000, and the number of tons of goods carried was 500,000,000. The number of persons employed was 700,000, and their wages amounted to £30,000,000. The average rate per passenger per mile was 1.18 pence, and the average rate per ton per mile was 1.06 pence. The average number of passengers per train was 50.66, and the average number of tons per train was 139.

A Case of Exactness.

It is well to be captious, but there are times when even caution may be carried to excess. The widow of a German officer went to the pension office for the purpose of drawing the pension due her. She presented the usual certificate of the mayor of the village in which she lived, to the effect that she was still alive.

"This certificate is not right," said the official in charge, severely.

"What is the matter with it?" inquired the poor widow.

"It bears the date of December 21, was the stern reply, "and your pension was due on December 15."

"What kind of a certificate do you wish?" inquired the disappointed applicant.

"We must have a certificate stating that you were alive on the 15th of December," said the official, with great firmness. "Of what possible use is this one that says you were alive on the 21st of December—six days later?"—Youth's Companion.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S Medical Discovery.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.

Got this Letter day before yesterday.

Penn Yan, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1894.

Your Discovery has done so much for me I am only too glad to tell everybody about my case.

When I began taking it, one year ago last July, I had DYSPEPSIA in its worst form. I was constipated, so much so as to always use injections, and I had a constant PAIN in my STOMACH and LEFT SIDE. My knees were stiff, and I could not sit down on a stool or get down to fix anything on the floor. But now I can sit, or get down on my knees, or do anything in my garden. I feel like a new person. You must know I was discouraged, as I have lost two sisters and an older brother with STOMACH TROUBLE. But I truly believe if they had known of your remedies they would be well, as I am. You can fix up my letter to suit yourself, only do publish it, that women may know what the Discovery has done for me. Yours truly,

Mrs. MARY C. AYERS.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S LUNCH.

Hard Work and Indigestion go Hand in Hand.

Concentrated thought, continued in robs the stomach of necessary blood, and thus is also true of hard physical labor.

When a five horse-power engine is made to do ten horse-power work something is going to break. Very often the hard-worked man coming from the field or the office will "bolt" his food in a few minutes which will take hours to digest. Then too, many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a keg of nails would be in a fire under a boiler. The ill-used stomach refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and nerves. The nerves are weak and "ready to break," because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood, finally the ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man attempts to find rest in bed.

The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full enjoyment of life and healthy digestion when he takes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood. The "Pellets" are tiny sugar-coated pills made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly. They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness, constipation and slothfulness, or torpor, of the liver; then the "Medical Discovery" should be taken in teaspoonful doses to increase the blood and enrich it. It has a peculiar effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels, toning up and strengthening them for all time. The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood coursing through the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened, not deadened, or put to sleep, as the so-called celery compounds and nerve mixtures do—but refreshed and fed on the food they need for health. If you suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, and any of the ills which come from impure blood and disordered stomach, you can cure yourself with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country.

A FORGETFUL LOVER.

BY LAURA LU SCHERER.

James Allen, attorney-at-law, was a busy man; yet, as he stood before a mirror in his apartments at the Altemus Hotel, he waited before descending to an impatient client in order that he might arrange, with practised precision, the careless, poetic wave of his hair.

He was thinking how her dark hair would look beside his, in a picture like the daguerreotype of his father and mother, taken on their bridal tour. With the modest dejection of the old-fashioned lover, he sometimes tried to fancy that she had not given him much ground for hope. Yet the more he thought about it, and he thought about it a great deal, the more certain did he become that, whenever he chose to propose to her, she would accept him.

He considered this serious cause for dissatisfaction with an otherwise admirable young woman. He did not want to win the race without having put forth his best strokes, and he felt that, as yet, he had done nothing commensurate with his capacities in the line of wooing.

The client to whom he presently descended was concerned in the case of Hoover versus Kohn. Allen felt grateful to all the participants in this affair, which had done much toward establishing his professional reputation. Yet, he now disposed of his client with a brusque brevity foreign to the usual courtesy of his legal manner. As his mind settled back to its reverie, he had a moment of vague self-reproach in the consciousness that he was returning with undisguised eagerness to the most absorbing line of thought now possible to him.

There had been a time when he was feverish with anxiety about the Hoover-Kohn case. His despair at not being able to keep the witness who "knew more than any other feller in the State about Tim Kohn," had not been less intense than his anxiety about her answer in the question he was just going to ask when the neat maid servant had entered with a telegram announcing the discovery of Kohn's man, and demanding his immediate presence. He was now inclined to regard the telegram as the instrument of a merciful providence. Yet, allowing for the influence of the romantic surroundings in which he had met her, it could not be denied that she was a very attractive girl. How radiant she had looked on that misty morning, when her wonderful grace had made the helping her across mud puddles idyllic. Ah, had she but kept the stately shyness that had so charmed him during the first few months of their acquaintance. He searched in vain for the cause of the unwelcome change in her demeanor, which his confidential friend, Watson, ascribed to the fact that his brilliant legal success had heightened his value as a matrimonial prize.

Watson was in the habit of replying to Allen's confidences by chanting, in a thin baritone, a song which he professed to have learned from his grandmother, closing with the refrain,

Fruit that will fall without plucking
Is rather too mellow for me.

"What charmed me about her at first," Allen said, "was her—er—unapproachableness."

"I see," said Watson. "It's not that you object to being angled for, but you don't want to see the hook."

"No," said Allen. "You don't understand. Now when I go down to see her tomorrow——"

"Oh, you are going?" interpolated Watson.

"Yes, I'm going," returned Allen shortly, as he turned away, alarmed at the discovery that his heart beat faster at the thought of gathering wild flowers with her, and fastening them upon dainty gowns—gowns with irresistible charm of the costume, every bow of which is looped, every fold of which is draped, while the heart of the wearer is filled with the thought of one person's preferences.

On the morrow, during his journey, he was dimly conscious that two schoolgirls were mimicking his pose, as, with hands clasped behind his neck, he sat dreaming. The long drive over a winding country road aroused in him a sensitiveness to external objects, and, as he stood at the door, he saw and resented the twinkle in the eye of the neat maid servant, who replied to his inquiry with an effect of jocose sympathy:

"Yes, sir; she's to home; she'll be down forrectly."

Ah, she is coming. Her eyes are shining; her hands are outstretched in welcome. Are her perfect lips raised in shy appeal as he dumbly stares? Perish the thought; and yet—as he sat in the quiet parlor on the old haircloth sofa, he had the uncomfortable sensation of a man who is not doing all that is expected of him. Through his brain flashed a wild project of remonstrating with her about the defects in her behavior, with an eloquence far finer than that evoked by the impassive faces of twelve gentlemen of the jury. "Six months ago I was in love with you," he fancied himself saying by way of introduction, when he was startled by the sudden cessation of her voice in a rising inflection.

"Would you like to look at our harpsichord?" she was saying. "It is back from the Fair, and you have not seen it—not since—not since—"

What was this glory of light that shone in her face as she hesitated over the words "not since?" His craven heart leaped into sudden courage. How could he ever have doubted that he loved her!

As he entered the library for the second time, it had the strange familiarity of a scene which a moment of strong excitament impresses unconsciously, and yet indelibly, on the memory. She seated herself at the harpsichord; he stood leaning upon it, while his eyes rested on an old German Bible, open at a ludicrous woodcut of the flood. He had an intense consciousness of having stood before in such an attitude, idly noting the Mohammedan turban which adorned Noah's head.

Dreamily, as one repeating a phrase, which memory supplies word by word, he said,

"I love you, I love you. Will you give me something to hope for?"

As he looked into her eyes, his treacherous memory, all too tardy, flashed the truth into his brain. Six months before, standing by the harpsichord, he had spoken these same words, which Kohn's telegram had interrupted. Had he valued Kohn's paltry fee, or the cheap applause of the "unstable, rank-scented many," above her answer? What a fool he had been! How Watson would laugh and say,

"Proposed to a girl and forgot it. Good-bye, George!"

And she? Did she understand? The slight tremor of her breath which presaged speech made him lift his eyes. Her own were downcast. "And if I say yes again?" she murmured.

As he clasped her in his arms he wondered if she would ever know that he had forgotten. Even then, with her cheek pressed against his own—such is the infirmity of the truly absent-minded man—he recalled Aristotle's law of association, and wondered if he would have remembered, if he had never again stood by the harpsichord.

"Perhaps," he thought as he stroked her hair, "in the perfectly confidential relation of a marriage such as ours will be, I shall some day tell her all, and assure her that now, at last, her love is the event, all else, the episodes of my life."—The Pathfinder.

Effect of Perfumes.

It is a curious and interesting fact that perfumes have a peculiar and sometimes extremely unpleasant effect on many persons. When a room has been closed up with some varieties of flowers in it, there are persons who will faint upon sitting down for any time in the apartment.

The tuberose, although a most beautiful flower, is steadily going out of fashion because of its odor. It is so oppressive that it makes some people ill, and is unwelcome to all but a very small number of individuals. Almost every one likes the perfume of roses and, when judiciously used, this is one of the best of standard scents. Those who have put away rose petals during the summer months will find the following an excellent way to make the rose-jars that most women like to keep in their apartments:

Take one ounce of cloves, two ounces of lavender flowers, two ounces of cinnamon and one and one-half ounces of mace and two ounces of allspice, all ground to a very fine powder. Then put into a rose-jar holding a quart a layer of the dried rose petals and a sprinkling of the powder, then another layer of the petals and powder, filling the jar up with alternate layers. A couple of drops of sandal oil and a sprinkling of orange-flower water may be added; then the jar should be tightly covered and set away for a few days, when it is ready for use.

It is a good plan to paste a paper over the mouth of the jar before the cover is put on, and turn the jar bottom upward in some safe corner.—New York Ledger.

Benign Cruelty of the Knife.

Attention has lately been called in France to the possibility that cancer is a disease that can be "caught," from the history of successive occupants of certain houses, who had no family history of the disease and were not related to each other—giving ground for belief in family likeness of predisposition. There is a certain small valley in Western Massachusetts, around which, in twelve years, no less than seven heads of families perished of this disease. But even here the torch of hope has been lighted, as one can learn, by reading the statistics presented by Dr. William T. Bull to the Massachusetts Medical Association in June. He gave instance after instance where people had been enabled "to breathe this sweet air of life" from one to ten years after the benign cruelty of the knife had cut away the life-destroyer. His persistent moral is, operate early.—New York Advertiser.

A burglar broke into a man's house in New York the other night and found himself in a room full of serpents, pets of the owner of the house. The reptiles got after the burglar, who fled in affright, leaving all his tools behind him.

THE CONGRESS.

THE NATIONS' LAW-MAKERS RESUME OPERATIONS.

The Proceedings of Both Houses Briefly Epitomized.

THE SENATE.

After the approval of the journal, in the senate, Tuesday, the president pro tem, Mr. Harris, democrat, of Tennessee, laid before the body a communication from the acting secretary of the treasury, transmitting the report of the superintendent of the coast and geodetic survey; also one from the secretary of war, transmitting a report showing the number of aliens and naturalized citizens in the army. Mr. Dolph, republican, of Oregon, presented a memorial from the citizens of Phoenix, Ariz., asking for relief in the matter of Indian depredation claims. Mr. Berry, democrat, of Arkansas, presented a few remarks regarding the passage of the bill introduced by him last week, to establish the territory of Indianola out of the Indian Territory. Mr. Morrill, republican, of Vermont, in accordance with the notice he had given, then addressed the senate.

The senate Wednesday signified unmistakably its intention not to be led into any tariff legislation at this session. A motion to take up the house bill of last session making sugar free of duty, with the finance committee amendment to it imposing a flat duty of 40 per cent. on sugar and abolishing the differentials, was defeated, the vote being—yeas, 23; nays, 27. The attempt to get up Mr. Vest's cloture resolution was also defeated—yeas, 24; nays, 24. The Nicaragua canal bill was taken up and discussed for a couple of hours, and Mr. Morgan, who is in charge of it, signified his purpose to ask the senate to fix another time for voting upon it. Bills were passed giving pensions of $100 a month to the widows of General Banks, Crittenden and McClelland. Mr. Pugh presented the credentials of Mr. Morgan as senator-elect from Alabama for the term beginning March 4th, next, which were read. The resolution offered recently by Mr. Higgins calling on the president for copies of the correspondence relative to peace negotiations between China and Japan was passed. After a short executive session the senate, at 5:10 o'clock p. m., adjourned until Thursday.

Senator Bate, chairman of the board of visitors to West Point Military academy, presented the report of the board to the senate Thursday. The report takes a strong ground in favor of the change of the law which will increase the number of cadets to 469, or one cadet to each senator and representative, and twenty for the president, instead of the present number, which is about 250. It is admitted that this increase would probably result in a larger number of graduates than could find officers' places in the army, but it is suggested that as the additional cost would be very slight, the country could well afford to increase the number for the benefit to be derived in a purely educational way. Discussing the wisdom of the change the board says that a part of the number graduated every year could be retired to private life, remaining, however, subject to the command of the country. The board suggests that these West Point cadets would make excellent military officers. While the board has nothing but praises for the theoretical instruction in the academy in most respects, it finds fault with the halting English, the lack of facility of expression on the part of many cadets, which is "painfully apparent." Mr. Coshran's motion to recommit the urgent deficiency bill, with instructions to strike out the appropriation for the income tax, was defeated—yeas, 29; nays, 168.

THE HOUSE.

At the opening of the session of the house Tuesday Mr. Breckinridge, democrat, of Kentucky, from the committee on appropriations, reported the urgent deficiency bill. Mr. Dingley, republican, of Maine, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for information as to whether the action of the Behring sea tribunal had resulted in any measure in saving the fur seal herds from their destruction, and, if so, in what manner. Objection was made by Mr. Bryan, democrat, of Nebraska, and the resolution went over. Mr. Dingley then asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution calling upon the secretary of the treasury for information as to the number of seals killed by pelagic sealers; third, the protection of our seal herds on the Pribyloff Islands, and, fourth, the revenue derived by the government from the seals during the past year and the expenditure of the government for their protection during the same period. In the morning hour Mr. Mallory again called up the bill to promote the efficiency of the revenue cutter service which provoked Mr. Champ Clark's remarks on Saturday. The Missourian again took the floor in pursuance of his avowed intention of talking the bill to death. Mr. Clark then took off his cuffs and for forty-five minutes kept the house in a roar.

As soon as the routine business of the house Wednesday was disposed of the urgent deficiency bill was taken up in committee of the whole. Mr. Bartlett, democrat, of New York, addressed himself to the item appropriating $245,095 to execute the law for the collection of the income tax. He discussed at some length the legal features of the question, with a view to demonstrating the unconstitutionality and invalidity of the income tax. Mr. McMillan, the author of the income tax feature of the tariff bill, replied to Mr. Bartlett, discussing the latter's assertion that the income tax was unjust. In the course of his speech Mr. McMillan became engaged in a colloquy with Mr. Cockran, democrat, of New York, regarding the effect upon the government revenues of a reduction of tariff rates, which concluded with the admission by Mr. McMillan that he did not believe that the Wilson bill, as framed, would have the effect to raise the revenues necessary to carry on the government without the income tax measure. The debate was closed by Mr. Breckinridge, who prophesied the return to power of the democratic party, that it might fulfill the pledges it had made to the people, and upon which they had been charged with the responsibility of government. When the bill was read under the five-minute rule Mr. Bartlett moved to strike out the item appropriating $235,095 for the collection of the income tax. A vote was taken by tellers and resulted: Yeas, 54, nays, 127. When the item of $250,000 for special pension agents was reached Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, moved that the amount be reduced to $125,000. Pending action on this amendment the committee rose and the house adjourned until Thursday.

Everything was quiet about the senate Thursday, and but little interest seemed to be taken in the proceedings either by the senators or by the spectators. Mr. Hunton, of Virginia, moved to take up the bill for the establishment of a University of the United States at Washington, D. C. Mr. Hale, of Maine, objected to the consideration of the bill at this time, but suggested that it be referred to the calendar under a rule of the senate where it could be debated in some way.

TILLMAN A SENATOR

SOUTH CAROLINA'S REPRESENTATIVES ELECT HIM.

The "Reform" Hero Gets a Lucrative Job for Six Years.

A Columbia special says: Benjamin R. Tillman, who ceased being governor a week ago, became United States senator from the state of South Carolina, at noon Tuesday, to succeed General M. C. Butler, who has held that position for the past eighteen years.

He went in on a landslide, just as he has ridden into the office of governor twice. Indeed, the election was simply pro forma. The galleries were about half filled when the election took place. On the announcement of the result there was some applause.

The democratic members alone voted for General Butler. The vote was: Tillman, 131; Butler, 31; George W. Murray, 9; W. D. Crum, 1.

Tillman is elected for six years, with a term beginning on March 4th.

TO PAY IN MARCH.

THE TIME DESIGNATED FOR COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX.

The Secretary of the Treasury Talks of Its Regulations.

The secretary of the treasury Thursday approved the income tax regulations. Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and every person residing or doing business in the United States who has an annual income of more than $3,500 is required to make return, under oath, before the first Monday in March of each year. The return is to include all incomes received in the year 1894, from January 1st to December 31st. Guardians, trustees and all corporations acting in any fiduciary capacity are required to make similar returns for minors, wards or beneficiaries. Persons having less than $3,500 annual income are not required to make returns. All incomes of $4,000 and over are taxable 2 per cent.

The person making the return is required to make affidavit that he has included in such return all gains, profits and income from every source whatever received by him, or to which he is justly entitled for that year and that he is honestly and truly entitled to make all the deductions entered on his return, and that he has truly answered the interrogatories set forth on a blank form.

The gross gains, profits and income returned by persons are to include gross profits of any trade or business wherever carried on, rents received or accrued during the year, profits from sales of real estate purchased within two years, farming operations and proceeds, money and value of all personal property acquired by gift or inheritance, premiums on bonds, stocks, notes and coupons; income from trade or profession not by stated salary and not heretofore enumerated; from salary or compensation other than that received from the United States; from salary or compensation paid by the United States; undivided gains and profits of any partnerships; interest received or accrued from all notes, bonds or other securities; interest on bonds or coupons paid by any corporation; dividends from corporations; income of wife or minor children or child; all other sources of income not above enumerated.

Deductions Allowed.

The deductions allowed on the returns are: Four thousand dollars exempt by law; interest due and paid within the year; national, state, county, school and municipal taxes paid, not including assessments for local benefits; amount expended in purchase and production of live stock or produce sold within the year; necessary expenses specified by items actually incurred in carrying on any business or trade; losses actually sustained during the year, specified; actual losses on sales of real estate purchased within two years; debts contracted and ascertained in the year; salary or compensation over $4,000 from which the tax of 2 per centum has been withheld by the disbursing officers of the United States government; dividends included in the estimates of gross profits from corporations on which the 2 per cent tax has been paid by such corporations.

If any person fails to make return or makes false return, the collector is to make return for him from evidence obtained by summoning the person and examining his books, and from all other evidence obtainable, and shall add 50 per cent to the tax found due as a penalty for neglect and 100 per cent for a fraudulent return.

All corporations, companies and associations, both resident and foreign, doing business in the United States are required to make annual return of net profits on a separate blank to cover the calendar year 1894.

The exemption of $4,000 allowed to persons is not extended to corporations, but the return must cover all net profits without exemption. The annual return of corporations must include:

The gross profits from all kinds of business, the expenses, [illegible]

QUESTION OF SILVER

GERMANY THINKS A CHANGE IN POLICY IS NECESSARY.

And a Silver Conference is Suggested in the Reichstag.

A Berlin cable dispatch says: In the reichstag Wednesday Herr von Kardoff, free conservative, declared that it was imperative that the present system of universal suffrage should be modified if there was any truth in the radical assertion that the level of the members of the reichstag had been lowered. He continued by saying that the deepest misery prevailed throughout the country, for which the only remedy was a silver currency. Germany, he said, would earn the gratitude of the world if she would call a silver conference in Berlin.

He warned Chancellor Hohenlohe that the government must not attempt to interfere with the rights of the reichstag. The prosecution of members upon such charges as were made, he declared, was useless. The only efficacious remedy was popular government.

Herr Singer, socialist, who was appointed chairman of the committee of the reichstag to which was referred the question of prosecuting socialist members who refused last Thursday to rise to their feet and respond to the call for cheers for the kaiser, addressed the chamber. Herr Singer was himself the leader of the offenders. He declared there was no doubt in his mind that the reichstag would reject a proposal to prosecute the offending members.

THE ATLANTA EXPOSITION.

Architect Bruce is to Supervise the Government Building.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., announces that A. C. Bruce, of Atlanta, has been appointed supervising architect of the government building at the exposition. He is a member of a prominent firm—Bruce and Morgan—and is one of those who submitted plans for the exposition buildings.

The Business Men's League, of Charleston, S. C., will make an exhibit at the Cotton States and International Exposition. Advices have also been received to the effect that the city of Chicago will have an exhibit. The directors of the exposition are invited to go to Chicago to meet the World's fair board for a conference with a view to extending the work for the exposition into the northwest.

TO REDUCE THE SCALE.

Notices Served by Operators in the Pittsburg District.

Many of the railroad coal operators of the Pittsburg, Pa., district will reduce wages within the next ten days. The initiative has already been made by Henry Florabein, the owner of the Germania and Nottingham mines at Finleyville, in the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Wednesday morning notices were posted at his mines that on and after next Monday the rate for mining will be 55 cents per ton. The officials of the miners' organization refuse to talk on the situation, and would not anticipate what action the miners will take.

A JUDGE THREATENED.

Lively Scene in a Kentucky Court Room.

News comes from Hazard, Ky., that Judge Hall was warned that if he did not release on bail Jesse Fields and Joe Atkins, charged with shooting ex-County Judge Combs from ambush, there would be trouble. Fields' brother, the county judge, was in court, and when Judge Hall refused to allow bail, Fields drew a pistol and fired at Hall. Court officers caught Fields, but his friends released him.

Rearing Children.

Considering the number of children being brought up in our country, and the varied experiences, it is a matter of astonishment that there are so many failures. Subordination or obedience to constitutional authority, is the first and most important ingredient in the make up of good citizenship—much more so in the successful rearing of children for lives of usefulness and happiness. Some parents seem to have gotten the idea into their brain that obedience is a degradation and a reflection upon the intelligence of the child. And strange to say no parent has a bad boy.

All pertness, impudence and disrespect, in many cases, is put to the credit of smartness. God said of Abraham; "I know him that he will command his children." One point of failure is the beginning too late to teach obedience. It must be in the very first lesson in life and held to the end of the day the boy remains under the parental roof. There must be perfect agreements with father and mother, for should one take the side of the child as against the other all respect for the authority of the opposed one is forever gone and the ruin of the child is there begun.

For example: Let the mother refuse the demand of the boy for something at the table, which she thinks he should not have and the father says: "O let the little man have anything he wants," and proceed to give it to him, that father then and there teaches the boy to have no respect for his mother and the chances are that he never will regard her as as more than a servant to wait upon his demands.

The young king of Spain at five years of age became indignant that his mother should meddle with some of his toys and rising in his majesty thirty-two inches high said: "Madam I will have you to understand that I am the king of Spain." "I am aware of that, your Royal Highness" said the mother "but I inform you that I am the mother of the king of Spain," and with a jeweled slipper spanked the young man a few times and sent him to the nursery. He never disobeyed her again. O, for more slippers. I know of a fight between a mother and a not three years old, in the long ago, which resulted in victory for the mother. The battle was active, but short, and ended with the boy's head in the mother's lap, he sobbing. when a big boy he loved to obey that mother.

And it was one of the proudest days of his life, after an absence of nearly two years from his native land, on returning, to give that faithful mother then infirm, his arm and support her to a seat in church. And even now, when an occasional visit is made, he stands uncovered at the mound beneath which rests the sacred dust of that true mother, and with moistened eye, and grateful heart, he thanks God for that mother's love that taught him obedience.

It is the exception to the rule that when parents do their duty, in precept and example, with obedience, that the boy turns out badly. Alas, that many must reproach themselves for the early fall of the boy, while others, in rebellion declare it a hard dealing of providence, when in fact, it was their own reaping what had been sown.

Parents who cannot answer the question "Where is your boy?" need not be surprised if evil befalls him. Solomon said; "Train the child," etc. Obedience without hesitation or murmur must be the begining of all successful training.

With true and faithful parents children will be better.

We want every man who reads the View to give earnest heed to the following words from Rev. J. M. Kellin, of Houston, Texas.

"Your Gold note in this week's issue, about the brother from North Alabama should set more of your readers to thinking. If a man can possibly make a living in Alabama no matter how hard let him stay there until he knows positively that he can do better elsewhere.

Of course agents of railroads and land companies will continue to paint things in glowing colors. It is true also that many poor people will in coming here, only to have a bitter experience. Yes, we have hard times in Texas. Men with families are glad to get work at any price, and tramps come to our doors at all hours of the day willing to saw wood for a meal to eat.

We have enough of destitution and suffering already without inviting more. No man especially one with a family should come to Texas unless he is assured of work or has money enough for a year's support. Preachers are also included in the foregoing sentence.

Wait for better times and they will come to you in Alabama as surely as in Texas."

Jere Haralson the negro who once represented Alabama in Congress has been found guilty of forgery and sent to the penitentiary.

Topics of the Turn Around.

The leading social event of the season was the marriage at 11:30 A M, last Sunday in the Baptist Church, by Rev. V. H. Vickers.

The high contracting parties being Mr. Love G Alexander of Montgomery and Miss Algie L. Pyron of this place. Under the deft management of Mrs. Pyron the church had been superbly decorated with flowers evergreens and ribbons some of them converging beautifully in a canopy under which the bride and groom stood to plight their troth and vow a union of their hopes and destinies

Many friends from near and far filled the comfortable building.

The bride's venerable rector Rev. Mr. Vickers entered from the vestry and took his position under the canopy and awaited the already approaching party which like a glorious, swaying dream, entered, paused, moved and united at the altar.

The waiters, bride and groom, entered the church in the following manner; Mr. Frank B. Alexander and Miss Ella F. Pyron came marching up the left hand aisle and took their position on right of altar, followed by Mr. William E. Gardner and Miss Lillie Gore who took their position on left of altar. Next came the fair bride and groom who took their stand under the altar. United in accordance with the beautiful Episcopal ceremony, the bride and groom preceded the party out in reverse order. A large number of friends assembled at the residence of the bride's mother to tender congratulations and partake of a royal banquet The presents were many, handsome and beautifully displayed. The union of these hearts was an event long to be remembered by the people of the Turn A round. We bespeak the sentiments of all their friends by wishing the noble hearted groom and winsome young bride best wishes for a long life, happiness and prosperity.

There was a most delightful entertainment given by Mr. Walter Kendricks and sister Miss Daisy Friday evening. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there were six couples present. Dancing, social plays and games were the order of the evening.

Any one who has children will rejoice with L. B. Mulford, of Plainfield N. J. His little boy, five years of age, was sick with croup. For two days and nights he tried various remedies recommended by his friends and neighbors. He says: "I thought sure I would lose him. I had seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised and thought I would try it as a last hope and am happy to say that after two doses he slept until morning. I gave it to him next day and a cure was effected. I keep this remedy in the house now and as soon as any of my children show signs of croup I give it to them and that is the last of it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Clanton Drug Store, Clanton, and Smith and McNeill, Jemison.

The Birmingham Tribune, Republican, says "The Republican party can lead better than it can follow. Twice it has been the tail to the kite and failed both times

Now why not step to the front with some smart young leaders of brave and undaunted spirit and take the lead in the coming campaign." The trouble, doctor, is that you cant fool the whites of this state into helping the Republican party unless you make them believe they are leading and the Republicans just helping them.

SIMPLY WONDERFUL

No achievements of the past are criterions for the present. The year 1894 will outdo anything ever done in the line of low prices for clothing. Alex Rice's being the largest clothing house in Montgomery, naturally has the largest stock of goods and the most complete and varied assortment at the lowest prices that great buying and cash discounts can make possible. You'll read the story of masterly buying on every price ticket throughout the house; you'll see the impress of stylish beauty on every garment in the store you'll appreciate the goods thoroughly the more you see and compare other stocks with that of Alex Rice's. We ask no trade from sympathy; we desire no patronage because we have done wonders for you in the past; we expect no purchases to be made on any other ground than getting the most of the best for the least that it may be had. All we ask—and you'll find it as much to your interest as ours—is that you will look at what Alex Rice has before you make your purchase of a fall or winter suit. Men's clothing never was here in such great variety and profusion as now and one glance at it will assure you that it never was as low.

Our ways of buying and paying for goods, our low rent and our extensive outlet for goods make prices possible here that noone else can approach, much less equal, and it guarantees you a saving of from $2 to $5 on a suit. If that's worth considering, it's worth your while to give us a call.

Printed prices in cold type can't tell the story of perfection and economy half so well as a visit will do. We challenge comparison on any score and give a guarantee of saving on competitors prices or we don't want your trade.

LOCAL BREVITIES

The View wishes its readers a merry Christmas.

Mrs. C. B. McNeil of the capitol city was in Clanton Monday.

A. C. Smith Esq. and family are on Sol's visit to relations in Coosa county.

See the change in the advertisement of Ellis & Gay. This is one of the best firms in the south and we cheerfully commend them to our readers.

Mr. Jack Williams who was accidentally shot in Selma two weeks ago has had to submit to having his leg amputated.

Thos. A. Curry Esq. has just returned from a visit to his relatives in Miss.

Mr. Eugene Sartor after a stay of some months in Montgomery is again among his Clanton friends.

Mrs. Croswell and baby were in our midst this week.

Rev. P. M. Guthrie will be the new pastor for the Clanton Circuit. The View and the community will give him a hearty welcome.

Rev. J. M. McCann will remain as the pastor of the Methodist Church at Verbena.

We are sorry to learn that our colored friend preacher Dosier was badly hurt in the late storm which passed through the county. His right hip was fractured and he is still suffering much pain.

Mrs. Weathers has been on a visit to Mrs. W. I. Mullins.

Miss Nora Claughton, of Verbena spent last Saturday and Sunday with Miss Belle Lowery.

Our understanding is that the Christmas tree though being under the direction of a committee from the Methodist and Baptist Sunday Schools, will be a general neighborhood tree, free for the use of any one who wishes to put a present on for a friend or relative.

The time and place will be announced next Sunday.

Two parties were arrested here last Saturday night, by Mr. Dudley and Detective Barnes, suspected of being Counterfeiters. Our readers must look out for bab money.

The preachers of the town and others interested in hearing preaching are being fearfully annoyed, and disturbed by parties who are so thoughtless as to whisper during services. Of course those who do such things would be indignant if it was hinted that they lacked home training, we do not believe that, but attribute it solely to thoughtlessness.

Our town was taken very much by surprise last Wednesday night when it became known that Rev. T. BHaney was to be married to Miss Lula Aldridge, daughter of our townsman P. G. Aldridge. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Bassett. After the marriage the bridal party were sumtuously feasted by the parents of the bride. We join with the other friends of this couple in wishing them much happiness and usefulness in life.

We regret greatly to learn that Mrs. Jno. Milford is still very low in health We trust that she may fully recover

Rev. B. E Beagin will serve the Whistler Station for another year.

That we understand is a very much better position financially than Clanton. We certainly wish a great measure of success for that worthy brother.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

When a fire broils upon the hearth, the Gaels say that lightning will strike.

In Cheshire, England, there is a curious belief that the fumes that a fire exerted by a lightning smoke can only be quenched with milk.

In Derbyshire it is a fire burns blue and dead it is thought to be a forerunner of death or disaster in that house.

In Wales and in Cornwall miners burn their nets upon the birth of a male child; if a girl be born his neighbors burn it for him.

The Sicilians say that fire will not burn a man born on St. Paul's Day (January 25), but that if a woman be burned on that day the sore will never heal, and will eventually cause her death, according to the St. Louis Republic.

When a Russian family moves from one house to another they always rake all the fire from the hearth of the old domicile, and carry it in a closed pot to their new residence.

In Greece, when one peasant borrows fire from another's hearth to kindle his own, the owner of the fire must accompany the borrower to his home "to see the fire blaze," otherwise the one making the loan will have his house and goods destroyed by the devouring element.

The Real Thing.

In the meathops of the towns in New Mexico and Arizona the visitor from the east is apt to notice that the dressed carcasses of sheep have a tuft of wool still attached to the head and the tail. This is left by the butcher to assure the customer that it is mutton, and not goat flesh, that he is buying, for in these territories many flocks of goats are reared and pastured by the small Mexican ranchmen to be killed for food for the poorer natives. Roast or stewed kid, with Chile pepper sauce, is an esteemed dinner dish at the table of many well to do American and Spanish-American citizens.—Philadelphia Record.

Weak as a Cat

Is a bad simile, for the cat is a very muscular animal for its size. But to be as weak as a convalescent after a wasted and protracted disease is to be weak indeed. Nothing in the way of a tonic promotes convalescence, hastens a gain in strength, like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It increases appetite, helps digestion and induces sleep. Nervous invalids derive from it unspeakable benefit. It cures malaria, rheumatism, constipation.

It does not make prayers any less effective if they are delivered while holding to a plow.

A Child Enjoys

The pleasant flavor, gentle action and soothing effects of Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative, and if the father or mother be costive or bilious, the most gratifying results follow its use, so that it is the best family remedy known and every family should have a bottle.

Every good farmer is a member of the great industrial army on which the world depends.

Clear away the stones of jealousy and envy. "It is an unweeded garden that grows to seed."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Wounded in the War

Mr. F. M. Hoffman.

"I enlisted with Co. D, Third West Virginia Infantry Volunteers, August 29, 1862, I was wounded in the knee, and Sept. 18th my limb was amputated. For thirty years I have suffered from the remaining part of the limb, which has never healed, but continued to discharge. My health was greatly shattered, yet I kept moving about until December, 1891, when I was struck down by the grip, and again, a year later suffered a relapse. I had a smothered feeling so that I could scarcely breathe at all. I then procured six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I feel better than I have for ten years. GREAT SOUTHERN DISPLAY AT ATLANTA IN 1895.

Foreign Nations Will Take Part, Which Will Open September 18 and Be Closed December 31.—Twelve Exhibition Buildings and a Midway Plaisance.

The New York Times has a newly illustrated account of the great Exposition of Southern products and progress which will be held at Atlanta, Ga., in the latter part of 1895. Through the courtesy of the Times we republish its illustrations and make the following extracts from its interesting article:

Varied and wonderful as were the exhibits at the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago, which closed a little over a year ago, it was, and still is, a matter of regret on the part of the management of that great enterprise, and of every visitor there, but more particularly on the part of the people of the South, that there was not a larger display of the products of that very resourceful part of the country. The reason for this incomplete display at the Chicago Exposition was because of the peculiar provisions in the Constitutions of most of the Southern States, which prevented the appropriation of any of the public money for such purposes.

To make up for the loss of the display which should have been had at Chicago, it has been decided to hold an exposition at Atlanta in 1895, beginning September 18 and closing December 31. This exposition will take the place of the Cotton Exposition which is usually held in the South. It will be called the Cotton States and International Exposition. It is not intended that it shall be a merely local or provincial affair, as the Cotton States Exposition has usually been, but it will be an exhibition of all the products of the South, as well as of interesting material from all American countries and from as many foreign countries as can be interested in the project so soon after the closing of the World's Fair at Chicago.

In view of the fact that American countries are to be particularly interested in this exposition, it was at first proposed to call it the Pan-American Exposition, but the favor with which the idea was received by some foreign countries seemed to give it an international character. The exposition has been indorsed by the United States Government, by the Governors of all the Southern States, and by all commercial bodies interested in the development of the South. It is expected that the Southern States will be fully represented in the exhibits and that there will be many displays from Northern States, while the amount of material that is pledged from South American countries is large enough to assure an interesting, if not complete, exhibit of the resources and products of these countries.

The particular object of this Atlanta Exposition is the fostering of trade relations between the Southern States and between the Southern States and Pan-American countries. It is felt by all Southern people that there is a large field of business enterprise south of the Gulf of Mexico, and, with the same spirit which has made Yankees famous, the Southerners are taking steps to make the most of it. Four Commissioners have been sent into Mexico, Central and South America, and through them nearly all these countries have returned favorable replies to the invitations to participate in the exposition.

Although the exposition was at first outlined something after the plan of the usual cotton exhibitions, it grew so steadily that it has now become universal in plan. It was in last February that a mass meeting of the citizens of Atlanta was held to take steps to inaugurate the plans of the exposition. Following so closely upon the World's Exposition and the close of the Pacific Coast Exposition, at San Francisco, it was felt that many large exhibits could be obtained for Atlanta with very little trouble and at comparatively small cost. The fact that the South was so little represented at the World's Fair, and that the bulk of the visitors there came from the North, because the Southern people were unable to attend, owing to the business depression, seemed to make it almost imperative that there should be a well-organized movement to provide for the attractive display of the wonderful products of the South.

Atlanta, which is the capital of Georgia, is situated on high rolling land, bordering the Alleghany range, and is 1100 feet above the sea. It has many fine sites for an exposition like the one contemplated. Of these, Piedmont Park, which is situated two miles from the center of the city, was finally adopted. Its beautiful landscape features made it the most suitable of the numerous sites which were suggested by the enterprising citizens. The grounds slope from the hills on one side to the line of the railroad on the lower border, and were possible of development in a very artistic manner.

A part of this park was dug out so that an inland lake, twenty acres in area, was provided, and around this lake, as around the lagoons at the World's Fair, it was proposed to group the principal buildings. This leaving out of the grounds and the arrangement of the buildings and their location was done by Grant Wilkins, of Atlanta, who was made Chief of Construction. Mr. Wilkins is well known to the South as a railroad and bridge constructor, and has been very successful in laying out the grounds for the Atlanta Exposition.

Piedmont Park is historic ground. When Sherman was on his march to the sea Atlanta fell before him, General Hood's successor in blowing it. The ground to be occupied by the exposition of 1895 is that on which stood the war, while the middle of the battle around it the Confederate soldier Atlanta, which the city was set on fire and almost completely destroyed. Along that part of the park where the Midway Plaisance of the exposition will be, a line of earth works may be seen the trenches behind which the soldiers fought.

Although it was at first proposed to have all the exposition buildings of a temporary character, it was finally decided that it would be possible to erect a number of them which would be permanent in character, and which would be of such a character that they could be used for exhibition purposes after the exposition had closed. Of these buildings, the Government Building, the Art Building, the Manufactures Building, the Machinery Building, the Mineral and Forestry Building, the Agricultural Building, the Electricity Building, the Transportation Building, the Woman's Building, the Fine Arts Building, the Negro Building and the Horticultural Building will be permanent. The other buildings will be built of Georgia pine covered with shingles. Some idea of the extent of the principal buildings can be obtained from the dimensions:

	Feet.
Manufactures and Liberal Arts	216x377
Machinery	100x500
Minerals and Forestry	80x220
Agriculture	150x330
Electricity	91x250
Transportation	126x413
Woman's Building	110x220
Fine Arts Building	10?x245
Negro Building	100x300

The Government Building is of Romanesque architecture and has a floor area of about 50,000 square feet. A turreted tower surmounts the structure, having at its apex a platform for the exposure of the instruments of the Weather Bureau. The Navy Department will operate a time ball and electric search light on the roof of this building. Ample provision is made for the requisite offices, toilet rooms, staircases, etc., which are situated in the projecting pavilions at the entrances, thus leaving the floor space available for the exhibits. In the act appropriating the money for the exposition, the Government included a clause providing for the admission of foreign exhibits free of duty.

President Diaz, of Mexico, has announced his intention to make an exhibit of the resources of that country. There will be also exhibits from Venezuela, Colombia, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Liberia, Cuba, and, it is expected, also, from the Congo Free State, Bolivia, Paraguay, Uruguay, Salvador, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Chile, Peru, the Argentine Republic and Brazil.

The architectural idea of Machinery Hall is that which prevails throughout most of the buildings—the Romanesque. The building is designed to give a great deal of space inside, but little room being taken up by stairways and offices. It is sixty-five feet high. In the Agricultural Building the architecture is pyramidal in character.

The Electricity Building will be brilliantly illuminated. It is situated at the foot of the lake, where its towers and arches, outlined in rows of light, will be particularly noticeable. The building designed for forestry and minerals is to be erected of natural wood, something after the style of the Forestry Building at the World's Fair. In the interior it will be festooned with Southern moss and greens. The spaces between the posts and braces, which are of natural trees, will be covered with bark. A roof promenade garden, with an area of 25,000 square feet, will be one of the features of this building. Its sides will be formed of palms and palmettos.

In the Woman's Building there will be exhibits of books written by women, musical compositions, patents and inventions and artistic work. Special attempts will be made to secure a large collection of oil paintings, etchings and water colors, architectural designs, sculptures, and models in clay, wood carving, embroideries, plain sewing, ceramics and china painting. There will also be a cooking school and kindergarten.

The Fine Arts Building is of the Italian Renaissance, with a tendency to the Florentine school. It is proposed to make the educational exhibit better in every way, if possible, than the one at the World's Fair. It has not yet been decided to have a separate building for this exhibit, but as the space accorded to it at Chicago was inadequate, it is probable that a building will have to be provided. It is proposed to have a sample of the work of every pupil of every school in the South.

The most unique thing about the exposition is the fact that the work of the negro in the South will be acknowledged and have a place. A special building has been provided for the negro exhibit. It is 100 by 300 feet, and it is intended that the best work of the negro in every department of labor, showing the progress made in education and in industrial pursuits since his emancipation, shall find a place there. Representative colored men have become greatly interested in this proposed exhibit. Several of them are now traveling through the South arranging for exhibits. The Virginia and Mississippi committees are particularly active. It is expected that the showing of the negro's progress will be of equal benefit to the blacks and the whites of the South.

A special effort will be made to secure a better display of tobacco than was ever had before. The cultivation, curing, marketing and manufacturing of tobacco and of tobacco products will be shown in all forms and stages. Provision has also been made for music and lecture halls, and for the exhibition of live stock and dairy products.

Mr. Fielder, Chief Assistant to Director-General Butler, called particular attention to the amusement features. He said that while the Midway Plaisance of the exposition had been called the Forester, it was intended to make the more popular term would be used in connection with it. The Midway Plaisance will be a Bowery, Broadway and Boulevard all in one. There will be a Bowery village, including a street scene in Bowery, with its restaurants, theaters, concert halls, etc., and a Broadway street, with its stores, etc., and a Boulevard, with its cafes, etc. Each of these streets will provide space for side shows. A large portion of the Midway Plaisance will be devoted to a Ferris wheel, which will be a duplicate of the one at the World's Fair, and which will be the largest in the world. It will be 300 feet in diameter, and will have thirty cars, each of which will carry forty persons. Red Rust in Cotton.

A farmer in Eastern North Carolina sent us last summer some cotton leaves affected, as he said, by the red rust. A brief examination showed that there was no rust at all, that is, none of the usual fungous growths commonly called rusts. The leaves were badly infested with the so-called "red spider" (Tetranychus telarius), one of the mites. The brilliant red color and almost microscopic size of the insects, together with their multitude, gave the leaves, particularly on the under side, a red color. The unhealthy condition of the leaves was due to the attacks of the insects. When they become numerous under the influence of hot and dry weather, they destroy the vitality of the foliage completely, and as a healthy foliage is essential to growth and productiveness in any plant, it is evident that they must give a serious check to the plants they infest. Close observers of plant life have often noticed that plants with weakened vitality soonest become the prey of insects. While we cannot control the weather or the temperature, we can put our plants from the start in such a vigorous condition by fertilization and by good culture as to enable them to resist better the attacks of insects and fungous diseases. This has caused some to assert that red rust is caused by a deficiency of potash in the soil. While this in one sense is true, it is not the whole truth. Had there been an abundance of potash and other elements of plant food in the soil the vigorous vitality of the plants would have enabled them to resist the influence of the insects until a change in the weather conditions would have checked their operations. Cotton well supplied with kainit and acid phosphate will undoubtedly suffer less from this red rust, not because potash drives the mites, but because a fully nourished plant can better overcome untoward circumstances than a weak one can. Therefore the best we can do is to so encourage the growth of the plants as to make them resistant to their attacks. In nearly all of the cotton lands of the South Atlantic Coast the soil is naturally deficient in potash. Hence the wisdom of using kainit and other forms of potash fertilizers, with a good addition of phosphoric acid in the readily accessible form of acid phosphate, to give that vigorous growth which the unaided soil in most places cannot supply. Some of our best growers are of the opinion that red clover on a sandy soil causes rust in cotton. This will account for the fact that on our red clay soils, which are well adapted to clover, and where in most seasons it resists the red spider, no such influence has been observed on the cotton. The weakened condition of the clover on these sandy lands renders it an easy prey to the attacks of the mites, and from their profusion on the clover they may well be charged with infecting the cotton. The remedy is evident as in the case of the cotton itself—invigorate the clover on these lands in the same way. Clover is a greedy consumer of potash and lime, and if these sandy lands are limed, and well supplied with potassic fertilizers, clover would find better conditions, grow more vigorously and be less infected with insects and hence not liable to damage the cotton any more than on the clay lands.—W. F. Massey, of N. C. Experiment Station.

GROWTH OF THE SOUTH.

The Industrial Condition as Reported for the Past Week.

The report on the industrial condition of the South for the past week says: There continues to be a steady increase in the number of new cotton mills, and in addition to plants now in operation. More attention is being given to the making of the finer grades of cotton goods. Several additional furnaces are to go into blast in the Birmingham district, where the demand for iron is fairly well maintained. The production of lumber grows larger each week. General business is not very active.

Thirty-four new industries were established or incorporated during the week, together with seven enlargements of manufacturing and eight important new buildings. Prominent among the new industries are two additional new cotton mills at New Orleans, La., and a 30,000 spindle cotton mill at Gaffney, S. C.; the Munro Lumber Co., capital $100,000, of Minneola, Ga., and the Shreveport Fertilizer Co., of Shreveport, La., capital $50,000. The Pulaski Electric Co., capital $40,000, has been chartered at Pulaski, Ky.; the Hot Springs Steam Laundry Co., capital $20,000, at Hot Springs, Ark., the Buckley High Speed Wagon Co., at New Orleans, La., and the L. N. Tobacco and Cigar Co., of Mobile, Ala., capital $50,000.

A barrel factory with $10,000 capital has been organized at Norfolk, Va.; a $10,000 construction company at Galveston, Tex., and a lumber company with the same capital at Tazoo, W. Va. Brick and tile works are to be built at Augusta, Ga., canning factories at Rockwood, Texas, and Evanston, Wyo., and sawing mills at Hazenville, Ark., Orland, Lexington and Mathis, Texas; threshing and fertilizer works and tin mines at Wytheville, Va. A cooperage and shingle shop is reported at Pine Bluff, Ark.; an oil-refining plant at Georgetown, S. C.; ice factories at Hendersonville and Asheville, N. C., and Jacksonville, Fla., and woodworking plants at Tampa, Fla., Wilmington, N. C., Columbia, S. C., Bristol, Tenn., and Dresden, Texas.—Exchange, Chattanooga.

According to the figures in the "Blue Book" recently issued, there were, at the end of 1893, in the United Kingdom, 60,846 miles of railway open for traffic, and the companies had an authorized capital of $1,400,000,000, almost twice the amount of the national debt, and the earnings of the people left a net revenue of $300,000,000, or 21 per cent on the invested capital. Last year $211,000,000, or 15 per cent, was paid in dividends.

FROM WASHINGTON.

EVENTS PICKED UP AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Sayings and Doings of the Chief Heads of the Government.

In compliance with the Hoar resolutions the president sent to the senate Tuesday a letter from Secretary Gresham relative to the American outrages.

The Hurst multi-charge gun, as anticipated by naval ordnance officers, has proven a failure, and no further experiments with divided charges in big guns will be made.

Representative Sickels, of New York, has introduced in the house a bill for a pension of $12 per month to Mary Palmer Banks, widow of Major General Nathaniel P. Banks.

There was some important work done in both the senate and house Wednesday. The senate, by a vote of 27 to 24, refused to take up the sugar bill. Then, by a vote of 34 to 24, it killed the Vest cloture resolution. The house, by a large majority, voted the appropriation to collect the income tax.

Gold continues to be withdrawn from the treasury in exchange for legal tender notes, over $2,500,000 having been taken Monday and Tuesday. The gold reserve at the close of business Tuesday had declined to $106,821,428. The general balance, which includes the gold reserve, stood at $155,453,000.

Civil Service Commissioner Proctor says by the time Mr. Cleveland goes out of office nearly all government employes will be under the civil service rules, and then it will be useless for congressmen to chase about the departments for offices. Then, he says, congressmen may devote their attention to matters of legislation.

Can the house pass Carlisle's currency plan before the Christmas holidays? is a question which is agitating the democratic house leaders. Representative Montgomery, of Kentucky, said that he not only believed it could, but would. Chairman Springer, of the banking and currency committee, was approached on the subject and expressed himself as heartily in favor of it.

General John C. Black, of Illinois, a representative in the present congress, but defeated for the next, has been provided for by the president. Mr. Cleveland has appointed him United States attorney for the northern district of Illinois. General Black was commissioner of pensions during Mr. Cleveland's first term and he is the first of the unfortunates of congress who are provided for.

In a published letter, C. S. Thomas, Colorado, member of the democratic national committee, predicts that the gold power will utilize the war between China and Japan as a measure for the destruction of silver in the orient, and enormously increase the value of gold.

The African Methodist Episcopal conference in session at Charleston, S. C., Thursday, adopted the resolution protesting against the passage by the legislature of the "jim crow" car railroad bill and appointed a committee to go to Columbia and lay resolutions before the senate.

Jeremiah Olney, of Hartford, school fund commissioner of the state of Connecticut, charged with misappropriating the income of the state school fund and with receiving money resulting from the investment of the fund, in addition to his salary of $2,000 as commissioner.

In the South Carolina house of representatives Mr. Thomas, of Richland, exploded a bombshell by offering a resolution asking why the state treasurer had paid out $31,000 for state printing to the Columbia Register, Governor Tillman's organ, when only $20,000 had been appropriated.

A KICK FROM WEAVER.

He Assails the Baltimore Currency Scheme.

The Rocky Mountain News, of Denver, publishes a letter from General Weaver, in which he says:

"The Baltimore currency scheme is a bold and barefaced proposition to apply the methods of the stock exchange, the trust and the board of trade combined to the entire business of the country—to authorize the money sharks to alternate the bull and bear, to gather to themselves all the profits of industry. It is an attempt to transfer, as a gratuity to speculators the highest attribute of sovereignty—that of issuing the currency of a great nation and controlling its volume. A congress which has its walking papers is just the kind of a body the money power delights to toy with."

Making Presents to Their Victims.

A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai says the Chinese at Port Arthur are making presents to the Japanese who recently captured that place, and are giving dramatic performances for the entertainment of their victors. The same dispatch says more Chinese merchants, seeing in the shipping trade, are transferring their vessels to the protection of foreign flags.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S LUNCH.

Best Work and Indigestible Meals in Town.

Concentrated energies condemned in one part of a mechanical system necessary blood, and this is also true of man's physical labor.

When a five horse-power engine is made to do ten horse-power work something is going to break. Very often the hard worked man snatches from the field or the office will "bolt" his food in a few minutes which will take hours to digest. Thus too many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a keg of nails would be in a fire under a boiler. The ill-used stomach refuses to do the work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood supply of the nerves. The nerves are weak and "ready to break," because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood, finally the ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man attempts to find rest in bed.

The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full enjoyment of life and healthy digestion when he takes Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify, enrich and vitalize the blood. The "Pellets" are tiny sugar-coated pills, made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly. They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness, constipation and slothfulness, or torpor of the liver; then the "Medical Discovery" should be taken in teaspoonful doses to increase the blood and enrich it. It has a peculiar effect upon the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels, toning up and strengthening them for all time. The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood coursing through the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened, not deadened, or put to sleep, as the so-called celery compounds and nerve mixtures do—but refreshed and fed on the food they need for health. If you suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, and any of the ills which come from impure blood and disordered stomach, you can cure yourself with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country.

KENNEDY'S Medical Discovery.

DONALD KENNEDY, of ROXBURY, MASS.

Got this Letter day before yesterday.

Penn Yan, N. Y., Nov. 28, 1894.

Your Discovery has done so much for me I am only too glad to tell everybody about my case.

When I began taking it, one year ago last July, I had DYSPEPSIA in its worst form. I was constipated, so much so as to always use injections, and I had a constant PAIN in my STOMACH and LEFT SIDE. My knees were stiff, and I could not sit down on a stool or get down to do anything on the floor. But now I can sit, or get down on my knees, or do anything in my garden. I feel like a new person. You must know I was discouraged, as I have lost two sisters and an older brother with STOMACH TROUBLE. But I truly believe if they had known of your remedies they would be well, as I am. You can write up my letter to suit yourself, only do publish it, that women may know what the Discovery has done for me. Yours truly,
